House of Commons Settles Strike.

Ulster Premier Accepts Invitation—Southern Irish Parliament Opened yesterday.

SETTLEMENT AT LAST.

LONDON, June 28. (C.A.P.)—The House of Commons tonight completed the settlement of the Miners' strike by sanctioning a wage subsidy agreement, which will stand until December 31st, 1922, and will then be terminable on three months notice thereafter. Reductions in wages are two shillings in July, half a crown in August, and three shillings in September. The men are to resume work on Monday. The men's leaders made much of having established a new principle of profit sharing on a national basis. The owners will forego profits for three months. Afterwards, to meet general costs, the owners will take seventeen pounds sterling to every hundred paid as standard wages, and the balance as profits, to be divided in proportion of 15 pounds sterling in every hundred to owners and 85 to workers. Wages are assured at 20 per cent. above the 1914 standard. National and District Boards will be established to adjust wage matters. Announcing the settlement in the House of Commons Premier Lloyd George justified the granting of 10,000,000 pounds to the mining industry on the ground that coal exporting districts were so hard hit by collapse of the export trade that, if economic conditions had fallen prey, there would be unsubsidiary reductions in wages. The settlement, he said, was a great and promising experiment. No such principles had to be applied in any industry. He was hopeful that it would inaugurate new relations between capital and labor, not only in coal but other industries, and he believed that if it was sincerely carried out, with good will, it would repay the nation for all the damage suffered through the dispute. The British coal industry will have been idle 94 days when the miners resume on Monday, while in point of duration this closely approaches a record for a British mine stoppage.

SOUTHERN IRELAND PARLIAMENT

DUBLIN, June 28. The Southern Irish Parliament, established by the Home Rule Act, opened here this afternoon. The proceedings lasted only fifteen minutes. The four Imperialistic members from Trinity College and fifteen members of the Senate attended. There was little public interest.

CRAIG ACCEPTS.

BELFAST, June 28. In a letter to Premier Lloyd George, Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, says, "In view of the appeal conveyed to me by the King in his gracious message at the opening of the Northern Parliament for peace throughout Ireland, we cannot refuse to accept your invitation to a Conference to discuss how this can be accomplished."

STRIKE NEWS.

LONDON, June 28. The ballot of Engineers has gone against acceptance of the Employers'

Railway Commission Report.

ARGENTIA LINE WILL COST OVER $200,000.

(Continued.) If a well built standard gauge railway, running through a comparatively flat country, populated by both industrial and agricultural producers and practically immune from competition with sea borne traffic has to acknowledge a deficit after last year's operations of nearly $100,000,000, what can be expected from a narrow gauge mountain railway, poorly designed, built and equipped, with many miles of track through non-producing country and working on a schedule of rates averaging fifty-two per cent of that of the Canadian Railways. It cannot escape the penalty of a deficit and that deficit is only saved from being much higher by the false practice of bolstering up the receipts with large subsidies drawn from the general revenue instead of making such rates as will cause the traffic to pay for the cost of its handling and transportation.

Canada and Newfoundland are not the only countries in which deficits have been inflicted by the war and its aftermath. Great Britain, the United States and most of the allied countries are in the same position, but the Newfoundland Railway and the Canadian Pacific Railway are, perhaps, unique in being the only railways unassisted, or practically so, during the war by the Government of the belligerent country in which they are situated; but, whereas the Canadian Pacific Railway got the advantage of enhanced rates the Newfoundland Railway benefitted very slightly in this respect, and had to rely largely on increased subsidies. Great Britain and the United States took over their respective railway systems, the former from the beginning of the war till now, the latter for a period of 2½ years. During these periods, with greatly increased rates, the former gave the Railway Companies over $3,000,000,000, and the latter $2,000,000,000 for rehabilitation, to say nothing of the losses sustained in operation, which we think have not been disclosed.

Your Commissioners are of opinion that this question of rates and fares should engage the attention of the Government at the present session of Parliament. A contract made in 1901 containing a hard and fast set of rates and fares cannot under altered world conditions be considered any longer as fair and reasonable; and, probably, the best way to deal with the question would be to refer the fixing of fares and rates from time to time to the arbitration of a Public Utilities Commission appointed by Parliament.

The necessity of spending a large sum of money on the reconstruction of the railway wharf at Placentia drew attention to the general unsuitability of the present site and the hardship put upon through passengers in having no direct connecting link between rail and steamboat, entailing a long walk encumbered by hand baggage along a makeshift path. This path is often torn up by heavy seas. The difficulty and danger attendant upon the handling of through freight was also considerable and expensive. The exposure of the wharf to the open sea which in stormy weather swept it and forced the steamers to flee to shelter and the frequent blocking of the roadstead by ice suggested the necessity of moving the terminal to a more sheltered port. The claims of Harbour Harbour have frequently in the past been advocated and your Commissioners after having a survey made of a Branch railway to that Harbour found the scheme to be quite feasible and highly desirable from many points of view, not the least being the perfect adaptability of this place as a winter terminal for the cross-straits service in the winter months. The chief advantages of Argentia are: Firstly, it is practically a land-locked harbor only requiring the erection of a pile wharf instead of a cribwork or concrete wharf at Placentia; secondly, the approach from sea is easy and unobstructed by any dangers to navigation; thirdly, the train can come alongside the steamboat as at Fort aux Basques; fourthly, there is ample space for all present and future terminal facilities; fifthly, it is in normal years an ice free port nearer to the Anglo-Nfld. Dev. Co. than their present winter shipping port of Heart's Content, and if they care to lengthen our wharf to accommodate their large steamers they can find twenty-six to thirty feet of water alongside and will have ample space for the erection of their storehouses; sixthly, it is equipped with proper coal unloading and storing plant its proximity to and accessibility from Nova Scotia at all times and seasons would considerably reduce freight and handling charges on railway coal for the Eastern Division and Branch Railways, and in the case of ice blockades at St. John's would be made the means of averting a coal famine.

For these and other reasons your Commissioners recommended the construction of a branch railway to Argentia and a terminal with wharf, and after obtaining your Government's permission to proceed with the work prosecuted same until wintry weather caused the shutting down of the work, which has now been resumed. About 3½ miles of railway were graded, culled and ballasted (partially) and the wharf was constructed to its full length but not to full width. The completion of the fascinating, the fencing, the building of a concrete bridge, the grading and laying of sills, the widening of the wharf—and the construction thereon of the station building, custom's department and freight shed have still to be done. The expenditure to list May has been—

For the appropriation of lands . . . $ 3,606.00
For the construction of the railway . . . 119,475.44
For the construction of the wharf . . . 19,077.46
It is estimated that there will be required to complete the project the sum of $165,058.90.
(To be Continued.)

Mrs. Miller Was Unable to Move Without Support

St. John's Woman Says Nobody Knows How She Suffered—Health Perfect Now.

"It is just beyond my words to express the gratitude I feel for what Tanlac has done for me. Why think of it, a few weeks ago I was almost hopeless and now I am in the very best of health," said Mrs. Leonard Miller, 124 Water St., St. John's, N.F. "For nine years I had a complication of troubles and nobody knows how I suffered. No matter what I ate I would be in misery for hours afterwards from heartburn and a stuffy, smothering feeling. At times I became so dizzy I would have to catch hold of something to keep from falling over. My back was so weak and hurt me so bad I had to take my bed at times and then when I wanted to get up I couldn't move without help. I was nervous, did not sleep well at night and had a depressed feeling and feared that some awful calamity was about to happen. As I look back now it is hard for me to understand how I held out as long as I did.

It certainly is remarkable how Tanlac brought back my health. I seemed to get new life and energy from every dose. It soon had me feeling as well as I ever did in my life, eating anything and never bothered with indigestion or sleeping all night long without waking once. The rheumatism has gone, too, and I am doing my housework. Tanlac brought me health and happiness, and it is simply impossible for me to say half the good things I want to say about it."

Many Lonely Isles Remain.

Crowded as the world appears to be getting, Robinson Crusoe could still find a lonely haven to-day, and he would not have to resort to the Polar regions either.

Numerous islands still dot the seas where a visitor would find no living soul and there are others where the inhabitants are living in almost primitive simplicity. There is Baker's Island, 3,725 miles out from San Francisco, as well as many other such, isolated spots in the Pacific where there will be no chance of getting even a faithful Friday to share your lot. If you feel that you must have your wife somewhere in the office you can send her out to Howland Island, twenty-five miles to the westward, an equally deserted spot, and row over to see her when you get bored with your freedom.

Fanning Island might interest a less exclusive individual. This stygian lies in the mid-Pacific, about 255 miles north of the equator and is thickly covered with cocconut trees. There is a fair harbor on the southwest side out of which its two hundred men and women ship their copra. Pearl oysters are to be found in the lagoon, poultry and cattle can be procured, the fish are plentiful and excellent, and duck, snipe and curlew may be shot.

A British cruiser late in 1920 visited a spot which has had only one other caller at her port since July, 1919. This isolated place is Tristan da Cunha, said to be the loneliest spot in the British Empire. The island, which is of volcanic origin, towers to a height of eight thousand feet above sea level in the South Atlantic.

There are only 119 inhabitants on the island. Their wood is that which drifts in to them on the tide, they raise potatoes as the food staple, they make their moccasins of soft bullock hide, they obtain a few clothes from occasional ships which call there in exchange for goods, flour, milk, sheep, eggs and cured albatross and penguin skins and for months in succession they do without bread, tea, coffee and sugar.

If there is a skeleton in your closet, rest assured that the few inhabitants of Easter Island, twenty-three hundred miles off the coast of Chile and the easternmost inhabited Polynesian island, will make no effort to bring it forth into light, as one traveller says of them that they are not curious enough to turn around on the dock to look at the boat that sails there about once in eighteen months.

That a great many of the garments that we have received in the past month were from new customers who had those garments mishandled by other dyers and were sent to us as a last resort, before a settlement was made with the owners. We were able to doctor up the majority of those crippled garments to the entire satisfaction of those owners. If you have any sick garments of this character send them to us. If our customers don't accept the garments after we doctor them, don't pay us. No cure no pay. We have received a new shipment of dye, the best on the market. Are There Pirates on the Atlantic?

Disappearance of Many Craft Baffle U. S. Authorities -- Message Enclosed in Bottle.

Portland, Maine, June 21.—The theory that pirates are afloat in the North Atlantic has found credence here. Belief in this explanation of the fate of recently missing ships has grown with establishment of the fact that the message in a bottle picked up two months ago north of Cape Hatteras purporting to explain the disappearance of the crew of the five-masted bath schooner Carroll A. Deering, the mystery ship of Diamond Shoals, was written by Henry Bates, of Islesboro, Maine, a member of the crew. Question of its genuineness was settled by handwriting experts, who compared it with letters written by Bates.

INVESTIGATING MYSTERY.

Washington, June 21.—It was announced to-day that five different departments of the United States Government have started investigations of the reported mysterious disappearance of three United States coastal steamers and a schooner, which was brought to light yesterday when it developed that Senator Hale, of Maine, had been instrumental in getting official enquiry in the matter under way.

The disappearance of Cape Hatteras of the Norwegian steamship Florina has never been explained, but never was heard from. Seven vessels all told are missing off the coast of Virginia since the first of this year, but as far as is known now pirates are suspected of seizing only three of these besides the Carroll A. Deering.

AN UNSOLVED PROBLEM.

Washington, June 21.—The crew of an American ship is missing, and what seems to be conclusive evidence has been obtained that they were made prisoners on another vessel and taken away to parts unknown, if they were not murdered. A second American is long overdue, and two other American ships are unaccounted for under circumstances that lead to the belief that their disappearance is in some way connected with the capture of the crew of the first mentioned vessel.

The United States Government has undertaken to solve these mysteries of the sea, which, in the opinion of officials expressed yesterday, point either to old time practical methods of the Atlantic coast, or the seizure of the vessels for the benefit of Soviet Russia.

Several months ago the five-masted schooner Carol Deering, of Portland, Maine, was found abandoned off Diamond Shoals, N. C. with all sails set and her officers and crew missing. The Deering went ashore near Diamond Shoals lightship, and when the men of the nearby lifesaving station went aboard they found evidence that she had been abandoned in a hurry for no conceivable reason, for the vessel was in good shape with plenty of food.

A little later a bottle came ashore near where the ship was found, and in it was a note purporting to have been written by the mate of the schooner, which ran as follows:

"An oil-burning tanker or submarine has boarded us and placed our crew in irons. Get word to headquarters of Company at once."

The steel steamer Hewitt, of Portland, Maine, owned by the United Sulphur Company of New York, is also missing. She sailed from Sabine, Texas, several months ago with a cargo of sulphur for Boston and Portland. The Government authorities have been unable to get any

Stars Defeat Saints

IN LEAGUE FOOTBALL GAME.

The Stars defeated the Saints by 2 goals to 0 in last night's League game. The game was a most disappointing one and deteriorated from almost the very start into a "free for all" contest. Wild shooting predominated whilst combination was conspicuous by its absence. The Stars had the best of play and in the first half kept the ball in their opponents' territory. They only contrived to score once, however, W. Hart heading the ball in the net from a corner kick after fifteen minutes play.

THE SECOND HALF

was most uninteresting and only one goal was scored, W. Hart again doing the needful. The game ended with the Stars the victors, the Saints having been unable to find the net at all.

The table of points now stand as follows:—

Shipload of Millionaires Here From United States.

Kaiser I. Hind, With 400 Wealthy Americans, on Way to Iceland and Norway on Pleasure Jaunt—Many Distinguished People Aboard—Ambassador to Japan Interviewed by Telegram.

Specialy Written for the Telegram, By J. R. SMALLWOOD.

Millionaires and millionairesses and millionairesses representing more wealth than mentioned by all the Budgets since responsible government in Newfoundland, came to St. John's yesterday afternoon, stayed overnight and this morning, and left again (with the bulk of their wealth) this afternoon for Iceland. Just like that.

The Kaiser I. Hind, a Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation company boat of 1,450 tons, and the "free for" liner for a pleasure jaunt around the world. Most of the people aboard are New Yorkers, and it is among them that the tourists have chartered the liner for a pleasure jaunt around the world. Most of the people aboard are New Yorkers, and it is among them that the tourists have chartered the liner for a pleasure jaunt around the world.

AN ARMY OF NOTABLES. Said before that many notables are aboard. Col. Charles B. Warren is one of them. That name may not convey to you just the right significance it holds. You'll understand when it is explained that he's the newly-appointed ambassador to Japan. Colonel Warren is one of the most picturesque figures in America of the present day.

A FLOATING PALACE. These millionaires have the thing down to a system. Everything—including a bar, which is in full swing when the ship is outside the three-mile limit—is there to make the moments to be remembered for the rest of life. If you tire of the band music, or the music from the grand piano (probably being wrought out by some star pianist) or the gramophone music, or cards, reading in the ship's library, or tennis, or smoking in the smoking room, there is always the movies. Sure, movies! They've got a pretty good theatre aboard and enough films to make the trip interesting, of themselves. Also there are a couple of movie cameras with which moving pictures of scenes on board, or ashore during the voyage, may be taken and shown aboard. Oh, yes, these people know how to enjoy themselves.

THE ITINERARY. The route planned by the tourists will enable them to see Iceland and all its beautiful scenery. However, they won't stay there too long, for there are better things ahead. From Iceland the boat will plow the seas to Scandinavia, where the fjords of Norway will be viewed in close range and the wonderful mountain scenery of the Newfoundland of the old-world examined. After taking in most of these, and after romping thru the grassy awards along the sides of the beautiful ravines there, and fishing up the stately rivers, and "doing" the towns, they will be thru even then. Scotland remains. Scotland is to be done. That sentence must stand for weeks of unmitigated joy. Then there's Holland, Amsterdam—where they cut diamonds and so cetera, you know—has long looked good in the eyes of these money lords. That's where their jewels came from, and they want to see how it's done. Also there's Antwerp with a history. Of course Antwerp must be taken in.

Why, yes; I knew Sir James Wither and Sir Robert Bond, and Mr. Morris, Ambassador Warren, replied "Mr. Morris? You mean Lord Morris?" "Indeed! I am glad to hear that."

Colonel Warren, who is a quiet-voiced, unaffected man, strikes his interrogator straightway with his evident personality. In size he is thick-set and just a little short—S. J. Fooks, M. H.A., and he might pass in the dark and not be distinguished. He is one of the new ambassadors appointed by President Harding (with whom, by the way, he is on a footing of personal friendship) not a newspaperman. Colonel George Harvey, Ambassador to Great Britain, and Richard Washburn Child, to Italy, are representatives of the glorious art of typewriter-key tapping.

Walter F. Watters, President of the Jordan Marsh Company, Boston's greatest department store, and his wife, are among the passengers. Samuel F. Pryor, President of the Remington Arms Company, and his wife, are passengers. Dr. D. McAlpin, brother of General McAlpin, owner of McAlpin's Hotel of New York, is a passenger. Chester B. Humphrey, Vice President of the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, is among the globe trotters. Also there is Col. and Mrs. Webb C. Hayes. Col. Hayes is a son of ex-President Hayes of United States. Dr. Max Elmhorn, the famous New York intestine specialist, is there. Gardner Edmonds—this will interest sport fans—Captain of the Harvard Baseball team, is on the ship. Harvard has beaten Yale twice already, so it's safe for Edmonds to be away. He could never have left had it not been so—therefore, of course, nothing remains but to win, and win they did. Another athlete is Edward F. Eagan, who was amateur champion, middle weight boxing, at the Olympic games last summer. He is a Yale man. When these two get started on their college yells, there is some tall noise. The passengers are divided roughly into two camps—Harvard and Yale. Edmonds and Eagan have trained their respective followers how to yell, and if the people of St. John's heard any frightful uproar last night, they can rest assured with this explanation.

NO HOPE FOR ESPERANTO. HALIFAX, N.S., June 29th. The International fishing schooner racer, Esperanto, which was reported Monday to have been raised forty feet off a sand bank at Sable Island, where she had foundered, has sunk again to bottom, according to a message received here. A Southern Belle is thought to have been responsible.

CRAIG DECLINED. BELFAST, June 29th. Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, declined to-day an invitation extended to him by Mr. DeValera, Irish Republican Leader, to meet DeValera in Dublin on Monday. The invitation was contained in letters to the Ulster Premier and four other eminent Irishmen outside of DeValera's party.

FAMOUS MOVIE STAR. However, to set your impatient curiosity at rest, we'll tell about the movie star, She's Madge Kennedy—and you all know her, folks. Really and truly, she's here in the flesh. If seeing her with your own eyes, and talking to her with your own tongue, constitute proof, that's all that's necessary. Madge Kennedy is all that one would imagine her to be—pretty, charming and altogether lovable. With her dainty manner, her sly-like walk, her glorious eyes, her beautiful American smile, her graceful, objectless nasal effect, and her girlish way, she's just DIVINE! (Eh? Oh, nonsense. Don't be silly. Of course we're not.)

Seriously, though Madge Kennedy is a nice girl. She's married, you know, and her name really isn't Madge Kennedy any longer. However, with the fatal effect of her beauty, etc., when we were presented to her, we entirely lost her new name. In fact, we once awkwardly addressed her as "Miss Kennedy." (Oh, you go meet her and see if you wouldn't be taken that way yourself.) Miss Kennedy was very interested to hear that her pictures were shown in St. John's, and seemed to be taken by the idea of their finding their way "all this distance."

She was obviously pleased, however, at the intelligence. She said that she might possibly "take in" one of the city theatres last night, and made some queries as to the different ones. As to whether she did or not, however, cannot be stated.

Well, St. John's has had many prominent people here in her day, and there's no denying it. Not often, on the other hand, did they come in such bulk. There are 400 of them, and if ever you were doubtful over the meaning of "the upper four hundred," realize now that the four hundred—and then some—were in this town yesterday. Certainly, there are some citizens who won't soon forget them. Cabbies did not forget them yesterday afternoon and evening and this morning, while post-card and souvenir sellers were all but cleaned out. The Government, too, didn't do so badly. It is said that several thousand dollars' worth of postage stamps were sold—the millionaires procuring them for stamp collections. Whole sheets of stamps were purchased. Let us live in hopes that some other Ark of Millionaires will pop in to see us in the not distant future!

Dear Sirs,—Since the start of the Baseball season we have been hindered with sore muscles, sprained ankles, etc., but just as soon as we started using Minard's Liniment our troubles ended. Every baseball player should keep a bottle of your Liniment handy.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

QUEBEC'S ULTIMATUM. QUEBEC, June 29. The Quebec City Council, to-night issued an ultimatum to striking policemen and firemen, giving them until to-morrow to report for duty, and insisting that the men accept a ruling of the Board of Arbitration, awarding one dollar a week to policemen and 75 cents to firemen.

NON-COMMITTAL. LONDON, June 28. The question of the advisability of the renewing of the Anglo-Japanese alliance came before Conference of the Empire Premiers to-day, but owing to the British Prime Minister having to attend a conference in connection with the settlement of the coal strike, discussion was limited to brief statements by Lord Curzon and Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, and the discussions were confidential, and at the close no communique was issued to the press, but it is understood they were of a very non-committal character.

REQUESTS A CONFERENCE. DUBLIN, June 28. Mr. De Valera has written to Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, Earl Middlesborough, who in 1920 advocated one Parliament for the South, with six Ulster counties under the Imperial Parliament. Sir Maurice Dockwell, M. P. for Galway Division of Dublin County, who was returned as a Unionist supporter of the Coalition Government, except to his Irish policy of Home Rule, Sir Robert Henry Woods, member of Parliament for Dublin University, and former President of the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland, and Andrew Jameson, asking them to meet him at the Mansion House Dublin on Monday, for a conference. He wishes to discuss with them, in his hand, the views of certain sections of the people they represent.

I'm Ready for Summer—Are You? My Store, the finest equipped men's store in the city, now shows that my last rush trip to the big U. S. markets made another progressive notch in this store's record for being ahead of the times.

Newly Opened Summer Goods. Dressy Apparel for Men. Cool as a Summer Breeze. I have no old stock to unload; I have no old prices to maintain. Everything fresh, crisp and new! You men who buy your summer wear here get no less in style than what Fifth Avenue shows.

Bask under the shade of Ice-Cool Panamas, Velvet-Grip Straws with the famous Bon-Ton Ivy Band. Snap your fingers at Old Sol. Here's head comfort! These don't grip or pinch; fit on the head as airy as a cloud. Stylish—of course! Smarten up Old or New Straws—SILK HAT BANDS in your favorite colors, 50c. each.

Summer comfort comes from what you leave off and what you put on. Arctic-Cool Underwear. Silk and Cotton Union Suits, $3.00, $4.00, $7.00. My! what relief. Well, sir, once you slip into these embracing, cloudy garments you've put the half-Nelson on comfort as long as the sun shines. Silk for those who feel they must be clad well inside and out. Cotton for those who must economize.

Wedding Bells. COOK—LONG. A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the Anglican Cathedral this afternoon, when Miss Annie Laura Allison, daughter of Mr. Walter Long, of the Telegram Office, Canon Bolt, tied the nuptial knot. The bride was attended by her uncle, Mr. Walter Field, and her bridesmaid, Ethel and Florence Cook. The room was supported by Mr. Herbert Crocker. The honeymoon will be spent at Hearst's Cottage, the newly-wedded couple leaving for Carbonear by this evening's train. Many presents testified to the popularity of the newly-wedded pair, and wish them bon voyage over the sea of life.

Legislative Council. TUESDAY, June 29th. The session opened at 4 p.m. The following Bills were given a third reading: "An Act to amend Chapter 182 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series) entitled, of the Prosecution of the Seal Fishery." "An Act for the Prevention of Venereal Diseases." The Maintenance of Certain Public Roads, and the Indemnity Bills were introduced and given a first reading. The House adjourned at 5 p.m. until Monday next.

What Will Happen? Despite the fact that the Speaker did not mention the hour for re-assembly when adjourning the House yesterday, according to Parliamentary Procedure, it must meet again at 3 p.m. to-day. What will happen at to-day's session is a question which is interesting many citizens. Whether the Government will bring up the motor bill, or the Railway Commission or not, is uncertain just as it is safe to state that Railway matters must be discussed. To-morrow is the last day of the month and the term of office of the Railway Commission automatically expires. The Government will either have to evolve some plan for the future operation of the railway to-day or confess defeat. Which will it be?

Government Gets Busy. The deputation of some twenty men which arrived by train yesterday from St. John's Bay with the intention of demanding at the Bar of the House either work or supplies for the fishery, have made the Government get busy. Dr. Barnes has been put on the job of satisfying the men's demands and it is likely that a satisfactory settlement will be made to-day. It is said that the motor body of men will arrive in town from around the Bay in the course of a few days. The deputation is the same as that of the present delegation.

Supreme Court. (Before the Chief Justice.) In the matter of the St. John's Daily Star Publishing Co. vs. The Newfoundland Conference of the Methodist Church.—The matter was set for Thursday, July 21st, at 11 a.m.

Veterans Meet. The unemployed War Veterans held a meeting in the L.S.P.U. hall last night, when the matter of taking action with regard to their present condition was discussed. Prompt and vigorous action was moved, but the matter was deferred until a further meeting is held, some of the veterans preferring to move cautiously in the matter. Several of the men waited at the Prime Minister's office this morning and were promised that something would be done for them during the afternoon.

Here and There. WANTS BASEBALL FRIDAY.—We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. G. W. B. Ayre in which he protests against the idea of no baseball on other games on Friday, July 1st, which is a whole holiday in commemoration of Beaumont Hamel.

TO-NIGHTS GAME.—The Feddians and C.E.I. meet to-night in what promises to be the most interesting game in the League Football series played up to the present. There are some slight alterations in the Feddian line-up, so it is understood. Tait going to his old position of full back and Eric Chafe will replace him at centre half. The C.E.I. have a very strong line-up and some good football should be seen.

Dear Sir:—In reply to Michael Lacey and John O'Brien, I would wish to say that in the matter dealing with the employment of returned men, I consider they are justified in making a kick and I will say right now that pick and shovel work is not good enough for a returned man. I consider that they had enough of the pick and shovel digging the trenches, but if no other employment can be found and we have got to use the pick and shovel to keep body and soul together, then give us a living wage, no man can support a family on $2.00 per day. As regards to the Naval Prize Money I do not agree with those gentlemen in saying we have received a very rotten deal indeed, at the hands of the government, if Mr. Lacey and Mr. O'Brien would just consider for one minute they would find out that we have received a rotten deal at the hands of ourselves, we must not forget that we signed away The Prize Money, not knowing at the time we were doing so. Now Mr. Editor I am no more in favour with this government than is any other returned man, and I am certainly not in favour with the government in holding back the prize money and I am fighting as hard as any body to get it and I think I can assure my comrades that we will get it, if the Prime Minister can do it. I had a promise on Monday from him that he would do his utmost for us and that we should be thankful. I also wish to inform my comrades that the Prime Minister is giving a written statement on Thursday of what he intend doing re the matter, and will be published on Saturday of this week for the information of all concerned. I thank you Mr. Editor for space.

I am Sir, yours truly J. Rodgers. June 28, 1921.

The Procrastinators.

Another adjournment of the House of Assembly, the pretext being lack of a quorum; yet there were sufficient members in sound of the summoning bells to have made a regular session. But apparently the Government does not want to expedite business. As a matter of fact it has no business ready for transaction. After three months there is an equal dearth of legislation as was found at the opening day and in the Speech from the Throne. Every person now begins to realize the crass incapability of the Administration; everyone now sees that the members of it do not measure up to their job, and that all they have accomplished during their tenure of office is the squandering of millions of dollars uselessly, and making an attempt to wring the sums of their extravagance out of the people of Newfoundland. Destruction, not construction seems to be their only policy. And the people seemingly are content to let them continue because rescue from their clutches does not look to be near.

But give the people one opportunity and see just what they will do. The endorsement of the action of Mr. Frank Archibald by eight hundred and fifty-one of his constituents in Harbor Grace district, is unchallengeable proof that as is Harbor Grace so also are the other seventeen electoral districts of the country, apart maybe from those sections still dominated by the personality of the President of the Fishermen's Protective Union, a personality, happily, which is growing weaker as day succeeds day, as fishermen come nearer to a perception of the absolute failure of their one-time idol to make good in their behalf. The man who would be king has reached the end of his political tether, and the fate of all deposed monarchs must inevitably be his. The plaudits of the multitude no longer are heard, neither are the cries of acclaim and former fealty. Bitter and sullen silence prevails and there are none so poor as to do the fallen chief reverence. The same might with equal truth be applied to the Prime Minister. The high political mission to which he was called and elected has failed miserably, and he is too a man politically discredited in the house of his friends. All that can be done by the Squires administration is spend and treat. Its opportunities were great, but its abilities were few, hence the woefully distressed state, politically and commercially, in which Newfoundland now finds herself, a state directly chargeable to the ignorance and incapacity of the men who were articulated to become the crew in 1919. As legislators they are brilliant failures; as procrastinators they are brilliant successes. And the country groans under the burdens and excesses of their Government.

Ordination Service.
THREE DEACONS ADMITTED TO THE PRIESTHOOD.
High Mass was celebrated at 8.30 a.m. at the R.C. Cathedral, to-day being the feast of St. Peter and Paul. At the service three deacons, Revs. Michael Kennedy, Wm. McGrath and Patrick Kennedy were raised to the priesthood. The former is a son of Mr. R. T. McGrath of the Customs Service. Rev. Patrick Kennedy is a son of the late Patrick Kennedy, Tailor. The ceremony was performed by His Grace the Archbishop, assisted by Rev. J. J. McGrath, Dr. Kitchen and Rev. Dr. Green as Master of Ceremonies. The other priests attending were Revs. Pippy, Carter, Goff, Kelly, and Rawlin. A large congregation attended the service. After their ordination the newly made priests held a reception at the Presentation Convent, at which their immediate relatives and the clergy of the parish were present.

A Parliamentary Burlesque.

CURIOUS PROCEEDINGS IN ASSEMBLY.

Many unique events have occurred during the present session of the House. More than once has a session become a travesty of legislative procedure, but yesterday, the crowning burlesque was perpetrated. When the bell which calls the members to the Assembly chamber had not rung to 3.15 p.m., Sir John Crosbie and Mr. Macdonnell went in and took their seats. Only to find that, beyond the clerks, they were the sole occupants. Not a Government member was in his place. Before they had time to recover from their natural surprise, the Speaker came in and took his seat. Taking out his watch, he glanced at it and then spoke as follows: "As it is one minute after a quarter past three, I must adjourn the House for want of a quorum." He made absolutely no mention of the time at which the House should reassemble. As he made ready to leave, Sir John Crosbie said: "Mr. Speaker, before you leave this is a put up job on the part of the Government and I knew it was going to happen. I wish, Sir, to state publicly that I was not a party to it."

Whilst no definite reason can be given for this unusual adjournment, there appears to be some strong foundation in the report that the Government were afraid to meet because a deputation of some twenty men who had commandeered a second class car at Spaniard's Bay and had come to town in it, were going to make an appeal at the Bar of the House. However this may be, it is evident that in the minds of the present Government Parliamentary procedure, of which they have talked so much, is a thing to be trifled with, and if they have been endeavouring to turn the Assembly into a mere burlesque, they have succeeded beyond their wildest expectations. The House will probably meet as usual this afternoon.

Proposed Change in Sales Tax.

5 1/2 PER CENT INSTEAD OF 5 PER CENT.—FREIGHT EXCLUDED.

The Sub-Committee appointed at a previous meeting to interview the Prime Minister in reference to the Sales Tax reported the result of the Conference at a general meeting of the Conference yesterday afternoon. The Sub-Committee consisted of W. White and R. P. Horwood representing the manufacturers, James Ayre and Arthur Tompkins the importers, Leonard Overbridge and H. E. Cowan for the Board of Trade, and report submitted as follows:—The Prime Minister stated the Government had in contemplation a complete revision of the tariff which would be introduced next session, that the Sales Tax was a temporary expedient only, and that in view of the proposed tariff revision the Government could not entertain the suggestion of an increase of the rate of the Sales Tax to 5 1/2 per cent plus duty and proposed sales tax on the Government.

TAX ON FREIGHT.

Provided an equal sum can be derived by slightly raising the percentage the Prime Minister was agreeable to omit the Sales Tax on freight and a tax of 5 1/2 on invoice cost plus duty suggested as would be agreeable to the Government.

MANUFACTURERS.

The necessity of the Government Sales Tax being specially charged on invoices, the Government are agreeable to manufacturers absorbing the tax in the quoted sale price, they to make returns to the authorities as required by the act.

DEFINITION OF RAW MATERIAL.

Verbage of the Act has been altered so as to make it clear that all materials used by local manufacturers will be exempted from payment of a Sales Tax at the time of importation. The report was received and adopted with very little discussion, the meeting deciding that a tax of 5 1/2 per cent on cost was preferable to the tax of 5 per cent on cost, duty and freight.

B. I. S. WEEKLY OUTING.

Every Thursday during summer, commencing July 7th, Special train leaves St. John's at 7.30 p.m., returning leaves Donovan's at 11.30 p.m. Tickets, including train fare and dancing, 75 cents each. Refreshments extra at Donovan's.—June 29, 1921.

A Want Ad.

The following appeared in the advertising columns of this morning's News: "WANTED: For a few days a QUORUM: salary $1000.00. Apply Sergeant-at-Arms, or Speaker House of Assembly."

Millionaires Spend Much Money in City.

Thousands of dollars are said to have been spent in the city last night and this morning by the Americans from the Kaiser Line, here in port from New York. Every kind of souvenir and post-card views was bought up, while many of the women passengers added to their wardrobes from Water Street stores. Water Street was the scene of some gay colors this morning, when the ladies from the ship went sight-seeing. It may not be known that the ship's name, Kaiser-Lind, is Hindustani for "King, Emperor of India," after the King of England, who is also Kaiser-Lind. This name, it is said, is soon to be changed. Mr. J. P. Shea, furrier, sold a dozen or more umbrellas for fairs and other skins. Vendors of book views and periodicals who went aboard the ship also did well.

Assaulted a Constable.

CITIZEN FAILS TO ANSWER CALL FOR HELP.
For assaulting a police constable, a man was fined $50 in the Magistrate's Court this morning. The defendant, who was drunk at the time that the assault took place, bailed up to the constable who was on his beat, and struck him. The latter grappled with the accused but was unable to arrest him. He called upon a constable who was on his beat, and struck him. The latter, however, did not come to his assistance and the constable's assistance was before the Magistrate this morning. He had not heard the call for help, the case against him was dismissed.

Methodist Conference.

TUESDAY, JUNE 28.

The morning session began at the usual hour, the President, Rev. Dr. Fenwick, presiding. Rev. W. H. Browning submitted the Report of the Superannuation Fund Committee, and also that of the Sustentation Fund Committee.

EDUCATION.

Rev. Dr. Curtis, Superintendent of Methodist Schools, presented his annual statement, in the course of which he delighted the Conference with a timely talk on the Gospel of Education. The physical aspect of that Gospel were forcibly set forth. The physical welfare of the boys and girls of our schools should be a matter of concern for Boards of Education. Training in morals was also emphasized. Dr. Curtis very beautifully showed how that the Gospel of Education produced an education of the whole youth, reaching out as it did into the spiritual realm. Education, rightly viewed, should send our Englishmen and our citizens into human society inspired with the true ideals of Christian citizenship.

STATION SHEET.

The final reading of this important document was made during the course of the morning session. The Committee on the Stationing Committee, Rev. W. H. Browning, Rev. C. Lench returns to Bonavista for the sixth year, and Rev. Dr. Saunderson to Bonavista for the fifth year. Owing to the shortage of Ministers and Probationers, the Committee found their task to be a very difficult one. The Station Sheet will be published in a subsequent issue.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Various reports were presented, and other matters attended to, before the depleted Conference. The Statistical Secretary of Conference, Rev. Ezra Broughton, gave the Conference some interesting statistics relative to the year just closed, some of which are here appended. The total membership of the Methodist Church in Newfoundland, is 14,253, which is an increase of $8,840. The amount contributed for the support of the Ministry, which is short of last year's total by $1,467. The Educational Fund for the year ending 1920, is $281, the amount raised being $1,523. For the General Sunday School Fund the sum of $1,143 was donated; for Evangelism the sum of $1,507; for the Methodist Orphanage, $732, an increase of $102, and for the Hospital Chapel, $317. That splendid organization, the Women's Missionary Society raised $9,262 which represents an increase of $411. Our Sunday Schools number 237. We have 2,257 teachers and 10,226 pupils in our Sunday Schools. What a splendid opportunity is ours, and what a responsibility!

Posted as Missing.

The French schooner Curieuse was posted as missing at Lloyds on June 28th, and it is believed that she has been lost with all hands. The Curieuse is 122 tons, registered at Bordeaux, and was in charge of Capt. Fechant. She was bound for the Azores. The vessel left Fogo on December 23rd, 1920 for Alicante with fish cargo from the Labrador Export Co., and has not been heard of since. The schooner Hawker, Capt. Parsons, which left Patras on Feb. 13th, for Trapani, has now been posted as missing. The vessel was carrying a cargo of fish. The report was received and adopted with very little discussion, the meeting deciding that a tax of 5 1/2 per cent on cost was preferable to the tax of 5 per cent on cost, duty and freight.

Notice to Subscribers

Owing to the greatly increased cost of news-print the Publishers of Daily Newspapers have no option but to increase the subscription price. Newfoundland is probably the only country in the world where the one cent rate prevalent before the War has been maintained throughout the struggle and during the days of reconstruction. This has been due to the courtesy of the Anglo-Nfld. Development Company, which has supplied news-print to local offices at a minimum rate. The strike situation in Grand Falls, and the maintenance of the wage schedule in force during the period when the cost of living was at its maximum, make an increase in revenue imperative. It is with regret that the decision has been arrived at, but no other course is now possible, and the proprietors feel sure that the increased cost will be approved by the public. It is not necessary to remind our readers that the same price for the Daily Newspaper has prevailed hitherto, as existed when four small pages formed the daily issue.

COMMENCING ON JULY 1ST, THE PRICE OF ALL CITY PAPERS WILL BE TWO CENTS A COPY.

In the case of prepaid subscriptions, the new rate will be effective on expiry. Acknowledgments, Subscription Lists, and Reading Notices of an advertising character, will, in future, be charged for at regular advertising rates. Rates for Births, Deaths and Marriages, fifty cents (50c.) for five lines or under. Extended notices, ten cents (10c.) a line, payable, invariably, in advance. W. J. Ode to the Tourists.

In this poem of sorts the author, in his usual atrocious verse, desires to extend a welcome to our visitors, whilst at the same time he attempts to be playfully humorous at their expense. He thinks that he had better explain that in the word "hospitable" in the last line, the accent is on the second syllable. It's had enough in any case but mispronunciation would make it too terrible. Now the town is full of trippers. Who are on a world-wide tour, Searching restaurants for dinner, Buying things in every store. Looking round with eyes most curious, Hiring every cab and car, Driving in a manner furious, Seeking hard for things bizarre. And they had most queer opinions Of this little town of ours. Had they come to see the hills, Ere they looked upon our towers. When they found St. John's a city, They thought "not so big as theirs; (Which I must say is no pity) They were caught quite unawares. When they landed, round the town they went, In their parties, large and small, Walked and drove in cars the whole day. Making comment to appal. Where's the fishing village nearest to this town of ours? And directions of the clearest Nature were at him then freed. "Keep straight on," was all the answer. "This tourist could obtain; If he did, I fear this man, sir, Will not reach his ship again. But we welcome every tourist To our Isle of Newfoundland. Though our cliffs are of the roughest, 'Tis a most hospitable strand."

Charged with Burglary.

MR. AYRE SUCCESSFULLY DEFENDS ACCUSED.
Of the three men remanded some time ago on charges of burglary, the case against one man was withdrawn, and that against the other two was dismissed. Mr. G. W. B. Ayre acted for the defendants. Deputy Minister of Justice Sommers who acted for the Crown stated that it had been the intention of the prosecution to send the men for trial before the Supreme Court but it had been found inadvisable to have the case tried summarily. The charge against one of the men was withdrawn, and the other two were tried for the breach of six boxes of Post-Wine from Parson's Drug Store, LeMarchant Road. Both the accused pleaded not guilty. The prosecution failed to prove to the satisfaction of the Court that the defendants were guilty of the charge against them, and His Honor dismissed the case.

Newfoundlander Writes.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Upon reading your editorial Monday, I found it impossible to refrain from writing you to congratulate you on your fearless and manly and refreshing denunciation of the gullibility of the people of this country, who have it in their hands to dispose of such a large sum of money as the $100,000,000 of the first emoluments to the foreigners, who have been only a dog watch in the country. It was an editorial which has been read and read over and over again, and it has raised my long desponding spirits in contemplating the way that public affairs of the kind have been going on with-out any comment in this respect. It is to my mind the good old days of the Telegram and the fine, manly, independent policy that had earned the name of the "Paper." Now I want to say before going further, that I have nothing to say against emigrants coming here to try and make a living. There are many good ones among us, and the more that come, the better I like it; but they should not be allowed to be misled after being a year or two in the country, and they should not be given the best positions open for Newfoundlanders can fill them as well. It is not so much a matter of making us close our eyes to a surely more important principle, the subject of which should make us appear to an impartial observer as a colony of fools. Mr. Davies, no doubt, is a "nice fellow," and a good man at his job as an analyst, but what is the name of Neptune, can be known about coffee? I have a list of a dozen men who are also "nice fellows," men who have been given the best positions in the country. There is no necessity to name them. If we are not the laughing stock of these men and the outside world, it's for want of no effort on our part. I notice by the City Council report that there is a street in the West End about to be named "Blotch Street." If names are required, that about such names as the late Councillors Muir, Harris, Kennedy and Channing? These men deserve the honor. The next I suppose, will be Collinshaw St., Hall St., Brookes Avenue, McKay St., Hayes' Boulevard, Campbell Terrace and Berwick Square. For heaven's sake put an end to this folly, this idiotic pandering to unknown foreigners and let us try and hold on to the small element of sense and self-respect that seems only to be left. Hoping you will keep up the campaign against such foolishness, I remain, Yours truly, NEWFOUNDLANDER. June 28, 1921.

Notice to Subscribers

Owing to the greatly increased cost of news-print the Publishers of Daily Newspapers have no option but to increase the subscription price. Newfoundland is probably the only country in the world where the one cent rate prevalent before the War has been maintained throughout the struggle and during the days of reconstruction. This has been due to the courtesy of the Anglo-Nfld. Development Company, which has supplied news-print to local offices at a minimum rate. The strike situation in Grand Falls, and the maintenance of the wage schedule in force during the period when the cost of living was at its maximum, make an increase in revenue imperative. It is with regret that the decision has been arrived at, but no other course is now possible, and the proprietors feel sure that the increased cost will be approved by the public. It is not necessary to remind our readers that the same price for the Daily Newspaper has prevailed hitherto, as existed when four small pages formed the daily issue.

COMMENCING ON JULY 1ST, THE PRICE OF ALL CITY PAPERS WILL BE TWO CENTS A COPY.

In the case of prepaid subscriptions, the new rate will be effective on expiry. Acknowledgments, Subscription Lists, and Reading Notices of an advertising character, will, in future, be charged for at regular advertising rates. Rates for Births, Deaths and Marriages, fifty cents (50c.) for five lines or under. Extended notices, ten cents (10c.) a line, payable, invariably, in advance. W. J. HERDER, Proprietor Evening Telegram. ROBINSON & CO., LTD., Proprietors Daily News. UNION PUB. CO., LTD., Proprietors Evening Advocate. H. M. MOSDELL, for Proprietors Daily Star.

Fighting a "Gob Fire" in An English Coal Mine

(By a British Miner)

The miner has many dangerous enemies to contend with in his occupation, but the "gob fire" is the most remorseless and dangerous of all.

Like volcanoes, "gob fires" may be divided into two classes: the "sleeping" and the "active." And, again, like volcanoes, the "sleeping" fire is apt to leap into sudden and dangerous activity.

The developments of a mine cursed with the "gob fire" has to be very carefully carried out, otherwise sudden disaster descends upon the unfortunate spectator.

Fighting a "gob fire" is an exciting and highly dangerous past-time, requiring an iron constitution and nerves of steel.

Immediately a mine manager is notified of an outbreak he has to adopt stringent methods to combat it.

All the men working in the "district" affected are brought out, and a score or so of the most practical and experienced of their number are "told off" to fight it.

Then the fight begins. First, the affected "district" is isolated by setting up a number of air-doors, thus cutting off the supply of air. The next step is to "wall in" the fire with bricks, sand, and rubble.

This is a costly as well as a dangerous task, for the fire may be anything from a hundred to a thousand square feet in dimensions, and very little imagination is required to conjure a mental picture of the magnitude of such a task.

The fire must not be allowed the slightest "breathing outlet," otherwise all your sand and bricks represent merely so much wasted labour and material. Every little loophole through which air may pass must be effectively closed, or a week's strenuous labor and endeavor are overcome in less than an hour.

Again, it must be remembered that men for "gob-fire" fighting are difficult to get, for very few possess the pluck and physical strength to withstand the dangers and hardships of the work.

These men have to work in a confined space, where in all probability there is more gas than air, and where also there is tremendous heat. Only very strong men can stand such an enormous strain.

Add to these dangers the possibility of an explosion—swift, sudden, and relentless—bringing in its train a ghastly and hideous death, and you will have some idea of what the "gob fire" fighter has to contend with in his task.

Once the air supply has been completely "shut off" the fire will gradually commence to "die," but it will not burn completely out. It will last for years, smouldering sullenly, always a menace and a nightmare to both managers and men, the slightest whiff of air being sufficient to revive it to its original fierce intensity. Providing that every precaution is taken in the development of the mine there is no immediate danger from the "gob fire," but once let it—as the miners are doing to-day—get beyond control, then—disaster!

Capital, Labor and the Public.

A healthy relationship between capital and labor is largely a question of balance. This involves the mutual interests of the workers and of the employer and of the public—including all workers and employers—in order that there may be a fair return in interest for capital and wages for labor from a product which can be successfully marketed. In the maintenance of this balance there must be continual adjustments. Economic conditions do not stay fixed.

Through the organization of labor unions the status of many of the workers has been greatly improved. A few old-fashioned autocrats helped to give the movement impetus. The unions greatly increased their control of the labor situation during the period of great demand occasioned by the war and marked by the employment of millions in military activities. Now we are experiencing a period of readjustment. Prices of agricultural products have descended to pre-war levels. Basic materials of all kinds have been drawn into the downward movement. Labor, in many cases, is endeavoring to hold to war-time price levels. But labor is, after all, a commodity, and it seems inevitable that the labor cost factor in production must also come down whether by lower wages, greater efficiency or better organization.

In such a situation the labor leaders must carefully consider the danger of abusing their powers to the detriment of the interests of the union workers themselves as well as of capital and the public. Apart from the question of wages and hours one weakness in the policy of some unions is the desire to put all member workers on a similar level, no matter what their ability, capacity, or willingness may be. This leads to inefficiency and provides a very important, though not apparent, factor in relation to the cost of production, thus upsetting the balance as between capital and labor on the one hand and producer and consumer on the other.

During the past twenty years or so—and particularly since 1914—unions have been an important factor in raising the wage standards and securing other favors for their members in regard to hours and conditions. Today labor leaders must consider how best the labor cost factor in production can be reduced in order that the benefits of lower prices for materials may become general and cut down the cost of living. To ignore this phase of the question will only mean that the real benefits of the labor movement may be lost.—Financial Post.

Lasts the Life of the Plates

There may be climates and driving conditions in which an ordinary battery is good enough—but not in Canada.

Here, more than in milder latitudes, car owners need battery vitality, toughness and resistance to wear—the qualities they get in the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation (found only in this battery) combines the high insulating value of rubber with the porosity that is so necessary in the starting and lighting battery. It doesn't warp, split or crack. It saves worry, trouble and money. It lasts the life of the battery plates, thus saving re-insulation expense. You can get it only in the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

SOME WONDERFUL WOMEN SAM-SONS.

Speaking at a recent Conference of the Fabian Labour Research Department, Mr. George Ryder told of the amazing strength displayed by women workers. He said he had seen women lifting shells weighting 250 lb. apiece, and moving, altogether, as much as fifteen tons of metal in a week's work.

In Lancashire women work at unpacking bales of cotton, and some of these women are real Amazons. Their employers say that they lift, not fifteen, but fifty tons during a week.

In the Black Country, at Cradley
Heath, women work in the brick-fields. There are 2,000 people employed, and more than half are women.
It is estimated that some of these women move twenty-eight tons of clay in a single day.

While the average women possess only about two-thirds the strength of the average man, there are plenty of exceptions, and at music-halls there have been women who could rival almost every feat of the strongest.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

A DIFFERENT KIND OF MISSIONARY.

A friend of mine has been living this past winter at a boarding house. In this house were eight or nine people who had all been living there for some months and who knew each other quite well and had many little interests and experiences and feelings in common—a general approval of the waitress, a general feeling that the chambermaid was inefficient, that the dining room paper and hangings were too dark, that Mrs. R. (the hostess) was an excellent table but was not sufficiently particular about the house, several choice jests, a habit of going Monday night to the pictures, a comfortable knowledge of each other's individual tastes and interests which enabled them to remember to ask Mrs. A.'s mother was, and so on.

You know just how it is, don't you, if you have ever lived in a boarding house?

She Was Watched, Criticized and Laughed at.

Into this atmosphere there came one day, a new guest. She was an interesting, good looking woman, but not good looking enough to be dangerous. She seemed to me, on the whole, a desirable addition. But not so to the boarding house circle! Immediately they became a close corporation with this woman on the outside. For several days she was watched, she was criticized, she was even laughed at now and then, pos-

men. The most wonderful of them all was Miss Kate Roberts, known as "Vulcana," daughter of a Welsh preacher. Though there was nothing in the least gross or massive about this young woman, she would put up a full-grown man above her head with one arm.

On one occasion two heavy drays collided in Market Lane, not far from P.W. offices. The front wheels became locked, and volunteers were quite unable to separate them. A quietly-dressed young lady stepped through the crowd.

"Allow me," she said, and taking hold of the back of one dray, calmly lifted it and then lowered the wheel until it rested on the footpath.

"That will be all right now," she said; but no one else said anything at all. They merely gaped as she walked away.

This was Miss Roberts.

GOOD NIGHT.
How many times we've said good night
And kissed her as we turned away,
Knowing that with the morning light
She'd greet the beauty of the day.

And tipped gently from her room,
And when the soft "good night" was said
The parting brought no touch of gloom.

She would be there when we should rise
To greet us with her lovely smile,
The sunbeams dancing in her eyes,
And night seemed such a little while.

Her spirit, till the break of day,
Would leave this little world of ours
For brighter realms wherein to play
Where fairies danced among the flowers.

Sometimes we watched her as she dreamed
And knew that she was free from care,
And always lovelier she seemed
When morning found her smiling there.

"God night, good night! sweet Marjorie!"
We will be brave with you away,
Some glad to-morrow there shall be,
We'll come to you at break of day.

At Half the Price

at the opening of the season. All other Hats at present in stock are also reduced.

You can add greatly to your dress by having a greater variety of Hats. Our Hat Pricing now, and at other times, enables you to do so, for here you can always buy a good hat in the very latest style for very little money.

It is our opinion that many ladies expend too much money on Hats and get very little for their money.

They sometimes put too much money into one hat. We want to emphasize that they never do that in this store, though our Hats are of the finest quality and right-up-to-the-minute styles.

Judging by the number of people who visit the Lakeside in the evenings it seems in this year's Regatta is as keen as ever.

The Doctor and Elsie T. have received their final coats of varnish and will be ready for practice during the latter part of the week. The work of putting the racers in condition was performed by Mr. Fred Lush, painter at Carnell's.

The Regatta Committee will meet to-night to arrange preparatory matters in connection with the races.

MY COLUMN

MORE ABOUT GOLF.

There is a certain fascination about golf of which the uninitiated cannot be cognizant. In fact, once a golfer always a golfer is an adage which is as true as the sun. Last week, I dwelt briefly on the history of the game. Now, I shall proceed to discuss further on it. I well remember my first attempt at golf. It took place in the drawing room! The tee was a cushion, I had a real golf ball and the club was a walking stick with a nicely crooked handle. The memory of that day will ever cling to me! I gripped my improvised club in the conventional manner, and swung. Behind me, the answering crash caused me to start. I summoned up sufficient courage to look round. It was not so bad as I had thought. A couple of noses lay shattered on the floor where I had inadvertently swept them from the mantelpiece. That was a mere bagatelle! I again raised my club, and shutting my eyes, drove with all my strength at the ball on the cushion. There was a click as the crook of my stick hit it and I opened my eyes just in time to see the "pill" going clean through the window opposite. I don't think I had better dwell on the consequences. It is rather a "sensitive" subject! I am now going to wind up this short article with a few don'ts for would-be golfers:

Don't practice driving with your own clubs. It's expensive.

Don't swing your club without seeing if there is anyone behind you. Painful consequences have often followed the neglect of this rule.

Don't attempt to control your language when you miss. It is always best to relieve one's feelings when playing golf.

Don't forget to call "fore" whether there is anyone in the way or not. It is the most marked trait of the finished golfer.

Don't forget to grip your club as if using a sledge hammer. If you miss the ball it may be disastrous, but if you hit it you're sure to have made a fine drive.

Don't forget (this is for the beginner) to carry round a knapsack of turf to fill up the holes you make when driving. At most clubs they make you do this.

Finally, if you value your peace of mind, don't golf, I never have.

A Profit-Sharing Business.

The establishment which admits the employees into partnership and into a reasonable share of control can stand the test of adverse business conditions, as demonstrated in the case of the Louisville Varnish Co., of which Colonel P. H. Callahan is President. The profit-sharing plan on which this company operates rises superior and almost runs counter to the accepted and dominant practices in the industrial sphere.

After all expenses, and all wages and all salaries, have been paid, but before any dividends are given to capital, the gross profits are divided into two equal parts. One of these goes to the stock-holders as interest and profits on their investment, and the other to the employees as a supplement to their wages and salaries. The share of labour is subdivided into three equal parts, which go respectively to the factory workers, the office force, and the salesman. Each individual participates in the share of his class in proportion to his wage or salary. For example, the forty-dollar-a-week man receives one-seventh more than the man whose wage is thirty dollars, on the theory that if the former earns a higher wage than the latter, he also deserves a larger share of the profits.

Supposing that the profits are small and that business is poor, what then? Under the heading of "Profit-Sharing in Hard Times," in the current number of the Fortnightly Review, of St. Louis, Colonel Callahan himself discusses this question as follows:

"The principle of profit-sharing and partnership for a great many years have had not only my close study, but with one change after another have been put into practice and operation in my own business.

"Often in reading papers and giving addresses on this very interesting subject and inviting questions, there comes up the inquiry as to what would be done when the company experiences a loss. The depression which has been existing in our business since October gives me an opportunity to answer this question more correctly than heretofore. I can truthfully say now, from experience, that the principle of partnership has the greatest value during times like these, for everyone connected with the concern not only feels in a material way the adversity of the times, but they also relieve me by bearing part of the burden of worry and planning which, under ordinary circumstances, the employer has all to himself, at night as well as day.

"During times of prosperity our employees shared equally with the capital invested, in the ratio of their monthly and weekly wages, the profits which the company produced, and before the end of the year, when they were advised of the actual condition of affairs and given details in figures of the loss which was being encountered, they were asked to make suggestions and recommendations as to what could be done to meet the extraordinary conditions existing. We found them making recommendations for the curtailment of the number of employees. Later, when there was no improvement after the first of the year, they suggested that inasmuch as the company had shared with them its profits during prosperity they expected to share its losses as much as possible during the times of adversity, to the end that they accepted cheerfully a reduction in wages of 10 per cent, with the assurance that everybody connected with this firm in any capacity would make the same concession.

"Such curtailment of the force in numbers and reduction of expenses, under ordinary circumstances, creates dissatisfaction and disaffection and affects the morale of the whole concern. None of this resulted in our case, inasmuch as we were acting on the initiative of our employees, who were fully advised of actual conditions. We were able in another month to bring down all of our operating expenses of all kinds to a reasonable basis of percentage of our restricted business.—Etc.

"The share of labour is subdivided into three equal parts, which go respectively to the factory workers, the office force, and the salesman. Each individual participates in the share of his class in proportion to his wage or salary. For example, the forty-dollar-a-week man receives one-seventh more than the man whose wage is thirty dollars, on the theory that if the former earns a higher wage than the latter, he also deserves a larger share of the profits.

Still Islands of Mystery.

Scattered over the Pacific, between limits set roughly by the tropics of Cancer and Capricorn, and the 150 parallels, east and west, lie the islands of the South Seas.

Some of them are mapped, but many of them are so small, in the vastness of the ocean, that they cannot be designated on maps, even by a pinpoint.

Like the stars reflected in the still lagoons of their atolls, the South Sea Islands have never been counted. Geographers estimated their number at some twenty-six hundred. But numbers blown off the usual routes still come upon uncharted islets. Many islands, discovered only to be lost again, lie in the desert spaces of the Pacific—or perhaps they are mirages that have never taken form save in the beady, struck eyes of the seaman who charted them.

For there are islands of mystery—these islands of the South Seas—of mystery and beauty. Some of them are rugged volcanic masses, with soaring mountains and cliff-girded shores. Darwin saw in these islands the peaks of a submerged continent or land bridge by which, once upon a time, men and animals crossed from hemisphere to hemisphere. The people of the island bear out this theory.

They are fit settings for romance and adventure; these lovely and terrible islands, and from the time of the great haribators of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, who were the first of the western world to anchor in their cool, lagoon harbours, they have spelled romance and adventure to Westerners.

Tied to the routine of an industrial world many a man sends his mind to wander among the beautiful savages of Polynesia, who live still, so the fable goes, in that golden age in which all desires are good and toil is yet unknown; among the man-eating, head-hunting blacks of Melanesia, as terrible and grotesque and as unreal as the demons of the Middle Ages; among the shades of the white man who have come and gone over the brilliant sea.

Call up a Host of Spirits.

The very names on the map call up a host of spirits, adventures, adventures of good and ill omen, many a missionary to whom a tablet on a shore now safe bears witness of martyrdom, and many an ardent adventurer after beauty, who has sought to make immortal the dying people of the islands.

For they all seem marked for death. The islands were happily populous

JUDGMENT OF MR. JUSTICE KENT.

In the matter of the Crown Lands Act and in the matter of an application of SEYMOUR L. FARRELL for a writ of Mandamus directed to the Minister of Agriculture and Mines commanding him to issue licenses of mining locations at Heart's Content.

(Concluded.)

Section 48 says he "shall be entitled to" a license, and both the context and the grammar of section 52, sub-sec. 1 require that the words "shall be" be read into it, between the words "license" and "issued" in the sentence "such locations shall be numbered, and may be applied for by any person and licenses (shall be) issued therefor for one year, the same being issued without any staking being required, and the first applicant in writing shall have priority." There is nothing in the text or the circumstances to which section 52, sub-sec. 2 relates that indicates a departure in that case from the intention clearly manifested in the other cases. The conclusion that this was the intention of the Legislature seems to me to receive support from the wording of section 3 of chapter 15, 8 and 9, George V., 1918, which is an amendment of the Crown Lands Act and provides that the Governor-in-Council may reserve from the operation of the Act, all miners in any mining location not held under a subsisting license, lease or grant, and which are not at the time of such reservation, amongst other exceptions, the subject of an application for a license under the provisions of the Act, which shows that persons holding any of the interests named, including that of an applicant which the power of reservation given to the Governor-in-Council should not be allowed to prevail. There remains the question as to whether the Minister of Agriculture and Mines is the proper person or authority to issue or grant the license to an applicant therefor. I think on this point we are bound by the authority of previous cases. The Act is very ambiguous upon this point. Section 50 by a system of registration and receipt created thereby might, if it stood alone, indicate an intention that the applicant should, without any further act of the minister, derive his title from the registration coup'd with the receipt. But on the other hand, in all sections of the Act in which the license is referred to, the words "issue" or "grant" are used in connection therewith and seem to call for the issue of a license by the minister. By the Act of 1888 creating the Department of Agriculture and Mines, Crown Lands and Minerals are placed under the control of the minister. The matter has been before the Court before, and in the case of Freeman, the judgment of the Court says: "In the statute of 1891 (54 Vic. cap. 19, section 1, sub-sec. D.) the license to which an applicant filing a notice of staking becomes entitled is described as 'a license from the Surveyor-General, and the evidence given by the officials of the Crown Lands Department examined before us, shows that there is a uniform practice in the Department for the issue of licenses to the Minister of Agriculture and Mines upon application to him by persons filing a notice of staking. Upon the facts, therefore, the case is plain and presents no difficulties."

"The objection in law taken by the Attorney-General, however, goes to the root of the matter. It is that the Court has no jurisdiction conferred upon it by the terms of the Judicature Act, under which this proceeding is taken, except there is in existence a title or right capable of being recognized. In this case neither a license, lease nor grant has been issued to anybody. The only documents in existence are the official receipts for the applications and the fees payable thereon. The title under which each of the parties claims is in no way derived from the Crown or its officers, but has its source in discovery and appropriation followed by a filing of notice and a payment of fees as prescribed by the Act. However, much this may be regarded as entitling the party to a license from the Surveyor-General, until that license has been issued, this Court cannot deal with the subject under the provisions of the Judicature Act. A few months later, upon the application of Mr. Freeman, the same applicant, the Court, in a contested suit between him and the Minister of Agriculture and Mines, directed the issue of an order absolute for a writ of mandamus against the minister to issue to him the licenses that were the subject matter of this suit. Under these circumstances I consider the law settled by this Court as to the duty of the minister to issue the licenses upon a proper application therefor. He has refused a license to the present applicant of the locations applied for by him. The application was duly made and was in all respects in conformity with the provisions of the Act. I think, therefore, that the order for the mandamus should be made absolute. (Sgt.) J. M. KENT, Judge. June 23, 1921. Mr. Fenelon for the Applicant. Mr. L. E. Emerson for the Minister.

Wedding Bells.

At Wollaston, Mass., on Thursday evening, June 16th, at 8 o'clock, a pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. David Lockrow, of Tremont Temple, Boston, when Miss Mildred Rowe, fourth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Rowe, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Raymond Butt, eldest son of Mrs. and the late H. T. Butt. The bride was attired in shell pink georgette and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations, and was attended by Mrs. Frank Barlow, of Buffalo, N.Y., sister of the groom—who is at present visiting her sister in Boston, on her way to St. John's to spend the summer. Mr. Percy Eila supported the groom. The double ring ceremony was used, after which refreshments were enjoyed and the health of the bride and groom toasted by Mr. Geo. Eila and responded to by the groom. The bridal party motored through Boston to Copley Square Hotel. The honeymoon will be spent at Nantasket Beach. The groom's present to the bride was a gold brooch and to the bridesmaid barrette, and cuff links to the best man. Many valuable presents were received from St. John's and Boston.

Jeffries-Johnson Clash at Reno.

In the long list of decisive ring battles through which the mantle worn by Sullivan has passed down the years to the bronzed shoulders of Jack Dempsey, there is no page to compare with that recounting the clash between Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries in a sun-scorched arena at Reno on July 4, 1910.

Tex Rickard reared a great wooden saucer out on the plains of Nevada to accommodate the thousands who gathered from all over the country to see the tilt. He hung up a purse of $100,000, an unprecedented prize in those days.

Jeffries had not fought in more than five years. In the days of his reign in the ring, none had been his master and he had retired voluntarily with no defeats recorded against him. He was 35 years old, an age often reckoned as dotage in the realm of sport. To them the attempt on his part to restore the championship to the white race was an effort to which he had been induced by a constant clamor from those who despaired of Johnson ever being beaten by the crop of white hopes then seeking matches with him.

It was a great throng that assembled for the battle. Fringed around the great arena packed were rows of "birds' nests," built to shelter the sweet sisterhood from the Reno divorce colony. To them the Reno divorce colony was a charming break in the monotony of serving time. Jeffries trained down to 225 pounds to meet the sleek opponent three years his junior and then in magnificent physical trim. There was vigorous fighting at the start; with Jeffries crouching into serious mein and his opponent erect, grinning and talking as usual.

In the fifth round Jeffries sent a stray left that rocked Johnson and momentarily wiped away his smile. But the worried look on the black face passed, big white teeth again gleamed and through them came the admonition, "Don't rush, Mistah Jeff, doncha heah what a'm tellin' you?"

"Come on, Jeff, it's easy," he repeated often through the bitter rounds. Age and five years of freedom from the rigors of training told on Jeffries and the power of his blows grew less strong as the battle went on. In the 15th round—the last one—Johnson sent him to the ropes with a savage uppercut. Against the drooping head of the weary white man the black fighter then pounded away with one uppercut after another. The challenger had tried and failed and he fell taking punishment. His manager hopped into the ring to stop the slaughter, whereupon Rickard held up Johnson's hand in signal of victory.

Strange Marriage Customs in Afghan.

The Afghans got the idea of marrying more than one wife from the Persians, but like the Persians, too, they have found, to their dismay, that polygamy is nowadays more expensive than exciting.

Sometimes when the Amir wants to favor his faithful officials with presents, or perhaps to play practical jokes in certain cases, he distributes women among them; but these "gifts" often prove so troublesome that no great degree of gratitude is apparent among the recipients.

Family life, however, seems to be rather more intimate and private in Afghanistan than in Persia. Usually the young Afghan does not see his bride before the day of the wedding. Women relatives conduct the preliminary skirmishes, a sort of courtship by proxy which is later followed by negotiations between the bridegroom and his future father-in-law.

Marriage is celebrated at a very early age, especially in the northern parts of the country, where boys of 14 marry girls of not more than 10 or 12 years.

Amir Habibullah Khan (who was assassinated in 1919) had a harem of more than one hundred women, and among these strangely enough, were a few Europeans. The present Amir, Amanullah Khan, has but one wife. The women of Afghanistan are kept in more rigid seclusion and are more closely veiled than the women of any other Moslem land. The Afghan is notoriously jealous of his harem, and few indeed are the men of the outside world who have ever looked on the face of an Afghan woman of the towns. With the desert woman, wives and daughters of the nomads, it is different; the Koran permits them to go unveiled.

Like the Arab, the Afghan considers it unnecessary and even unwise that woman should learn to read or write. No girls are admitted to the bazaar schools and no mulishas are employed to teach them; and Afghanistan knows nothing of women teachers.

Margin Trading!

Many investors have a mistaken idea of marginal trading. When an investor buys a stock on margin a certain portion of the cost, usually one quarter to one third, is immediately deposited, the broker carrying the balance on account. Should the stock drop in value the investor is required to maintain his proportion by a further payment, which payment, however, reduces the debt balance so that under no circumstances, no matter how often margin is called for, a client cannot pay in more than the original cost, and when a client is prepared to do that, it is physically impossible to lose the account. Marginal trading is a simple and capable method of investing if investors do not overbuy.
