PROBLEM OF THE DISABLED SOLDIERS

The Mother Country Advised to Follow Canada's Example.

The London Daily Chronicle, the leading journal of the Imperial Capital, gives the most prominent place in its issue of Oct. 4 to the following spontaneous and remarkable appreciation of Canada's method of restoring disabled soldiers to active and self-supporting citizenship. In this article the well-known writer, Mr. J. Saxon Mills, goes so far as to suggest that the Mother Country in dealing with this problem might follow the example of the Dominion. He says:—

One of the most difficult questions England has to face at present is how to deal with the broken men who are now streaming in from the battle-fronts. The adequate answer to that question has not yet been found. It is not even certain that the main principles which should be observed in solving the problem are yet fully grasped. For example, we are in danger of thinking that our responsibility for the wounded soldiers is fulfilled when he is no longer fit for military service, and when he is pensioned and discharged from the Army. When thus discharged he loses the benefit of the special treatment provided while he remains in uniform, and he is at once thrown upon the lists of the already over-worked panel doctors. This will not do at all. The nation has a larger and longer responsibility to its disabled veterans than that. It may be useful to notice how Canada deals with the problem. We may learn much from the admirable system which has been established by the Dominion Government. By an order in Council, dated June 30, 1915, the Canadian Government formed, at the instance of Sir Robert Borden, a Military Hospitals and Convalescent Homes Commission, "to deal with the provision of hospital accommodation and military convalescent homes in Canada for officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who return invalided from the front." The very able president of that Commission is Sir James A. Loughheed, and it has an efficient and enterprising secretary in Mr. E. H. Scammell. The Commission has learnt much by experience, and is to-day undoubtedly working on right lines. At first, the general idea was that convalescent homes, where discharged soldiers would spend a short time for rest and refreshment, would be the chief requirement, and scores of houses and hundreds of workers were placed at the disposal of the Commission. But this idea was soon dispelled when it was found that the treatment of the disabled soldiers was a more serious and lengthy business. Months or even weeks spent in the atmosphere of such a home would tend to injure rather than strengthen the physical and moral fibre. Let us heed what Mr. J. S. McLeannan, a member of the Commission, has to say on this subject in his introduction to the Commission's special bulletin:—

The supply of comforts which in many cases were luxurious, the relaxation of discipline, the treatment of men as one treats a civilian patient in the interval between illness and the resuming of ordinary occupation, which might do no harm if the experience was to be confined to days, are most seriously detrimental to the best interests of the men when extended over the prolonged periods which have been found unavoidable. The first conception of the homes was that they were places of relaxation; the right one which experience has taught us to realize is that they are places of rehabilitation. In other words, we are changing as rapidly as may be our convalescent homes into hospitals where, in the interests of the men, their time will be fully occupied by their physical restoration made as perfect as possible and, from the beginning, the bad effects of illness obviated by employment.

"These are golden words which those who are responsible for our wounded veterans will do well to remember."

It would be interesting to follow the history of a few typical cases of Canadian soldiers wounded in the battle lines. Of course, the injured man may be cured and return to the front; but his case may be hopeless, so far as military fitness is concerned, and he may have to be sent back to Canada. When he arrives there he is taken in hand at the port of arrival by the Military Hospitals Commission. If he belongs to Class I, that is, if he is unfit for overseas service, but able to take up his former occupation he receives 15 days' pay and transportation to his home together with free meals en route. If he belongs to Class II, or III, that is, if he has to receive further treatment as a convalescent, or has a permanent disability of any kind, he is passed on to the appropriate institutions. If he is an ordinary convalescent he will be sent to the hospital nearest his home;

THE EUROPEAN WAR

Revolution of Greece

ATHENS, Nov. 3.—After months of strife between the adherents of the former premier, Venizelos, and the staunch adherents of King Constantine, over the question of Greece's stand in the war, a revolution of considerable proportions has broken out in the regions southwest of Saloniki. Only meagre details are at hand, but these show that six hundred insurgents, probably followers of Venizelos, forced 150 loyalist troops to evacuate Larissa, 40 miles southwest in Thessaly, where they are expected to receive reinforcements. The troops have received orders from the king to prevent, at all costs, the advance of the Revolutionists.

Canadian Artillery Keep up Good Work

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Despite unfavorable weather a Canadian Artillery battery bombarded German trenches yesterday, said an official statement regarding Canadian operations going on today, while infantry continued the heavy monotonous task of improving and consolidating their lines. The Germans have made no further attempt to retake recently captured trenches. British troops captured a German trench east of Guendecourt in a resumption of fighting on the Somme front yesterday, General Haig reported today. The position was secured last night.

French Patrols Have Penetrated Far Beyond Fort Vaux

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY AT VERDUN, Nov. 5.—From a staff correspondent of the Associated Press—French patrols have penetrated far beyond Fort Vaux into the line held by the Germans, but were not able to get in touch with the former defenders. It appears probable that the Germans have retired their lines considerably to the rear, their artillery positions being untenable since the French drove them from Donnauont after silencing ninety of their batteries. Military observers point out that the Germans were forced to withdraw from Fort Vaux within eight days after Donnauont fell, whereas the French held Fort Vaux four months after the Germans had captured it. The most successful operation of the Somme campaign, as it cost them six thousand prisoners and the annihilation of 32 battalions.

British Making Progress on Somme Front

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The British official communication dealing with the operations on Sunday the Somme front, says: We attacked at three points along the front, making some progress and taking a few prisoners. On our extreme right we cleared a pocket of Germans. In the centre we progressed to the front of over a thousand yards, securing the high ground in the neighborhood of the Butte de Warlencourt. The weather continues stormy.

Italians Capture Points of Vantage and Many Prisoners and Ammunition

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A Home despatch to the Wireless Press says the first day of the new Italian offensive cost the Austrians the loss of 15,000 men. One-third of them were made prisoners, the despatch says. (The Italian War Office yesterday reported that 4,731 prisoners had been taken.) The Twenty-first Italian Brigade was reported to have been annihilated. The Austrians have captured additional points of vantage and guns, machine guns and quantities of arms and ammunition, according to the official communication issued today.

Romanian Forces Made a Successful Attack on Austro-Germans

BUCHAREST, Nov. 3.—Via London.—The War Office announced today that in the fighting along the Romanian front the Romanians have made an attack in Buzenau Valley, occupying Mount Sireul. The statement follows: "Northern and northwestern fronts: The frontier to the German Moldavia is unchanged. We attacked in the Buzenau Valley, occupying Mount Sireul and Tatumariu. At Table Tuzi we progressed beyond the frontier. At Predeusa the situation is unchanged. In the Pralova Valley there have been some minor setbacks. Our troops maintained their positions. In the region of Dragolevele there have been several skirmishes and a somewhat reduced artillery bombardment. To the east of the Alt Danube fighting continues. We have captured four more guns and much war material. At Orsova there was nothing new."

WAR BRIEFS

Nearly 35,000 Testaments bound in Khaki were distributed by the Canadian Bible Society to the first Canadian Expeditionary Force, 25,000 in the second contingent, 35,000 more in process of distribution as required.

I have been through the whole of the Verdun battle, and I have been two months here, but I have never seen anything like the havoc wrought by the Allied artillery yesterday. It surpasses anything I have witnessed."

Canadian fish dealers have agreed to supply the British army with one million and a half pounds of frozen and tinned fish. The Imperial authorities want five million pounds and three tons will be supplied by Canadians from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Different Indian tribes have asked the Canadian Government to pay over 20,000 dollars out of their own trust funds for Red Cross, Patriotic, Belgian and other relief funds. Many of the women are sewing and knitting for war purposes.

Dutch papers say that the foot supply in Belgium for the coming winter promises to be a poor one. In some districts the rye and wheat crop is medium, but the potato crop, which is a most important one, shows a decrease of 30 to 40 percent.

"A German soldier on the Somme front evag had the impudence to crawl over to a British trench and request the loan of a mallet with which to finish a job." When not in action curious informal relationships and conventions tend to spring up between the contending forces. "The Nation."

Hark! I hear the tramp of thousands. And of armed men the hum. Lo! a nation's hosts have gathered Round the quick-alarmed drum.

Saying, Come Freemen Come! Ere your heritage be wasted," said The quick-alarmed drum

Let me of my heart take counsel; War is not of life the sum; Who shall stay to reap the harvest When the autumn days shall come? But the drum Echoes "Come! Come!"

Death shall reap the braver harvest, Said the solemn-sounding drum."

Zam-Buk for those obstinate sores which everything else has failed to heal? The little daughter of Mrs. P. W. Drummond, Theford Mines, Que., suffered with sores which recurred each fall, until Zam-Buk permanently cured them. Mrs. Drummond writes: "Every fall, as soon as the cold weather set in, my little daughter's face and hands would become covered with sore patches, and the irritation and smarting were almost unbearable. For three years in succession she suffered in this way, and although I used any number of remedies, the sores remained all through the winter. Finally I started using Zam-Buk, and to my amazement the sores places soon showed signs of healing, and before long had entirely disappeared, leaving her skin perfectly smooth and clear. Since the Zam-Buk treatment, I am pleased to say, there has been no recurrence of the sores."

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ringworm, dandruff, and wounds. Blood-poisoning, boils, pimples, plica, burns, scalds and all skin injuries. All druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 59c. box, 3 for $1.25.

ENGLISH AS-TEA DRINKERS

Why the Custom Has Grown in a Few Years.

One remarkable feature of English domestic life has been the increase in tea drinking. In 1876 the consumption of tea per head of the population in the United Kingdom was four and a half pounds. In 1912 it was six and three-quarter pounds. The increase has been all to the good from the point of view of the nation's sobriety. It represents a real change in habit.

Formerly it was customary for business men to clinch a bargain over a glass of wine or ale. Now this custom is far more honored in the breach than in the observance. In busy cities tea is the beverage. The clerk, the foreman, the operative, the working woman, all drink tea, greatly to the advantage of health and pocket.

The great increase in the consumption of tea is very largely due to the efforts of British planters in India. Formerly all tea came from China. Fortunately, however, it was discovered that the tea shrub is a native of Assam. The present-day Indian energetic Britons started planting in Assam. The present-day Indian planter is a very different individual from the luxurious gentleman of "Tom Cringle's" who had a large manance of Marryat. His life is one of assiduous toil, sweetened by all too brief furlough.

Luxury and extravagance are very far from being inevitable concomitants of his existence.

In Darjeeling or Kotagiri he enjoys that sweet half-English air of which the poet sings. In the Terai, which stretches at the foot of the Himalayas he has to contend against all the iniquities of a fearful climate. Always and everywhere he is the same cheerful and resolute fellow, facing with equanimity all the risks of disease, the difficulties inseparable from the management of native labor, and the many plant diseases which are the enemies of all cultivation in the tropics.

The pioneer planters had before them the task of reclaiming those jungle wastes; of replacing their futile extravagance of vegetation by well-ordered gardens; of re-populating these bare tracts, supplementing the scanty and inert inhabitants by larger numbers of orderly and industrious workers from other provinces.

The planters are men conversant with modern science, and use ingenious machinery well adapted to the purpose it serves. Large gardens, carefully planted, are cultivated by experts. After plucking the leaf undergoes many processes. It is withered to condense the sap. It is rolled to squeeze the juice on to the surface. It is oxidized to develop the flavor and aroma. It is dried to dry it, and is packed in clean, lead-lined, air-tight chests.

All these processes are performed by clean automatic machinery. Thus the tea from India are pure and free from all contaminating admixture. Coming from healthy, well-cultured plants, they contain all the essential elements in rich abundance.

The influence of organizations in relation to our "old-man" was dwelt upon and the responsibility of an uplifting influence was pointed out.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DEEP BROOK DORCAS SOCIETY.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 25th, the Dorcas Society met in Union Hall for their annual meeting and 5th anniversary. The hall was appropriately decorated and 40 members sat down to a well prepared supper, after which the officers were invited to the platform and all united in singing "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love." Prayers were then offered by the Vice-President, Mrs. L. E. Sherman. Constitution was read and roll called by Mrs. Robert Spurr.

The treasurer's report was then given by Mrs. Howard Adams, and a short program followed. The President, Mrs. Geo. Marsters, in a few well-chosen words, thanked the members for their sympathy and co-operation during her term of office. Five years ago a little company of thirteen women met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Marsters and talked over the need of better equipment for our Sunday School and convent hall. With these special needs before us the organization of the Deep Brook Dorcas Society was formed. When it was declared and Canada was called upon for help, the Dorcas Society was among the first to take up relief work, and the greater sacrifice of giving many of their homes to King and Country. The treasurer reports during this year $200.00 has

LOCKJAW AND DISTEMPER

Since practicing Veterinary Medicine in and about Annapolis County, I have had many cases of Lockjaw (Tetanus) amongst horses and cattle, and also a great many cases of Distemper (Glanders) amongst horses. Many readers already know the causes of these two diseases but I want to make clear to every stock owner that these conditions are classified as contagious diseases and are caused by the entrance into the system of germs or better known to the medical profession as bacteria.

Lockjaw is caused by the Germ known as Bacillus Tetani and gains entrance to the animal's system through wounds or abrasions of the skin. The germ locates itself at the point of entrance and generates there what is known as a toxin or poison. This poison once formed finds its way to the brain, by travelling along the centre of the nerve.

Its final and peculiar characteristic is that of locking the jaw by the rigid contraction of the masseter or jaw muscles. This disease advances until death ensues through starvation etc., unless treatment early in the disease is administered.

Recently a drug has been found which will overcome the contraction of the jaw muscles and allow the jaws to open in order that the disease may heal.

Then by overcoming the toxic effect of the Tetanus Germ with other drugs the animal is made to slowly recover.

Notwithstanding the aforesaid the best and safest method is to prevent against this disease by the use of a Serum made and used similar to the vaccines used by our Medical Surgeons against the various contagious diseases which the human race is subjected to.

Distemper is caused by a variety of germs such as are found within the closed cavity of an abscess. They gain entrance into the system and if the vitality of the animal is lowered by low its normal state, distemper, regular or irregular, is the result.

This disease, too, can be prevented by the use of serum. If one finds that his horse has been within close proximity of the disease he should have the animal inoculated with this serum at once to prevent not only the disease, but also serious complications such as heaves, broken wind, laryngitis, bronchitis, etc., which quite frequently occur.

This serum is also a very great aid towards recovery of animals having distemper and cannot be too highly praised as it is now being used the world over.

Of course lockjaw can be contracted at any time while distemper is more prevalent in young and old horses during the autumn, winter and spring months.

I have not gone into details regarding these two diseases but I wish to convey to those owning animals that these conditions are very prevalent in this part of the province and should be guarded against or receive treatment in due time to save you the loss of a valuable equine or bovine.

I am prepared to deal personally with these or any other contagious diseases at any time, but have penned these few statements hoping they may be of value to stock owners during the coming seasons when diseases are more prevalent.

SUPERIORITY OF LIME WATER FOR PRESERVING EGGS

Experiments in egg preservation were begun at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, in 1898, and have been continued every season since that date. In the course of these experiments trials have been made with more than twenty-five different fluids and preparations that have been proposed or sold as egg preservatives. The work of these fifteen years has shown the superiority of lime water over all other preservatives which we have tested. Closely following lime water is so-called "water glass" or sodium silicate. Both according to our results, have proven effective preservatives, but it may be remarked that it is useless to expect that either can entirely arrest that "stale" flavor commonly found in all but strictly fresh laid eggs.

Preparation of Lime Water
The solubility of lime at ordinary temperatures is 1 part in 700 parts of water. Such a solution would be termed saturated lime water. Translated into pounds and gallons, this means 1 pound of lime is sufficient to saturate 70 gallons of water. However, owing to impurities in commercial lime, it is well to use more than is called for in this statement. It may not, however, be necessary if good, fresh burnt quicklime can be obtained, to employ as much as was at first recommended, namely, 2 to 3 pounds to 5 gallons of water. With such lime as is here referred to one could rest assured that 1 pound to five gallons (50 pounds) would be ample, and that the resulting lime water would be thoroughly saturated. The method of preparation is simply to slake the lime with a small quantity of water and then stir the milk of the lime so formed into 5 gallons of water. After the mixture has been kept well stirred for a few hours it is allowed to settle. The supernatant liquid, which is now saturated lime water, is drawn off and poured over the eggs previously placed in a crock or water-tight barrel.

As exposure to the air tends to precipitate the lime (as carbonate), and thus weaken the solution, the vessel containing the eggs should be kept covered. The air may be excluded by a covering of sweet oil, or by slacking upon which a paste of lime is applied. If after a time there is any noticeable precipitation of the lime the lime water should be drawn or siphoned off and replaced with a further quantity newly prepared.

General Precautions Necessary to Take
It is essential that attention be paid to the following points:
1. That perfectly fresh eggs only be used.
That the eggs should throughout the whole period of preservation be completely immersed.
Although not necessary to the preservation of the eggs in a sound condition a temperature of 40 degrees F. to 45 degrees F. will no doubt materially assist toward retaining good flavor or rather in arresting that "stale" flavor so often characteristic of packed eggs.
Respecting the addition of salt, it must be stated that our experiments—conducted throughout fifteen seasons—do not show any benefit to be derived therefrom; indeed, salt frequently imparts a lime flavor to the egg, probably by inducing an interchange of fluids within and without the egg. Our advice is: do not add any salt to the lime water.

Water Glass
Water glass (sodium silicate) has been extensively experimented with using solutions varying from 2 per cent to 10 per cent. On the whole, solution 2 per cent to 5 per cent (2 lbs. to 5 lbs. of sodium silicate in 10 gallons of water) have given better results than stronger solutions. Although in the main the results have been very fairly satisfactory, we are of the opinion that lime water is superior as a preservative. Further, lime water is cheaper and pleasanter to use than water glass solution—E. T. Shutt.
