Germans Fighting Desperately for Every Vantage Point Resistance Not Sufficient to Halt Allied Advance

FURTHER GROUND GAINED AT APEX OF LYS SALIENT

British Make Fresh Progress in Flanders; Line Advanced East of Meteren and Elsewhere; Foe Attacks on French Lines Failed

By Courier Leased Wire.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Bulletin. — British troops have gained further ground at the apex of the Lys salient in Flanders, says the official statement from Field Marshal Haig today. East of Meteren the line was advanced slightly, while east of Vieux Berquin, patrol encounters took place.

The statement reads: The hostile artillery was active during the night on the battle front. There was no infantry action.

At midday yesterday, local hostile attacks in the Dickebusch sector were repulsed. During the night the enemy artillery has shown considerable activity in this neighborhood, and also against our positions northwest of Kemmel.

We secured prisoners last night in a successful raid in the neighborhood of Aytte.

In the Vieux-Berquin sector our patrols have continued to push forward, and have succeeded in establishing a line east of the village. A number of prisoners and machine guns were captured in the course of this operation.

Our line has been advanced slightly east of Meteren.

ONLY ARTILLERY ACTIVE

Paris, Aug. 14.—Bulletin. — Only the artillery was active during the night on certain sectors between the Aisne and the Oise, says the war office statement today. Along the Vesle, where French and American troops are stationed, the Germans made vain raids. The French took prisoners in a raid in Champagne.

The text of the statement reads: Between the Aisne and the Oise there was activity by our own and the enemy artillery notably in the sectors of Roy-sur-Matz and Conchy-les-Pots.

On the front of the Vesle, German raids were without results.

Prisoners were taken by the French during an incursion into the German lines in the region of Mesnil-les-Hurlus. The night was calm everywhere else.

RESERVES DEPLETED

By Courier Leased Wire.

With the French Army in France, Tuesday, Aug. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—The anxiety of the Germans concerning the depletion of their reserves appears to be confirmed by a document signed by General Ludendorff, a copy of which was captured among other papers during the recent fighting.

The state of our resources in men and the economic situation in the interior," says the document, "oblige us to send back to the fighting forces all the men of the armed service."

The document prescribes the destination for all the men of this service force then employed in the rear and adds:

"The high command desires above everything to restore the infantry reserves."

Prisoners belonging to 49 different garrisons in Germany give confirmation of the existence of this man-power crisis, showing that the garrisons had been largely depleted by calls from the front, and that numbers of others have been gathered up from the rear.

According to such prisoners these men include mechanics from the central aviation shops at Aldersdorf near Berlin and miners from Ais-la-Chapelle. Some garrisons, it is stated, have furnished from 400 to 500 men of the contingent of 1920, that is young men now 18 years of age.

NO CHANGE IN SITUATION

By Courier Leased Wire.

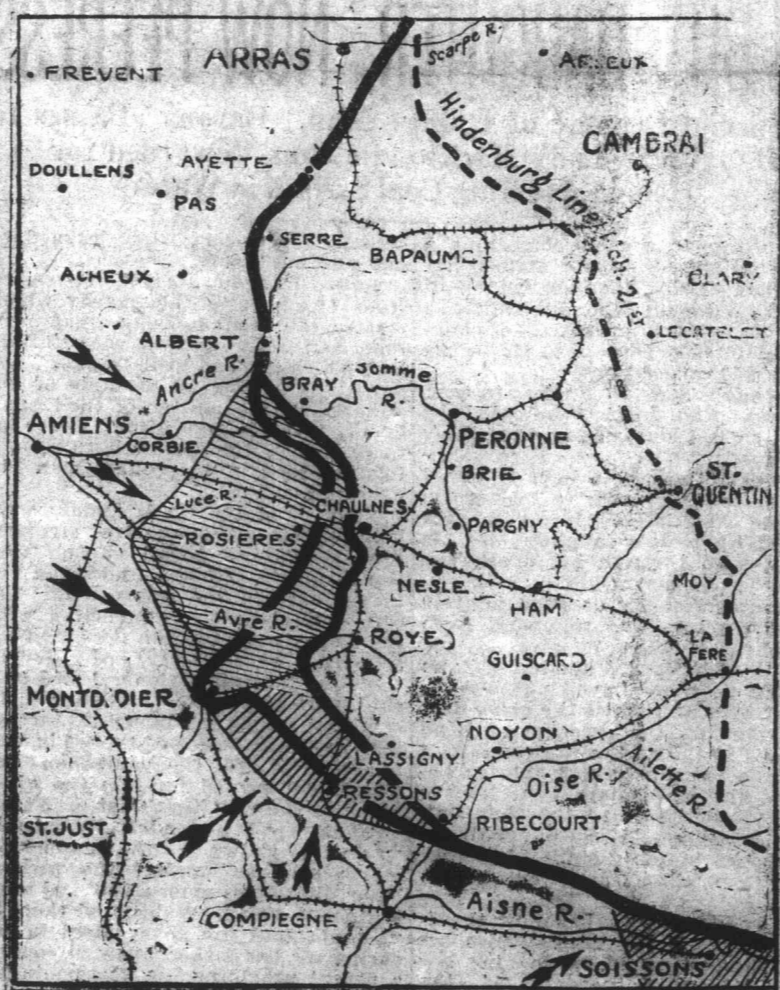

With the British Army in France, Tuesday, Aug. 14.—(By The Associated Press)—There was no change in the situation on the new Somme battle front this morning except for the fact that a considerable increase in the number of British troops indicates that the enemy has finally decided to bring up more of his guns.

Various small artillery concentrations have sprung up during the past few hours and are now active in firing on some points within the British lines, such as Yauvillers, Framerville, Proyart, Lihons, Dernancourt and the forward areas, south of the Villers-Bretonneux-Chaulnes railway.

The Germans have also subjected the valley north of Morlancourt to heavy gas shelling and have similarly treated Carbonnières and the Grezatre wood region. No further counter-attacks by the enemy are reported.

In the region of Bray, north of the Somme, as well as immediately south of the river, the British have been actively straightening and pushing forward their line. North-west of Bray, the British raided the enemy lines and found them unoccupied.

Forecast: Moderate north to west winds, a few local showers to-day, but mostly fair and comparatively cool. Thursday—Light winds, fine and comparatively cool.

ALLIED ADVANCE CONTINUES TO GROW. The shaded area in this map indicates the Allies' advance on a 45-mile front. The line encircling Montdidier shows the advance made during the first two days. The other line indicates their present gains. It is impossible for the Hun to take a stand where he is at present, and he must retire another six miles.

KING PAID NINE DAY VISIT TO WEST FRONT

London, Aug. 14.—King George has returned from a nine day's trip to the British front in France, during which time he inspected places which were under the enemy's fire.

Among the many reviews by the King was one of some American troops who heartily cheered "His Majesty, King George."

George talked with General Pershing and General Bliss and other American officers and expressed great admiration over the splendid physique of the troops. He complimented them on their eagerness for the fray and their fine work in helping to drive the Germans back from the Marne.

EARL READING PRAISES AMERICA'S WAR EFFORT

Speaks in Terms of Enthusiastic Admiration of Great Things Accomplished by U. S.—War Work as He Has Seen it in Last Six Months

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, Aug. 14.—The Earl of Reading, British ambassador to the United States, in a lengthy statement to the press, details America's war work as he has observed it during the last six months.

"If I speak in terms of enthusiastic admiration, it is because none other would convey my thoughts," he says.

After discussing America's achievements in feeding the Allies and building ships, Lord Reading continues:

"In no direction, however, is the spirit of whole-hearted co-operation more striking than in the magnificent contribution of America to the man-power of the Allies. When in the grave anxieties of the end of March at the request of the Prime Minister and the cabinet I asked the President to order without delay the acceleration of the dispatch of American troops and to allow them to be trained and used with the British and French, his answer was an immediate and whole-hearted assent. His only limitation as to numbers was the shipping capacity to carry the men.

"It was an historic moment which may in the future be regarded as the turning point of the war. Both the British and French nations were quick to appreciate the spirit of this contribution made so promptly and at so opportune a moment. It has proved of such value that Marshal Foch has been able to meet the German attack by an Allied counter-offensive and has not only wrested the initiative from the enemy, but has gained important victories.

"Since America has acquired knowledge of the situation, her material resources, financial wealth and the brains and force of character of her millions, in fact, all the physical and moral forces of this great among nations are turning in one direction—the attainment of victory. Americans are idealists, but they also are business people.

"Having realized what victory and failure will mean to humanity, with their characteristic single-mindedness and power of concentration, they are making the winning of the war their only business and if I know anything of them having undertaken the task, they will persevere until their object is achieved.

"I wish I could adequately convey to the British people the warm-hearted generosity of my reception as British ambassador by the American people. It is given me as British representative, and is an expression of the admiration of Americans for the part played by the British people. (Continued on page four)

PROGRESS CONTINUES THOUGH NOT SO RAPIDLY AS BEFORE

French Have Pushed Nearer-Chaulnes Noyon Line ARE NEAR ROYE

By the Courier Leased Wire.

Paris, Aug. 14.—In comparison with the quick advances of the first four days, the battle in Picardy now may seem to be stagnant, but nevertheless the French have pushed nearer to the Chaulnes-Roye-Lassigny-Noyon line, to which the Germans are clinging desperately. It took the allies a fortnight to get the Germans from the Marne to the Vesle.

The ground between the Vesle and the Oise is much more difficult than north of the Marne, being a labyrinth of small wooded hills in and out with the troops have to worm themselves, surrounding and reducing each summit separately and successively. It is no easy task because the enemy laid out his positions long ago, so he is able to defend them with groups of picked machine gunners who have orders—which they invariably obey to the letter—to resist until they are killed.

Yesterday's fighting put the French more than a mile north of Cambonne, close to Attiches and Carroy Farms, which are two big machine gun nests. The French are advancing on Lassigny, met with vigorous resistance north of St. Claude Farm and north of Mareuil-Lamotte. However, they succeeded in fighting their way through the woods, and moved their line 300 yards northeast of Gury. North of Gury they reached the southern edges of Loges wood, and also penetrated the park belonging to the Chateau of Plessier de Roye. They also reached Beval between Plessier de Roye and Thiencourt.

The enemy still holds the greater part of Thiencourt wood and the formidable plantation of Beval.

The French have now advanced their lines to within less than a mile and a half of Lassigny. It will, however, undoubtedly require a tremendous effort to capture the Lassigny or Roye. The fall of Roye would automatically cause the evacuation of Lassigny.

Another 125th Officer is Reported in the Casualties After Heavy Battle

Capt. Stanley R. Wallace is another 125th officer wounded in the recent fighting, according to word received yesterday afternoon by his father, Sergeant J. T. Wallace, of the Police Department. Capt. Wallace was second in command of B Company of the 125th when that unit went overseas. Two brothers, William and Chester, have returned home after service, while a sister Gladys, is serving with the Red Cross overseas.

Flight-Lieut. Milburn Misener is Listed Among the Missing

Mr. Clark Misener, Colborne street, received word at noon today that his nephew, Flight-Lieut. Milburn Misener, is officially reported missing. Lieut. Misener was born and educated in Brantford, but went to Toronto a few years ago. He entered the Flying Corps last year, and crossed from England to France only a month ago.

Enemy Orders Finns to Fight Ally Troops

Field Marshal Haig reports that since last Thursday the allies have captured 28,000 prisoners and 600 guns. Several thousand machine guns and much war material also were taken.

In Flanders to-day's official announcement says British troops have gained further ground at the apex of the Lys salient. The line was advanced slightly east of Meteren, while east of Vieux-Berquin, south of Meteren, patrols established a new line.

Aerial activity continues intense, German airmen are engaged in reconnaissance and bombing work. Forty-eight German machines were accounted for Monday and 15 tons of bombs dropped on military targets behind the enemy lines. Berlin reports the shooting down of 29 allied airplanes.

Berlin reports that all allied efforts Monday were repulsed, especially attacks by strong French forces between the Metz and the Oise.

Along the Vesle the Germans have not repeated their tactical attack, but are bombarding the Franco-American lines with high explosives and gas shells. It is announced that the American first army, which has just been organized, will hold the western front, south of the Marne, which probably means from St. Mihiel to Switzerland, where the Allied positions are near the German border or beyond it.

Much material damage was done to Frankfurt and Karlsruhe by recent British aerial bombardments, according to reports received in Switzerland. In Karlsruhe, 11 persons were killed and 26 injured.

British Consolidate Captured Ground About Morlancourt LULL IN FIGHT

Allied progress eastward in Picardy, with the Germans fighting desperately for every vantage point, continues to be slow. On the northern end of the front the British and Germans are occupied mainly with reciprocal artillery bombardments, while on the south the French have advanced further toward Lassigny in heavy fighting.

From Morlancourt south to Lihons, the British apparently are consolidating the captured ground, while the artillery is being brought up to bombard the Germans who maintain themselves in the old positions of 1916-17, west of the upper course of the Somme. The infantry activity here Tuesday was comparatively quiet.

Field Marshal Haig reports, but there seems no doubt that the British are awaiting a favorable opportunity to again hit the German line. In the hill and wooded region between the Metz and the Oise, the French have made appreciable gains and are reported unofficially to be holding the important Massif-Lassigny sector against heavy German attacks. North of Gury, the French are fighting forward in the park south of Plessier de Roye, while to the east they have reached Beval, one and one half miles south of Lassigny. East of Beval, the Germans apparently have been able to hold the French in check. Along the west bank of the Oise the French have gained one and one half miles toward Noyon.

Seemingly the Massif of Lassigny is in danger of being lost to the Germans, if they already have not been forced from the higher points. German prisoners taken at Beval numbered 177, and they declared they had been ordered to hold on at all costs. This high ground is important to the enemy because French guns placed there could command all the terrain northward toward Roye and eastward toward Noyon.

With the Massif in possession of the French, the Germans probably would be forced to evacuate Lassigny and Noyon and possibly the entire line southward from the Chaulnes. This would have some effect on the enemy positions eastward of Rheims, depending on how far the Germans would have to retreat before reaching a new defensive line, which most probably would be through Neale and Guiscard, and based on Ham.

Field Marshal Haig reports that since last Thursday the allies have captured 28,000 prisoners and 600 guns. Several thousand machine guns and much war material also were taken.

Barns of Langton Man and Their Contents Destroyed in the Storm

NEWS FROM SIMCOE

Lightning Destroys Langton Barns. Simcoe, Aug. 14.—(From Our Own Correspondent.)—John Jamieson, a Langton farmer, lost his barns and contents by lightning during a thunderstorm last Thursday night. He had $1,000 insurance on buildings, $75 on silos, and $1,500 on contents. The loss on contents and including the season's hay, was estimated at $1,382.95. It is said that the barn cannot be replaced for much less than $4,000.

Last Week's Cyclone. The cyclone which crossed Norfolk last week in a south-easterly direction, apparently wrought most of its havoc in this county up east of Delhi. One twenty-acre orchard was pretty well riddled, a barn roof went up like a single shingle, a large tree entire, was lifted over a barn and dropped on the other side, a farm auto garage was carried up and scattered about and the car thus liberated was carried across a tennis field. We have yet to learn of anyone having received personal injury.

INSTEAD OF THIRD STOREY

An Extension Has Been Decided on for the Nurses' Home

At a recent meeting of the executive of the W.N.A. it was unanimously decided that instead of placing a third storey on the Nurses' Home, as originally planned, an extension should take place of the present building. The change will afford more beds, thirty in number, instead of twenty-seven, and will do away with fire escapes and other extra expenditures in connection with a third storey.

Yesterday afternoon at the hospital a meeting of the special committee appointed in connection with the matter took place and Mr. Tilley, the architect, was present to explain the new proposal. The scheme was enthusiastically adopted and tenders will be asked as soon as Mr. Tilley can complete the specifications. The cost is expected to be no greater than the erection of a third storey and in addition to more accommodation, much inconvenience will also be avoided in connection with building operations.

DETROIT WINS OUT AGAINST RAILWAY.

Ordinance Enforcing Five Cent Street Car Fare is Upheld.

Detroit, Aug. 13.—Efforts of the Detroit United Railway Company to prevent enforcement of an ordinance reducing to five cents the rate on local traction lines failed this forenoon when United States District Judge Tuttle refused to hear the plea of the company for a restraining writ. Judge Tuttle declared the case had no place in his court and he severely criticized the attitude of both the city and the traction company in the fare controversy.

The ordinance reducing fares from six to five cents became effective at midnight last night and the city, to forestall court action by the company, obtained a circuit writ enjoining the company from evading it.

Service on the car lines to-day was virtually normal and there was no recurrence of the disorders of the last few days.

ALLEGED THEFT AT WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Aug. 13.—Just as he was stepping off the train last evening County Constable Hill arrested Sergeant Extrim of London in connection with the alleged theft of $100 found by Harvey Leach of this city who is at present in jail. Leach found the money, the police say, and although there was a registration card in the purse bearing the name of Mrs. Isaac Sullivan, Bay Street, he gave it to Extrim who is stationed in London in the Dental Corps. Shortly after getting the money from Leach, Extrim left the city and returned to London. He was remanded to jail to await the hearing of the case.

NOT LORD RHONDDA'S WIDOW, BUT DAUGHTER, NOW PEERESS

At Special Request of Dying Man, Barony Passes to Daughter—Lady Mackworth Thus Rewarded for Help in Averting Coal Strikes in Wales

According to a cable containing a report published by the Manchester Guardian, "Lady Rhondda, widow of the late Viscount Rhondda, British Food Controller, proposes to claim her rights as peeress to sit in the House of Lords."

The cable goes on further to say: "Viscount Rhondda left no male heir, his only child being a daughter, Lady Mackworth."

However those who have followed Lord Rhondda's career will recognize that the cable is most incorrect, as it is Lord Rhondda's daughter, not his widow, who through his death has become a peeress.

For an authority on such matters recently wrote the following from London:

"Although Lord Rhondda left no son, his peerages have not become extinct with his demise the other day. For, when on the occasion of King George's birthday, the dictatorial barony was transformed into a viscounty, the new patent was, in the earnest solicitation of the then already dying man, made out with remainder to his only child, Margaret, the wife of Sir Humphrey Mackworth."

"Lady Mackworth has now therefore become Viscountess Rhondda in her own right and a peeress of the realm. She enjoys the distinction alone among the peeresses of the realm of having served time in jail. For, among the boldest and most ardent followers of Mrs. Pankhurst in the case of militant suffragism, she was arrested and sentenced to a term in jail for having set fire to a carriage belonging to the then 'object of destroying the mail therein. She did not however, serve out her term, for she went on a hunger strike and in that way compelled the authorities to release her."

"Viscountess Rhondda accompanied her father on several of his numerous trips to America, and was returning home with him on board the Lusitania when it was sunk off the coast of Ireland. In the confusion father and daughter lost one another each of them being rescued. It was not until three days later that while recovering at Queenstown from the exposure and prolonged immer-

Proof That

ADVERTISING

Lowers Selling Cost

Some new facts and figures throw a flood of light on this subject

The rising cost of living is the great universal hardship of the present day. So great and so many have these rises been that few people stop to realize that there have been any exceptions to the general rule. But the fact is that there have been numerous exceptions and all of these exceptions belong to the same great class—that of nationally advertised goods.

The present agitation on the high cost of living has led to some investigations which have brought out a lot of facts hitherto unknown to the public. Some of the most important work in this line is being done by the Association of National Advertisers, an organization of 260 of the leading advertisers of the country. Mr. Sullivan, the secretary-treasurer of the association, has given out some vitally important facts concerning the relation of advertising to selling costs.

"The old idea," said Mr. Sullivan, "that the cost of advertising raises prices, dies hard. But the business man knows better. He knows that selling goods is costly business—no matter what the goods or what the selling methods. And he knows that anything which creates demand on a large scale, and thus makes selling easier, is bound to reduce selling costs and thus helps to reduce prices.

"But the evidence is better than argument; facts are better than theories, and we have been at great pains to collect the facts. We have secured an immense amount of data from our members which proves that advertising does reduce selling costs and thus tends to reduce the selling price of advertised goods. Let me quote a few examples:

"The makers of a famous photographic camera, when they began advertising twenty-eight years ago, made one camera which took a 2 1/2 inch picture, and which sold at $25. Today they make a far better camera which sells for $10. Another, which took a 4x5 picture, sold for $60. Today they sell a far better one for $20. And so on through the line.

"A prominent hat manufacturer has, by means of advertising, reduced his selling cost seven cents per hat. Result—the buyer gets a hat of better quality at no increase in price; this despite increased cost of raw material and workmanship.

"When the manufacturer of a famous breakfast food specialty began advertising, his goods sold at 15 cents a package. Today the package is fifty per cent. larger and the price has been reduced to 10 cents. Again advertising did it, the same causes producing the same results.

"The producer of another well known food specialty is selling his goods at 25 per cent. less to the wholesale grocery trade than four years ago.

"Twenty years ago a nationally advertised shaving stick was sold in a cheap metal leatherette covered box. Today a stick containing 20 per cent. more soap is sold in a handsome nickel box at the same price.

"Then take the most conspicuous example of them all—the automobile business; and compare the $5,000, or $10,000 cars of ten years ago with the equally good cars of today, selling for a fraction of the money.

"And so on through a long list. In every case, the manufacturer either has been able to lower the price or improve the quality at no increase in price."

How has he done it? By means of advertising, which has created demand on a larger scale, and thus permitted production and distribution on a large scale. Result—improved manufacturing efficiency and reduced costs. And all of this in the face of a steady increase in the cost of labor and raw materials which, with advertising eliminated, might in many cases have doubled the price of the goods.

"A triumph of economical marketing" is the only possible verdict for advertising in the face of these facts.

ANNOUNCEMENT

FALL WHEAT SEED

N VIEW of the partial failure of the Fall Wheat crop in this Province this year, it will be necessary for farmers to make early arrangements for the supply of seed which they will need for Fall Sowing. Under these circumstances farmers who have on hand quantities of wheat suitable for Fall Seeding are urged to conserve them for this purpose. If there is no demand locally, the information should be supplied to this Department, or to the Local Office of this Department in your County, so that every effort may be made to have an equitable and satisfactory distribution. The need for foodstuffs justifies a large acreage of Fall wheat in this Province again this year, and the co-operation of the farmers in the mobilization and distribution of the available seed supplies is invited.

IMMIGRATION IS IMPORTANT

Decision of Imperial Conference as to This Policy is Momentous One

By Courier Special Writer. Ottawa, Aug. 13.—Great importance is attached to the Government circles to the conclusions reached at the Imperial War Conference in respect to the matter of immigration, more particularly as it affects India and the overseas dominions.

Emigration to Canada from India of laboring classes which has been the cause of considerable difficulty in the past will be stopped in the future. The decision reached and which will have this effect, was that the several communities of the British Empire, including India, shall enjoy complete control of the composition of their own population by means of restriction of immigration from any other communities.

The representatives of Canada agreed that natives of India now resident in Canada and who number approximately two thousand should be allowed to bring in their wives and minor children on the condition that not more than one wife and her children shall be admitted for each Indian.

To the provision for absolute control by each dominion of immigration there was attached by the conference a reciprocal arrangement covering temporary residence for purposes of education and visits for purposes of pleasure or business.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE HELD AT ST. GEORGE

Largely Attended Union Meeting in Commemoration of Allied Victory.

St. George, Aug. 13.—At a largely attended union meeting held in the Presbyterian Church of this village, presided over by Rev. C. Farquharson, the Rev. Mr. Brandon presented the following resolution, which was earnestly responded to by the entire congregation:

"I heroby suggest that we, the citizens of St. George and surrounding community, representatives of the Presbyterian, Baptist and Methodist Churches, assembled in union services in the Presbyterian Church this Sabbath morning, Aug. 11, 1918, do gratefully acknowledge the hand of God in the successes which have attended the allied armies during the past week, and recognize that God in answer to prayer has given victories on a much larger scale than has hitherto been recorded in the annals of this terrible conflict, and as an expression of our deep sense of gratitude to Almighty God and our earnest prayer for further successes, which will hasten the end of this tragedy of the ages, we rise as a united congregation, and with bowed heads, thankful hearts and uplifted right hands, sing:

"O God, our help in ages past, Our hope for years to come; Our shelter from the stormy blast And our eternal home.

Under the shadow of Thy throne Still may we dwell secure; Suffice is Thine arm alone, And our defence is sure.

Led by the choir the congregation rose and sang most heartily these two verses; and Rev. Mr. Brandon offered prayer. The regular morning service was then conducted by Rev. Mr. Farquharson.

GENERAL RETIRED. By General Leased Wire. Paris, Aug. 13.—(Havas Agency)—General von Mudra and General Liebrecht, who commanded German armies in the offensive which began on July 15, have been placed on the retired list, according to a Berlin newspaper which has been received here.

Von Mudra was one of the German commanders during the Verdun fighting in 1916. He was decorated by Emperor William for his services there. In the offensive of July he was in command of the German army attacking along the Champagne front between Prunel and Talure. His attack was met by General Gouraud and was everywhere repulsed. General Liebrecht was not mentioned in the despatches telling of the fighting during July. He was, however, formerly commander of the fifth division of Prussian Grenadiers. He became a general in April, 1913.

LOSS OF APPETITE is commonly gradual; one dish after another is set aside. It is one of the first indications that the system is running down, and there is nothing else so good for it as Hood's Sarsaparilla—the best of all tonics.

RIGHT OF ANGRY. A Lesson in Derivation Appropos of the Dutch Ship Seizure.

In the romance of words or the picturesque of their origin few are found more attractive than the word angry, which has come to the front in connection with the seizure of Dutch ships. When, to-day, one speaks of the "right of angary" or "inter-angaria," or "jus angariae," or "droit d'angarie" of the French, one is simply employing a modified form of the Greek word angaria, adapted from the Persian, and, in its turn, obtained from a Babylonian expression. It referred to the office of an agarras or royal courier, an office first established, as far as records go, in the days of the Empire of Cyrus the Great, 550 years before the Christian era. The agarras of those times has his "King's Messenger," attached to the Foreign Office, whose duty it is to carry despatches of a confidential nature to foreign courts. The Persian couriers, like the King's Messenger of former days, were mounted, and constituted a kind of postal system. They were called upon to carry the imperial despatches to distant parts of the Persian Empire. According to Herodotus, there must have been couriers held in readiness at certain stages along the routes of the empire. They travelled day and night, and in all weathers. They were provided with horse robes, and went the same way as the pony express of the West during the pioneer days of the United States. The Romans adopted the Persian system for maintaining communications with the outlying parts of empire. Under the Roman system, however, the supply of horses and their maintenance was a part of the public duty of the Emperor alone had the power to grant exemptions from this duty. The object of these stern measures was to prevent interruption of the vital service.

In the course of time the word was applied to the system of employing heavy transport vehicles on the cursus publicus and also to the animals by which they were drawn. Hence the word angaria, originally derived from the system of employing couriers, came to signify the enforced use of animals for the service of the state, or "compulsory service." A parallel development of this latter meaning is seen in the French word "travail forcé," labor for the construction of highways, bridges, and the like. The idea of payment or compensation was a later development.

In medieval Latin, the words angaria and angariae came into use, while the English derivatives angaria and angariae implied any service forcibly or unvoluntarily demanded, and hence, oppression in general. In feudal times angaria meant service to a lord or vassal—that is, any troublesome or vexatious duty exacted by a lord of his vassals. The word has never been supplied by Roman law, under which the word was defined as compulsory service exacted either by a government or by a lord. The word angaria crept into international law, and "right of angary" was understood to mean the seizure of property by belligerents in the event of a war, and having regard to due compensation. Belligerents, in fact, could appropriate any property, wherever found, in order to carry on war, or to prevent the enemy from doing the same purpose. Many abuses crept in and have given rise to litigation in the higher courts of various countries. Countercorrespondence of the Convention of The Hague, in 1899, tried to meet the need for regulating rights of angary, and adopted provisions whereby railway plants, telegraphs, telephones, wireless and other ships, though belonging to companies or private persons, may be seized for military purposes, but must be paid for loss or damage.

Origin of Bread Unknown. The origin of wheat is lost in history antiquity. Even the origin of bread is being made is not known, all the researches and hypotheses notwithstanding. Where wheat, spelt, rye, barley, oats, buckwheat, etc., first offered man their grainy ears for food is an unsolved problem. But that originally bread was not roasted or baked, as modern preparation is, but eaten as dough or paste, may be inferred from its relation with the word "broth," both of these words being derived from the root "broth," "brui" to brew. In all probability it was originally the boiled coarse meal with nothing added to it but salt. The leavening and baking of the bread was a later development. The origin of these processes is a matter of speculation; but so much is certain; that baking preceded the leavening of the bread that causes it to rise; also that the original form of the bread was not the loaf, but a kind of thin, flat cake like the matzo, or unleavened bread of the Jews, or the tortillas of the Mexicans. Like these, it was probably roasted upon intensely heated flat stones.

With the discovery of the leaven the flat cake increased in height until it assumed the form of our loaf.

A Peculiar Plant. "Plants and animals," says Science, "both have developed spines as a means of protection against their enemies, but it is rare indeed to find a plant with spines below ground. The all too common spines of the Southern States and Mexico is one of the few plants thus provided. The stems above ground are spiny to keep off grazing animals, but the underground starchy tubers are armored deeply with spines apparently developed as a protection against peccora—the wild pigs still found in the southwest. The spines are now beyond the original range of the wild pigs, but its underground armor comes into use as a protection against the domesticated hog of the old world."

Strange Words. "Seeded drum dyes at the yorgorn. Ay wuz wewery and sed us cent. No, this does not happen to be Esperanto. It is, according to a musical critic, how many amateur singers "read" the first two lines of "The Lost Chord."

BOYS ARE DOING EXCELLENT WORK

Encouraging Reports From All Phases of Earn and Give Campaign

This month's report in the boys' Earn and Give campaign, dated August 15th, shows real progress made on the Earn and Give payment.

There are now 22 boys who have completed their payments in full and 15 others who have paid one-half or more. As in other centres, the boys are earning the money in a variety of ways. Many are taking it in whole or part from their savings, others from their regular wage, but many others are doing special work for it. One boy who recently fulfilled his pledge in full, reported having earned the whole sum working in a war garden, a splendid combination of patriotic production and patriotic service. Another, a boy of eleven, has completed his pledge by doing odd jobs at home and for his neighbors.

One of the interesting results of the Earn and Give Campaign is the economic effect on the boys. In showing them how they can save from regular wages, they have never attempted to buy anything is now putting two dollars a week to the Earn and Give and has decided to continue saving this sum himself after his pledge is completed. The present objectives of the campaign are to have all pledges at least 90 per cent. fulfilled on September 1st, and the whole completed on October 1st. Brantford has a long way to go to complete this, but the record for the first half of August is the best yet made, and the executive hope to reach the objective on time.

SITUATION

By the Associated Press. While there have been no definite reports of a resumption of the drive on the German positions on the southern end of the Picardy battle line, dispatches from Paris this afternoon would seem to indicate that fresh progress has been made there by General Humbert's army.

It is said that the French are advancing steadily on Noyon, and while the stubborn defense of the Chaules-Roye road has delayed operations, the storming of the Noyon positions is impending. Further north the British army commanded by General Rawlinson is known to be encountering desperate resistance along its whole front. It is at a virtual standstill, and the advances show that the Germans holding the Chaules heights seem determined to cling to their positions here at all costs. The French army on the southern end of the battle line was at least five and a half miles from Noyon, according to latest detailed reports.

INJUNCTION OBTAINED
By Courier Leased Wire.
Detroit, Aug. 13.—At one o'clock, past midnight this morning, the City of Detroit, through its corporation counsel secured a circuit court injunction against the newly enacted ordinance, which became effective at midnight and which provides for a five cent fare on all city lines.

Man have bought and can still buy. He points out that all round market conditions have to be considered and adds:
If the $750,000,000 of securities which we have issued in Canada had been subject to taxation we should have had to offer a better interest yield rate than we offered to the public. This is clearly illustrated by the positions of the tax-free and the taxable Liberty Loan issues on the New York market. The 3-1/2 per cent tax-free issue stands at or above par. The taxable 4-1/4 per cent issue stands at 95. There is a difference in interest yield rate of nearly a point and a half. If upon the $750,000,000 of war loan securities we had to pay only one-half per cent additional interest rate, our annual interest charge would be increased by $3,750,000,000 and we should now be facing a 6 per cent rate upon our next loan, instead of floating it at 5-1/2 per cent, as we shall.

CRICKET GAME.

A game between the Hamilton and St. George cricketers will be staged on the O.S.B. grounds Saturday afternoon. The Hamilton cricket grounds are being used for a baseball game.

BOWLERS AT TORONTO

W. H. Inglis, Jr. of this city, was beaten 15-10 in the fourth round for the Walker trophy in the Dominion Bowling Tourney at Toronto yesterday afternoon. J. A. Ogilvie is still in the running for the Ontario trophy, at the end of the fourth round.

JUST HERE AND THERE.

A peculiar circumstance which accompanied the showers that fell in some parts of the city last evening was the very noticeable fact that the rain visited only small sections of the city. In the district east of the city, almost no rain fell, while in the north the crops received a good drenching. Spots in the North Ward also received showers, while other places within a block got none of the much needed rain.

BUILDING PERMITS.

The following building permits were issued at the city engineer's department yesterday: E. L. Gould, pattern shop at 49 George street, cost $400; Chas. Coulson, 81 Maitland street, brick cottage, estimated to cost $1,000; Chas. N. Churchill, brick bungalow, $1,800, at 191 Brock street. Building has decreased greatly during the hot spell, the record being established in May, when over $150,000 of building permits were issued.

HARVEST LEAVE.

The following instructions have been telegraphed from military headquarters at Ottawa to all district commanders:

"Harvest leave, under conditions already prescribed, will be granted to men whose applications for compassionate leave are pending, without causing them to report in person. The Militia Department states that such men should apply by letter or wire, direct to their commanding officer and they should apply at once.

MANY APPLICATIONS

Hon. A. K. MacLean, acting minister of the naval department, in a statement issued to-day, says there is a flood of applications for cadetships in the Canadian air service, and that these are being dealt with as fast as possible. The minister says cadets will not be accepted who are already on the strength or the reserve of the British Royal Air Force. Only British subjects will be examined, the Canadians will be given the preference. A few applications will be considered from officers and men of other than the flying branch of His Majesty's Imperial and Colonial Forces but only when accompanied by the written concurrence of the applicants' commanding officer.

A Ford came off decidedly second best in a collision with a motor truck on Market street yesterday, having the step and the main guard badly smashed in addition to other damages.

AMERICAN TROOPS

Two trains of American soldiers passed through the city last night, and early this morning. The soldiers certainly are a slim looking bunch and have a good idea of what is going to happen to the luns when they get over there.

SYRACUSE PLAYS HERE

The Syracuse club of the International League, will play the semipro here Friday night at 6.30. An endeavor is being made to strengthen the local club for this game. The Rochester, Binghamton and Buffalo clubs have all asked for games here, and a good attendance. Friday night's game will assure the management that the fans are willing to support these higher class teams.

WORTHY DESCENDANTS.

Congratulations to Archdeacon MacKenzie in regard to his two eldest grandsons, Kenneth, son of A. W. MacKenzie, of Lakefield, whose eyes had been seriously injured in the Halifax explosion, has just had his appointment as midshipman confirmed by a naval board of medical examiners at Halifax, who found that his eyes had recovered sufficiently to allow him to continue his naval career. Hugh, the son of M. A. MacKenzie, of Toronto, has passed into the Royal Military College at Kingston as the senior cadet of his year. Both boys were educated from childhood at the Grove School in Lakefield, which has sent so many of the best of Canada's sons into all the fighting services.

A LITTLE COOLER.

The rain which fell last night and this morning brought a slight measure of relief from the oppressive heat of the last week, and weary mortals today commenced to realize that life might be bearable once more. It's not yet cold enough for fur coats, however.

THANKS FIREMEN

Mr. A. J. Quinlan wishes to thank the members of the Fire Department of Brantford for the service rendered at his recent fire, as only for their prompt attention and heroic work in keeping the fire from spreading, it would have been very serious indeed.

BRING ALL ALLIED SUBJECTS UNDER M.S.A. LIABILITY

Negotiations Under Way to Conscript Friendly Aliens in Canada

By Courier Leased Wire.

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—Negotiations have been opened which aim to bring practically all Allied subjects in Canada within the dragnet of compulsory military service. With the exception of Americans, a subject of one of the Allied governments, resident in Canada, does not come within the scope of the Military Service Act. His position is privileged. If he fails to respond to a call for service from his own country, he becomes a deserter so far as that country is concerned, and is liable to be shot should he return there. But as long as he remains in Canada, he cannot be proceeded against, nor is he at present liable for service under the Military Service Act. This applies only to the male British subjects who are, ordinarily resident in Canada; b. has been at any time since August, 1914, resident in Canada.

It is with a view to removing this anomaly that negotiations have been opened with the French, Belgian and Italian governments.

There are understood to be many men of military age subjects of these governments at present in Canada. It is proposed to give them the option of either returning home to do their military service, or of joining the Canadian Expeditionary Force. This course has already been followed in regard to the Americans by virtue of the treaty recently ratified at Washington and London.

The present negotiations are being conducted in London. Sir Robert Borden, it is understood, is endeavoring to press the matter forward, particularly in its regard to Allied subjects resident in Canada.

CRERAR APPEALS FOR FARM HELP

Urges City Residents With Experience to Aid in Harvesting

By Courier Leased Wire.

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—Hon. A. T. Crerar, minister of agriculture, makes an urgent appeal to residents of town and cities who have had experience in farm work to assist in harvesting operations. In a statement to the press last night, Mr. Crerar said:

Large areas in western Canada have suffered very severely. Our grain crop there will, unfortunately, fall below what we had hoped for. However, eastern Canada on the whole, promises to reap a very excellent crop, and labor must be forthcoming to take this off.

Those in towns and cities who have expressed their willingness to assist in this kind of work in time of national stress, can greatly help by making the fact known locally that they are available. They should stick to it even if the work prove a little bit hard and discouraging. They look upon it as their contribution to the national effort at the present time for such it certainly is.

In the last few months, many thousands of men have been called from the farms in Canada to insure that the Canadian troops at the front would be kept reinforced to full strength. It is the plain duty of every one who can render any assistance in our harvesting operations to give that assistance, and to give it willingly and cheerfully.

BEST IN THE LONG RUN

The Conquerors

MAIL The Conquerors of The Road. Hail the tires that triumphed in the bitterest struggle ever staged between roads and tires, a conflict of 4,178,744 tire miles. Hail Goodrich Tested Tires.

Hear the story of a good fight well won. One year ago Goodrich, challenging the roads to a test of strength, sent forth six Test Car Fleets to battle the roughest roads in six different regions.

GOODRICH TESTED TIRES

The roads did their worst, as the Test Car Fleets whirled from region to region, the teeth of the road gnawed at Goodrich Tires.

But the tires conquered with phenomenal mileage that doubled Goodrich's pride. From that test covering millions of miles, the Test Car Fleets came back with a new tire standard, the TESTED of Goodrich Tested Tires.

Tested Tires mean certainty of service, proved service, and that means a lot to a tire user. It means long life in a tire, and dependability on the road, for no hidden weakness could conceal itself in that year long test of Goodrich's Test Car Fleets.

SILVERTOWN CORDS, and BLACK SAFETY TREADS, proved themselves masters of the road. The spiral-wrapped, cable-cord tire body, and the tough, close-clutch, cross-barred black safety tread defied the rough going.

Under light and heavy cars they proved themselves not for one car or one driver, or one road, but all cars, all drivers, all roads.

Reap the benefits of this great victory of Goodrich Tires, the sure mileage and dependability of a proven tire service, by demanding tires that won the title, "Canada's Tested Tires."

SIDEGLISTS ON CARRIGAN. I never heard Bill Carrigan "call" a man strenuously in front of any one, says Lieut. Marty McFale, former big league ball player, but if there was a reprimand "coming" to a player he got it in a way that did the most good, namely, man to man.

The result of Bill Carrigan's methods with his pitchers was that during his regime he developed the greatest staff of hurlers in either major league.

It was often said that he insisted upon his pitchers "dusting off" the batter. That statement is absolutely false. He did not insist upon the "dusting off" process, but he did tell his "fingers" that it was to their advantage to keep a hitter from getting a "too hold" at the plate.

One day the Yankees were playing in Boston and Carrigan was coaching at third base. "Wild Bill" Donovan, the Yankee manager, started to "ride" Carrigan about the Red Sox pitchers using the old "dust 'em off" method.

"When I was pitching," shouted Donovan to Carrigan, "I didn't have to do that kind of work to win ball games."

"No," I guess you "smiled" at the boys," retorted Carrigan.

"Well, you never used to hit me," yelled "Wild" Bill.

"That's the truth," answered Carrigan, "you never threw a ball near enough to the plate to hit. You were so wild that they had to sneak up on you in the dark."

Empire Evans silenced further "gas attacks," but it looked like a Red Sox reprieve victory.

Carrigan had an unshy knack of "calling the turn." He would shift his attack or defence to take advantage of a certain situation, just as a master chess player moves his inanimate "men" to meet an emergency. It was a common sight to the Boston fans to see a close game pulled out of the fire at the eleventh hour by a few touches of Carrigan's "magic wand." A substitute runner, a pinch hitter, a base hit and one more scalp dangled from Carrigan's belt.

It did not seem to make a particle of difference whom he substituted. That player would act like a man who had to demonstrate his appreciation for being favored and would usually do so by "bringing home the bacon."

Stonewall Carrigan Opposing base-runners used to call Bill Carrigan, of the Boston Red Sox, the "Stonewall" catcher. It was nearly impossible to reach home on a close play when Bill was guarding that territory.

He knelt on the plate and waited for a throw to come from the outfield. The flashing spikes of a runner tearing in from third meant nothing in his life. There was a crash when the two men collided, then a cloud of dust and if one were near enough three declarations could usually be heard. The umpire called the base-runner "out." The base-runner called Carrigan a lot of things that were not according to Hoyle, and then promised to "get" Bill the next time he blocked the plate. The final declaration was Carrigan's compliments to the runner, plus an invitation for him to slide into the plate as often as possible.

"You will usually find me there to arrest you," was Bill's parting shot.

After winning his second consecutive world's championship Carrigan found that there were no more baseball worlds to conquer, so he decided to retire. He did not state any reason for so doing, and those who know him do not ask for explanations.

They realize that Bill always had an object in view no matter what move he made. So why retire him?

He has plenty of the world's goods—big salary offers and even blank contract propositions have failed to lure him from his home in Lewiston, Me. But for the rood of baseball he who have worked for him hope that some day he will return and start where he left off. Men of his calibre are so rare that

One of the Neat Places Secured by the American Artillery in France.

It seems "all wrong" for Lewiston to possess a "magic man" who is so big in heart, deed and mind that the whole baseball world turns green with envy.

One of the most difficult statements a ball player is sometimes called upon to make is an answer to the question: "What kind of a manager or player is 'so and so'?"

If you should ask the Red Hox clan of Boston the question, "What kind of a manager was Bill Carrigan?" they would answer as one voice: "The greatest of them all."

REGAIN LOSSES OF 4 MONTHS Immediate Results of Foch's Counter-Offensives of Highest Importance.

With the French Army in France, Aug. 14.—After the battle of the Avre the situation of the belligerents presents a change which for rapidity and extent has rarely been approached in military history. Marshal Foch's strategy and the masterly tactics of the Generals commanding the armies and groups of armies under him, have in three weeks wrested from the Germans what required four months for them to obtain at a cost variously estimated at from 700,000 to 1,000,000 men.

The immediate results of the counter offensives which will have the greatest bearing on subsequent operations are the clearing of the Chateau Thierry pocket, ending the menace to Epervan and Paris; the liberation of Montdidier, ending the menace to Amiens; the freeing of the important eastern railroad line from Paris to Chalons; and the equally important restoring of the line from Paris to Amiens, restoring to the Allies means of communication which give them enormously greater ease in future movements of troops.

These successes render impossible any rupture of the line which would separate the French armies of the centre from those to the east or a rupture of the junction between the French and British. The most disastrous consequence to the Germans aside from the heavy losses they sustained in men and material, is the collapse of their plan to drive wedges in the allied lines and the subsequent widening and joining which would have threatened general dislocation.

Engaged Reserves Gen. Foch's strategy in reducing the salient wedges wrests the initiative in operations from the Germans, at once obliging them either to order a general retreat to a strong line such as the Somme or to engage reserves. The enemy adopted the second alternative, which, having failed, makes eventual retirement immensely more difficult.

The first phase of the battle of the Avre finds the French with a footing upon Thiescourt Plateau, west of Noyon, which has vital importance in future operations. The German must either recapture the position at high cost, if he can, or abandon Noyon, which means the fall of Roye and Laon, which already are under menace of imminent capture.

The disaster which menaced Gen.

von Hutier's army has been averted, for the moment. The few narrow passages which now are open for the withdrawal of his stores are so harassed by the bombs of aviators and the fire of heavy artillery that prompt escape is impossible, rendering probable a desperate effort by the Germans to cling to their 1914 line.

DO YOUR CHILDREN EAT RIGHT KIND OF FOOD?

Simple, Wholesome Foods Recommended—Milk Should Form Part of Diet—Try Some of These Suggested Menus

A little child who is carefully fed in accordance with his bodily needs (as these are now understood) receives every day at least one food from each of the following groups: 1. Milk and dishes made chiefly of milk (most important of the group as regards children's diet); meat, fish, poultry, eggs, and meat substitutes. 2. Bread and other cereal foods. 3. Butter and other wholesome fats. 4. Vegetables and fruits. 5. Simple sweets.

youngest children), Farina with milk, bread and butter. 2. Apple sauce, oatmeal with milk, toast and butter. 3. Baked pears (pulp and juice only for the youngest children), milk toast, cocoa. 4. Stewed prunes (pulp and juice only for the youngest children), corn meal mush and milk, toast and butter. 5. Grape fruit (juice only for the youngest children), milk toast with grated yolk of hard-boiled egg. 6. Apple (scraped for very little children), toast, hot milk.

Milk, if it can be procured, should form part of the food of every child, except when for some special reason the doctor objects, and this he seldom does. As to the amounts that should be served, a good rule is to provide three or four glasses (1 1/2 pints to 1 quart) of milk a day; an egg or its equivalent in moderately fat meat, fish, poultry, or meat substitute; fruit and vegetables each one ounce a day; 1 to 2 ounces of butter or other wholesome fat; and all the bread or other cereal food the child will eat. One or two ounces of sugar, candy, or other sweets (including the sugar used in cooking) may also be allowed, if the child does not prevent eating the other foods mentioned.

In each case enough milk should be given to make up the required daily amount, which is about a quart. Dinner. 1. Meat soup, egg on toast, string beans, rice pudding. 2. Roast beef, baked potato, asparagus, bread and jelly. 3. Lamb stew with carrots and potato, twice-baked bread, tapoca custard. 4. Creamed potatoes, green peas, stewed plums with thin cereal-milk pudding. 5. Baked halibut, boiled potatoes, stewed celery, boiled rice with honey or syrup. 6. Broiled meat cakes, grits, creamed carrots, bread, butter, and sugar sandwiches.

The following bills of fare are simple, easy to prepare, sufficiently varied, and, if well prepared, should taste good. They are so planned that milk and another food from group 1 and a food from each of the other groups will be served at least once a day.

Supper. 1. Baked potatoes, served with cream and salt, or with milk gravy, cookies. 2. Bread and milk, apple sauce, sponge cake.

SEE POSSIBILITY OF NEW EAST FRONT

Washington Finds Ground for Hope of It in Northern Government

CHAIN OF PROVINCES Pro-Ally Element Extends From Arctic to Region of Don Cossacks

Washington, Aug. 12.—The possibility of establishment of an eastern front that will be a serious menace at least to the Germans, is being considered by officials here. It became known today in connection with the making public of the final text of the proclamation of the "Supreme Government of the Northern Territory"...

They pronounce themselves unqualifiedly opposed to the Germans and declare that the new government is convinced that Russia's and the allies' interests in the struggle against the enemy are one and the same. Grounds for Hope. Officials of the state department think there is reasonable ground for hope that the eastern front will be re-established by this new government...

It knows that the Allied troops come not to interfere with internal affairs, and their arrival is not against the desires of the local population. Therefore, the Supreme Government greets the Allied forces entering the north to wage the contest against the common enemy and summons the entire population to greet them gladly and assist by every possible means.

The chain of provinces embraced in the newly-proclaimed government extends on the east to the Ural Mountains, beyond which is the Western Siberian Government, where thousands of Czech-Slav and loyal Russians are maintaining a stable government, ready and anxious to fight the Germans...

Recent advices show that the Ukrainians, whose territory borders that of the Don Cossacks, are strongly antagonistic to the Russian power. Allied troops are in the north to an extent not exactly known to the public. To the south the British are steadily driving northward from Mesopotamia...

Horses had been provided for the whole party and the Prince was escorted through the lines of the various units. His Royal Highness had the pleasure of seeing the Polish soldiers going through their program as well as receiving a Polish military greeting.

The Prince and party left at noon for Beamsville in motor cars provided by the Beamsville aviation camp and accompanied by several airplanes a few hundred feet ahead. After an inspection of the Royal Air Force camp at Beamsville the party left for Toronto.

FRENCH MAKE PROGRESS IN NEW PICARDY ATTACK

Launched Drive on Southern Part of Battle Front Yesterday—Enemy Rapidly Evacuating Trenches in the Oise Bend

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Aug. 14.—The French launched an attack on the southern part of the Picardy battle front, and according to reports received shortly afterwards, were making progress in the valley of the Oise. The Germans are evacuating their trenches in the bend of the river west of Bafly and the French are occupying them.

To the northwest of the French are almost entirely on the crest of the Massif, where heavy fighting is in progress. Only at one corner of Massif did the Germans appear for the moment to be in possession. This corner is one of the highest humps on the hills, rising a few feet above the position now in possession of the French.

The enemy is reported destroying villages in his rear. The ruins of Peronne are reported to be burning. Fires have been observed by allied aircraft at various points. So far thirty-three German divisions have been identified in the fighting. The enemy's reserves, the indications are, are gradually being exhausted as he draws troops out of the line to extend his flanks and cover any gaps. This is an operation, however, which can only be carried out to a limited degree.

The French are working around Roye to the west and south of the German holding point, almost in the centre of the Picardy battle front, and now hold high ground in this region. The wooded area around Des Loges south of Roye was captured by the French last night, but a German counter attack drove them out.

The village of L'Econville has been captured by the French and further ground has been gained by them north of the St. Claude Farm. L'Econville is about three miles south east of Lassigny, and virtually on the crest of the ridge overlooking the Oise.

Enemy Moving Troops. With the British Army in France, Aug. 13.—(11.30 a.m.)—(By The Associated Press)—Allied forces holding their new lines gained in the second battle of the Somme improved their positions, beat off a few feeble counter-attacks and increased the number of their prisoners last night and this morning.

In the meantime the enemy appears to be moving in a considerable number of troops. Quite heavy movements westward are reported by aerial observers, but no really great forces remain available for Crown Prince Rupprecht to throw into the battle without calling on the German Crown Prince for assistance.

Progress remains firmly in the hands of the British this morning, having been finally taken by them yesterday. North of the Somme the Americans spent a quiet night, the principal action in this locality being at the southern end of their position on the spur between Etiennehem and Bray. There the British improved their positions along the whole length of the spur by storming and capturing enemy defenses, inflicting casualties and taking prisoners.

There has been some little fighting in Madame Wood, about 2,000 yards southeast of Herleville, where the Australians are in touch with the enemy. A German counter-attack yesterday at Chilly, further south, resulted in the British withdrawing to the edge of the town, as nothing could be gained by staying there. Chilly is now in No Man's Land. Another counter-attack east of L'hons, north of Chilly, was smoothed under British fire.

King Ferdinand Feared His Throne Would Fall If Democracy Triumphed

A PRIVATE and secret letter written to King Ferdinand of Roumania by Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary in the latter part of February marked the turning point in Roumania's participation in the world war, and was one of the deciding factors in a long series of intrigues which eventually broke the spirit of the Roumanian King. Under this outside pressure King Ferdinand changed from an ardent supporter of the war against Germany into a lukewarm and vacillating opportunist and finally into a distinct peace advocate.

This is a time when kings stick together. This is the most striking sentence of the letter of Emperor Charles. The letter has never been published and its existence up to this time has been known to only a few persons outside the highest court circles in Roumania. A summary of its contents was communicated to the Associated Press correspondent in Jassy by a high official, who is one of the most steadfast friends of the Allies at the Roumanian court.

In intimate tones the Austrian Emperor directed the attention of King Ferdinand to the great danger for all monarchial institutions from the wave of Socialism which was sweeping eastern Europe. He drew a heart-rending picture of the danger to Austria from the spread of Bolshevism across the Russian border, and declared the Roumanian dynasty was in equal danger from this menace.

King Ferdinand's letter to Alexander Marghiloman, the Roumanian Premier, thanking him for the conclusion of peace, marked the final step in the King's surrender to the dogmas of Emperor Charles that kings must stick together. The earlier attitude of King Ferdinand toward the war offers a striking contrast to the subservient tone of his letter to Premier Marghiloman. As late as mid-February the king expressed to the Associated Press correspondent a desire that an interview or statement showing his loyalty and adherence to the alliance with the entente should be published in America.

An audience was arranged, but unfortunately the report of the interview was sent by way of Odessa. A strike of Bolshevik telegraph operators there prevented it from going any farther.

On the subject of peace proposals by the central powers, which was then the all-important subject in Jassy, the king in the interview declared it would be unadvisable for Roumania to accept peace without the consent of her allies, for Roumania to make such a peace would be an act of dishonor.

Concerning his relations with the German and Austrian Emperors, the king said: "I can understand sovereigns being angry against each other, but I cannot understand them entertaining feelings of hatred toward one another. A sovereign cannot always act according to his personal dictates, or according to family ties, but must carry out the will and interest of his people."

Within a short time after the interview King Ferdinand's attitude began to undergo a change and the breach between him and the Queen on the question of peace began to grow wider. Queen Marie, on the other hand, was adamant, and she made valiant efforts to rally the army and the anti-German elements to her side. In March she visited the entire Roumanian front with the object of solidifying and consolidating the anti-peace sentiment in the active army. The soldiers generally responded to her appeal, but her hopes and efforts were all for naught.

John Carrigan, real estate dealer and a soldier for the second time, today of the Marine Corps. It is only a few weeks ago that Carrigan began to deliver his pyrotechnical addresses to the public from the sidewalk in front of the marine recruiting office at 22 Monroe avenue.

Then he was in civilian clothes. Now he is in uniform. Carrigan served as a marine in the Spanish-American war, and when it was over left the service. Soliering in former days when the country is at war is exactly what the hot Irish blood demands.

The large increase in the number of subscribers and the fact that the loan was issued in three different maturities, made the work a hundred-fold more difficult than the previous loan. Too great praise cannot be given to the staff for their loyalty and devotion to the task.

The figures obtained from the department are as follows: One million eight hundred thousand bonds and the same number of scrip certificates were issued. Each bond was counter-signed.

Of the $50 bond, which was issued for the first time, 600,000 were taken. In the $100 denomination 465,000 bonds were issued.

Almost half of the bonds were registered as to principal or both principal and interest. The figures are: Bearer bonds, 915,000; registered bonds, 381,000; fully registered bonds, 464,000.

On June 1, the date of the first interest payment, 390,000 interest cheques were sent out. The department dealt with 820,000 subscribers and 2,200 banks. The staff employed numbered 850.

sweeping eastern Europe. He drew a heart-rending picture of the danger to Austria from the spread of Bolshevism across the Russian border, and declared the Roumanian dynasty was in equal danger from this menace.

King Ferdinand's letter to Alexander Marghiloman, the Roumanian Premier, thanking him for the conclusion of peace, marked the final step in the King's surrender to the dogmas of Emperor Charles that kings must stick together.

Bishop Fallon Has a Word For the Critics in This Country.

MEWBURN'S VIEWS Essential to Keep Up Reinforcements, He says—Gen. Turner Agrees.

London, Aug. 13.—"Like the Ministers and the press, I have made Cook's tour of the front," declared Bishop Fallon of London, Ont., at the Canadian Pay Corps' dinner to night, which was presided over by General Ross. Good-natured laughter greeted the Bishop's statement. Proceeding in a serious vein the Bishop said: "I am sorry to see that the only criticism I have heard of the Canadians' efforts has come from Canadians at home. Therefore I hope the members of the press here now will instruct and inform the people at home of the wonderful things that have been accomplished. I do not for one moment mean that Canada alone is winning this war, but there is no section doing its share more thoroughly than that element led by Gen. Currie in France, Gen. Turner in England, and Gen. Mewburn in Canada."

Value of Reinforcements. Earlier in the evening General Turner, alluding to this week's successes by the Canadians, spoke significantly of the value of keeping reinforcements in England to full strength. "Battalions may go into line in full fettle," he said, "but after the first round they look around for reinforcements. I am confident that we shall have sufficient reinforcements here now to maintain our force in what may prove to be the greatest fight of the last four years."

Will Support the Corps. Major-Gen. Mewburn, amidst loud cheers, said: "I am prepared to stand or fall by my efforts to support the corps at the front. I feel our efforts in Canada have not been in vain. When I was asked in Canada why the men already in England could not be used as reinforcements I looked on the matter as a business proposition and resolved to create a reserve for a rainy day. For I knew the morale of the corps would be greater knowing reinforcements were already in England."

SASHATCHEWAN CROP

Regina, Sask., Aug. 13.—A full detailed report on crop conditions in the province was issued yesterday from the statistical branch of the provincial department of agriculture prepared from the reports received from the correspondents of the department throughout the province. The reports state that cutting will be general by August 25, that in spite of the fact frost has injured the crop in the northern part there will be a fair average yield in many districts that frost damage averages from 5 to 75 per cent. in the north and some parts of the northwest districts; that in the southern part of the province the crop will be much better than anticipated; that north of Moosejaw there will be a 25 bushel wheat crop and south in that district oats are expected to run fifty to sixty bushels.

CANADIAN CAVALRY CAPTURED FOE BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS

Wonderful Work Done by Dominion Mounted Troops in Drive—Broke Through Gap in German Line

London, Aug. 14.—Sir Edward Kemp, Overseas Minister of the Militia Forces of Canada, has issued the following official statement regarding the work of the Canadian cavalry and machine gun brigade. "The cavalry broke through one gap in the German lines so rapidly that they captured a Brigade Headquarters intact, gaining valuable information as to the disposition of troops and taking hundreds of prisoners. Having insufficient men to take these prisoners back, an officer ordered the machine gunners to stampede the horses of the enemy and bombed his dugouts. The scared Brigadier and his staff emerged surrendring."

Killed Whole Force. "Three snipers, who were skirting the hill expected to meet their own squadron, encountered 50 Germans with machine guns. All took cover and one returned to warn the squadron; the other two swiftly changing their position, caused the enemy to think the position was strongly held. One trooper accounted for 20 Germans. At the critical moment, when the enemy rushed the gallant couple, the cavalry dashed up, killing all the infantry, who often accomplished their task without the cavalry's support. The Canadian arm-

War Time Scandal in Berlin

GERMAN papers reaching the outside world by way of Holland give details of the scandal that has involved Count Bernstorff, son of the former Ambassador to the United States, his American-born wife and one of her former husbands, Baron von Radeck. Those who do not like scandal had better read no further. Well, then, now that there are no men present, we can have a cosy little gossip about it. Listen, girls. It appears that Count Christian Bernstorff, a youth of military age, but somewhat un-physical, has never been nearer the war than Berlin. His family is one with great wealth and influence, and was able to fix the young man up with a handsome start job in the capital. There it is said that he spent 20 hours a day or so that he was not out of his eating, sleeping and amusing himself with the pretty wives of officers who were at the front. He belonged to a very smart set and perhaps when he began to pay what Laura Jean Libbey would call his "odious attentions" to the wife of Baron von Radeck she was not ill-pleased.

Her husband heard that the young man was pursuing his wife and lavishing presents upon her, so he was unable to return home and investigate, he sent a complaint to Count Bernstorff, senior, now Ambassador at Constantinople, to which no attention was paid. When he was permitted to get back to Berlin he traced his wife to a handsome apartment, where he found her in the company of the young count. This he immediately reported to Bernstorff in the face of the objection of his epaulettes, and otherwise grievously insulted and abused him. This he did in the full expectation that the count would challenge him to a duel. What was his disgust when after two days had passed and he received no cartel, the young and unabashed count appeared in person and told him to get out of his apartment to quarrel with a woman. He proposed that von Radeck should consent to be divorced, in which case the count would furnish a suitably reworded and advanced his interests in the army, and the young count would personally marry the baroness. At this the enraged baron kicked the count out of his apartment, formally concluding the interview.

ATTACK WITH GAS ON COASTGUARD

German Submarine Released a Charge on South Carolina Coast

Washington, Aug. 12.—Using poison gas a German submarine attacked the coast guard station and light-house on Smith Island off the North Carolina coast Saturday night. The Navy Department to-night announced: Six men were overcome by the gas. The announcement made by the Navy Department said: "The Navy Department has received a despatch from the commandant of the sixth naval district, Charleston, S. C., stating that an attack with gas was attempted on the North Carolina coast about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon with the result of temporarily putting out of business the coast guard station and light-house personnel. The report goes on to say: "About 10 minutes after the attack three large oil spots each over one acre in extent were observed passing by Smith Island to the north. This oil from which the gas was doubtless generated, must have been released from a submarine in the vicinity of the entrance to the channel with the hope that it would come in with the tide, but the tide fortunately set along the island."

Report was made to Col. Chase, Coast Artillery Corps, Fort Caswell, N. C., by Gen. Willard of the Smith Island Coast Guard, after the effects of the gas were noted. Six men were gassed. No deaths. The gas had the effect of mustard gas and was effective about 35 or 40 minutes.

Mrs. Gorringer Never Expected to be Well Again—Tanlac Restores Her

"Positively the day I started taking Tanlac was the turning point in my life, and I wouldn't be without this wonderful medicine for anything," declared Mrs. Ivy Gorringer, of 43 Perth Avenue, Toronto, who is employed by Telfer Bros., Ltd., the underwear company. "Last winter," she continued, "I underwent a serious operation that was such a serious shock to my nervous system that when I left the hospital I was on the verge of a collapse. My strength was completely gone and my vitality was at a low ebb and I didn't seem to get any better at all. My appetite failed and the little I forced myself to eat did me no good. For I fell off till I weighed only ninety pounds and was literally more than skin and bones. My skin was so pale and sallow it looked like I had no blood in my veins and I just can't describe how utterly worn out and run down I was. I gave up hope of ever getting any better, and was so blue and despondent that I actually didn't care whether I lived or not. "I never was able to get any relief in medicines of any kind, but when one of my friends who worried herself over my condition begged me to try Tanlac I decided to do so just to please her. Well, sir, it did me so much good that before I had finished my first bottle I was feeling like a different person. I have taken six bottles now, and it is really astonishing the way I have improved. I have a splendid appetite and my food is doing me good, for I have already gained the ten pounds since I started taking Tanlac. I have entirely recovered from that nervous run-down condition following my operation. It is rapidly disappearing under the prevailing pleasant weather conditions.
