BRANDON MOURNS POPULAR MINISTER

Hon. Dr. McInnis Dies Almost Suddenly—Big Hearted Citizen and Able Public Man Dictated Farewell Address

Brandon, Man., Nov. 4.—Brandon citizens are grief stricken today through the death of the Hon. S. W. McInnis which occurred at 5.50 this afternoon. The popular member was out shooting at Oak Lake accompanied by his wife when he was suddenly taken ill with symptoms of appendicitis and he was removed to the hospital here. Yesterday afternoon his condition became worse, and Doctors Chown, Donald and Anderson decided to operate for appendicitis, but in performing the operation the doctors became aware that the appendix had already broken and the bowels were perforated and there was no hope. The operation was performed and everything possible was done.

After recovering consciousness Dr. McInnis had been very bright and fully conscious of all going on around him. Later it was learned that the lower limbs were paralyzed, and no nourishment could be retained, the doctors gave up all hope, stating that it was only a matter of a few hours. Dr. McInnis sent stenographers and also for his partner F. J. Clark, dictated a few letters, winding up his private business and putting everything into shape. Early yesterday morning he sent for lawyer G. B. Coleman and added a codicil to his will. His colleagues in the government, Hon. S. Roblin, Rogers and Colin Campbell arrived from Winnipeg. Dr. McInnis was told of their arrival and expressed a wish to see Mr. Roblin, who quickly went to the hospital and was surprised to find the patient so bright and at the patient's wish the others left them to private conversation. He spoke of his condition and of several changes he had commenced in the department of the provincial secretary and education, and believing them in the best interests of the province asked the premier to see that they were carried out. After the premier left Dr. McInnis called for a stenographer and dictated a letter of farewell to the citizens of Brandon, which town is now in a state of gloom. Gangrene, or blood poisoning gradually spread upwards, and when the heart was reached the end came.

Hon. Stanley William McInnis, D.D., S. L.D.S., M.L.A., was born at St. John, N.B., Oct. 8th, 1865. He was a son of John Lindsay and Mary McInnis, both Canadian born. He was educated at Manitoba college, Winnipeg, and Philadelphia Dental college, where he graduated D.D.S. He married Clara M. Beckwith, June 8th, 1893. First elected to the provincial legislature in 1899. He was re-elected member for Brandon city in 1903 and again in 1907. He was elected acting speaker in the absence of the speaker March 1, 1902. In the present ministry he filled the offices of provincial secretary and minister of education. In religion he was a warm adherent of the Episcopalian church.

Thursday morning has been proclaimed a public half holiday to enable citizens of every avocation to attend the funeral of their beloved member and fellow citizen.

Frank Ford Returns from Ottawa Where He Fought the C.P.R. Appeal Case—New Regulations of Railway Commissioners

Frank Ford, deputy attorney-general has returned from the east where he appeared before the Supreme court of Canada in the appeal case of the C.P.R. against the decision of the full court of the Northwest Territories delivered last April when the railway company appealed against convictions under the prairie fires ordinance.

It will be remembered that a year ago Mr. Frame, who was at that time in the attorney general's department, took action against the C.P.R. before justices of the peace at Caron and Montlach, for having started prairie fires by sparks from engines, and fines were imposed on the company. The railway appealed from the lower court to the court en banc, and judgment was rendered on April 23rd this year. Mr. Justice Harvey read the judgment which dismissed the appeal, and in doing so he cited the contention of the company that the Northwest Ordinance does not affect a railway company operating under a federal act, and further they contended that proper precautions were taken by having spark catchers on their engines. The company also urged that the matter in question was delegated by parliament to the railway commission therefore the ordinance did not apply.

The court, however, held that there has been no decision on the application of the federal law by the railway commission. The Northwest Territories law through the passage of the autonomy act became provincial legislation. If the federal and provincial laws are found to overlap the federal law obtains. There is, however, no effective federal law with which the provincial law conflicts. The company did not take the necessary precaution to burn along their tracks between the track and the plowing also provided for and therefore they were liable to the penalty imposed.

This judgment was concurred in by Chief Justice Sifton, Mr. Justice Prendergast, and Mr. Justice Newlands.

The court was unanimous in dismissing the appeal but on different grounds. Mr. Justice Wetmore read his judgment differing with respect to the Montlach case. The learned judge contended that even if the local government had no power to compel the railway companies to plow firebreaks providing the federal law made such provision, the province had the power to compel railway companies to burn all combustible matter between their tracks and the plowing.

From the above decisions the C.P.R. appealed to the supreme court of Canada which sat at Ottawa recently. Mr. Ford fought the case through for the province and while the judgment has not been delivered it is immaterial how the case goes, for in the meantime the railway commission has dealt with the question in such a manner that the province is sure to win for action can now be taken under the regulations of the railway commission.

WILL AVERAGE TWO NORTHERN

Vonda Wheat Crop Is Good Says Local Members—What Is Not Threshed Is In Stack—Collectors Hustling

In conversation with The West regarding the wheat crop in the Vonda district, W. M. Grant, M.L.A., stated that the wheat in his district would grade No. 2 Northern. The yield will be around 17 bushels to the acre. The crop around Vonda was light in the straw owing to lack of rain during the early part of the growing season, but it pulled up well towards the last and that which was cut on the green side turned out all right. The farmers who have frozen wheat are those who would not cut till the straw was yellow. All round the people at Vonda, and in fact all along that portion of the C.N.R. line, will come out all right this season, but the machine companies have their collectors on hand to get their money just as soon as the grain is marketed. It appears that the companies have decided that in certain districts there is such a poor sample that they will collect only a small percentage of outstanding accounts and they are consequently making those who have the wheat pay up. Mr. Grant says with regard to the late threshing that he cannot understand why only half of the threshing is done for there are many more machines than last year. Fortunately in the northern part of the country most of the farmers have stacked their grain, and if bad weather does come, they will be fairly well off.

Mr. Grant came into the city from Lumsden where he attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr. Barnes who met with a threshing accident. The plug in the engine blew out and a piece of a bolt struck deceased in the forehead, smashing the skull, but he was quite conscious to the last.

THE UNIVERSAL PROVIDER

HUGH GRAHAM HAS NOTHING TO CONCEAL

In a letter to The West, Hugh Graham, editor of the Montreal Star writes as follows on the election funds incident:

(Editor, The West, Regina) Sir,—From several attempts which have been made to interview me since my return to Canada touching the subject of my subscription to the Conservative election fund for the Quebec district during the last general election, I infer that there is still some public interest in the subject, and as it is of importance to myself, at least, that any impression which goes abroad shall be accurate, I have judged it better to deal with the matter in a signed statement than in an informal interview. Perhaps I may say to begin with that I do not regard it as a very serious offence to have been attacked in my absence. Political eagerness should be hardly expected to consider such a circumstance. The somewhat kindred fact that the published report of my evidence, given in a lawsuit in Quebec city some eighteen months ago, was a garbled report, wherein important features were omitted altogether, I am ready to accept as a newspaper man, to credit to lack of space rather than malicious intent.

Nothing to Conceal As to my subscription to the Conservatives in Quebec district in 1904, I have nothing to conceal. The amount subscribed was $4,000 for a contract for literature, $1,381 for expenses during the year in the city of Quebec, $250 for each rural constituency for preliminary expenses, $300 for the campaign in each rural constituency, and $4,000 for each of the Quebec city constituencies. The ridiculous smallness of the total amount will be a reply to those who see anything suspicious in the affair. At the trial in question prominent Liberals, cognizant of my testimony, smiled at the amount saying it was very small and added that the idea of carrying elections in the district on such sums was amusing.

The explanation of how I came to give these sums is very simple. I was deeply interested in the elections, as all the world knew, and when asked by the party managers how the immediate necessities of the campaign would be met, as the subscriptions might come in tardily, I promised to make advances against these expected contributions. When the time came for the contributions to materialise, they were not forthcoming; but I kept my promise in advancing the money. I consider the amount sent to the Quebec district, when used with the most rigid economy and absolute purity, to have been most reasonable, but to their credit, be it said it was all that the Quebec district managers asked when they sent in their estimates.

If they had asked more I would have sent it up to a reasonable amount.

Defends Borden When Mr. Borden asked more I would have sent it up to a reasonable amount. When Mr. Borden wrote me that funds should be distributed only through committees acceptable to the local party friends, he had as far as I am aware, no personal knowledge of any such fund; and is not today, so far as I know, cognizant of any such fund, except, possibly, from hearsay. The fact that he took a natural way of putting his friends on their guard against possible mistakes and breaches of the election laws, has been seized upon as a text for his condemnation; but I scarcely think that his action will be so regarded by fair minded men.

In thus contributing financial assistance to the public cause in which I believe, I was only following the policy I have accepted and lived up to for a third of a century. For 33 years, the Star has taken a keen aggressive interest in municipal, provincial and federal elections, and has always endeavored to make its views more effective by helping to finance the campaigns which represented them. When the city of Montreal was being robbed by selling franchises for a song, by expropriation schemes, and contract grabbing schemers, the Star fought the derelict aldermen at the polls, and contributed to the full extent of its power to the driving of three-fourths of them into private life. These campaigns were expensive and the Star contributed three-fourths of the money necessary in many constituencies to carry them through. I have always believed it to be my duty as a citizen to bear some of the electoral burdens which in my papers I was constantly urging others to carry. When I called upon my neighbors to help elect honest aldermen to the city council, I thought that I should do my best as a citizen to take my own advice and help personally and financially to secure their election.

When successive provincial governments were shown to have been guilty of exploiting the public treasury for party advantage, the Star took up the cudgels, first against the Conservatives, and then against the Liberals who were equally guilty; and the Star subscribed liberally to the funds for carrying on this work.

Protection In 1871, the Star took up the question of protection for Canadian industries, being the first of the Canadian dailies to do so; and hammered away at it persistently. Seven years later Sir John Macdonald came out for a National Policy. In the campaigns of 1878, 1882, 1887 and 1891, the Star supported the party of protection in its columns and by generous contributions to its funds. In 1896 the Conservative party showed signs of having been too long in office, and the Star was much inclined to hold that it was time for a change, until it became all too clear that the Liberal party was bent on getting from the country a mandate to destroy the National Policy. That effort the Star could not assist; and so it again gave its adhesion to the Conservative cause and aided the party financially.

The Liberals came into power; but they did not tear down the National Policy. Still, there was a feeling that they were but hiding their time and the question of protection was kept to the front as an issue, both by the uncertainty as to the Liberal future and by the insistence of the Conservative opposition. This gave the Star no choice, but to stand by the National Policy party, and to back its opinions by financial aid. On all these occasions, I need hardly say that the Star's contributions were specifically given on the understanding that they were to be used for legitimate expenses; and, in many cases, they were devoted to the prevention of illegal acts by the other party. As for the National Policy it now appears to have disappeared from politics as a live issue. Faith in the perspicacity of the Liberals is growing, and few think they will venture to abandon protection. Of course the National Policy has never been carried out to the full, as those of us who aided in its initiation had hoped. The share of the workingmen in its benefits has never been carefully safeguarded; and this may easily become a question of the future. As for, the policy itself, if it were again in jeopardy, I would do precisely as I did in the past—support it with every influence of which I might be possessed. It is the only safeguard against annexation; and when its blessings are fairly shared with the workingman, it will constitute one of the surest guarantees of a contented Canada within the empire.

Not in Accord with the Parties Today the Star is not in accord with either of the two political parties, but in reflecting upon this it must be borne in mind that the Star gives its support to measures rather than to men, and it regards the present policies of the two parties as unworthy of their best traditions and insufficient for the needs of the country.

I happen to be the owner of newspapers with vast interests in every province in the Dominion, more widely dispersed than any bank or industrial concern in existence. So long as I consider myself free to aid whichever party has, in my opinion, the policy best adapted to the needs of the country; but it will always be contributed for legitimate purposes and to suppress illegitimate ones. Nor shall I be ashamed to have these contributions come to light. Rather I would favor a law compelling all election contributions to be made publicly with the names of the givers attached.

As to Mr. Blair's resignation. I had not seen Mr. Blair for eleven months before the election, or for five months afterwards, and then only he casually meeting him on the street. When I did meet him, there was no discussion about resigning. The first knowledge I had of Mr. Blair having resigned was when I saw a statement of the fact over his own signature.

There has come into my possession documentary evidence to prove this, and there is written proof that Mr. Borden had nothing, even remotely, to do with the resignation. These are accessible to those who may investigate charges.

Purchase La Presse The purchase of La Presse was a business transaction on a commercial basis, with which Mr. Borden had no connection whatever, directly or indirectly. The owner was willing to sell on a commercial basis, and exhibited his balance sheets, and exhibited his balance sheets, which fully justified the purchase on a ten per cent. dividend prospect. The negotiations for the purchase of La Presse, according to documentary evidence in my possession, commenced in the spring of 1903, and were consummated in the fall of 1904. That a man happens to own a newspaper, and through illness or other good reason, wishes to dispose of it, is surely not an extraordinary state of affairs. That he should accept the highest offer amongst a number for the property can scarcely be ranked as an inhuman act.

Kootenay Steel Range

If you purchase a Kootenay without the reservoir and decide later that the reservoir is a real necessity, why, just order it and attach it yourself. It's easily done. Merely remove the screws and take off the plate marked "REMOVE FOR RESERVOIR" (see top illustration), which provides an opening for the hot air to come through and circulate under the reservoir. Then attach, by means of screws, the reservoir and the flue box shown in lower illustration. A screwdriver is the only tool required.

There has come into my possession documentary evidence of an indisputable character, proving that Mr. Borden had no connection whatever with the Blair resignation, and had no knowledge of it, although he has been otherwise charged by guessing newspapers.

It is creance is given to what is written with such an appearance of knowledge in certain newspapers about plots, conspiracies and other dark doings, by all means have an investigation into all these matters. Although I intended going abroad very shortly, I will remain in Canada, or within easy call, and will be ready at any time during the next four months to give evidence before any impartial tribunal appointed to enquire into the charges referred to and anything of a kindred nature.

Farewell Address to Head of Judiciary who Moves to Regina after 20 Years' Residence --- His Touching Words in Reply

Chief Justice Wetmore has come to Regina to take up his permanent residence with his son, J. A. Wetmore, manager of the Imperial Bank. The chief Justice has been a resident of Moosomin for twenty years and on leaving there recently he was presented with the following address by Mayor Neff on behalf of the citizens at a mass function.

The Address To the Hon. E. L. Wetmore, Chief Justice of Saskatchewan. We have asked you to be present this evening at this gathering, which represents the town and district of Moosomin to express to you our profound regret that the exigencies of public life, which have called you to a high position of honor and usefulness in our province, necessitate your departure from our midst.

The occasion of your departure is one which we cannot allow to pass without striving to express to you, in however inadequate a way, the very high regard in which you have been held by all classes of the community during the many years of your residence among us. As a citizen you have for twenty years borne your part in those changing experiences, which are incident to the development of a new land. You have shared with us the hardships of pioneer life. You have labored willingly for the welfare of the community. You have manifested an active and hearty interest in all manner of recreations and manly sport. And as a

Liberals Now Want Lands

It is interesting to watch the tight about face of the Liberal organs in Manitoba on the question of the public lands. It was not long ago that these papers in the sister province voiced the sentiments of the government papers here with regard to the public lands. They wanted cash subsidy; they thought Saskatchewan got a square deal in the autonomy terms. This attitude was set up recently against the plank in Mr. Borden's platform promising to restore the lands, and it was urged as a reason why the land question should not have any weight in the Prince Albert by-election. What attitude does the Free Press take now, however? Mr. Borden has been in Manitoba and was met by over crowded meetings, where he spoke and his promise to extend Manitoba's boundaries was enthusiastically received. The Free Press after Mr. Borden's announcement comes out with a dispatch from Ottawa, inspired for the occasion, saying that legislation would be brought down during the coming session providing for the boundary extension referred to. A few days after the same journal publishes an interview with Sam Jackson, M.P. for Selkirk, stating that it was decided in party caucus to extend the boundaries of that province, and he said they would have the port on the Hudson's Bay. Following this up, the Free Press, in a leading editorial on Oct. 30th said, after reviewing the boundary question:

"The terms of the government measure to be introduced at the coming session of parliament which the people of Manitoba are justified in expecting should provide for the extension of the province northward and eastward to Hudson's Bay, WITH NO CONSTITUTIONAL LIMITATIONS. The Free Press means of course that Manitoba will expect the public lands in the territory referred to. She will expect all the territory, 'with no constitutional limitations.'"

After fighting together in the coercion of Saskatchewan, for over two years, will the coercion organs of this province now oppose the coercion organs of Manitoba, or will the government papers here stammer themselves by also proclaiming for Manitoba boundary extensions "with no constitutional limitations." If it is good for Manitoba to acquire territory "with no constitutional limitations," is Saskatchewan not entitled to the same treatment? The Free Press dare not take any other attitude with regard to the Manitoba boundary extension than the one they have outlined with regard to the public lands, but they should persevere in a line of consistency even in their inconsistency, and come out fair and square for the public lands being given to Manitoba when her boundaries are extended, and for full autonomy for the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan "with no constitutional limitations."

We Know the Man

In his report of Mr. Borden's recent Weyburn meeting, C. E. Hamilton, the Toronto News staff correspondent makes the following comment and reproduces a letter of much interest. The West also knows the justice of the peace referred to, and he is, we believe quite up to the av-the Conservatives themselves to vote them out of office.

Those Promises

It was not long ago that the personal organ of Premier Scott stated that he had the assurance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that Saskatchewan would get the port on the Hudson's Bay. It is now in order to ask: What has happened about that order and its fulfillment? Sam Jackson, M.P. says that the port will be given to Manitoba. The question is not an issue between the two provinces and there may be no controversy over it, but we have a right to know whether this promise of Sir Wilfrid was another such as he, was said by Mr. Scott to have made with regard to the C.P.R. taxation question. It does appear that Mr. Scott was jollied all along fairly well by the Liberal leader at Ottawa, but we must now expect of Mr. Scott that he will not sit in his office like St. John and not let the public know anything about these important matters, concerning which he had such assurances from Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Editorial Notes

The Edmonton Bulletin in an editorial comment on the Prince Albert elections says that Mr. Borden addressed two meetings of the eve of the election. That is, of course, an absolute falsehood, for Mr. Borden addressed only one meeting in Prince Albert and the local government did everything in its power to keep the Conservative leader from holding a meeting at all in the northern city.

Sir Fredrick Borden is suing the Nineteenth Century for libel. The twentieth century should now sue the minister of militia for bringing it in to disrepute.

One of the city aldermen has been attacked by the coercion organ because he represents an insurance company doing business with the city. It would be well for the paper referred to, to cast its eyes across Eleventh avenue and see who is coaling up the city hall.

PRESS COMMENTS

(Free Press.)

The Calgary Albertian rises to the defence of the election law of the two provinces. It repeats the comment of the Free Press that it is high time this survival of Territorial days disappeared from the statute book, and declares that the law is an improvement on those in force elsewhere in Canada. If the people of Alberta and Saskatchewan agree with the Albertian the present law will doubtless continue; but we venture the prophecy that the governments of both these provinces will find it advisable to conform their practice to what prevails elsewhere.

The characteristic feature of the election law of Alberta and Saskatchewan is the absence of voter's lists. Anybody is free to present himself at a polling booth and vote, if his right to vote is not challenged. If he is challenged the ballot is not counted until his eligibility is established by a court of revision sitting immediately after polling day. This court is made up of the deputy returning officer and a J.P. of his selection. The court is therefore likely to be partisan; and it does not work under conditions making impartial decisions difficult. Men who have just come through a nerve racking, passion breeding campaign, are called upon to pass upon the validity of ballots which control the issue of the election. If the two revisers disagree, the returning officer—also a party man, almost invariably—decides. There is then a final appeal to a judge, a resort which is seldom made because of its expense.

In the days of slim settlements before party lines were drawn, the system may have worked fairly well, but it is quite unfit for us, for urban constituencies where there are heated party contests. The Regina episode of 1905, when there was a post-election contest of unexampled bitterness, should in itself be conclusive on this point. The Prince Albert contest, not yet closed, is supplying further evidence of the unsuitability of the law to present day conditions. One ballot out of every three tendered was held up, often for trivial spiteful reasons; and the result is not yet actually known, although the voting took place ten days ago. Who will say that it is better thus than that a proper voters' list should have been compiled before election day, permitting the issue to be settled one way or the other on election day?

heard Mr. R. L. Borden speak, last night—those who had read the apologies for his platform efforts, which have appeared in the Conservative newspapers—must have been very agreeably surprised by the sound, clearcut and statesmanlike address that the Opposition leader delivered after many weeks of constant travel and strenuous effort.

Mr. Borden, as the Tribune has frequently pointed out, is not a "hot air artist." That is to say, he has none of the arts of the cheap monologist or political drummer.

A sound, serious man himself, he maintains his respect for his own intelligence and character, and at the same time tacitly assumes that those whom he addresses are solid, reasonable men who desire to hear logical argument, not shrill, hysterical appeals to vulgar emotionalism and prejudice.

He faced an audience that was about two-thirds friends, and one-third political opponents. He took his seat at the conclusion of his address, before an audience that seemed entirely friendly and well pleased and logic.

His manner was simple, confidential and business like. He displayed with his sane moderation, sincerity no inclination to arouse feeling that could not be justified by reason. He wasted no time in mere abuse, but presented specific criticisms in a statesmanlike manner, and then clearly put forth his proposed remedies for those things that he criticised.

His argument was not designed to be destructive. Four-fifths of it at least was constructive.

He avoided personalities at all times, and only when forced by the ill-considered and repeated defiance of two or three political opponents in the audience did he indulge in a crushing rejoinder that demonstrated the fact that his manner is moderate not by necessity or incapacity, but by good judgment and careful training.

He had been introduced to the west as a man whose public speeches were weaker than his studied platform. He leaves Winnipeg a man whose public speeches are vastly more forceful and convincing than his Halifax platform. It is not extreme to say that if Mr. Borden's written platform had been as clear, comprehensive and specific as Mr. Borden's address delivered at the Walker theatre, last night, its effect upon the whole country would have been as strong as the effect of the address certainly appeared to be upon the Winnipeg audience.

For government newspapers to make light of Mr. Borden's tour and to claim that he has made no impression is unwise. Indeed, it would be a reflection upon the intelligence of the public if a man of Mr. Borden's admitted sincerity and personal integrity should make no impression. The people have a much greater interest in the public weal than they have in the fortunes of any party. His promises to bring about public

FINDING OF THE CORONER'S JURY

Inquest Concerning Death of Trainmen Presided Over by Dr. Thomson—Many Witnesses—The Verdict

The coroner's inquest concerning the death of the victims of the C.P.R. wreck, which occurred near here on Oct. 30th took place before Coroner Thomson in the city hall on Saturday evening. The jury were James Brown, foreman; T. R. Jones, Lionel S. Gurney, R. L. Gregg and W. H. Mulligan. There were fourteen witnesses examined, including eight railway employees, three passengers and two doctors, as follows: Samuel Worth, trainmaster at Moose Jaw; Andrew W. Caswell, operator, Regina; George M. Hays, conductor of freight train; Benjamin T. Woods, fireman of freight train; Thomas H. Humble, brakeman of freight train; James L. Converse, brakeman of freight train; Arthur W. Wilson, passenger brakeman; R. E. Mickleborough, Regina, passenger in local; Arthur F. O'Connell, R.N.W.M.P., passenger in local.

Clement J. Hogg, corporal R.N.W.M.P., John Black, M.D., Regina. The lawyers present were Norman Mackenzie, for Alexander the passenger conductor under arrest; Alex. Ross, for the crown, and Hon. F. W. G. Haultain, for the C.P.R. The police were represented by Inspector Heffernan.

The first witness was Dr. Nybllett, who recited his attendance on the three wounded men at the station, assisted by Dr. Black.

S. Worth, at Moose Jaw, trainmaster, gave evidence as to the operation of trains. The conductor and engineer are jointly responsible for the safety of trains, and under conditions not provided for in the rules they must take proper precaution for protection. The passenger train could not leave the siding till after the time named in the order, and if the freight train could not make the siding in the given time, her conductor should put flags out at both ends to protect himself.

Freight Conductor
George M. Hays, the freight conductor who jumped to save his life, was put in the witness box. He told of approaching the eastbound local express on the morning of Oct. 30th. They were to be into clear at Fushimi at 7:55. They were a little over a mile from the siding when the accident occurred. When he first saw the other train he thought it was a house as there was some fog, when he discerned the engine he told the engineer to give her the top notch and jump, this meaning to put on the emergency brakes. They all jumped and escaped.

Freight Engineer
Engineer Smith of the freight train said: "I cleared Pilot Butte at 8:44 or 45. We had proceeded beyond the mile board at the siding when I saw

A Farmer's Trials
The farmer's life is always a hard one, but if he is weak or suffering it is almost unbearable. The hours are long and the work so head that none but the strongest can stand it. An illustration of the effect of hard work on the system is given by Mr. Geo. Hunteberg, a farmer of Spry, Ont. He says: "I have lived nearly all my life in the Bruce peninsula. I am a farmer and have always had my share of hard work, and like a good many other men I thought there was no wear out to my system. In this I was mistaken for about a year and a half ago I began to go gradually down hill. I would tire at the least exertion; my appetite failed me; I had a severe pain in my side and around my heart. The doctor told me I was suffering from pernicious anaemia; that I was almost bloodless I doctored for six months, but instead of improving I grew so weak that I could hardly move without assistance. I lost flesh until I was almost a skeleton. A friend from Stokes Bay told me of the great benefit she had derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and advised me to try them. My sister-in-law had also received great benefit from their use so I decided to give them a trial. After using the pills about a month I began to gain strength and from that on I improved rapidly. New blood began to course through my veins; my appetite improved; the pain left my side and heart and I gained in weight. After using about a dozen boxes of the pills I was again enjoying the best of health. I have nothing but praise for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as they cured me after medical treatment had failed—I really believe they saved my life."
Good blood is the secret of health. Keep the blood pure and such diseases as anaemia, rheumatism, sciatica, indigestion, heart palpitation and the secret ills of women will not exist. The most perfect blood tonic and nerve restorer in the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. ownership of telephones and telegraphs, his declarations in favor of public ownership of railways; his promise to create a great Public Utilities Commission that will be non-partisan and both administrative and judicial; his promise to restore the control and administration of public lands and minerals to those provinces that have been robbed of them; his promise to reform the post office department and establish rural free delivery; his promise by modeling it on British lines, making appointments to it through competitive examinations and not through the wire pulling of members of parliament and presidents of party associations—the whole service is to be absolutely under the control of an independent commission—these promises and declarations simply cannot fail to impress the people who hear them from the lips of a man who makes them with the simple power to convince that Mr. Borden undoubtedly possesses. For the government and the government press to overlook this fact is, as has already been stated, foolish in the extreme. For the government and the government press to appreciate the significance of Mr. Borden's tour, and correctly to estimate the influence of that tour, would be the part of wisdom, not only in the government's own interests, but in the interests of the country as a whole. There can be little doubt that the reforms advocated by Mr. Borden last night are the reforms that Canada must eventually have. This the government should understand—and, understanding it, should act upon that understanding, if it desires to hold the reins of power much longer. Winnipeg and the west owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Borden for his excellent elucidation of a policy that was but vaguely outlined in his Halifax platform—for, whether Mr. Borden should be elected to office at the next general elections or not, his campaign will bring those reforms which he advocates much nearer realization, and will almost certainly force the government to "take stock" and to adopt much of the Borden policy, if not for the interests of the country, at least for the more selfish interests of the government itself.

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE RABBIT OF ROBERT on every bottle wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English. If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodic neuralgia, diarrhoea, catarrh, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and dizziness, or nervousness, or other weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In such cases, thereby the obstinacious examination and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best scientific medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of such diseases. It contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs. It does not excite the system, it does not establish nervous health in most weak women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time. You can't afford to accept a sweetener as a substitute for this remedy of known composition. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret, and weekly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. J. C. Pierce, Little Rock, Ark., U.S.A.

Chancellorship of the new University of Saskatchewan, and trust that as its first chancellor you will be long spared to see its development as a strong centre of educational power in this new province.

But while we rejoice with you at the honors which have been conferred upon you, we regret exceedingly to say "good-bye." For long years you have shared with many of us our joys and sorrows, and we too have rejoiced at your welfare and deeply sympathized with you in the time of your great sorrow, and we grieve that we have reached at last "the parting of the ways."

We shall miss your kindly presence and wise counsel from our midst, but we shall remember you with affection and deep regard, and shall follow you with all good wishes, praying that the blessings of Almighty God may rest upon you and yours in the new sphere of honor and usefulness to which you are called.

Signed on behalf of the citizens of Moosomin;

R. D. McNaughton, Chairman. O. Neff, Mayor.

The Reply

After receiving the address, Chief Justice Wetmore replied as follows: Mr. chairman, Mr. mayor, ladies and gentlemen, I am very much obliged to you for the address which you have just presented to me. I am very much obliged to you for the kind manner in which you have spoken of me therein, the very many complimentary and flattering remarks which you have made, and the wishes expressed therein for my future welfare. I am afraid, however, that some of the flattering remarks and compliments which you have paid me are more than I deserve, and at some of them I almost feel embarrassed.

But when I look about this hall and see the stalwart men who have been instrumental through their business ability and energy in making this town and district what it is, when I notice the presence of their ladies, who have been gracious enough to be present on this occasion, I feel it is a moment at which I ought to be proud and thankful, and I assure you that I do feel so on this occasion.

You have referred in your address to the manner in which I have administered the laws of our country, and have expressed the regard you have for me on account of this. I may say that I stand here tonight as one of the last remaining judges of those first appointed to the Territories. Of these, two have passed away into the great Beyond and two have retired from public life, while I remain here to be made the Chief Justice of our new province. Your kind expressions come with especial emphasis and force to me, coming as they do from the people among whom I have passed the twenty years of official life, for it seems to me that you have been more in touch with me than others, and are in a position to judge that I have filled the position as it ought to have been filled, or ought not. And I trust that I have merited those expressions; I don't want to claim for myself infallibility, and I don't wish to say for one moment that I have not been guilty of errors, or made mistakes; I don't care what position a man holds or what his ability, he is bound to make mistakes at one time or other, and mistakes I have made, I know. Some of these have been corrected by the superior tribunal which is over me, and some of them, I am afraid, have never been discovered. But whether that is so or not, I feel that I have endeavored at all times to perform my duties impartially. I have endeavored to perform my duties without fear on the one hand or favor on the other, and if mistakes have been made they have been mistakes of judgment, not because I wished to favor the party the creed or the color.

I thank you also gentlemen, for the congratulations you extend to me on my appointment as Chief Justice. I may say that I have been so busy since the 14th of September answering congratulations of that sort either from friends by letter, or that has been extended to me in public, that it has become embarrassing. Nevertheless it does not in the slightest degree take away from your kindness on this occasion and I thank you most sincerely for it.

You have also extended to me your congratulations for the appointment as chancellor of the new University of Saskatchewan. You will see that when I am becoming grey-headed, the honors seem to be tumbling upon my head pretty fast. Well, I am taking this position with some diffidence, but I can explain my reasons for this better to the heads of the university. I can do no more, however, on this occasion, than to thank you for your congratulations, and I do so most heartily. I hope that the university may achieve all that we would hope for, and that has been wished for in the address with which I have just been presented.

Regret has been expressed that I am leaving you, and am about to take up my residence elsewhere; and, ladies and gentlemen, you cannot feel more than I do. I have seen this place grow from a little village—for that is all it was when I came—to a good substantial town with well established business interests. I recollect that when I came here twenty years ago, I could stand in the yard of my own place and look over to the north and see nothing but two or three scattered houses, or perhaps a green field of wheat, or if it might be in the fall a few stacks of ripe wheat. And what do we see now? Almost as far as the eye can see, we observe an unbroken area of wheat fields, dotted with the dwellings of prosperous farmers.

While I feel regret at having to leave you, there is some consolation, for I shall have occasion to come back here once in a while, for sittings of the supreme court will be held here twice a year, and each of the five judges will take it in rotation; and I shall have other occasions to come back to you. And I may say that the day will come when I will come here once and for ever. For when the last great summons comes my body will come here to be laid beside she who was in her lifetime my comforter, advisor and guide.

I look forward to a great future for this town. It may not grow or have as large a prosperity as Regina or other of our rising towns, and cities, but I am sure that if the business integrity and energy that has heretofore characterized this portion of the country continues in the future, Saskatchewan will have every reason to be proud of her gateway town.

I thank you ladies and gentlemen, that you have been present to honor this occasion. You have wished me God speed and good success in the future, I wish you all God speed and good success in whatever you may do.

Rev. C. Williams, Dr. Ellis, M.P.P. and E. L. Elwood spoke briefly.

What will go down in the annals of life insurance in this province as an historic event, took place in the King's Hotel, on the eve of Thanksgiving, 30th ult., when the life underwriters of Saskatchewan met together round the festive board for the first time since the inception of their organization less than a year ago. The function has done a great deal in harmonizing the life insurance interests and in showing the bond of unity which has been effected through this young organization. Those in attendance as the guests of the insurance men were: Hon. J. A. Calder, Mayor Smith, Police Magistrate Wm. Trant, Dr. Shaw and Dr. Coles.

The Chair

After the menu which was served in inimitable "King's taste," the chair was taken by the President of the Underwriters' Association, C. C. Knight, who proved to be an excellent toast master and a fluent speaker for he responded to a very important toast. A letter was received from Premier Scott regretting his absence.

The secretary of the association, J. W. Mowbray, proposed the toast "The Life Underwriters' Association movement, associated with the name of the president.

High Ideals

On rising to respond to the toast standard for insurance men. The Toronto convention emphasized the fact that a successful insurance man must be a man of principle. It has been demonstrated to the public of Canada that there is perhaps no other line of business on the continent that could go through the scrutiny which characterized the life insurance investigation, and come out of the ordeal unscathed. Notwithstanding that the public mind was, at one stage, unsettled as to the outcome of the investigation, confidence has been restored and the inquiry will have a beneficial influence in harmonizing the insurance interests. The object is to make the Saskatchewan Association be a constant reaching up to higher ideals, and they are going to win. After a poetic reference to the keynote of their campaign, President Knight took his seat amid loud applause.

Our Guests

In proposing this toast the chairman said that he should make the toast read, "our guests and friends." He would associate with it the names of Hon. J. A. Calder, His Worship, Mayor Smith and Mr. Wm. Trant.

Mr. Calder said that it was with a good deal of anticipation that he consented to meet the insurance men in a mass, for to meet them single handed is had enough. (Laughter.) It was only a few days previous that he knew of this organization, but this only goes to show the growth of the province in these progressive times. There is no doubt in his mind that the economic conditions demand organization. There was a time when the insurance interests were scrambling among themselves, but it is easily seen that that time has gone by. There is no doubt that the insurance business is on sound basis. Men in all vocations recognise that life insurance is a necessary investment. Mr. Calder regretted the absence of Premier Scott, however, he could assure the insurance interests that when the time comes for legislation in matters affecting them their representations would be met in a sympathetic manner. Every safeguard must, however, be given to the public, who are equally interested in the insurance laws. The trouble in the United States was not brought about by the action of the agents in the field work. The men in the most responsible positions were to blame. He hoped that the new Canadian laws would obviate anything like this in the Dominion of Canada. (Applause.) The hon. gentleman stated that he had a little business with insurance men last year in the way of a new tax law, but he could say now, as he said before, that if it is found that the measure works an injustice, it will be amended. The government does not want to embarrass any business interests in the country. Personally he was very glad for he had noted a great deal of information which he hoped to put to good future use. The president had taken a firm stand with regard to the aims of the organization, and he wished the association abundant prosperity.

His Worship, the Mayor addressing the gathering said that he has a warm place in his heart for insurance men. He recited the influences which caused him to take out his first policy and he always kept the premiums paid. He believed that every young man should invest in life insurance. He was present on that occasion, because he was mayor of Regina and he wanted to say that it lies with the citizens whether he will occupy that position next year, but he would promise as much as Mr. Calder had, and say that if he is mayor again he will make it as pleasant as possible for the men in the life insurance business. He thought it was his duty to say something about Regina for there were present several representative business men from other places. He had heard so much during the past year about our improvements that it is beginning to make him feel "chesty," for he cannot but take pride in the city which he has seen grow up from a mere hamlet. His worship then referred to the fine hotels, the new public buildings, the schools, churches, the many miles of granolithic walks and five miles of paved streets.

Mr. Trant was the next speaker and he broke new ground by advocating that representations should be made to the Dominion government to make life insurance compulsory. He felt sure that after hearing the illuminating facts disclosed with regard to life insurance that if an uninsured man were present he would be only too glad to take up a policy. He personally believed it to be the religious duty of every man to provide for the future by taking out insurance.

The president suggested that as several new members were present they be admitted on that occasion to full membership. This was moved by Mr. Dadd and seconded by Mr. McBride.

Life Insurance Interests

This toast was coupled with the names of W. D. McBride and H. B. Andrews. Mr. McBride said that the insurance men are the most industrious business agents operating today. He dwelt with the insurance figures for the Dominion and showed a wonderful development in their line of business. Estimating the population of Canada at 7,000,000, the total amount of business in force in the country among British, Canadian and American companies will give $94 per head for each man, woman and child. Besides this these Canadian companies have about ninety million in foreign funds. One thing deserving of emphasis is the solidity of these insurance interests. They have a surplus of thirteen million dollars in assets above liabilities. They know when they sign a contract it will be paid dollar for dollar. Mr. McBride quoted other figures showing a marvelous growth of business which must mean that the public appreciate life insurance and have confidence as they should have in the companies referred to. Regarding the tax of one per cent on the gross earnings, if that tax were general throughout Canada the amount will be $256,000, which means that the policy holders would suffer to that extent. With respect to death claims during year nearly eight millions of dollars were paid out. This to many a home has been a great blessing and it means a great deal to the widows and orphans of Canada. Mr. McBride received very warm applause on closing a very able speech.

Mr. Andrews made a pointed speech. Touching on the merits of insurance he said that it should not be as much a matter of investment as a guarantee of provision for the widows and orphans. After the hand of death had been laid on the home it is time when the principles of insurance are appreciated, and the work must be a blessing if well done.

The Enthusiastic Agent

In an article entitled "Romance of Milling" in the November number of the Canadian Magazine, the supremacy of the Canadian west in the milling industry is strikingly shown, and it is incidentally observed that credit for having the largest flour mills operating under the British flag is claimed by a Canadian concern, the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. The daily output of this great concern is 10,500 barrels. That it represents 47,000 bushels of wheat, which at twenty bushels to the acre represents the product of 2350 acres. But this is for only one day. Take a year of three hundred working days, and we have a representation of 705,000 acres Canadian northwest homestead consists of 100 acres, so that the annual output of this milling company would consume the aggregate crop of 4,400 homesteads, even if every acre was cropped with wheat. The average crop of each homestead is perhaps eighty acres, so that the annual output really represents the aggregate crop of 8,800 homesteads.

Ten thousand five hundred barrels a day would make a yearly aggregate of 3,150,000 barrels. One barrel of flour will make 140 two-pound loaves of bread, therefore the annual output of 3,150,000 barrels will make 441,000,000 loaves. Giving the average family ten loaves a week, this output would supply 882,000 families for a whole year. Allowing two loaves a day to every man, it would maintain an army of 10,000 men in fighting form for seventy-three years. An average loaf is about eight inches long. If therefore, the total out put of these mills was reduced to loaves of bread placed one in front of the other the line would reach twice around the world, with enough left to connect Winnipeg with Liverpool.

An Orphan, without Home or Means DR. A. E. HANNA, PERTH: I have a patient here, a young fellow in whom I am greatly interested. He has tuberculosis. He is a poor young fellow, an orphan, out of home, without any means. If we sent him up would you take him in and do the best you can for him? I know how difficult it is to accommodate all who require treatment, but this is a special case.

It is always encouraging to have a letter from friends who kindly contribute. For the convenience of those who have not time to write, the following blank may be used:

FORWARD STEP IN THE INTERESTS OF Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives

The National Sanitarium Association of Canada has undertaken to publish a monthly magazine devoted to the Outdoor Treatment of Tuberculosis, and the inculcation of Hygienic Methods of Living for the people generally. The first number was issued in November, 1906.

All profits from this magazine—from subscriptions and advertising—will go to the maintenance of patients at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. Any one contributing one dollar a year, or more, to the funds of the Hospital, will become a subscriber to CANADIAN OUT-DOOR LIFE for one year.

Do it Now! Is a business motto of this strenuous age that applies with tremendous force when it is a good act you should do.

"A child's kiss set on by sighing lips shall make thee glad."

"A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong."

"Thou shalt be served thyself in every sense of service which thou renderest."

W. M. Grant, M.L.A., returned home to Vonda today having been in the city since Monday.

Simon Antiknap of Boggy Creek, left on Thursday for Hot Springs, S. D., to undergo treatment. He was accompanied by his brother Henry.

Mrs. W. A. MacKinnon, wife of the Canadian commercial agent at Bristol, Eng., is in the city the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Ford.

The spruce trees which the city gardener selected at Banff have arrived and are being placed in Victoria park.

The post office lobby will be open in future from 6 a.m. instead of 8 a.m. This is for the benefit of box holders.

The Liberal convention for Mackenzie meets today at Yorkton, to put a candidate in the field for the next federal election. Dr. Cash will likely carry the convention.

W. E. Knowles was nominated on Monday at Moose Jaw by the Liberals to again contest that constituency in the coming federal elections. There was no other name before the convention.

A. T. Hunter is making a vigorous canvass for aldermanic honors in Ward 3. There is no doubt that Mr. Hunter will be elected for he is not only popular in the city but he is in the front ranks of our businessmen.

Rev. C. W. Brown has decided to remain pastor of the Metropolitan church till the end of his term, so unanimous has been the request that he reconsider his decision with regard to his resignation.

W. G. Pettingell has withdrawn from the firm of Pettingell & Van Valkenburg, and will take his family east for a vacation. Mr. Pettingell's place in the business has been taken by E. N. Darke. They are now occupying their new offices in the Darke block.

J. M. Young has returned from a trip to Nebraska where he found business conditions much worse than they are any place in this country. The tightening up of the money market in New York has hit the American business interests very hard and it may be a year before they recover.

It is intimated from Alberta that the two new provinces will establish a reformatory that will accommodate both. Magistrate Trant has one candidate in Chas. Kurtz, who will be sent to an institution of that kind, probably in Manitoba for the present.

The date for the sitting of the court for the hearing of the appeals in the Prince Albert election has not yet been set but it is expected that a day will be assigned shortly. An application to that effect was made to Judge Prendergast, who will not, however, sit on the case.

F. Chapman, president of the Ontario Wind, Engine and Pump Co., Toronto, was in the city on Friday spending the day with their provincial representative, H. J. Ribble. Mr. Chapman was as far as the coast and he reports business in Saskatchewan very brisk. He was accompanied by J. M. Reid, the company's manager at Winnipeg.

On Saturday afternoon an interesting function took place when certificates and medals were presented to the graduates of the Regina Victoria hospital. The graduating nurses were Miss Walsh, Regina; Miss Dale, Qu'Appelle; Miss Carl, Brandon. Miss Walsh was the winner of the gold medal presented annually by Dr. Low for proficiency. The medal was pinned on by Mrs. Low. Following the presentation speeches were made by the Mayor, aldermen Cowan, and Thompson, and Dr. Low.

SHEEPSKIN LINED COATS

A Manufacturer Puzzled Made a Mistake

Pay freight back or have us clear them at a LOSS

A well-known eastern maker of Sheepskin Coats failed to follow orders in making up a lot of corduroy covered coats with wombat-collars. The coats were shipped and received by us—then the mistake was found out. Certain features that we had ordered to be put in the coats were missing. Both the makers and ourselves were puzzled as to what to do. Finally, he agreed to have us retail these coats, worth $12 to $15, at the quick clearing price of $10. All left on our hands after December 1st to be shipped back.

This explains fully why such elegant Corduroy Covered Sheepskin-lined Coats are selling at $10.

MEN'S CORDUROY COVERED SHEEPSKIN-LINED COATS, deep Wombat collar, full sheep-lined leather faced pockets, brass fastener. Every coat in the lot worth fully $12 or $15. Clearing while they last at $10
