MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GAB. GET IN COWS.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Suffer and cheerily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 18 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for more expensive, and gives you a cough preparation, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

CHAPTER XXIV.

She drew a long breath. He was smoothing the tendrils of her soft hair from her forehead, was looking into her eyes with the hungry, craving look of love.

"I am glad," she responded, with innocent abandon.

"That is right!" he said. "And you shall never regret it, dearest—never! While I live, I will spend every hour in making you happy. You believe that—you trust me?"

"Yes," she breathed. "But think! Am I fit to be your wife?"

The word fell like a bolt from the blue. His wife! His face went white. But she went on, all innocently:

"You—you are so—so far above me. I am only Decima Deane."

He laughed as he thrust the greasy specter of his past, of his bonds, away from him.

"You are, yes, Decima Deane—the girl I love, the one woman in the world to me. Oh, my darling—my darling—" His voice broke. "Decima, tell me, am I awake or dreaming?"

She raised her head from the pillow of his breast, and kissed him on the lips.

"Awake," she breathed.

He returned the kiss four-fold.

"Listen, dearest," he said. "To-night we will start for—anywhere; it does not matter where."

She looked at him with a faint smile at first, then with a faint questioning. "Start? Why?"

He met her inquiring eyes, then looked aside.

"We must go away together," he said, hoarsely. "There—there will be some fuss and—and stir. We—we will go to—yes, to Egypt, to Cairo."

"Shall we be married there?" she asked, her innocent eyes on his face.

"Married?" the word echoed on his lips hoarsely. "What—what does it matter?"

The word again reminded him of his bondage, of the fact that he was married already. He thrust the remembrance from him once more. He would not remember.

"You can trust me, dearest," he said.

"Trust you?" she repeated after him, with a slight knitting of her brows. "What do you mean? I don't understand."

"See here, dearest," he said, his eyes falling before the innocent directness of hers. "There are circumstances—it may be necessary that—would you come with me?—does it matter whether we are married or not?"

With all her ignorance of the world and life's miserable mystery, Decima know something of the sacredness, the necessity of the marriage tie.

"I—I don't understand. It is very stupid of me," she faltered.

He turned white and bit his lips.

"Suppose—I ask you to come with me without being married?" he said, desperately. "Suppose there was some reason why—why—we could not be married like—like other persons—would you risk—dare all? Would you trust me and—come with me?"

She looked up at him with no fear in her eyes; nothing but a faint surprise.

"I would go anywhere with you," she said. "I could not refuse." She drew a long breath and smiled up at him. "And why should I not? If we can not be married, we can be friends, just as we have been at Leadmore. I was very happy there—ah, very happy! And I should see you every day, should I not? Perhaps Bobby could go with us? But I suppose not. He could not leave his work, could he, even for a time?"

Before her absolute innocence Gaunt quailed.

Aunt Pauline's system had been very thorough. He bit his lip, and for the first time his eyes fell before her pure gaze.

"Come—come and sit down," he said, huskily. He drew her to the big chair, but she signed to him to sit, and sinking on to the thick fur rug at his feet, she leaned her arm on his knee and her head on her arm. Gaunt stroked her hair with a trembling hand and stared at the fire.

Conscience stung and lashed him, but its sting, its whip, fell upon a heart made insensible by passion. If, he argued to himself, he did not take her away, she would marry Mershon. He knew the pressure which would be brought to bear, knew that she would not be able to withstand it. She would marry a man she did not love. And from such a hell, such a life in death, surely, Gaunt, the man she loved, ought to snatch her at any cost. The happiness, the misery of her life, hung in the balance.

After all, would the wrong be very great? He could take her away to some land where she would not be likely to meet any English people. They could hide themselves under an assumed name. No breath of shame or reproach should touch her. He would watch over her happiness every hour of his life. And she should be happy! And—perhaps fate would take pity on them and kill that other woman, his wife. Then he would marry Decima, and—and all would be well.

One knows what an admirable advocate the devil can be, and now he was pleading with Gaunt not only for Gaunt himself, but for the girl he loved. He could not let her go.

"Decima," he said, and his voice sounded so labored that she raised her head and looked at him with some apprehension in her eyes. "I—I want you to understand. We must go—if we go—alone; we could not take Bobby with us. Child, the world—everybody—will blame me for taking you."

"It would be wrong?" she said, thoughtfully.

"It would be wrong," he said, as if the admission were wrung from him. "That is, in the eyes of the world; but—but I am not sure—I feel that even if it is wrong, it would be a greater sin to let you go back to—to him."

She shuddered.

"I could not go back," she said, gravely. "Not now, not now, I know"—she paused, then went on, with a sweet abandon—"that I love you."

He bent his head, until his lips touched her hair. Then he rose, and taking her in his arms, put her in the chair.

"Let me think," he said.

He began to pace the room, and walked to and fro with quick steps. His blood was at fever heat, and something beat at the back of his brain like the crash of a wave against a rock.

Now and again he stopped and aimlessly took up some article from the table and looked at it mechanically. One of the things was a quaint Persian dagger in an exquisitely enamelled sheath. He drew the blade, looked at it without seeing it, then replaced it.

As he did so, the thing fell from his fingers. As he picked it up and poised it on the table, Decima looked round.

"Why are you so troubled?" she said in a low voice full of loving sympathy.

He came to her, and kneeling beside her, took her hands and pressed them against his heart.

"Decima, you must leave yourself, your fate, in my hands. You must trust to me. If I let you go now, it—it must be forever. I shall never see you again."

She uttered a faint cry, and stooping, looked into his face with terror and grief in her eyes, on her lips.

"No, no!" she breathed. "I—I could not bear it!"

"You see!" he said. "And if you could not, how then could I, whose love for you is a thousand times greater than your love for me? Dearest, I must take you with me to-morrow. We will have to say good-bye to the past; we will have to begin a new life in a strange place—among strange people. Will you come?"

A great solemnity fell upon her. "I must come," she said; and the low, sweet voice thrilled through him. "I must do whatever you ask me. I—I could not let you go away from me, and see you no more. I—I think—I hope—I should die if you did."

"DANDERINE"

Girls! Save Your Hair! Make It Abundant!

Immediately after a "Danderine" massage, your hair takes on new life, lustre and wondrous beauty, appearing twice as heavy and plentiful, because each hair seems to puff and thicken. Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, plain or scraggly. You, too, want lots of long, strong, beautiful hair.

A 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" freshens your scalp, checks dandruff and falling hair. This stimulating "beauty- tonic" gives to thin, dull, fading hair that youthful brightness and abundant thickness—All druggists!

He almost laughed.

"That settles it," he said, with a kind of reckless, desperate gaiety. "Now, see, dearest, you must go back to Lady Pauline's—it's too late to start to-night. To-morrow morning—at eight o'clock—is that too early?"

She smiled at the triviality of the question. What hour could be too early? What did it matter?

"Well, then, you must leave the house and take a cab to Charing Cross Station."

"To Charing Cross Station?" she repeated, carefully.

"Yes, I will meet you there—I shall be watching for you; and then—well, the rest remains with me."

She leaned back and looked at him with perfect trust and confidence, as a woman looks when she has placed her life in the hands of the man she loves.

"And when shall we be married?" she asked. "Will it be soon, or shall we have to wait a long time?"

His face quivered.

"It—it may not be for a long time," he said, trying to speak calmly. "Until then we shall have to live away—away from everybody. You will not even be able to write."

A troubled, perplexed expression shone in her eyes as they rested on his. She thought, with a pang of pain and remorse, of her father.

"Why? Because it will be wrong to go away with you? Yes, I think I understand."

But he knew that she did not—fully. He was silent a moment, then he said, in a constrained voice:

"You do not ask me why I can not marry you now, Decima?"

"No," she said; "I am waiting until you choose to tell me."

"I will tell you—some day," he said, thickly. "Promise me that—that when I do, you will not turn from me, Decima! Promise me that—that when you know you will still love me."

"I promise!" she said. "How could I turn from you? How could I cease to love you? I shall always love you, while life lasts. I couldn't do otherwise if I tried, whatever happened. Even if—if you did not love me."

"Hush!" he broke in, almost solemnly. "That is impossible. If you knew—"

He glanced at the clock.

"I am afraid you must go, dearest!" he said. "Heaven! what it costs me to let you go, to part with you even for a few hours!"

She rose, her hands resting on his shoulders, and he kissed her dress as it touched him.

"It will not be for long," she said, with a happy little sigh. "I shall not sleep, I know. I shall be awake and try and realize what has happened to me. It all seems like a dream."

"May you never wake from it, dearest!" he murmured.

She laughed softly.

"I wonder where Bobby is? I should like to have seen him, to have told him. But I am not to tell him; I forgot."

"No," he said; "you must tell no one."

"My things are in his room," she said. "I will go and get them."

Difference in Anglo-French Russian Relations.

Britain Ready to Trade With Soviets--France all For Wrangel--Martial Law May be Proclaimed in Athens--Tino the Traitor Delighted Over Election Results--De Valera Urges all American Organization.

FRANCE WILL NOT RECOGNIZE SOVIETS.

PARIS, Nov. 16. The defeat of General Wrangel, whose south Russian government has been recognized by France, does not mean that France is ready to consider recognition of the Russian Soviet government. It was said at the Foreign Office today. The French government is pessimistic regarding any further military movements in Russia at present, it was indicated, not seeing where any basis can be found for reorganization of the fruitless effort against the Moscow government made by General Wrangel from the Crimea. General Wrangel himself, the Foreign Office advised, had either arrived at Constantinople on board a Russian cruiser or was on the way to that city.

SERIOUS TROUBLES IN ATHENS.

ATHENS, Nov. 16. Troops fired from a number of points on several occasions to-day to disperse after election trouble makers. To-night there are fears of further trouble which may lead to martial law, and there is said to be danger that the army may get out of hand. Stores, Banks and Theatres are closed to-day and soldiers patrolled the streets. To-night the population was keeping close, not taking the risk of leaving their homes.

DELAY IN TRADE NEGOTIATIONS DUE TO RUSSIA.

LONDON, Nov. 16. In the House of Commons to-day Bonar Law said he hoped that within a week the government of Soviet Russia would have so far fulfilled the conditions upon which Great Britain based the resumption of trade negotiations as to enable him to make a statement. One of these conditions was the release of British prisoners in Russia. He deprecated the delay in the negotiations, but said this was not Great Britain's fault, being due to delay of the Russians in releasing British prisoners.

WILL KEEP CONSTANTINE OFF THRONE.

PARIS, Nov. 16. Great Britain and France will take all possible steps to keep ex-King Constantine off the Greek throne, it was stated here to-day. The question of the return of former Crown Prince George has not been raised, it was added.

WANTS COUNTRYWIDE ORGANIZATION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. The creation in the United States of a country wide organization for aid to Ireland, was urged to-day by Eamon De Valera, President of the Provisional Irish Republic in an address before a conference of Irish sympathizers. De Valera declared it was necessary for the Friends of Irish Freedom to create a new organiza-

ARMY MEDICAL CORPS WOMAN PRAISES TANLAC.

Mrs. Hubbard, Who Rendered Valuable Service Overseas, Can't Say Enough for Master Tanlac.

"I'll tell you, it's enough to make anybody rejoice to get the wonderful relief I have, and I just can't praise Tanlac enough for it," declared Mrs. Thomas Hubbard, of 67 Fullerton St., Hamilton, Ont. Mrs. Hubbard has a large circle of friends in Hamilton, and rendered valuable service in the woman's army medical corps overseas.

When I retired, hardly able to do my housework. However, I could tell I was improving after the first few doses of Tanlac, and it wasn't long until my appetite returned with such force that I could hardly get enough to eat. I never have a sign of indigestion, am entirely free from that tired worn out feeling, and just sleep like a child every night. Tanlac is certainly a grand medicine, and has been so wonderful for me I want to let others know about it."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Parade by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gallies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. Gush, in Miramichi by Exploits Valley Royal Stores, Ltd., in Flat Island by William Samson, in Jamestown by C. Christopher Haines, and in Lewisporte by Elisha Freahe-adv.

Some Aspects of Mis-Government

A Few Reasons for the Unpopularity of the Present Administration.

Of those who participated in the overthrow of the Cashin Administration last November it was said with truth, "They know not what they do." Few there are to-day who voted for the present Government, and still support them. In fact, the only supporters of the present administration are party heeled men, who would do anything for the purpose of getting something out of the Government, no thing more or less than human parasites. Who is there to-day who can truthfully say that the Liberal Reform Party—mark the word—have benefitted the country one iota since they were returned to power? There can be none! Those who do say that the Squires Government has done anything for the country are speaking against their own inward convictions for their own personal benefit. But ask those who think that the present administration has harmed the country and the answering cries re-echo all over the country, for many is the man now who curses the day that he helped the Squires party to victory.

The Opposition papers have been accused of purposely misleading the country and the world at large for the forwarding of their own, (what the Government organs are pleased to call) "mercenary ends." The latter say that to-day Newfoundland is no worse off than many other countries, that the talk of starvation is all "rot," that trade is fairly prosperous, that there is no lack of employment, in fact, that things are practically normal and that we are merely suffering a slight reaction which is only natural after the distressful times through which we have passed in the last few years. They claim that the fish regulations have saved the country from ruin, that if it were not for these regulations we would now be in a state of bankruptcy—a state, which we, in spite of the Government and its regulations, are not far from now.

Take the regulations in regard to the curing of fish. Fish with the black removed, in other words, White Napes, were called for. With what result is easy to see if one will take the trouble to interrogate any fisherman who has these "white elphants" on his hands. White Nape fish are to-day absolutely unsaleable at any price. In some cases other fish can be got rid of at a price, which if not thoroughly satisfactory, is at least sufficient to pay expenses, but White Napes, made according to the regulations, are to-day a drug on the market. We have known fishermen to go from one end of the town to the other, offering White Napes to every fish merchant in town at sacrificial prices, to no avail. Nobody wants them and they are left on the hands of those who made them—to spoil.

A price for fish was made in every market and restrictions put on its sale and shipment. With what result? This, that those countries which bought our fish in the past, became antagonized. They had no intention of having our fish rammed down their throats at the muzzle of the pistol as our Government were trying to do. Not at all, for did they not have Icelandic and Norwegian fish to fall back upon. They were not depending on our fish when these other supplies were open to them, and what are the consequences? Why, that shipment after shipment of fish from Iceland and Norway is finding its way into the markets which in other years were supplied mainly, if not altogether by Newfoundland fish. This, then, is the result of Government interference with the curing and marketing of fish.

To-day, the whole West Coast is almost in a state of starvation. There is plenty of fish, but no one to buy it. When the fish could be sold the merchants were not permitted to sell it. The West Coast, and not only the West Coast, but the North as well, is to-day in a worse situation than ever before. There is hardly a man who has made any money this year. What fish they have is going to waste whilst waiting for a buyer, fish which, if the merchants had been left alone to manage things in their own way, would now be in process of consumption in our foreign markets.

Thanks to all the Government bungling, the country's trade is at a standstill. Money is scarcer than ever it was before. Everybody is in the same position, and in spite of the fact that money is scarcer, the necessities of life have not decreased in cost. Most of the big factories are laying off their hands, some are closing down altogether, and none of the remainder are working full time. The only parts of the island to-day which are in any way prosperous are those which have not to depend on the fishery, in other words the papermaking, logging and mining districts, and these only represent a small minority of the country.

One would think, that after all its pitiful mistakes in connection with our staple industry, the Government would be afraid to dabble in anything else. On the contrary, however, they seem to pride themselves on their errors and blunders. They appointed a Food Control Board, and this Board, in an attempt to keep the price of sugar down, imported large stocks with the expectation that soon the price of this commodity would reverse. Unfortunately, however, the reverse was the case and as the F. C. B. were unable to sell the sugar at less than 29 cents per lb. if they were to avoid any loss, the unhappy consumer was and still is, forced to pay two to three times as much for his sugar than he would have if the F.C.B. had not meddled with it. In the meantime, quite a lot of this sugar, which, by the way, was recently reduced to 25c. per lb., was eaten by rats of affected by dampness, and became salty. Only the other day over 13,000 lbs. of sugar were sold at a loss of several thousands of dollars to the country. When a St. John's merchant attempted to relieve the situation by importing cheaper sugar, the F. C. B. stepped in and refused to allow him to land it. The importer brought his case before the Supreme Court and won it. Next appeared a Gazette Extraordinary prohibiting the importation of sugar altogether. Indeed, "the ways of Government are exceeding strange."

Still the Government was not finished. It was decided that a Model Farm should be organized and the Minister of Agriculture and Mines was sent away to find live stock for it. After being away some months, the genial Doctor returned recently and presented vouchers which shocked even the Minister of Finance, used as he was to receiving large bills. If one wished to give a complete list of all the mistakes made by the present Administration, one could go on forever, but enough has already been said.

In spite of the fact that the statements made about our economic condition at the present time, in the Opposition press, are true, the Government organs will persist in attacking what they call our "Blue Ruin" tactics. It is about time they realized that the people of the country are getting tired of the enfeebled attempt to hoodwink them, made by the Government press for there are few in the country to-day who are not feeling the pinch of the hardest times that Newfoundland has ever experienced.

Fire at King's Road.

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN BADLY BURNED.

Shortly after one o'clock this morning the firemen were called to King's road, where a fire caused by the upsetting of a lamp, was in progress. Very little damage was done to the premises, but the occupant, Mr. John French, was badly burned and had to be removed to Hospital. It appears that the man, who was living alone in a downstairs flat, was lying on a couch reading, a kerosene lamp, resting on a chair close by, affording light. In an attempt to draw the lamp nearer he capsized it, the oil spilling over the scant bed clothing which covered him and igniting. The old gentleman made an outcry, which attracted Mr. Patrick Murray, who lives in the flat above. The latter hurried to his assistance and when he forced an entrance, he found French lying on the floor, his clothing a mass of flame. Murray, as quickly as he knew how, extinguished the burning clothing and carried the suffering man to the hallway. Messrs. C. Byrne and C. Spurrel now came on the scene and removed him to the Water Shed, some distance away, where a priest and doctor were summoned. Rev. Dr. Carter and Dr. McPherson were quickly in attendance. All possible was done to alleviate the pain and agony. Dr. Carter administering spiritual consolation and preparing the sufferer for death. Mr. French was terribly burned about the abdomen and legs. He retained consciousness, however, while being treated by the doctor, and up to the time he was taken into the ambulance to be conveyed to the hospital. The unfortunate man was widely known in the east end of the city and for many years taught navigation and a general school in that section. In early life he followed the sea and retired owing to an accident in which he met with serious bodily injury. For some years, against the wishes of many friends, he has been living alone.

LATER.

Mr. John French passed away at the General Hospital this morning, death being caused by burns received in the fire as described above. Though every attention and care was given him by the hospital staff, his injuries were too deep seated to permit of recovery, and death ultimately terminated his sufferings, which must have been agonizing.

Woman Drowned.

BODY FOUND ON TOPSAIL BEACH.

At 9 o'clock on Monday night a search party found the body of Miss Emma Allen, aged 43, on Topsail Beach. Death was due to drowning. Deceased had been suffering from violent headaches for several weeks, and latterly was affected with mental depression. Monday afternoon at about 4.30 she left her father's home with the intention of taking a walk along the road. Not returning for supper enquiries were made at houses nearby but her presence could not be located. A search party was organized, and a search made. About 9.30 the body of the missing woman was found on the beach about thirty feet east of the public wharf, and appeared as if it had been in the water for some hours.

Inspector General Hutchings was acquainted of the happening and yesterday in company with Dr. Tait and detective Peter Lee, visited Topsail and conducted inquiries. The authorities are unable to say whether the woman fell over the public wharf, or how the drowning occurred.

The Sham Exposed.

The Advocate of White Napes in the last few issues is howling desperately against the Telegram, News and Herald because, apparently, they do not paint pictures of rosy times. It is all right for the Advocate to shout, "Everything is lovely on the Bowery," as by doing so it may continue to deceive those who cannot see conditions for themselves. As far as the Telegram and its staff is concerned, they have nothing to gain by seeing "blue ruin." If Trade is bad, and the Advocate knows too well it is, why not tell the truth? It is deception to report, steamers inward and outward with full freights. (The Advocate makes a point of this), when in fact many carriers are lying up for want of cargo. Workers in the city know too well that labor is at a discount. Witness the numbers of people going from house to house begging for a crust of bread. Such conditions did not exist here for the past fifteen years. If there are good times the Government members and their minions are the only people experiencing them.

Tricolette is in great demand by the women of St. John's. They themselves are making it up into gorgeous Russian Blouses, Slip-overs, Dresses, etc. Some of them sent to Boston for their material, others, more fortunate, bought theirs at BISHOP'S; and as Tricolette is of British manufacture, those who were loyal to our Old Home Town saved considerable on the price in addition to getting much better quality. Just now there is a new shipment in from London.

THE COMPLIMENT HOLD-UP.

RUTH CAMERON

Don't you like to give people compliments when the compliment is deserved and the recipient takes it without being either uncomfortably abashed or too evidently certain that it is no more than his due? And don't you hate to give people compliments when a verbal gun is pointed at your head and you either have to stand and deliver or be convicted of being an awful boor?

Here is the sort of thing I mean: Someone says to you: "I don't know why it is but people always seem to tell me things—things you wouldn't expect them to tell anyone outside the family. I don't know what it is about me."

You must say, "A Sympathetic Disposition."

Of course the answer is as plain as the answer to the riddles on the small children's page of the young folk's magazines. You are supposed to say that it is because he or she more likely the latter, for this particular one is a feminine hold-up) as such a sympathetic disposition.

Here is another: "It's the most remarkable thing the way people remember me. I'll meet people that I haven't seen but once or twice in my life, and that ten years ago, and they will remember me perfectly. And I won't have the slightest idea who they are." By George, I don't see how they do it."

Tell Him People Can't Forget Him. Of course one is supposed to tell him (I heard that one from a man) that he is the kind of person people don't readily forget—or words to that effect.

One woman I used to know whose husband was a very young-looking fellow frequently refer to the fact in a way that put those to whom she mentioned it in such a position that they either had to assure her that she didn't look older, (which she did) or else feel that they had insulted her. This trick of bringing up unpleasant facts with a view to getting them denied, is one of the commonest forms of the compliment hold-up. The People Who Run Themselves Down. Self-depreciation is another. Sometimes when one of these verbal guns is pointed at one, one manages to produce the words that are demanded, hating oneself and the holder-up as one does it. And then again, one's tongue absolutely refuses to form the hateful words, and one is convicted of being a boor. Personally, I always feel about as well pleased with myself when I have followed the latter course. I don't care much for boors, but I think they are quite as much to be admired as hypocrites.

Germany to Impose a Sacrifice Tax.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—Germany's treasury faces a deficit of approximately 70,000,000,000 marks, Dr. Karl Hefferich, former vice-chancellor, declared to the Reichstag here yesterday. He said that in the face of expenditures amounting to 100,000,000,000 marks the receipts would total 30,000,000,000. He declared it was impossible to vote the credits demanded, for the inter-Allied high commission in the Rhine territory, and reproached the minister of finance, Dr. Wirth, for not having done anything to remedy the situation. Dr. Wirth, in answering, stated the cabinet had decided to introduce a bill providing for a "sacrifice tax," adding that the government would ask a credit of 1,000,000,000 marks to buy cereals abroad. Holland Worried Over Succession. The possibilities of becoming a republic is in prospect for Holland, under recommendations submitted by the commission appointed to revise the constitution. If these recommendations are adopted, Holland will have the chance to decide upon the doing away with royalty, unless the little Princess Juliana, only child of Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Consort Henry, some day gives birth to a son by a husband whom the Dutch Parliament approves as her consort. The Princess now is eleven years of age. The commission proposes that hereafter, unless there is a direct male ruler, the throne shall go to some male of the second generation of the last king. In the event of there being no direct male successor, however, the people will have the opportunity to change the country's form of government under the commission's scheme.

Are We Decadent?

How far did the old English archer, who won so many battles for England, shoot his shaft? We have it recorded that at Agincourt an English archer struck a Frenchman and pinned him to a tree at 240 yards. Shakespeare mentions 290 yards somewhere. The Royal Company of Archers used to set their targets 185 yards away, and they would not do that unless there were a fair chance of hitting the bulls-eye which means that an arrow could carry twice as far. Yet to-day the target is put under a hundred yards away! Perhaps it is lack of skill, just as a novice finds difficulty in making a golf-ball travel fifty yards, but it may point to the fact that we are muscularly weaker than our forefathers. At the same time it has often been pointed out that there are very few suits of armour extant that one of our big athletes could squeeze into. They are mostly on the small side.

Just Folks
BASEBURNER DAYS.
The furnace is the modern way Of heating all our homes to-day. We feel the warmth, but seldom see The fire which blazes merrily; Bronze radiators I have found Are things we do not sit around. And so I drop these words of praise Unto the stove of by-gone days.

It had its faults and drawbacks, too. But I recall it warmed us through; I realize the task was hard To lug the coal in from the yard. And trails of dust I left about Each time I carried the ash pan out. But the room was cheered by the ruddy glow Of that old coal stove of the long ago.

I like the easier ways to-day. The coal isn't stored so far away. And I needn't trudge through drifts of snow Whenever the fire is getting low. But coming home on a winter's night I often long for that lost delight. And the wondrous glow and the cheerful blaze That warmed the room in our coal stove days.

For a light luncheon, toasted cheese sandwiches and orange salad go well together.

Had to Sing or Be Shot.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(By Canadian Press).—When the Bolshevik nationalize an operative voice they pay for it in food and drinks, taking away the gate receipts for other purposes. That is what Mme. Nina Kershets-Shubert, who has just arrived from Mediterranean ports says. She was a soprano in the Russian Royal Opera at Petrograd when the Bolshevik came into power, and they allowed her to choose between singing for the general benefit and standing before a firing squad.

Mme. Kershets-Shubert choose the former. She was sent all over the country and sang at public concerts while the Bolshevik box office did a rushing business in which she did not particularly — even communically. They praised her execution which was not extended to the elimination of her voice.

Several months ago Mme. Kershets-Shubert became weary of her treatment and disguised as a nurse escaped to Kiev and later joined her husband and little daughter, who came here with her.

The Union Jack Stayed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Irish sympathizers in their fight on British flags displayed with those of other allies in celebration of Armistice Day, met with another rebuff, it was learned to-day. The navy club, at Fifteen East-41 street, which looks after United States sailors and marines, though not officially under the government, was asked yesterday to haul down the British flag hung in honor of the anniversary. The demand was made on Captain O. P. Jackson, in charge of naval publicity and morality, at 24 East 42nd Street. "Tell them to go to hell," was Jackson's answer. "Keep the Union Jack there, Armistice Day, as you do the Stars and Stripes."

Warships to Destroy Canadian Derelict.

British warships are being sent to destroy the vagrant wreck of the Canadian schooner Hardwick, which has been afloat in the Atlantic nearly twelve months after being abandoned in a sinking condition. A Spanish steamer just arrived in an English port reported that the schooner had been sighted still afloat, but so low in the water that she is grave danger, ships being unable to sight her until she is close under the bows.

In The Toils.

The Honourable the Acting Premier, also Minister of Marine and Fisheries, when disposed to use up columns of his organ in which to rave and rant, should remember the well-known Rabelaisian lines:

"When the devil was sick,
The devil a monk would be.
When the devil got well,
The devil a monk was he."

Mr. Coaker to-day is sick, sick from fear that he has been found out; that his true character has been discovered by the fishermen whom he has so long befuddled, after inveigling them into his toils. And Mr. Coaker being sick, naturally feels that it is his duty to lecture those who oppose him and endeavor to cause them to depart from their present evil ways, and keep silence until such time as the Fish Regulations have accomplished their purpose and ruined every fisherman in the dominion. The Wordy President still hopes to keep up his pose as the one and only champion of the "underdogs," but unfortunately for himself there are too many fishermen in St. John's to-day, futilely trying to sell their season's catch to be longer led astray by the wiles and artifices of the man who styles himself their leader. They have seen for themselves just how far the Fish Regulations have profited them, and are no longer inclined to place credence in the promises so lavishly handed out by the Advocate. They now recognize the hypocrisy and cant, and only the most credulous and simple are convinced, or want to be convinced that everything is going to be all right if Mr. Coaker is not hindered or hampered in his work by those bad fellows, the editors of the News, Herald and Telegram. Most disgusting is it not to have such "dangerous lunatics" at large. "They should be locked up," howls the organ. Well, why does not the Government or Mr. Coaker go ahead and do it?

The Duckworth Street mouth-piece of the President screamed frenziedly on Monday, because the Telegram, in its Saturday leader, dared to suggest that the fishermen organize themselves, and by a demonstration of protest, effectively settle once and for all the infamous Regulations which, like an old man of the sea are hanging round their necks, preventing them from making the best of their months of toil at the fishery. Mr. Coaker himself accuses us of inciting the fishermen to "raise a riot." Therein the Wordy President lies villanously. His soul is so shaken by the thought that the fishermen may yet demand his official head, that he tries to arouse his vanishing courage—a courage that he but possesses when surrounded by his satellites—by hurling the usual invective at his opponents. Nothing can show the mind of this man more thoroughly than his tirade in the Advocate of Monday. It is so characteristic of him. Cornered he bares his teeth, and snarls at all who disagree with him. He sees the writing on the wall and fears that the deluded fishermen may speedily demand of him an account of his stewardship. We can assure Mr. Coaker that that day is not far off. Nay more it is only a matter of hours when he will witness such a demonstration that will cause him to shrink within himself and pray the gods to protect him from impending political doom. Fishermen are aroused as never before and the announcement of their meeting to-night—not under Coaker auspices this time—shows the determination with which they have united to secure the justice and fair play so long denied them by a demagogic poseur. The article in the Advocate to which reference has been made, is so brilliantly Coakeresque that no one was surprised at its vehemence and illogical construction. We challenge either the editor of the Advocate or Mr. Coaker or both combined to produce one shred of our writing as evidence that we have not honestly and fairly criticized the Fish Regulations and the injury they have caused fishermen. But it does not suit the purpose of either these gentlemen to argue fairly nor consistently. As the Daily News yesterday morning so pithily put it, one day Mr. Coaker is boasting of the remarkably favorable conditions prevailing in the markets, and the next blaming the Opposition newspapers for the bad way things were going there. No wonder the editor of our morning contemporary heads the article in question "Funny Mr. Coaker." He really is comical, but what can be expected of the once potent ruler who sees the sceptre of power slipping from his grasp? He is in the toils, and the fishermen have taken his true measure.

Heard on the Street.

According to last night's Advocate "the streets for the first time this fall were covered with ice this morning." How often does the Advocate think yesterday morning occurred during this fall?

There's an active Prime Minister named Squires,
Who to honor and power aspires;
Very soon he'll find out
That he must do without
All the very nice things he requires.

What has long been forecasted, has now happened, and the fishermen, tired of the bungling of the present apology for a Government evidently intend to take things into their own hands. A public meeting has been called for to-night and the Government will be shown that it is time they bowed to public opinion.

The editor of the Telegram was mentioned by name only fourteen times in the editorial columns of yesterday's Advocate. This is rather a come down, although even that much free advertisement is deserving of gratitude, even coming from such an unsavory source. Evidently the Advocate editor's association with the gentlemen of the Imperial Press Delegation did not improve him much though for the matter of that he is perhaps immune to culture.

Fish $2.00 Per Quintal.

In conversation with a planter belonging to Bonavista Bay this morning, we were informed that owing to getting practically nothing for his catch of fish he is now up against it and will be compelled to spend all his savings of the past two years to straighten his accounts. He, in former years, had been very successful at the fishery, and was likewise so this year, but in the disposal of his catch the ruin came. He was unfortunate enough to make what the Coaker regulations call "heavy salted-Newfoundland-Shore Cure," the number one of which netted him $4 per quintal, while the cullage only brought $2 per quintal. The fish was sold at an East End premises, where the schooner is now lying. This planter complained that while everything he produced was going down in price, everything that he had to buy was not getting cheaper.

Young Men All Gone.

At Petty Harbor and Maddox Cove the fishermen are doing well with herring. The codfishery for the season has been given up and all the boats are put away, it not being thought worth while to continue the industry. All of the young men have left the place and are now elsewhere making a living.

It is all very well to say it with flowers;
Try it with Candy, it sweetens the hours.
Especially the kind that will be offered for sale at the Presentation Convent Association Fancy Fair.—nov17,21

A Start For Freedom!
Fishermen Holding Mass Meeting To-night--Protest Against Fish Regulations The Object.

Tired of listening to the mouthings and vapourings of the Government organs, and sick of their endless travels up and down the city trying to sell their fish, the men of the out-ports, now in St. John's, Union and Non-Union alike, for all have common interests, will hold a mass meeting in the C.C.C. Hall, at the Beach, opposite King George V. Institute, to-night opening at 7.30 o'clock, for the purpose of entering their own protest against the operation of the iniquitous Fish Regulations made by Mr. Coaker. Every fisherman now in St. John's will attend this great popular gathering, and when it is said that there are thousands of them, it is not an exaggeration. As well as from the Southern Shore and Placentia and St. Mary's, it will be expected that the attendance will be no small one. The Board of the Advocate has been that the Regulations are approved by the fishermen; that their operation has made larger prices, and that but for them fish would be much lower than it is. (In that case it would have to be given away.) But the fishermen themselves do not concur in the opinion of the Advocate. Bitter experience has shown them that the Regulations are strangling their industry and bringing them to almost the extreme of poverty. They want the Regulations rescinded, and free and fair trade unrestricted. They have too long been subservient to Mr. Coaker's desires, but to-night they shake off the shackles and declare themselves free men, men with inalienable rights, which must be respected. All are asked to attend this meeting. No distinctions are being made. Coopers, Longshoremen, wharf laborers, truckmen, artisans, and all whose camp-site King George V. Institute, to-night opening at 7.30 o'clock, for the purpose of entering their own protest against the operation of the iniquitous Fish Regulations made by Mr. Coaker. Every fisherman now in St. John's will attend this great popular gathering, and when it is said that there are thousands of them, it is not an exaggeration. Police Court.

A very unsavoury sidelight on police methods was shown in the Magistrate's Court this morning, when an old her-ballet of the Bay Bulls Road was charged with manufacturing moonshine. Mr. Winter appeared for the prosecution and Mr. Higgins, K.C. for the defence. Constable Trickett, sworn, stated that in company with Constable Manning he visited the house of the defendant in plain clothes and asked for a drink. Defendant asked witness if he wanted a drink. Witness replied that he would not mind. He got his drink and then asked if he could have a bottle. After some hesitation defendant gave witness's companion a bottle of liquor for which he paid $5.00. Cross examination by Mr. Higgins elicited the unsavoury details previously mentioned. Witness in reply to questions of Mr. Higgins, stated that he had been two days on the force when employed on this job of getting evidence against defendant. He had been sent out in plain clothes by Head Constable Byrne with instructions to get a bottle of "stuff." Witness and his companion were told to make themselves out as weary travellers making from Bay Bulls Road. At the point Mr. Higgins asked witness where he belonged. "Spout Cove" was the answer. Mr. Higgins: "Well you spoilt an early in this game." Defendant, believing the story, gave them a bottle, both Constables assuring him that they could be trusted. Constable Manning called, gave evidence similar to that of witness. Cross examination stated that he had told defendant the liquor he bought from him was only wanted for use on the roads. Head Constable Byrne, examined by Mr. Winter, said he visited house of defendant on Nov. 5th with Head Constable O'Neill and another constable. Defendant offered to show him what liquor he had in the house. Defendant said he had no still. After conducting a search Byrne found a still which was disconnected and not in use. After taking samples from various bottles, he left Cross examined by Mr. Higgins, he said he had heard that alcohol was used in stomach remedies, by the preparation of which, defendant made his living. Mr. Deane, Government Analyst, stated that the samples submitted to him were different from the brands of alcoholic drinks kept in the Controller's Department, but though it is possible that some of these brands may have been contained in these samples. At this point, the case was adjourned until 3.30 this afternoon.

Shipping Notes.

Schr. Marion L. Mason sailed this morning for Barbados with a cargo of fish.

Schr. Nancy Lee arrived in port this morning with general cargo, including fish and pulp.

Schr. James O'Neill cleared from Harbor Grace for Malaga with 3550 qts. prime codfish.

Local Shipowners' Meeting.

NEW SCHEDULE OF WAGES.
A meeting of shipowners took place yesterday evening at 3.30 in the Board of Trade Rooms, when matters in connection with the working of the local sailing fleet were discussed. Mr. W. S. Monroe occupied the chair, and the different shipping concerns were represented. The matter of wages was first considered, and it was agreed that the following scale would come into effect from this date:—
Certified captains, $150.00 per month.
Non certified captains, $120.00 per month.
Certified mates, $85.00 per month.
Non certified mates, $75.00 per month.
Cooks, $75.00 per month.
Boatswains, $65.00 per month.
Able seamen, $60.00 per month.
At the present time a large number of our local vessels are tied up at the piers, or anchored in the stream, with their crews paid off, it being cheaper to lay them up than to accept of the freights and offers. This is caused by the fact that Danish and Norwegian, and even Canadian shipowners are in a position to offer lower freights; their crews are paid smaller wages than our sailors, and it costs the local owners $35.00 for each sailor for a month's food, whereas the Danish and Norwegian Tricketts, Cross examined by Mr. Higgins, local owners claim they are given every encouragement from the Canadian Government, get certain supplies at home and that the other running expenses in connection are much cheaper than in Newfoundland. At yesterday's meeting it was decided by the shipowners that in view of the high cost of material, as well as the high wages, and labor having increased over 70 per cent. within the past three years, that the Government be approached in connection with supplies with a view to having them placed on the free list. The question of loading marks was also discussed, and will again be referred to at a later meeting.

DIED.

There passed peacefully away on the 17th inst. Annie Newport, eldest daughter of Patience and Thomas Newport, aged 20 years. Funeral on Friday at 2.30 p.m., from her late residence, 23 Young St.

This morning, after a short illness, John Sullivan, aged 72 years, leaving two sisters to mourn his sad loss. Funeral Friday at 2.30 p.m., from his late residence, King's Bridge.

Found dead on the Beach at Topsail, on Nov. 15, a short distance from her home, Emma J. Allen, daughter of the late Frederick and Maria Allen, in the forty-third year of her age, leaving an aged mother and four brothers to mourn their sad loss. Funeral on Thursday, 18th inst., at 2.30 p.m. from her late home, Topsail.

SIXTEEN MINERS ENTRAPPED.
EARLINGTON, K.Y., Nov. 16.
A fire near the opening of the Arnold mine, one half mile east of here, has entrapped sixteen men, and with the conflagration growing in extent, little hope is held of rescuing them.

WRANGLER AT CONSTANTINOPLE.
LONDON, Nov. 16.
General Baron Wrangel, anti-Bolshevik leader in South Russia, has arrived in Constantinople on board the Russian cruiser Korniloff, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Constantinople.

PROPOSED TREATY UNDER FIRE.

LONDON, Nov. 16.
The question of the proposed treaty, under which Great Britain and United States undertake to support France in case that country were attacked, was broached in the House of Commons to-day, and gave rise to considerable discussion between Bonar Law, Government leader and numerous members, concerning Great Britain's position, should United States refuse to come in. Bonar Law said it would be premature to state what action the British Government would take in the event of United States refusing to ratify this Treaty. Sir Frederick Hall demanded whether Great Britain's position would depend on the decision of United States, or whether Great Britain was going to stand by France irrespective of United States. "The member is under a misapprehension," said Bonar Law, "our Treaty is only contingent on its being adopted by United States. If United States refuse to adopt it, of course a new situation arises, and we must deal with that situation."

OFFICIAL DENIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 17.
A report that the Haitian Government had requested Great Britain to intervene, with regard to the alleged killing of Haitians by United States marines, was raised in the Commons yesterday, and brought a reply from the Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs that no request for intervention had been received by Great Britain of behalf of Haiti.

ANGLO-PERSIAN AFFAIRS.

LONDON, Nov. 17.
Earl Curzon, explaining in the Lords last night, the Government's Persian policy, announced that all British troops would be withdrawn from Persia by next spring. The Government, said Curzon, expected the Persian Parliament to ratify the Anglo-Persian agreement, and would then do its best to assist Persia in her independence, but if ratification were refused the responsibility would be Persia's own.

WAR SUMMARY.

HORSEA, Nov. 17.—(British Wireless Service)—All night long, and throughout to-day, the pilgrimage to Cenotaph continued. At midnight thousands were patiently awaiting their turn, and although by three o'clock this morning the queue had melted away, there were always newcomers around the shrine. By six o'clock there was once more a thin line of visitors, which in the cold, grey mist of early morning gradually grew into a steady stream. Hours after being added to the mass which already covered the base of the memorial. In Westminster Abbey there has also been a ceaseless procession past the grave of "unknown soldier," and since early hours this morning, thousands are passing four abreast. On each side of the grave in the form of a cross are four lighted candles. On the centre of grave lies the King's floral tribute, with card bearing an autograph inscription, which is to be preserved among the archives of the Abbey. Next to it is a bunch of varicoloured chrysanthemums, brought by Mistress Lloyd George, also a tribute from the mothers of Wales. There were also displayed three enormous wreaths from the French Government, French Navy and French Army. An impressive scene was witnessed in the city to-day when the Duke of York, the King's second son, unveiled a monument in front of the Royal Exchange, in memory of four London divisions who served in war. These divisions were originally composed of Londoners throughout, and the officers were selected from London wherever possible. A remarkable feature was the vanishing of social distinctions.

Prices in the principal commodity markets showed fresh signs of weakness yesterday, and in some instances the decline, which has now been in progress for some months, has brought wholesale values very nearly to pre-war levels. Yesterday's downward movement was more noticed in cereals, cotton, metals and oils and turpentine, and the main causes were large sales, apparently in anticipation of still lower values, and the very limited demand for various commodities. It is now thought in business circles that cotton has probably "reached bottom," but that wool will fall still further. Meanwhile retail prices are wavering, but the sharp drop for which the public here is waiting is still delayed.

The great gale, which swept over Britain, the Netherlands and southern Scandinavia yesterday, is described by experts as one of most remarkable experienced in Europe for many years. At one place the storm was raging over area from Bay of Biscay to the Baltic, a sweep of one thousand five hundred miles. Meteorological records show few instances where similar atmospheric disturbances of such an area took place. Gale reached seventy-five miles an hour, and considerable damage was caused and telegraphic communications in the north of Scotland were interrupted. There were thrilling scenes on the South Wales Coast in the rescue of the crew of schooner Maria Jose, bound for Barry. This vessel was driven into Dunraven Bay, and became a hopeless wreck. The crew were huddled on board for some hours, with huge breakers dashing over them. Desperate efforts were made by men on shore to get a rope aboard, but their efforts were of no avail, and at last one of the crew jumped overboard. He was ducked under, but struggled desperately, and two men on shore, at great personal risk, plunged into the breakers and dragged him to land. Three other men were brought ashore by a rope, which had at length been got aboard. The heavy rolling of the ship brought down one of the masts, which struck the cook on the head and killed him, whilst the skipper suffered a fractured leg. On arrival of a rocket corps from Fortescue, who brought a breeches buoy, the remainder of the men, including the Captain, were brought to land by its means, and were accommodated at Dunraven Castle and provided with hot food and dry clothing. All vessels coming up the English Channel were swept by heavy seas from stern to bow, and several shipping casualties occurred.

The Daily Chronicle states that definite negotiations are proceeding between the British and American Marconi Companies in connection with technical wireless telephone stations on either side of the Atlantic, and land lines as soon as facilities are granted. These three great projects are already practicable. The compact will be to erect terminal high power stations, linked up with land telephone. Arrangements have also been made to connect Great Britain and other cities in Europe. The directorate of the British Marconi Company have been in negotiation with the radio corporation, and it is to complete arrangements that Mr. Godfrey Isaac, London Manager, is now visiting New York.

The Times Cairo correspondent says it is evident that the moderate section of the Egyptian Nationalist delegation party has gained the upper hand. While in many quarters, determination to obtain a formal abolition of the protectorate persists, the general feeling appears to be that the country must confide in the good intentions of Great Britain, of which she has already given evidence, and that the question of all reservations can well be left to be dealt with in this course of official negotiations. In view of this favourable trend of the development towards the further development towards establishing a new status in Egypt is expected very shortly.

The Times Bombay correspondent says the past fortnight has been marked by a distinct reaction against Mr. Gandhi's policy of non-cooperation in the generous measure of constitutional reform in India. Great educational institutions have stood firm and all great colleges have decided to accept the Government's grant. There is also reason to hope that new councils will represent the solid interests of the country, in opposition to the extreme Nationalists. In short, the country's common sense is reaching against a non-cooperation policy.

Making Home Baking Easy.

A BOOK THAT MAKES THIS ART OF THE OLDDEN DAYS A MODERN-DAY DELIGHT.

From all parts of the country come reports of a great increase in home baking. In fact, it has again become the fashion, as it was in grandmother's day, for women to take pride in telling about the good things they bake at home.

To encourage this great economy, and to make it easy for the beginner, as well as to give the experienced home bakers the benefit of the most modern discoveries, the Royal Baking Powder Company has published a most unique book which, in itself, is almost a course in the art of cookery. Turning the pages there is included a wealth of information most unusual in baking and cookery. Old and famous recipes have been improved and simplified, and on nearly every page there is something entirely new to serve as a surprise. Economy and ease of preparation are the keynotes of the book.

Indeed there is so much of value in this contribution to good living that one wonders how it was all worked out. We find in the introduction that it is the result of three years of constant research and experimenting by the Royal Educational Department, which is conducted for the benefit of all housewives interested in the health, economy and betterment of the home table.

True Story of Mrs. Mahon's Rescue.

This morning we received from the Inspector General of Police the correct version of Mrs. Mahon's rescue from Sunday's fire. Chief Winsor, hearing that she was in the house, asked for volunteers to get her out. Constables Warren, Case and Efford responded. They rushed upstairs and got out of a small window on the first floor to a roof lower down. The window of Mrs. Mahon's bedroom was closed, but the constables broke it in and entered the room. They discovered Mrs. Mahon lying on the bed, so lifting the window sash the rescuers drew her head and shoulders out on the sill. They then called for a ladder, which the firemen put against the kitchen window. Fire Constable Squires ran up it and got through the window over the body of Mrs. Mahon. The unconscious woman was then lifted out with his help and carried to the ground. There they found Kenally standing. He told the constables to put Mrs. Mahon on his back, which she did. She was then carried safely to the ground. We print the above story in justice to Constables Case, Efford, Warren and Squires, to whom great credit is due for their prompt response to Chief Winsor's call for help.

For years I have never considered my stock of household remedies complete unless a bottle of Minard's Liniment was included. For burns, bruises, sprains, frostbite, on the skin it excels, and I know of no better remedy for a severe cold in the head, or that will give more immediate relief, than to inhale from the bottle through the nasal organ.

And as to my supply of veterinary remedies it is essential, as it has in very many instances proven its value. A recent experience in reclaiming what was supposed to be a lost section of a valuable cow's udder has again demonstrated its great worth and prompts me to recommend it in the highest terms to all who have a herd of cows, large or small. I think I am safe in saying among all the patent medicines there is none so useful as does Minard's Liniment. A real truesium good for man or beast.

Doctors Seeking Secret of Longevity.

John Shell, of Lexington, Ky., who is 130 years old, will go to Chicago on December 15th to let the most prominent physicians of the country examine him and see if they can find out why he has lived so long. Shell says the recipe for long life is: "No pampering in boyhood; hard work through life; and no worry." He says he drinks whiskey when he can get it, and that he eats everything he can get hold of. Shell has a daughter 90, who lives near him, and a son, 70 who lives with him.

Sinn Feiners Tear Down British Flag.

A suchre party and reception at St. Camillus Roman Catholic Church, Rockaway Beach, recently was the occasion of a Sinn Fein riot, during which Rev. Father Brady was slapped in the face by a woman rioter, several men were assaulted, women fainted, children were trampled upon, glass doors were broken, and a small British flag, the object of attack, was torn down and trampled upon.

Mainly About People.

United States Senator Oscar Underwood smokes cigarettes. During his campaign he was counselled by an old man not to be seen by the voters of Alabama smoking "those cigarettes," but to use a corn-cob pipe whenever he appeared in public.

Robert J. Dunham, who has resigned as vice-president of Armour & Co., and has severed his official connection with all other Armour concerns, and who is about to start a private bank in Chicago, has been Armour's financial expert for years. He is young, dynamic, shrewd and genial.

Hon. John W. Davis, United States ambassador to Great Britain, will become a member of the law firm of Stetson, Jennings and Russell, New York, upon the expiration of his term. Francis Lynde Stetson, of the firm, is very ill, and Frederick B. Jennings is dead. The firm does legal work for J. F. Morgan.

Mr. Robert Guggenheimer, young millionaire mining magnate, on finishing school, unknown to his father and everybody else, secured a lowly job in the great Guggenheimer plant at Perth Amboy. When the new workman was discovered there was wonderment in the big plant.

The winner of the great Gordon Bennett international air trophy at Paris is Sadi Lecoq, a famous French "ace." He pointed his plane to victory, wearing, with the exception of a leather coat and helmet, an ordinary business suit. He flew the course of 185 miles in one hour and six minutes. France, having won the trophy three times in succession, will retain it permanently.

Helvor Steenerson, who represents a Minnesota district in congress, is a ponderous person, standing between six and seven feet high. He has a powerful voice that commands obedience. On the occasion of a trial he wanted a witness and he commanded the sheriff to bring him in if he had to do so on a stretcher. When the witness came Steenerson demanded in a thunderous voice why he wasn't there soon.

Capt. Munn Gives Information.

Later particulars have come to hand recently in connection with the death of Mr. R. S. Janes, which occurred in Baffin Bay last spring. Capt. Munn, who conducts a trading station in Cumberland Straits, has written Mrs. Janes, giving her further information about the sad happening. It seems that Mr. Janes did not leave Pond's Inlet in December last as he expected, but began his long journey to Fort Churchill, the Hudson Bay Co. post, in March of this year. The deceased was accompanied by several Esquimaux with dog sledges carrying the fruits of his four years sojourn in the Arctic wilds. The travelling at this period of the season is anything but good, and as last winter was one of the worst for years, the party must have suffered much hardship. After getting 180 miles south, a patrol of the North West Mounted Police, who are the custodians of law and order in this region, was met and on learning of the expedition's destination, gave them the information that owing to the ice in Fox Channel being broken up, it would be impossible for them to continue further south. This must have been a bitter disappointment to Mr. Janes, who was looking forward to getting back to civilization once again, but acting on the advice of the North West Mounted Police, he decided to await a more favorable opportunity, and accompanied them to their post. According to Capt. Munn Mr. Janes died at the post of the N.W.M.P. during the latter part of April, but does not say what the cause of death was. Capt. Munn's letter states that when his men saw the sledges, Mr. Janes' furs, etc., were intact, but no further particulars are given. No doubt within the next month or so full particulars will be obtained from the headquarters of the Mounted Police, and if Capt. Munn's story is correct, they will make a full report to the Canadian authorities.

Enjoyable Affair at Spillar's Cove.

On Thursday, Nov. 11th, a very enjoyable tea and dance was held in the R. C. School at Spillar's Cove, Bonavista. The affair was under the capable management of Miss Barbara Mullaly, the energetic and efficient teacher of the place, and its success was in a large measure due to her untiring efforts. Despite the unpleasant weather experienced, the residents and folk from nearby settlements came in large numbers to partake of the splendid treat prepared and banish dull care in the enjoyment of a step to the enlivening tunes of an accordion. The object of the affair was to provide funds for church purposes, and the promoters may well feel proud of their efforts which realized a splendid sum. During the night the hall was visited by the Rev. Fr. Dwyer, P.P., Messrs. Nicholas Ryan, John Hennebury and Thomas Joy, of Bonavista, who added to the enjoyment of the affair by their presence.—Com.

Klark-Urban Co.
 A MYSTERY PLAY TO-NIGHT.

The Klark-Urban Company presents to-night a mystery play entitled "At 9.45." Although this is a mystery production it is distinctly different from "The 13th Chair." The action of this piece keeps the audience spellbound throughout the entire four acts and they have their work cut out to solve the various situations which so rapidly develop in the plot of the play. At nine forty five a very mysterious shooting affray occurs at the home of Judge Clayton. Several persons are implicated in the affair through circumstantial evidence and on several occasions the police are on the point of making an arrest when new developments arise which apparently throw the guilt on other parties. The police are entirely at sea and the audience is kept guessing as to the identity of the real culprit until the final scene is reached in the last act.

The week-end attraction will be "Tess of the Storm Country." Seats now selling at Chesman's.

Theatre goers were delighted last night with the presentation of "Civilian Clothes," which has been voted the best production of the popular Klark-Urban Co., so far. Declamation, acting and staging were superb and the alternate laughter, and applause amply demonstrated the appreciation and pleasure of the audience. The C. C. C. Band rendered the usual excellent music.

Our Scholastic Institutions.

(1) FELD HALL.

(By our special representative.)

Yesterday, through the courtesy of the Warden, the Rev. H. L. Pike, we were enabled to inspect Feld Hall, the boarding department of Bishop Field College. He was immediately struck by the orderliness and cleanliness of the interior of the building, every room, even those in constant use by the boys being absolutely spick and span. Before we go on to describe the institution, we shall give a short account of its foundation and subsequent history.

Feld Hall was formerly the C. of E. Orphanage, but when the orphan were moved to the Shannon Munn Memorial Farm, the hall was acquired by the directors of Bishop Field College to be used as a boarding department, as the room occupied by the hostel when in the school building, was more than could be spared. In September, 1917 the Hall, which had been renovated during the summer, was ready to receive the Bishop Field College boarders, space being available for over fifty boys. During its first year, however, the institution was so unfortunate as to be quarantined for several weeks, owing to diphtheria germs having been brought in by some pupils which infected a great many others. Since then, however, the Hall has been thoroughly disinfected and parents need not hesitate for a moment to send their boys there. Lately the Hall has progressed, and under its capable warden, assisted by Mrs. F. Colley, the lady superintendent, and several resident masters, is a model of everything that a boarding school should be.

We shall now proceed to give a description of the institution, starting from the basement. Here, we have a large airy space, with concrete floor, one part of which is devoted to the storage of coal, a furnace, etc., while the other part contains basins where the boys may wash during the day, and also shower baths and lockers, for the purpose of allowing those who play games to get a good wash down and a quick change after their exercise is over.

The first floor contains the senior and junior "Prep." rooms, the Warden's office, the dining room, the Matron's sitting room and the kitchen.

The Senior "Prep." room is a fairly large room in the back of the building, and in it the senior boys do their home lessons. It is also used by them as a common room in which they may do their reading and writing, etc. The Junior "Prep." room is a very much larger one, extending from the front to the rear of the building and accommodates with ease the boys who do their work there. The senior boys work without a supervisor, but a master is always on duty in the Junior Prep. Room. Next to the Junior Prep. room is the dining hall; a commodious room with ample seating accommodation for over fifty boys. The kitchen, a large and spotless room, is entered through the dining hall. It is a model of what a kitchen ought to be, everything in it being spotlessly clean. The Warden's office is a small, comfortable room in the front, and in it all the business of the Church of England Colleges is conducted.

We next inspected the second flat. On this floor are the Chapel, sick room, juniors' bath room and junior dormitories. The rooms of the Warden, the Lady Superintendent and the maids are also on this floor. The chapel is quite a large room with plenty of seating capacity, and it is well fitted up. Services are conducted in it twice daily, whilst a Eucharistic celebration is held on Thursday mornings, a lay readers class on Friday mornings, and everything that can possibly be done for the religious instruction of the boys is done.

There are two dormitories for the juniors, each being well heated, (in fact, every room in the institution is excellently heated), and containing besides the beds, a wardrobe for each boy. The bathroom contains two baths, two lavatories and ten wash basins. The sick room can accommodate five boys when necessary, but for the last two months it has not been used, the health of all the pupils being excellent. This speaks well for the care bestowed upon them by the college authorities. The top floor contains the rooms of three of the resident masters, all large, well furnished apartments. There are two large dormitories for the senior boys, each one containing a bathroom furnished with two baths, two lavatories and ten basins. This completely under our inspection, and we cannot but express the great pleasure it gave us to find the institution in such a splendid condition, a condition, which speaks volumes for the work of Rev. Mr. Pike, Mrs. Colley and their assistants. At present, there are thirty boys in residence, whilst there is accommodation for fifty, and it is to be hoped that in the very near future all the vacancies will be filled. If parents only realized what an immense advantage it would be to the children to send them to board at Feld Hall, we feel sure that they would not hesitate one moment, but would pack the boys off there immediately. The pupils get up and go to bed at regular hours, get good solid meals, and are taught to be clean about themselves, and receive a thorough training in everything necessary for their welfare. Before bringing this article to a conclusion, we must again express our immense satisfaction and appreciation of the work done by those in charge of Feld Hall, for they have made it an institution of which they may well be proud.

The B. I. S. informal "AT HOME" will be held in the Club Rooms, St. Patrick's Hall, Wednesday, November 17, at 8.30 p.m. Tickets: Gentlemen, $1.00, and Ladies', 50c., may be had from Mrs. E. H. Peddigrue, the members of the Society, or at the door.—Nov 15, 21

C.L.B.C. Anniversary Entertainment.

Last night, the 29th Anniversary Celebrations of the C.L.B. Cadets were brought to a highly successful conclusion by the holding of a tea and concert in the Armoury. All preparations for this entertainment had been made by the Entertainment Committee, to which great credit is due for the very satisfactory manner in which everything was carried out. Upwards of thirty tables, each seating twelve, were prepared, and at 8 o'clock the ladies sat down to a splendid tea, provided by the lady friends of the Brigade, and to which full justice was done. After the tea had been partaken of, Lt.-Col. Goodridge read letters regretting their inability to attend from His Lordship the Bishop and former Lt.-Col. R. G. Rendell. Col. Goodridge then delivered an address on the history of the C.L.B. in Newfoundland. The corps was founded in 1891, the first laid to join being Harold Blackler, who is now in the United States. Notable amongst the first officers of the Brigade were Major Melville, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Mr. W. R. Warren, the present Minister of Justice, and Capt. now Lt.-Col. Franklin, D.S.O. To all of these officers the Brigade owes a debt of gratitude which it can never repay. After tracing the progress of the Brigade from the time that its first parades were held in an old building on Water Street to its present fine Armoury, the speaker paid a tribute to Mr. R. G. Rendell, the previous commander of the battalion, through whose efforts, he said, the present Armoury was built. The speaker also laid great emphasis on the splendid work done by the C.L.B. lads during the war, Right through the whole war, there was not one officer or lad of military age in the C.L.B. who had not attempted to enlist and as a consequence the work of the Brigade locally, was carried out under very great handicaps.

After Lt.-Col. Goodridge had concluded his interesting address, Rev. Mr. Clayton moved a vote of thanks to the ladies who had so kindly provided the tea, which was passed unanimously. The concert was then proceeded with. The programme was as follows:—
Band Selection.
Recitation—C.S.M. Colton.
Song—Bandsman Pottles.
Band Selection.
Song—Recruit Saunders.
Comic Monologue—R. Chafe.
Band Selection.
Sketch—W. and N.C.O.'s Mess.
At the conclusion of the concert, Rev. J. Brinton announced that he had been asked to make a presentation on behalf of the Band to each of the three Colonels of the Brigade, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Mr. R. G. Rendell, and the present O.C., Lt.-Col. R. F. Goodridge. This presentation took the form of a photograph of the Band. After the presentation, Capt. A. Morris, the Bandmaster, called for cheers for the Colonels, which were given with a will. Sir Joseph Outerbridge expressed his thanks to the Band for their thoughtfulness and assured them that their gift was appreciated highly. He then gave some reminiscences of the Band during the early days of the Brigade, and its gradual progress until it reached the height which it has now attained. After Sir Joseph had concluded, Lt.-Col. Goodridge made a few final remarks. The National Anthem then brought the official part of the programme to a very successful conclusion. A dance for the table holders was held afterwards in the Gym, bringing to a close the most successful Anniversary celebrations ever held by the C.L.B. in Newfoundland.

Woman Determined to Get Married.

"Do what you can for a poor grass-widow" is the appeal of a Western Ontario woman who has written to the Governor-General. She wants to secure a divorce from her husband, who, she says, is living with another woman in the United States. She adds that she has determined to get married, in any event, "for no one gets coal and eats for nothing these days." Her letter has been delivered to the proper authorities and she has been advised to consult a lawyer, because, although the Senate may remit the fees of an impecunious applicant for divorce, a lawyer is in a position to pronounce upon her case and carry out the requirements of the law.

He's Coming Home.

"Cheer up the skies will brighten
And all our troubles lighten."
A message was received last evening stating that the Prime Minister, Hon. R. A. Squires, had left England yesterday by the S.S. Empress of France. This means that he will come by way of Quebec and his arrival here may be expected in a fortnight's time.

Nfld. Poultry Exhibition.

The date of the ninth annual Poultry Show is rapidly approaching. On Monday night last the Committee met and finalized all arrangements. The show opens in the C.L.B. Armoury on Dec. 1st and will continue for three days. Judge Edison Griffen of Port Williams, will arrive on Nov. 30th. A new feature this year will be the display of cut flowers. A silver cup and blue ribbon will be awarded the firm of florists, or any private person sending the best display of cut bloom. Each exhibitor will be given free a special space to show his exhibits. The following silver cups are up for competition:—

1. Nfld. Poultry Association Cup for the outpost exhibitor winning the largest number of points on his birds.
2. The Angus McDonald Cup for the exhibitor winning the most points in the largest class in the show not at present having a cup where more than one competitor enters.
3. Minister of Agriculture Cup for Toulouse Geese.
4. Lady Davidson Cup for Buff Orpingtons.
5. Hon. R. A. Squires Cup for the exhibitor winning the most blue ribbons in the show.
6. P. F. Fearn Cup for best display of White Wyandottes.
7. Dixie Feed Cup for best display of Black Minorcas.
8. Nfld. Poultry Association Cup for the exhibitor winning the most number of points in the largest class of birds.
9. Minister of Agriculture Cup for Rhode Island Reds.
10. President H. W. LeMessurier Cup for White Plymouth Rocks.
11. Nfld. Poultry Association's Cup for the outpost exhibitor winning the most number of points.
12. Mr. Percie Johnson's Cup for White Leghorns.
13. Sir John Crosbie's Cup for White Orpingtons.
14. Mr. Percy F. Fearn's Cup for Barr'd Plymouth Rocks.
15. Mr. Arthur Hiscock's Cup for Pekin Ducks.

These cups will be shortly exhibited in the windows of Secretary John Calver for the public view. A prize for the judging competition amongst the Associations members has been offered by Mr. Geo. R. Williams. Special prizes are also offered by the following: Hon. Judge Morris, Messrs. Harvey & Co. (fish meal); Job Bros. & Co. (fish meal); Samuel Frellich, John Duff, Alan G. Carter, Stanley White, W. R. Butler, Simon Levitz, J. Higgins, K.C., His Honor Judge Morris Secretary John Calver and J. T. Lamb.

All exhibitors will secure entry forms from Secretary Calver as all entries close on Nov. 26th. The show promises to be a thorough success as a big entry is expected from the outpost bird enthusiasts including the new Poultry Association of Wabana and those living at Grand Falls, so city exhibitors won't have it all their own way. All the cups are now open for competition from imported birds as well as local excepting Buff Orpington Cup and Rhode Island Reds must be locally bred.

New German Hymn of Hate.

A German nobleman, who prefers to be anonymous, has written a new hymn of hate, and The Deutsche Zeitung, the organ of the Junkers, is "proud to print it." It requires no great effort to memorize it, and therein lies its great point, seeing that it is for Junker brains to treasure up. It consists of one all-embracing verse:—"There come a day, A Prussian day, A people like the Prussian folk and break them into two. It's at the hate The happy golden time of Prussia's hate And vengeance, too." It contains the whole Junker gospel, as announced at the recent Junker congress in Hanover, hate and vengeance.

WHEN the children romp in hungry as young bears, here are some wholesome, economical delights that will not only be received with glee, but will satisfy the most ravenous appetite in a most wholesome manner.

Cookies

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract or grated rind of 1 lemon
4 cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Cream shortening and sugar together; add milk to beaten eggs and beat again; add slowly to creamed shortening and sugar; add nutmeg and flavoring; add 2 cups flour sifted with baking powder; add enough more flour to make stiff dough. Roll out very thin on floured board; cut with cookie cutter, sprinkle with sugar, or put a raisin or a piece of English walnut in the center of each. Bake about 12 minutes in hot oven.

Cocoa Drop Cakes

4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Russian Peasantry Clamor for Czar.

According to Polonus, the staff correspondent of the Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service, Inc., the Russian peasantry are clamoring for the return of the Czar. The story is told by Miss Ellen Anderson, a Danish Red Cross worker recently returned to Copenhagen, after a most adventurous trip through Russia. The peasantry are asking "What have you done to our Czar?" and demanding that their "little father" be given back to them.

"Nobody outside of Russia," says Miss Anderson, "can form any idea of the reign of terror through which the people are passing. I was in the southwestern part of the country when Dzierzinski, the most cruel of all the Bolshevik commissioners, arrived there with a number of representatives of the special pan-Russian commission and an army of Red guards for the purpose of compelling the peasants to surrender their corn. The Red troops were divided into detachments of 300 each with field guns, machine guns and hand grenades. More than a dozen villages in my district were shelled and razed to the ground, and from everywhere the young men fled southward in the hope of being able to join General Wrangel's armies and return to fight the Bolsheviks."

"The news of the assassination of the Imperial family has gradually come to the knowledge of the peasantry and the people are convinced that their present sufferings are the punishment coming to them for the murder of the Lord's anointed, and this belief is strengthened by the numerous popes living in hiding among the peasants."

"The latest Bolshevik papers received here confirm that the military debacle has forced the Moscow government to place their only hope in the resumption of commercial relations with the western powers. These papers all give prominence to the news that besides Canada, the United States, and Great Britain, Norway and Sweden have applied to Moscow for concessions to exploit the forests of Russia. The Red Gazette announces that orders have been received from Great Britain for several million roubles worth of timber and the Swedish government has placed an order for two millions. This is denied by Gustaf Berg, president of the Swedish Timber Exporters Association."

Jack Sheppard's Funeral Procession.

As a burglar and prison-breaker, the notorious Jack Sheppard, occupies quite an exceptional position in the annals of crime. Not only was he made the hero of Harrison Alsworth's once popular romance called after him, and also of the play based thereon, in which Mrs. Kelly made a marked success, but even in his own time he was the object of much popular admiration. This found a vent in an extraordinary scene after his execution, as we are informed by the "Daily Journal" for November 17, 1725, which sets forth how, after the execution had been carried out, "the populace having a notion that it was designed to convey him to the surgeon's, carried off the body upon their shoulders from an alehouse in Long Acre, and the undertaker and his men got off with great difficulty."

Later in the day, "the body of Sheppard was delivered over to a gentleman, who himself had desired to take care thereof and the same night about 10 it was interred in an elm coffin at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields with a velvet pall over it and the Funeral Service performed, the Guards marching on each side of the coach (in which the coffin was carry'd), with bayonets fix'd at the ends of their muskets, so that no disorder happen'd. The Justices also made an order in writing on the interment." Surely no malefactor was ever so honored as to have a company of Guards attend his funeral! Nor was this all. As the Journal further mentions, before the execution, "Sir James Thornhill, the King's History Painter, took a Draft of Sheppard's face in Newgate." Altogether, it is a curious tale of popular perversity! But certain episodes in the history of our own age well warn us to be chary of superior criticism!

JOB'S STORES, Limited

Valedictory of T. Henry Smith.

(FROM THE LITTLE VILLAGE OF LONDON.)

Mr. Kinsella, 18th inst., sneers at "mattress making." Well if that isn't a more manly occupation than some that I know of, I'm beat. Perhaps some day Mr. Kinsella may get out in the fresh air and become a man. Who knows? For the present I am factory superintendent. I regret Mr. Kinsella connects my name with C. L. March. Mr. Kinsella, that is not nice of you.

Yes! I have had a real good time in life, and Nfld. is yet another venture, the whether I have something bigger in view or not (think that our Kinsella) for myself, is strictly my own business. I have seen a business like this grow very big. If I stay I shall perform my contract, honourably, first. But I have never known a petty official do much except snivel, "I never had a chance." How often we hear that.

Kinsella says nothing of his career—I presume it has been a sordid hand-to-mouth existence.—There are many him and they have my pity. His job does not permit of manliness. Its a "ninnys" task. "Twice one are two, etc. Yes, Kinsella, I possess "gifts" handed down to me by my mother, (a very clever and well known lady) and know it, but that's luck and I do not boast. I am proud of it.

Let the Irish "get on with it." All I know is I am an Englishman all up my back, and, tho' Englishmen have faults, they are the first in everything, say what you will, when the counting is done—and the best. I hope I shall always behave as an English gentleman. Have I not done so? Well, Kinsella, the "cockney" workman works four times harder than the men I have here. Don't deny it, or doubt, because if they didn't they'd starve in that awful city of competition for existence—London. I say that as a fact and not with any disrespect. It is habit.

You are wrong. I may have better ideas. I probably have. If you think one does not learn more in London than in St. John's, well, Kinsella, see a doctor, quick. I've made some money in business. That talks all languages. What you think doesn't matter Kinsella. To Londoners you would be an unknown ordinary clerk. Just that. Write to the Times, old sport, and tell them how clever you are and what an important job you've got. (Mine too). Do you harp on "mattress making" because you are used to getting tick? As to your sneer at my Army record. What about your Army record. Did you get the V.C. a bullet in the back, or nothing? Your reply was so vulgar, rude, and disparaging that I found little scope for pulling your leg this time.

Of course, Kinsella, I'm not bound to make public why I came to St. John's, am I? Sufficient to say that if you knew my literary or journalistic (British) non-de-plume you would have thought twice before you wrote your morbid insults. I've let you off light, because I pity you and all small officials who are compelled to lead sedentary lives for wages. Go to London, Kinsella, and teach them all you know. But—book your return passage this end! Go and force your way among eight million as I did. It would make a man of you. Or kill you. Please note: I "Kin-sella-a" mattress or a bedstead. Serve you right. Ta ta.

And you, Mr. Editor, bye bye for a while, and thanks.

T. HENRY SMITH.
(Note.—As stated on Saturday this correspondence, which has been reduced to mere personalities, and is by no means interesting, is now closed.—Ed. Tel.)

RUMORS OF WAR.

One day the Russians hunt their holes, pursued by fierce, triumphant Poles the next the Poles are on the run, spurred on by Russian sword and gun. "And, as I do myself for goat, I wonder what it's all about. There's trouble brewing everywhere, and war-like rumors fill the air. I thought, when closed the three-ring war, "Peace is the thing we're yearning for; the whole blamed world is sick of gore, and weary of the cannon's roar, and tired of human tears and groans, and of the sight of bleaching bones. The nations all would speed the plow and set the hen and milk the cow, pursue the gentle arts of peace, and bid the yawping captains cease." But now the Pole pursues the Russ and makes a most unseemly fuss; and now the Russ pursues the Pole, and shoots him with a ton of coal; wherever men infest the map, some tribes are itching for a scrap. And as I feed myself with kraut, I wonder what it's all about. Why can't the blame fool nations meet with friendly hearts, in concord sweet, and settle all their silly rows, and then go home to milk the cows? Why does the Pole pursue the Russ, and shoot him with a blunder-bus? Why does the Russian sweat the Pole? Has he no higher, nobler goal? Why don't they meet with friendly grins, and shake the dice to see who wins?

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if you're sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapiesin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapiesin, which costs so little at drug stores.

Doctor Fell.

Dr. Fell is a name for a person one does not like on general grounds without being able to state specific or adequate reason. Dr. Fell, is very old. The Rev. E. Cobham Brewer, LL.D., in his most reliable Handbook of Allusions, Reference, Plots and Stories, gives an account of the origin of the verse that tells of Dr. Fell. From 1625 to 1686, during the years of the Stuart Kings of England, the Dean of Christ Church College, Cambridge University, was Dr. Fell. One of his students was Tom Brown, who is remembered as a satirical poet, and prose writer, born at Shipnal, Shropshire, in 1663, and died in London on June 16, 1704. As punishment for violation of a college regulation, Brown was by Dr. Fell to translate an epigram from the Latin, written by Marcus Valerius Martialis, who lived during the last half of the first century. He was a Latin poet and author of fourteen books of epigrams. Brown turned the Latin epigram of Martialis, selected by Dr. Fell, into the well-known verse:

"I do not like thee, Dr. Fell—
The reason why I cannot tell;
But this I know and know full well,
I do not like thee, Dr. Fell."

Indian's Forty- Year Vigil.

The forty-year vigil of Philip Leffland, Indian, said to have been aged 138, over the valley where his square was killed, has ended with Leffland lying in a grave in the little cemetery at Weldon, near Bakersfield, Cal. Forty years ago a cloudburst in the Kato Valley drowned the aged Indian's squaw. Since then he had refused to leave or to accept the hospitality of a county farm or Federal reservation. He lived alone. A few days ago, however, Leffland's blankets caught fire while he was sleeping. He was fatally burned, dying shortly after.

Setting Stage for Title Bout.

DATE AND PLACE NOT YET NAMED.

Not more than half an hour was required to fix up the agreement between Carpenter and Dempsey for the title and $500,000, the champion to give $300,000 of that amount, and the challenger $200,000. The fight is to be held between March 1, 1921, and July 4th, and is scheduled to go not more than 10 rounds and not less than 10.

It was observed that Carpenter handled a pen with more facility than Dempsey, the American champion employing a right hook in signing his name, while the Frenchman performed the operation by feinting gracefully with his left and sending his right over with accuracy and speed. Just as the meeting was called to order Marcos Gonzales and Rafael Pardo, the Cubans who were said to be ready to take the match off the hands of the present promoters, entered the room and were introduced from the platform. Mr. Gonzales said a Cuban syndicate was ready to give $700,000 for the match, but he realized they had arrived too late.

It was rumored that Tom O'Rourke was ready to post a big forfeit in support of his $400,000 proposition, but Rickard set at rest all doubt as to who would stage the bout by declaring emphatically that his interest in the contest was not for sale, and Mr. Cochran made the same statement. Mr. Cochran added:

"I hope that fighters will exert themselves as hard in the ring as the promoters did in arranging the contest."

Rickard made the announcement that the contest would not be staged in a hall ground or any indoor structure, but that it would build a great arena that would hold the largest crowd that ever attended a pugilistic contest, and that the seats would be sold at prices ranging from $5 to $50.

The articles of agreement comprise twenty-seven sections, covering fifteen typewritten pages, and every conceivable situation is so thoroughly provided for that there is apparently no loophole for evasion of misunderstanding.

Both Dempsey and Carpenter are permitted under the terms to engage in bouts previous to their meeting in the ring, with the provision that Dempsey shall not box in Europe and Carpenter shall not enter a ring contest in America.

The boxers are protected by section 4, which provides that after they enter the ring and the gong sounds for the beginning of the first round they are then assured of their compensation no matter what occurs thereafter. Under that provision neither man could be deprived of his money even if the referee decided the boxers were not contesting on their merits.

Under Section 5 both contestants are required to be in the State in which the bout is to take place at least forty days previous to entering the ring.

Referee Question.

The referee, according to Section 6, is to be named by the managers of the fighters from the list of names agreed on. These are Bill Brown, New York; Otto Iotó, Denver; James F. Dougherty Philadelphia; James J. Corbett, New York; James M. Jeffries, Los Angeles, and Robert Edgren, New York.

If the managers cannot agree on a referee or judges, according to the law of the State, the decision is to be left to the contestants. If the fighters are unable to make selections then the task shall devolve upon the promoters with the understanding that if the selection is not satisfactory to the Boxing Commission, in which the bout may be staged the promoters shall, forty days prior to the fight, obtain from the commission a list of referees and judges, from which the manager of the contestants, or promoters must choose.

The signers of the agreement have drawn up their own boxing rules the features of which are as follows:

Contestants to break clean at the order of the referee; boxer scoring a knockdown to step back three paces while the count is in progress; bandages to conform to the law of the State in which the contest takes place; boxing gloves and bandages to be submitted to contestants or managers one hour before ringtime; weight of gloves to conform to law of State in which bout is staged; ring to be not more than 24 feet nor less than 13 feet square.

The promoters agree to deposit with the Central Union Trust Company of New York on or before November 20, 1920, the sum of $100,000, to be paid in equal parts to Dempsey and Carpenter in the event that the promoters fail to comply with the terms of the agreement.

Dempsey and Carpenter bind themselves to deposit on the above date with the Central Union Trust Company $50,000 each to guarantee that they will carry out the specific stipulations of the contract.

Under Section 16, moving pictures are provided for. These pictures are to belong jointly to the signers of the agreement, who are to form a corporation, one-half of the stock to go to the promoters and one-quarter to each contestant.

This Xmas let it be a Furniture Aristocrat

Get this Xmas guide-book to Period Furniture

Come in and let us give you a copy of "Edison and Music" Tells about the chief period designs—what they look like, what they stand for. Fifty descriptions. Beautiful illustrations. Just the information you want.

Let us show you what an exquisite thing a phonograph cabinet can be.

Every New Edison on our floor—no matter what its price—is encased in a genuine period cabinet.

Period Furniture is the world's most exquisite development of furniture. It originated in the 16th, 17th, and 18th Centuries. Europe was ruled by a Gorgeous Aristocracy. Fine living was the ideal of the day. An unparalleled race of artists, architects, and designers built palatial living-places for kings and nobles, and furnished them. The palaces of the nobility became treasure-houses of fine furniture. It was called the "Golden Age of Furniture."

So Mr Edison had his designers go back into the manor houses of England, the chateaux of France and the castles of Italy. They adapted 17 designs from historic masterpieces. They preserved entire "the character and feeling of the best periods" in these superb phonograph cases for the modern American home.

No matter which Edison cabinet you choose, you get both the arts that make your house a cultured home—music perfectly RE-CREATED and furniture of purest period source. What finer gift for all the family?

In the event it is found impossible to stage the contest on the date selected the promoters shall fix another date, within a period of thirty days from the original date selected.

the right within two days after such a knockout or defeat on points to terminate the agreement so far as the contestants are concerned, but there shall be no forfeiture of any of the moneys deposited by any of the parties to the contract.

Under Section 23 it is provided that if the contest takes place in a State where a boxing commission exists the rules and regulations of such body shall prevail in so far as they affect the manner in which the said contest is to be conducted.

The promoters agree twenty-four hours before the time set for the contest to deposit in a bank or trust company designated by the managers of the fighters $500,000, with written instructions to pay $300,000 to Jack Dempsey and $200,000 to Georges Carpentier immediately after the fighters have boxed with each other in accordance with the agreement. Although it would be a difficult matter to misunderstand any of the provisions of the contract, the signers decided it was necessary to have an arbitrator to settle any disputes and named Robert Edgren for the position. Mr. Edgren is also stakeholder.

100 Per Cent. Value

The clothes we turn out are uniform in style, quality and workmanship. Every suit is tailored with the same care. Every stitch sewn into it is as important as the making of the suit itself.

Every progressive dealer will readily realize the increased patronage and profit he may enjoy by handling clothes of such qualities. Ask your dealer for
