

Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XLIV.

The eyes of the three men were straining through the darkness to catch sight of the windows of the flat long before they had reached it. But there was no light in any of them, and Peter shivered as he moved his cramped limbs and followed his companions to the door.

There was a faint tinge of daylight in the sky. It was an eerie grey light that gave them all a wretched, ghostly appearance as Philip opened the door with his latchkey. There was not a sound in the flat; the place had a horribly deserted look in the flood of electric light jerked on by Philip's impatient hand.

None of them spoke; Peter and Calligan stood waiting while Philip went across to his wife's room and opened the door—they heard the little click made by the switch as he turned the light on, and then it seemed an interminable silence before he came back to them.

He shook his head; he could not trust his voice; he led the way to the dining-room and the others followed.

There was a dead fire in the grate and the blinds were undrawn, letting in the first grey streak of dawn; the whole room looked cheerless and depressing.

Philip threw his coat down on a chair; he knelt down by the fire and tried to fan its deadness into flame with a newspaper—there was a curiously grey tinge in his face.

Calligan stood by, silently watching.

Suddenly he spoke. "You want some sticks, old man—there used to be some kept in the log box in your study."

Philip glanced up and away again; a bitter pain shot through his heart. Calligan had spoken quite naturally, as if he knew everything about the workings of the flat.

"All right—you might get some."

He had not even known that there was a log box himself. Calligan must have been very much at home here, he thought, in spite of his pretended indifference.

He threw the newspaper aside and flung himself into a chair. Where was Eva?—supposing he never saw her again? A hundred doubts and fears had tortured him since he had satisfied himself that she was not with Calligan; she had no friends in London to whom she could go. Where was she? Where was she? His own helplessness nearly drove him mad. A stifled groan escaped him.

Calligan turned; he looked at Philip sharply. "All right?" he asked with gruff sympathy.

Philip scowled.

"Go and get the wood—I'm frozen." Calligan went away. He crossed the hall quietly, and opened the library door. Darkness and silence here, too, and he had spent so many happy hours in this room. Something seemed to catch him by the throat as he thought of the past and realized that after to-night, whatever happened, it could never come again. Though he had not known it, he had parted from Eva finally last night when he urged her to go to Apsley. She would not have gone if he had said one word to keep her.

He groped along the wall for the light, and switched it on. The log box was close to the fireplace; he turned towards it, then stopped with a little choking cry, for there, curled up in the big armchair, fast asleep, was Philip's wife.

He stood transfixed in the doorway; for a moment the shock of seeing Eva robbed him of all power; then, with an effort he pulled himself together, closed the door softly behind him, and went over to her as she lay asleep in the big armchair.

There was an infinite tenderness in his face; he loved her so well—loved her with all the great unselfishness of which he was capable, and he knew as plainly as if he had been told that this moment had been given to him in which to bid her good-bye.

He had only desired her happiness, and he knew instinctively that she stood now on its threshold, and that whatever small place he had filled in her life it would soon no longer exist; greater, more complete happiness would wipe out everything else, and if she ever thought of him at all it would be perhaps a little ashamedly when she remembered the broken confession she had made to him.

The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER I.

Martin Ray surpassed himself this evening; the young face inspired him; and, although among his listeners were many who dissented from him, who believed him to be almost criminally wrong, no one could help admiring the earnest, discourse of "the Voice of the People." Those who disagreed with him regretted that so much talent should be abused; those who believed in him gave him an ovation, and feasted him royally in the old town of Harbury.

At night Martin Ray dreamed of one face, one pair of eyes; and, when morning dawned, he felt that the common lot of humanity was his at last—he loved the fair unknown girl with a love that naught could change.

He found out who she was; she was Doris Hutton, the only daughter of the staunch old solicitor, who would be his greatest political enemy. He tried to get an introduction at the house, but failed completely. Amos Hatton would not receive him. Still Martin Ray could not tear himself from the girl; and he found means to meet her and to tell her how well he loved her.

Doris Hutton was always inclined to take a romantic view of matters, and she made of the man a perfect hero. All the ideas and theories of her life were upset. She believed this man, with his dark eyes and fervid thoughts, to be a prophet among the people. At his bidding, down went the altars of her youth; loyalty, obedience, reverence for superiors—all vanished, and before her spread the wide plain of universal equality. She loved Martin Ray with perfect love, such as he could have won from no other creature living. There was a long struggle in her heart between allegiance to her father and this swift, sweet, newborn love; but, as this new teacher told her, the old landmarks were swept away, they existed no longer—no father had a right to interfere with the marriage of his children.

Through the sweet month of May, while the hawthorn bloomed on the hedges and the clover grew, he contrived to see her every evening. He found that Harbury was a good school. He wrote to the committee of which he was the head, and said that he should remain there while he founded a society, and taught the people what were workmen's rights and wrongs.

He labored honestly enough, and in the intervals of work he scarcely wooed Doris—Doris, who wondered how this man, so gifted, so different from other men, came to love her—Doris, who believed in his dreams and his visions, and who foresaw a time when all men would be equal, when poverty and toil would be done away with, and universal peace, charity, harmony, and comfort reign. Martin Ray, her hero, was to bring about this. She did not know then that Martin Ray lived in luxury on the money that should have fed the children of the poor with bread. She had to learn the hardest of all lessons—the difference between precept and practice.

CHAPTER II.

Amos Hatton stormed and raved when he received a letter from Martin Ray, asking for his daughter's hand. Nothing could exceed his wrath and indignation.

"You have good blood in your veins," he cried to the trembling girl. "You have ancestors who fought and died—died, mind you—for king and country, and you ask me if you may marry the man who has boasted that, if no one else were found willing, he himself would behead every sovereign reigning. He said that in his last lecture at Manchester. I read the words, and wondered at the patience of his listeners; and you, my gentle, well-bred, well-bred, Doris, you could marry him?"

"I love him—I cannot help it, papa. You misjudge him," she answered, despairingly. "I must love him; no one understands him but me."

"Must love him!" repeated Amos Hatton. "Why, child, if you could but see, it is he, and such as he, who are the greatest enemies of the people."

"You do not know him!" she exclaimed. "He is a hero!"

"Hero! Nonsense, Doris; heroes do not live on the earnings of the people. Heroes do and dare; this man incites others to deeds he dares not do himself. I should not object to see a cart-load of such heroes sent off to Van Diemen's Land."

"You are unjust, papa," she cried. "I cannot help it; I love him. Oh, if you could but see how it is he wants me to be his wife and his helpmate, I am to assist him in his work. O, papa, do you not see how grand is the mission he confers me? I am to be to the women of England what he is to the men."

"Heaven forbid!" exclaimed Amos Hatton. "I would rather, dearly as I love you, see you in your grave. I would rather," he added passionately, "far rather see you dead than the wife of Martin Ray."

"And I," she replied, raising her pale, fair face to him, "would rather die than forsake him or give him up!"

"You must choose between us, Doris," said her father, trying to speak calmly. "If you marry him, I will never look upon your face again, I will never speak to you or hear your voice; you will be no child of mine; I will cast you off from me."

She uttered a low cry of pain and despair.

"I wonder," she said, "if ever a girl had to choose between her father and her lover before?"

THE WASTED DAY.

Here I am beset by work. And promises still unfulfilled. I have no right to-day to shirk. There is a column I should build; And yet into the room you came And begged to be allowed to stay. Oh, boy of mine, with many a game We've frittered half the day away.

Upon my desk the letters lie unanswered, and 'tis afternoons; For copy that I should supply. The printers will be calling soon; And yet I tarry here to begone. I ordered you to run and play, But you somehow have lingered on And I have killed another day.

Wasted the day, the rich would say; Lost, would the hungry after game Declare these hours I've spent in play. Mice would point to them with shame. No single dollar have I made. No bit of useful service done; For all the time that we have played Gravely the clock ticked on.

But you and I have closer grown Than we have ever been before. We've lived this day of life alone And it is our's forevermore. Nor shall I mourn o'er tasks undone Nor sigh for wealth I failed to claim. For this glad day shall live as one Which brought me more than gold or fame.

Hatbands.

In the story of the plain little band that circles the crown of a man's hat lies an interesting fashion of a by-gone day. During the Plantagenet period in England the head covering was a hood, from which was suspended the driziple or long tippet. Picture our men walking down Broadway or Main street with tassels on their hats! In the reign of Henry VIII, the hat surrounded the hood and the long tippet took the form of the hat band. This was wider than those now in vogue and was gradually narrowed down. In fact the bands which men now wear on their hats when they are in mourning are identical with the very first hatbands.

Lost Tribes of Israel.

The mystery of the Ten Lost Tribes has been a subject of absorbing interest for many centuries. And still the question of what became of this great mass of people is unsolved.

The Ten Lost Tribes broke away from the tribes of Benjamin and Judah, and went northwards, some to Samaria, others elsewhere.

About eight centuries before Christ, Sargon, King of Assyria, swept down upon Samaria and carried many thousands of its population into captivity, scattering the others throughout the kingdom so that their identity as a nation was completely lost.

The remaining members of the Ten Tribes disappeared as completely as if they had been swallowed up by the earth, and no definite trace of them has ever been discovered.

They could not all have been slain, or all have perished in captivity, leaving no descendants, so we have to take it for granted that they migrated somewhere—but where?

Did the "Lost Tribes" long afterwards appear as the Anglo-Saxons? That is a likely theory, for the origin of the Anglo-saxons is still obscure. But, then, other European nations have also been "traced" back to the missing Israelites.

A widely-held belief is that the Lost Tribes in some way found their way to the great American continent and became what were later known as "Indians." This seems probable for many scientists have found Indian dialects containing words and phrases suggestive of a Hebrew origin.

But, despite all the theorizing and guessing, no really authentic discoveries have ever been made, and to-day, at any rate, no trace is to be found anywhere of the missing Israelites.

Weddings in Tibet.

Wedding ceremonies in Tibet are complicated and curious affairs. Early in the morning of the wedding day the father and mother give a farewell banquet in the house of the bride. After the banquet the priest preaches to the bride, standing before her. When it is all over she leaves her father's house on horseback, that is, of course, among the higher circles, and proceeds to the house of the bridegroom, when an initiation sword is thrown at her to intimidate evil spirits. Further ceremony takes place and some milk is broiled. After "drinking" of the bride is led. She marries all the brothers of the bride's family at the same time and intervals, but sometimes the bride and her brothers-in-law live together their pleasure—without having a formal ceremony to celebrate their wedding. In the best families are taken to see that all the same are not at home at the same time. one brother at home the others sends himself.

Grim Humour of Wireless Operator.

Tests While Ship Goes to Bottom--Grontoft Finds Davy Jones' Locker--Canadian Parliament Opened--Hon. R. LeMieux Elected Speaker.

JOKE WITH DEATH.

NEW YORK, March 8. The grim humor of a wireless operator who laughed at death and striking bits of it into the log of his ship, the Norwegian Grontoft, walloped and during a mid-Atlantic hurricane on Thursday, was recorded on the log of the Danish steamer Esbø, arriving to-day. Each call for help was supplemented by a jesting remark by the radio man, whose identity is unknown. He talked as if he were going on a lark in port instead of the bottom of the sea. His last words, a disjointed one, was a series of witticisms with death as the theme of his jokes. The Esbø, heavily laden, was in a 110 mile gale, made violent but unsuccessful effort to reach the Grontoft, which first sent calls for aid at 10 o'clock last night, reporting her position as about 700 miles west of Cape Race. The Esbø, at that time was 48 miles from the disabled ship, and steaming in an easterly direction. Captain Hans Jørgensen, in charge of the Esbø, ordered his ship about and she headed slowly toward the Grontoft. The latter sent out the following—a stereotyped message of the sea—"God pity the sailors on a night like this." It was followed by a series of "Ha ha," "he said," he continued, "the old man said this calm will be over by midnight. We sure need some good news." An hour later an urgent call for aid was sent out by the Grontoft and her operator joked with him. "Well, the steward is making sandwiches for the lifeboats. Looks like we are going on a picnic." Again an hour later he sent, "The Esbø has a list like a rundown wagon. This is no weather for a fellow to be out in without an umbrella." "Hold on," returned the Esbø, "we will be along in ten minutes." The Grontoft did not reply for forty minutes after. Then "we are sinking stern first, the boats are smashed, can't hold out any longer. The skipper dictated that, he ought to know. Where did I put my hat. Sorry we can't wait for you, pressing business elsewhere." The Esbø's operator quoted, in reply these words, "What damn lances brought the efforts to jest at dawn with death?" but there was no answer. Six hours after picking up the first call from the Grontoft, the Esbø reached her reported position and though she cruised about for hours, failed to find a trace of wreckage. The Grontoft, from Galveston, New Orleans and Norfolk, was en route to Esbjerg. She had a crew of thirty.

AND SHE WON'T HELP!

WASHINGTON, March 8. The United States Government has declined to participate in the Geneva Economic Conference. The position of the United States Government is that participation is impossible at the present time owing to the complete failure of the European nations, in the United States view, to take proper measures for remedying the ravages of war and for insuring stabilization of their economic life.

CANADIAN PARLIAMENT MEETS.

OTTAWA, March 8. The informal opening of the Canadian Parliament took place this afternoon. In the Commons Premier King moved the election of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux as Speaker of the House, and after the customary protest of Hon. A. Meighen, leader of the Opposition, against the Government naming the Speaker, Mr. Lemieux was declared elected unanimously. Hon. T. A. Crerar, Progressive leader, caused some amusement when he assured the new Speaker that "this dilapidated annex to the Liberal Party" would give him all due deference. Last session Mr. Meighen, then Premier, referred to the Progressive Party as the dilapidated wing of the Liberal Party, and now it is stronger than the Conservative Party. The House then adjourned until to-morrow when the Government-General will formally open the session.

MEIGHEN GETS THE $10,000.

OTTAWA, March 8. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, will be the leader of the Opposition in the Commons. A decision not to accept the position of official Opposition was reached by the Progressives to-day.

DEBATE ON FOUR-POWER TREATY BEGINS.

WASHINGTON, March 8. With Opposition forces organizing for the fray, the Senate fight over the Four-Power Pacific Treaty promised to get into full swing to-day when Senator Lodge, Republican leader, delivered his speech in defence of the Pact. The termination of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and the substitution of a political system actuated by peace in the Pacific was described by Senator Lodge as the "main purpose" of the Four-Power Pacific Treaty. The Anglo-Japanese arrangement, Senator Lodge declared, was regarded by the delegation as the "most dangerous element" in the United States Government's relations with the Far East. He asserted that if the Four-Power Pact with its clause abrogating the alliance failed, naval limitation of armament would also be endangered, resulting in the "failure of the conference." No entangling alliances are contained in the Treaty, he asserted, and no provisions contrary to United States tradition. "The United States delegation to the Washington Conference," said Senator Lodge, "were of opinion that there were three dominant purposes to be attained. One was the termination of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. The next was an agreement for the reduction of naval armaments. The third was to accomplish all that was possible to aid China in such a way as to help her in the establishment of a Free and Independent Government, and particularly to secure the restoration of the great Province of Shantung to the Chinese Empire. We succeeded before the close of the Conference in attaining all these objects. Personally I believe the Treaty before us involves the United States in no obligation except to meet with other signatories and consult in case of aggression by some outside power not a signatory. We proposed the treaties, agreements and declarations in which the Conference culminated. Are we now to stumble and fall at the threshold of the undertaking which we designed and brought to fulfilment? Are we to sink back into sullen solitude, a prey to dark suspicions, a hermit nation armed to the teeth and looking forward all ways to wars as inseparable from the existence of mankind upon earth?"

FREE STATE BILL PASSES THIRD READING.

LONDON, March 7. The Irish Free State Bill passed its third reading in the Commons to-day by a vote of 295 to 62. Ronald McNeill, for the Die-hards, moved the rejection of the Bill declaring that if an Irish Republic was proclaimed when Ireland had an army of its own, the British Government would recognize it. Mr. Churchill warmly repudiated this. He said that while the Treaty allowed some latitude as to the size of the Irish Army it would probably be between 20,000 and 30,000, and if Ulster continued out of the Free State the quota would be reduced proportionately. He ridiculed the idea that Ireland had lapsed into a condition of Bolshevik anarchy, on the contrary the main life of the country was proceeding normally. William Redmond said the only proper course for Ulster was to come into the Free State. Churchill said, "if we strip Ireland of her grievance and her power of exciting the sympathy of the world and support of America and the Dominions, we should place Ireland in a position where if she broke the Treaty she would be wrong and we would be absolutely in the right and she would be isolated in the whole world." The Bill passed the third reading without demonstration.

RAIN AND WIND STORM SWEEPS NEW ENGLAND.

BOSTON, March 8. Swollen rivers and flooded highways with miscellaneous minor damages were left to-day as the local effects of the rain and wind storm that swept New England last night. One death and several injuries were attributed to the storm. Garson Rafter, fifty years of age, was killed at Worcester when the driving rain prevented him from seeing an automobile. Forty-two passengers were shaken up and several injured when a trolley car left the rails in Dorchester District here. Row boats were used in the Streets of South Deerfield and at Essex Junction, Vermont. A barn toppled over in Lynn.

ALLIANCE RATIFIED.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 8. The Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America to-day ratified the articles of alliance between the transportation and mine workers unions, it was announced.

NO CHANGE IN POLITICAL SITUATION.

LONDON, March 8. The political situation was unchanged to-day. Strong party feeling, however, still exists. Lord Carson, former Ulster leader and Lord Brienhead had a fierce encounter in the House of Lords. Carson taunted the Government with having left its former faithful servants, the Irish constabulary, to the tender mercies of those who had formerly been treated as rebels and murderers, which he characterized as "the most abject humiliation for any country that had ever been witnessed." Carson's speech was full of bitterness against the Government's Irish policy. Lord Brienhead warmly defended the Government, arguing that the overwhelming majority of the English people were behind the Anglo-Irish Treaty, and that this would be shown if the Government was driven to the polls. He reiterated the conviction that public opinion in Ireland was consolidating itself behind the Provisional Government, and told Lord Carson that his taunts

The Kidneys

The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangement of the kidneys. Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease, soon develops, others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in. In order to forestall painful and dangerous ailments prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble. Dr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkcubbin, Inverness county, N.S., writes: "I can truly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills to all suffering from derangement of the kidneys. I suffered from kidney trouble for a long time. I was nearly always lame with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and having a few boxes was completely cured. I have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills with the best results, and would feel in recommending these wonderful pills."

were unworthy of the great position he occupied. INDIA'S PLEA FOR TURKEY. DELHI, March 8. After consultation with all Provincial Administrations, the Government of India has sent the following telegram to the right Hon. Edwin S. Montagu, Secretary of State of India. "On the eve of the Greek-Turk conference, we feel that it is our duty again to lay before your Majesty's Government the intensity of feeling in India regarding the necessity for revision of the Sevres Treaty between Turkey and the Allies. The Government of India is fully conscious of the complexity of the problem, but India's record in the war, in which Indian Muslim soldiers participated in such great numbers, and the support which the Indian Muslim cause has received in the empire nation, entitles her claim to the completest aspirations. The Government in India particularly emphasizes the necessity of guaranteeing the neutrality of the Dardanelles and security of its non-Muslim peoples. It also urges the evacuation of Constantinople, the sovereignty of the Sultan over the Holy places, restoration of the Turk in Thrace, also in Adrianople and Smyrna. The Government urges that these points are of supreme importance in India." CRISIS STILL ACUTE. LONDON, March 8. Sir Arthur Balfour's plan for continuation of Coalition, in his speech at the Carlton Club yesterday afternoon, did nothing to improve the position of the Coalition, and left matters as they were with the resignation of Premier Lloyd George hanging in the air, according to the almost unanimous opinion of political correspondents and Editorial writers to-day. The London Times says, editorially:—"Sir Arthur's speech was a philosophic effort, the worth of which will be more readily judged when its inevitable failure has been apparent." The Daily Sketch referred somewhat indefinitely to "possible startling events before the Premier goes to-morrow on his holiday," and added that the Premier's resignation was probably as imminent as ever.

SIXTH PAYMENT MADE. PARIS, March 8. The German Government, to-day notified the Allied Reparations Committee that its sixth ten day reparation payment amounting to 31,000,000 gold marks had been placed on deposit.

The Kyle also brought 400 bags of matter. Capt. Stevenson reports after leaving Louisbourg the had to steam through ice for miles. For ten miles there was water but the rest of the passage through heavy slob. The captain, having under orders from headquarters made a search for the Sisto. The position just given by the ship was reached a lookout was kept four hours but seeing no sign of ship the Kyle came on to St. John's.

L. O. A. Celebration.

The annual parade of Britannia Lodge, of the Loyal Orange Association, took place last Thursday. This event usually takes place in April, immediately after Easter, but this year it was decided to make a change and celebrate the anniversary before the beginning of Lent. The day chosen was beautifully fine but very cold. The brethren assembled at Britannia Hall shortly after noon. After preliminary arrangements, procession was formed and proceeded to St. Mary's Church by the high road. The service at the church was conducted by the Rector, Rev. H. Petley. It consisted of Evensong, with special Lessons and Sermon. From the church the procession returned to the hall, where a banquet was spread and partaken of by nearly three hundred people. The catering had been done by Mrs. C. Braks, of Meadows, and was all that could be desired. After tea the evening was enlivened by songs, recitations, etc., while in the ballroom the light fantastic was tripped to the strains of the violin. At midnight luncheon was served, and dancing was continued till well into the morning hours, for the benefit of those who had come from Middle Arm and other distant settlements.—Western Star, March 1.

Sweden's Liquor System Explained.

The consumption of intoxicating liquors in Sweden has been reduced nearly fifty per cent. since the beginning of 1914, when Sweden's liquor rationing system went into effect. This is shown by the latest official reports which say that the reduction took place without absolutely excluding anyone from the use of alcoholic stimulants except those who abused the law by drinking to excess.
Under the Swedish rationing system individuals are given cards upon which they can obtain a given amount of distilled liquor or wines. The maximum amount allowed to any individual is about seven and one-half pints per month equal to about five bottles a month, and this is allowed to married men.
Married women receive no allowance except from their husband's cards, while unmarried women receive as low as one and one-half pints per month, just a little more than the contents of an ordinary sized bottle of whiskey. On special occasions such as weddings or festivities these allowances are increased if requested.
The rationing cards are revoked in the case of individuals convicted of drunkenness. The official report says that the number of inebriates whose Bitter Plight of Russian Refugees.

Constantinople. Associated Press.—Bitter cold weather and heavy falls of snow are intensifying the sufferings of the legions of Russian refugees who have sought shelter and food within the Turkish capital and its environment. Their misery is great. They haunt the dark streets and alleys at night begging alms and bread. There are nearly 20,000 who are utterly destitute. The American Red Cross left here a short time ago. The refugees are now turning their attention to the embassies. Entertainment, balls and gala performances are being given by charitable persons in an effort to raise money for the unfortunate Russian outcasts, but the response is very feeble. The truth is life in Constantinople is so dear, that only the well-to-do can afford to give any substantial help to others. The plight of the Russian women and children and old men is pathetic to the last degree. There is a shortage of wood and other fuel and many are dying daily of exposure.
A LARGE ORDER.
In addition to the Russian, Greek and Turkish refugees, whose number runs into tens of thousands, Constantinople has to provide food and shelter for the Armenian refugees of Cilicia. Appeals are placarded about the city to move the population to absorb their destitute brethren but nobody seems to worry about them. "Let the rich Americans or the League of Nations take care of them," is the general response. Sir Samuel Hoare, Deputy High Commissioner for the League of Nations, is here in connection with the International Relief Fund for Russian refugees, with which Dr. Fridtjof Nansen is connected. His arrival has greatly heartened the Russians, especially General Wrangle and other Russian officials upon whom a great part of the task of caring for the League has fallen. It is hoped here the League will take energetic measures to ameliorate the grave conditions that exist.

A wrap of white ermine is lined with black velvet and collared and girdled with silver fox.
A gown of gold lame is draped in fountains forming ripples at the sides and a train in back.
Lattice-work in chenille rope or rolled bias folds of the material is used as a blouse trimming.
Novel shoes of black patent leather have grey suede tops reaching a little above the ankle bone.
A frock of red velvet has an overskirt of brown net caught in a choker on one side at the waist-line.
Vertical trimming of fringe in self color is solely responsible for the charge of a mauve crepe gown.
A blouse of white crepe is trimmed with oblong panels worked in cross-stitch and a frilled jabot.
Bands of black leather are stitched over a pair of brown satin shoes which fasten with black moire ribbon.
The informal dinner gown is generally long and straight, girdled about the hips, and with long, flowing sleeves.
A vest of beige pique, edging of tan silk braid, and rows of bone buttons lend interest to a dress of navy blue Jersey.
Panels of blue are used on the skirt of a dress of silver cloth. The low placed girde drops a garland of silver flowers.
A black crepe frock has its side panels embroidered with a silver bead vine, green chenille leaves and red velvet flowers.
A frock of navy blue pique has a collar and sleeve puffs of organdie and is trimmed with narrow metallic braid.

Although the S.S. Kyle reached Port aux Basques last Wednesday shortly after noon with both foreign and local mails for the West Coast covering a period of ten days or more, the train did not leave there until the following afternoon. This week similar delay in the despatch of the mails from the Western terminal has taken place. The Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques 10 o'clock on Monday morning from Louisbourg, and after short delay she left again for St. John's, yet the train with the West Coast mails did not leave there until yesterday afternoon, being a delay of between twenty-six and thirty hours after the arrival of the steamer, and that with a clear rail on the Western division and fine weather prevailing.—Western Star, March 1.

Get Your Free $1.00 PACKAGE OF GENUINE YEAST VITAMINE TABLETS from your druggist today.
If you are thin and emaciated and wish something to help you put on flesh and increase your weight, Yeast Vitamine Tablets should be used in connection with organic Nuxated Iron. Without organic iron, both food and Vitamine are absolutely useless, as your body cannot change inert, lifeless food into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood. Organic iron takes up oxygen from your lungs. This oxygenated organic iron combines with your digested food as it is absorbed into your blood. Just as fire unites with coal or wood, and by so doing it creates tremendous power and energy. Without organic iron in your blood your food merely passes through your body without doing you any good.
Arrangements have been made with the druggists of this city to give every reader of this paper a large $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free with every purchase of a bottle of Nuxated Iron.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

DE VALERA MUST SPEAK.

DUBLIN, March 8. The Freeman's Journal, discussing the Limerick situation to-day, dealt with what it described as "Ramon De Valera's silence," and said editorially, "De Valera so far as is known has taken no step to correct the deeds of hot-headed persons, who, pretending to be his followers, have invaded Limerick and quartered themselves in that city as its inhabitants. Thanks to the self-control of the rank and file of the Irish Republican Army, actual violence, so far, has been averted. The situation, however, in the city is impossible, and full of danger. Any conflict at the present moment would be an outrage on the Irish nation, and its name throughout the world. It behooves De Valera to speak and let the world know where he stands."

PREACHING THE BOYCOTT.

DUBLIN, March 8. De Valera attended a meeting yesterday, in Belfast, of Sinn Fein representatives from Counties Antrim, Down, Armagh, Londonderry, Fermanagh, and Tyrone, to discuss "the campaign of anarchy in north-west Ulster, and murder outrages on Nationalists, on account of their religion." According to an official Sinn Fein announcement, resolutions were adopted demanding that Dall Esbriain reimpose the trade boycott against Ulster, and reaffirming non-recognition by Sinn Fein of the Belfast Parliament.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

LONDON, March 8. The Commons, yesterday, permitted by a vote of 208 to 69, Lord Robert Cecil to introduce a bill designed to give women the franchise on the same terms as men. It would enfranchise 6,000,000 women.

TRANQUIL IN LIMERICK.

LIMERICK, March 8. The situation here remained tranquil yesterday, although additional forces of the Irish Republican Army arrived from Kilkenny. On the invitation of the Mayor, officers of Free State troops and Irish Republicans met at a luncheon to informally discuss the situation. Later the Mayor went to Dublin to continue negotiations for a moderation of the controversy.

LENIN'S DESIRE.

MOSCOW, March 8. Nikolai Lenin, after a long rest in the country, last night spoke before a Congress of Metal Workers and expressed a desire personally to go to Genoa and meet Premier Lloyd George face to face.

A NEW CONTENDER.

ESSEX, Mass., Mar. 9. The fishing schooner Puritan, built as a probable contender for the International Fishermen's Trophy, will be launched at the shipyards of J. F. James and Sons on Saturday. The vessel, which will spend the season halibut fishing, is being built by the Manta Club of Gloucester. Captain Jeff Thomas of Gloucester will be her skipper. The Puritan is smaller than the Mayflower, which was barred last year from the races on the ground that she was more of a yacht than a fisherman, is the result of plans of Captain Ben Pine, of Gloucester, her managing owner, and other Gloucester men at Halifax last fall, when the Elsie of Gloucester was defeated by the Bluenose of Lunenburg.

ON THEIR WEDDING TOUR.

LONDON, March 9. Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles left to-day for Paris. They were almost overwhelmed by the salutations of a great crowd. They are on their way to Italy, and plan to spend an extended time at Florence.

OFFICIAL OPENING.

OTTAWA, March 9. His Excellency the Governor General, will at three o'clock this afternoon, formally open the fourteenth Parliament of Canada.

AND THERE YOU ARE.

MOSCOW, March 9. "Soviet Russia's economic retreat has ended, and will go no further in its concessions to capitalism," Nikolai Lenin told a congress of metal workers in a brief speech, discussing the Genoa Conference and Russia's internal problems. Simultaneously Lenin Krasin, in an interview, declared that Soviet Russia would not abandon her control of foreign trade.

A NEW REPRESENTATION.

DUBLIN, March 9. T. Smiddy, Professor of Economics at the University College of Cork, will be Dall Ebrann's new representative in Washington, succeeding Harry C. Boland. It was announced yesterday.

HANGING ON.

PARIS, March 9. France and other European countries are awaiting United States Senate ratification of Disarmament Conference agreements before submitting them to their respective parliaments, according to a statement made by Premier Poincare, and M. Serraut of the French delegates to that conference before the Senate Committee on foreign affairs, and navy, yesterday. They added information that ratification of United States Senate was likely to carry reservations, thereby entailing other modifications to make equivalent modifications in Pacific and naval limitation treaties. France's difficulties at Washington would be shown when the minutes of the conference were published as United States, it is reported, intends doing.

THE SITUATION IN INDIA.

LONDON, March 9. India's appeal for Turkish rights urging the necessity for a revision of the Sevres Treaty, in view of an intense Mohammedan feeling in that country, has stirred public opinion here and has created a sensation. The appeal has aroused resentment in a large section of the Press against the Earl of Reading, Viceroy of India, and his Council. Every London newspaper this morning vigorously condemns a message, presumably addressed by the Government of India to Edwin Montagu, Secretary of State for India, and all newspaper critics characterize the action as unprecedented. They imply that an appeal was made over the heads of the British Government. It is complained that India's demands are calculated to cause the British Government embarrassment in its dealings with the signatories of the Sevres Treaty.

English editors take it for granted that this movement has been launched in India to influence proceedings at the Conference in Paris, on March 22, when Great Britain, France and Italy hope to discuss a settlement in the Near East. Some critics suggest that Sir Edwin Montagu, convinced in the issuance of this appeal for this very purpose, and indeed it is generally assumed in well informed circles that the British Government must have been aware of its despatch from India before it appeared in the newspapers.

THE VAGABIES OF DYNAMITE.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 9. One man, James Judge, of Buffalo, was killed, and ten were seriously injured yesterday afternoon by a dynamite explosion during blasting operations on a tunnel construction job.

SEEKING EXTRANEOUS AID.

DUBLIN, March 9. A delegation of prominent advocates of the Sinn Fein State will leave for United States on the Aquitania, Saturday. They are to put the case of the treaty before Irish residents in America. The De Valera supporters are reported to be sending a rival mission, which may possibly sail on the Aquitania also.

Personal.

Miss Meta Taylor, who has spent several months with her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Parsons, returned to Montreal by the Kyle to-day.

Mr. Richard McGrath entered the General Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment.

A seamless frock of leather-colored kasha cloth is embroidered in chenille and worn with a peasant blouse of cream viol.

An excellent hat for the black crepe frock is a huge black satin one dropping under a bunch of violets placed almost in front.

A street frock of black crepe remains has a waistcoat effect and cuffs of white crepe remain embroidered in blue soutache braid.

Croup

Mrs. Joseph W. Lewis, Balls Creek, N.S., writes:—

"My little boy, aged six years, had a very bad case of croup, of which nothing seemed to help him. Dr. Chase's Linseed & Turpentine was resorted to, and he was soon entirely relieved."

(Mr. Alex. J. Campbell, J.P., states: "This is to certify that I am acquainted with Mrs. Joseph Lewis, and believe her statement with reference to Dr. Chase's Linseed to be true and correct.")

HIS DIARY. March 8th.—Up and put on my suit of brown cloth which is very plain but good. To the War Memorial office where I did meet for the first time, Father Ryan, and he tells me how he did think me to be a much older man, and is, I think, a sign that I bear my years well, for which, God be praised: Two of the sealing steamers did leave to-day and the others will be going this evening. And indeed, the seal fishery must be very good this year, for the country is in a sorry state and little to hope for if the seal and cod fisheries be bad.

Real News.

(The Advocate has filled up its editorial columns for the past two days with information about the sealing inspectors and their duties.) It's a thing that is very peculiar and one that should cause you to swear. And think what a very great fool you were that before you did not of it hear. So the Advocate's now out to teach us the facts that we all should have known.

Billiard Tournament in Bonny Scotland.

In a billiard tournament held at Dunkeld, Scotland, in the early part of February, J. A. Barrett, of Curline, Nfld., was the successful competitor. The tournament was keenly contested by seventy-eight players, and although Mr. Barrett was handicapped by from twenty to sixty points, yet he won out by a creditable majority. The prize was a billiard cue, with ebony butt, inlaid with mother-of-pearl, and at its presentation a jovial time was spent.

A Proud Record.

Three generations of a sealing family are to be found on S.S. Terra Nova, which sailed for the icefields to-day. They are Capt. A. Keen, Capt. Ned Keen, his son, and Master Cyril Keen, his grandson. The last named is making his first trip to the icefields, and it is a proud record that father, son and grandson should sail in the same ship and at the same time.

Going to Holy Land.

Mr. J. Duff, proprietor of the Queen Theatre, accompanied by his wife and son, leaves by the Sacher on an extended tour which will embrace Europe and the Holy Land. The party will be joined at Rome by Rev. Father Joy, of Port au Port. The return from Palestine will be made by way of Egypt.

Pulpwood Cutting.

Pulpwood cutter writing from Port, complains of the manner in which the Government handled the matter of giving relief by the cutting of pulpwood in that section. He says that the contractors should have been given to an officer who is really in the pay of the Government.

Conceal the Truth!

Correspondent writing from Port, under date of February 12th, with a strong exception to an item which appeared in the Advocate of the 9th, reporting a tour of the part of Trinity Bay, made by Mr. John Guppy, M.H.A. The writer states that, contrary to Mr. Guppy's report, no destination exists in that part of the District which he says there are many, such as several correspondents mention several cases of dire want, and he adds that Mr. Guppy need not go outside his own harbor of Port, Rexton to see the six families in very poor circumstances.

Outport Nursing.

ANNUAL REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

The Outport Nursing Committee, headed by Dr. Campbell, Chairman, believe that the public will be interested in the report by Lady Leacock on the work of the Outport Nursing Committee for the last financial year. They also thought that it would be interesting to give a very short summary of the work of the Outport Nurses—those for the last year of 1921. It would obviously be impossible for the press to find time for full reports.

At the Outport Nursing Conference (Core, N.B.,—Victoria, N.S.), 17. The calls cover a wide area and include 2 mid-wifery and some 300 or more connective tissue accidents or abrasions. The complaints of work being slack in the quarter.

Lemonade and Hot Bath as Influenza Cure.

The nurses' advisory council of New York organized during the influenza epidemic of 1918, was called together by Health Commissioner Copeland to combat the present outbreak of the disease in New York, which increased 1,032 cases with 20 deaths. The health commissioner made public the following remedy for influenza:

Remain half an hour in water as hot as you can stand it. The water should be kept running so that the heat can be maintained. While in the tub, drink about a quart of lemonade, so hot that you have to sip it slowly. Dry off well and get in bed between blankets. Remain there for an hour. The perspiration will then have ceased. Get up, sponge off with cold water to close the pores and get back to bed, this time between sheets.

Fashion Plates.

A SPLENDID VERSION OF A POPULAR STYLE.

3819. A clever adaptation of the season's best style. For wear on any occasion the blouse may be of chiffon, crepe de chine or net, and the dress of georgette, tricolette, taffeta, faille, or velvet. The style is good for serge, velours, duvetyne, gaberdine, twill, and check or plaid suiting, with lines, silk or madras for the blouse.

The Pattern is cut in 8 sizes: 16, 18, and 20 years. An 18 year size will require 2 1/4 yards of 33 inch material for the bodice, and 3 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for the dress. The width of the skirt is 3 1/4 yards, at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

A POPULAR SUIT STYLE FOR THE SMALL BOY.

3827. The blouse suit is the 'one most universally becoming to the little fellow. This model has a smart inset pocket and a pleasing collar. The style is good for serge, twill, mixtures, corduroy, khaki, and also for wash materials such as ringhams, drill, seersucker, galatea and linen.

The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, and 8 years. A 4 year size requires 1 1/2 yard of 37 inch material for the blouse and 1 1/4 yard for the trousers.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR COUGHS AND COLDS.

(Miss Rose) and yet another (Miss Ruffie) came over by some misunderstanding with the Maple Leaf Committee and was ultimately given work under the Association at Hant's Harbour.

In respect of one of the Nurses Joe Batt's Arm have undertaken the whole expense; and the nurse at Hant's Harbour was to be under special arrangements whereby only part of the expense falls upon the Committee.

The receipts for the year amounted to $3,762.48 as follows:—

Grants from Government . . .	$2000.00
Special grants per Lady Harris . . . . .	1000.00
Total receipts from fees, etc., Nurse Smith (Hodge's Cove) . . . . .	318.82
Total receipts from fees, etc., Nurse Casement, Rose (Blanche) . . . . .	405.25
Amount received from Commissioners of Public Charities on acct. Nurse Ruffie's board . . . . . 18.35

 Amount received from Relieving Officer, Placentia, donation from residents on acct. Nurse Ruffie's work . . . . . 20.00
 $3,762.42

*June Quarter of Rose Blanche fell into next year.
 The expenditure for the year amounted to $3,243.77 as follows:—

Salaries . . . . .	1,837.59
Preliminary expenses including board on arrival . . . . .	186.00
Medicines . . . . .	863.38
Passages, etc., from England . . . . .	286.52
Travelling within the Colony . . . . .	69.35
Sundries (Surgery equipment, printing, etc.) . . . .	51.08
$3,243.77

NOTE.—This above excludes an amount of $90.81 due by Joe Batt's Arm.

It will be seen that a cash balance of $518.65 goes on to the new financial year; but it must be remembered that this is due to special grants which are not a normal part of the Committee's funds.

Stafford's Phorastone will cure Coughs and Colds. For sale everywhere.—mar22

Household Notes.

A dash of curry powder will be appreciated in creamed chicken. Chopped candied chestnuts are good served on vanilla ice cream. Mushrooms are excellent broiled and served on hot buttered toast.

A box of assorted sizes of corks should be kept in every household. Sliced ripe olives and oranges make a pleasing salad combination.

Trees That Give Light.

There is a remarkable tree or shrub in a small gulch near some springs about twelve miles of Tuscarora. It is about six or seven feet in height, with a trunk which, at its base, is three times the size of a man's wrist. Its remarkable characteristic is its foliage, which, at certain seasons of the year is so luminous that it can be plainly distinguished on the darkest night for a distance of more than a mile, while in its immediate vicinity it emits sufficient light to enable a person to read the finest print. Its foliage is extremely rank, and its leaves resemble somewhat, in size, shape, and colour, those of the aromatic bay tree of California. The luminous property is evidently parasitic, and consists of a sort of gummy substance, which upon being transferred by rubbing to a person's hand, imparts to it the same apparently phosphorescent light, while that on the leaf entirely disappears. The only reasonable explanation for this phenomenon that we can imagine is that the leaves possess some quality which either generates or attracts phosphoric matter.

The Most Widely Distributed Animal.

No animal is met with over so wide an area of the earth's surface as man. The creature which most nearly approaches him in this respect is undoubtedly the dog, which, in one form or another, is to be found everywhere except in the West Indies, Madagascar, and the Oceanic Islands. Even in these places dogs have been introduced by men who came from countries where they abounded. In making the above statement, the word "dog" is taken to be equivalent to the more scientific term of Canidae, which genus includes not merely the domestic dogs of various races, but wolves, foxes, jackals, and wild dogs, which all belong to the same great family. There is, indeed, no doubt that our canine pets are actually descended from the same common ancestors as the wild creatures just mentioned. Rats and mice are found almost everywhere on the earth's surface, except in the central portions of the African and Australian continents, and in the cold regions of the extreme North and South. Bats, too, are very widely distributed, and are, indeed, found everywhere in the tropical and temperate portions of the world.

Enjoyable Evening at the Crescent.
EDDIE MCGINLEY GIVES GOOD ENTERTAINMENT.

Patrons of the Crescent spent a most enjoyable evening at the entertainment last night when they witnessed one of the most interesting variety programmes ever pulled off in a movie house. The picture attraction was Justice Johnstone's starring vehicle "The Plaything of Broadway." The production abounds in all the interest and heart appeal that a movie fan desires. Eddie McGinley balanced the programme with a funny vaudeville act that kept the audience in good humour from start to finish. He opened with a jazz number, entitled "Home Again Blues," following on with funny stories and dances. His comic song, "Ain't Nature Grand," which he changed to "Ain't Flippers Grand" was one riot of fun and certainly put some real "pep" to the show. To-night this programme will be repeated.

ONCE YOUR ROOM IS PANELLED WITH Beaver Board

Your House Cleaning Trouble will be over

You won't have to worry about wall paper, no more paste to make, no more dirt to clean up, no more kalsomining or white-washing to do, and no more expense.

A Beaver Board room saves money in the long run—the first cost is the last.

About $9.00 worth of Beaver Board will cover your ceiling. About $21.00 worth of Beaver Board will do your walls.

Panel your dining-room now with Beaver Board—it's the latest style.

IMPORTANT

Take care that you get genuine Beaver Board with the Beaver Brand stamped on the back of every board. Remember that the labour and cost of putting on imitations of Beaver Board are the same as if genuine Beaver Board was being used, but the real genuine Beaver Board will last as long as your house; it won't rot, won't peel, won't crack and is guaranteed to be superior to ordinary wall board. Get the genuine Beaver Board if you want satisfaction.

Death Dance of Weasel.

The death dance of the weasel is quite the cleverest act performed by any wild creature to obtain food. He will practice upon English lapwings, for these birds are very inquisitive. He sees the birds in the middle of a large meadow. Running through the grass, he gets as near to them as he can without being seen. Now he begins to dance; he jumps up and down, not very quickly at first, but just raising himself above the grass. The birds cease feeding and look at the strange creature. The weasel now seems to have gone mad. He twists, tumbles, falls over and over, bounces up and down, but all the time getting just a little closer to the bird he has marked. The lapwing's prying nature sends them closer to the little animal. Wilder grows his antics, closer and closer he works toward the birds. He is now in the middle of an admiring group. Suddenly there is a spring, a startled cry from a bird, a flutter of frightened wings, and the birds fly off. But the teeth of the weasel are fixed firmly in the neck of the bird he has won.

Origin of "Whip."

The parliamentary origin of the term "whip" goes back to 1768. In that year, according to Sir Courtenay Ilbert, clerk of the British House of Commons from 1802 to 1821, there was a great debate in the House on a petition against the return of Colonel Luttrell for Westminster in place of John Wilkes, the printer, who had been expelled from the House by its order. The government made strenuous efforts to bring together all their followers for the division, and Edmund Burke, referring scornfully to the manner in which men had been summoned post-haste even from the continent, likened the activity of the ministers to the whipping-in of a pack of hounds. The phrase caught on. The treasury officials became "whippers-in," and, by rapid process of abbreviation, whips.

Those Who Refuse Titles

The list of illustrious persons who were offered titles and refused them is an interesting one. Among politicians Gladstone and Chamberlain repeatedly refused, and more recently Mr. Asquith waived an earldom and the Garter. Lord James of Hereford, when he became Solicitor-General, de-

"It's never touched me yet," he explained when they pointed out the risks.

That's the answer a good many people make when they hear that the drug element in tea and coffee often harms nerves and health. They say it's never touched them yet.

Sometimes they only think it hasn't.

Wakeful nights, drowsy days, headaches that keep coming more frequently—often are blamed on bad luck when the blame belongs on bad judgment in taking needless chances with harm.

Over on the safe side is Postum, a pure cereal beverage, delicious and satisfying—containing nothing that can harm nerves or digestion. Thousands who used to try their luck with tea or coffee are enthusiastic over having found safety and satisfaction in Postum.

It's worth your while to make the test with Postum for ten days. Postum is a delightful drink for any member of the family, at any meal.

Your grocer has both forms of Postum: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 30 minutes.

quarters it is said that the Government has been asked to guarantee the Company's bonds to the extent of $1,000,000; in other quarters it is said the Proposals would involve the Government in obligations amounting to $13,000,000. The Island's need of new industries is generally recognized. Young men are growing up who have no inclination for the fishing, and unless opportunities of employment are afforded they must emigrate. The Hummer project would doubtless be a great boon for the colony; but the Government with a way debt of about $14,000,000 is now anxious to assume new financial obligations and Sir Robert Bond has come out in opposition to what he calls a "measure which may strike a fatal blow at the autonomy and independence of our country." In the view of the St. John's Telegram Sir Robert's pronouncement on the subject presages his re-entrance into the political life, a possibility which is contemplated with general interest.

IT CERTAINLY WOULD.

The Daily Advocate, organ of Hon. W. F. Coaker, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, is plainly in favor of very substantial government assistance to assure the realization of the big Hummer project, and, as Head of the Fishermen's Protective Union and various co-operative enterprises, Mr. Coaker wields a very considerable influence. The Minister is a vigorous advocate of aggressive and radical economic policies, and a battle between him and Sir Robert Bond, would certainly embitter the political life of the Island.

Empress Chafed in Durance.

EMPEROR CALM AND COLLECTED.

Ekaterinburg, Russia. (Associated Press.)—Alexandra, the late Empress of Russia, after ceasing to chafe under her imprisonment in this city where she was finally executed, but the late Emperor Nicholas showed more calmness and indifference to his fate. A little booklet recently issued by P. Bykoff, former chairman of the Ekaterinburg Soviet, gives many intimate glimpses at the imperial family during the month they were prisoners of the Bolsheviki in this city just preceding their execution in July, 1918. When the Czar and his wife and part of his family were transferred from Tobolsk to Ekaterinburg by the Soviet Government, a residence in the center of the city was assigned to them. It was in the basement of this building that they were shot. A half-prison regime was established which did not interfere with the activities of the imperial family in their own quarters. Before the Romanoffs were permitted to enter their new quarters the guards searched them. Alexandra protested bitterly and offered physical resistance. The Emperor submitted willingly, but was greatly perturbed. He paced the room while the search was proceeding and exclaimed: "The devil knows what it means! Up to now we have met courteous people and have had decent treatment!"

THREATS HAD EFFECT.

According to Bykoff, the Soviet officials made it clear to the Romanoffs that they were not at Tsarsko Selo and threats to isolate the Emperor from his family if he offered criticism silenced him. "Nicholas soon realized we were not joking," says the book, "and submitted uncomplainingly to the demands of the commandant in charge of the house. He made few efforts to chat with the guards, but Alexandra never ceased breaking rules." The Romanoffs were permitted to select their own hours for walking in the garden where all sorts of tools were available if they cared to take more vigorous physical exercise. Two meals a day were supplied to them from the best Soviet kitchen in Ekaterinburg and they were given a gasoline primus, or stove, upon which they could heat their food. Food packages were forbidden to the imperial family but Bykoff says, "the sisters in the local convent annoyed the guards greatly by sending parcels of biscuits and other delicacies which were distributed among the soldiers." On Easter the imperial family asked permission to attend church. This request was denied, but a priest was admitted to their quarters to hold service and eggs and special cakes were sent to them by Soviet officials.
