TAX INSTALLMENT PLAN OFF THIS YEAR

LEGISLATURE MUST SANCTION NEW SYSTEM

Opinion of City Solicitor Announced by Mayor White

TO GIVE REPORT

His Worship Premises Complete Statement on Entire Question

MAYOR WHITE having sought the advice of the City Solicitor, the Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Premier of the province, in the matter of tax payments on the installment plan, admits to the installment plan, which dashes all hope of the Retail Merchants' Association scheme for this year.

Dr. Baxter holds the opinion that legislation will have to be secured before any new plan for the ingathering of taxes is introduced.

The Mayor said, in view of this definite statement from the City Solicitor, the Common Council cannot consider any installment plan for 1926.

TO MAKE STATEMENT

However, he promised a carefully prepared statement on the whole taxation question in the very near future, one that will comprehend essential points brought out in recent discussions.

His Worship said only one-third of the whole tax levy was for city purposes. He wanted the people to know the whole story plainly, and to this end he was going to make public an official report which he hoped would have the merit of objectiveness.

COULD NOT DETAIL

The Mayor was on the point of launching with some points when he made this statement, and could not enlarge upon it at the moment. However, he seemed inclined to a determination to proceed with the tax-reform idea and rather inferred that definite action along such lines was in mind.

OFFICIAL OPINION

The following is the city solicitor's opinion:

His Worship Mayor White, City Hall, Saint John, N. B.

Dear Mayor White:—In reply to your verbal request for an opinion as to whether the Common Council may make taxes payable by installments, I beg to say that the power of the Common Council is defined by section 46 of the Assessment Act. This section enables the Common Council to enact a by-law or to pass annual resolutions fixing in each year or before which all taxes for that year shall be payable, and to act similarly with regard to water rates.

The power of the Common Council to allow a discount upon the payment of taxes is defined by the same section as applicable to taxes and water rates paid in at the office of the Receiver of Taxes on or before the day fixed by resolution. The Council has no power to deal with this subject by resolution cannot, I think, in this year again deal with it.

If it is desired to adopt any other system with regard to the payment of taxes and allowance of discount it would be advisable to obtain appropriate legislation.

I remain, Yours very truly,
JOHN B. M. BAXTER,
City Solicitor.

Treasure Hunter Arrives in N. S.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 20.—Major R. A. Logan, a former officer of the Royal Air Force, now a member of the staff of the Fairchild Aerial Survey Corporation of New York, arrived at his boyhood home, Musquodoboit, this county, last night and will immediately set about his search for a buried treasure believed to run into millions of dollars. The treasure hunter believes that chests of French gold, carried away from Lunenburg when that fortress fell to the British, were buried near the ship Harbor lakes, this county. Acting upon a legend handed down through the generations, Major Logan plans to spend a five-months' leave of absence searching for the treasure.

MADE HUGE KILLING

VIENNA, July 20.—Speculators are reported to have made a huge killing on the slump of the French franc. Their gains since Saturday are estimated at $12,000,000. Many prominent operators who were almost ruined in 1924 when the franc was saved by the Morgan loan, are said to have been rescued themselves.

Herriot Favors National Effort By Vested Interests To Save Franc

Commissioner Frink Sees No Necessity For Proposed Installment Tax Plan

COMMISSIONER J. H. FRINK, who at various periods has occupied the Mayor's chair, is surprised at the suggestion of instituting a plan whereby taxes may be paid in installments. He told a Times-Star reporter this morning that a large bulk of the taxes had for years past been collected in part payments through the constables having warrants against delinquents. Every month the Mayor is supplied with a statement of the commissions earned by constables in collecting the dribbles from taxpayers endeavoring to square accounts with the city.

CALLS PLAN RIDICULOUS

It is ridiculous, Commissioner Frink thinks, to talk about starting an installment agitation when such a scheme is already engaged in gathering civic income from some citizens. However, the Commissioner did not discuss the definite and generalized scheme of installment paying—the same as in the Federal tax—which would not be so much a measure of relief for citizens on small pay as a convenience and business adjustment for heavy taxpayers or people in moderate and fairly good circumstances, carrying the burden of the impost. He only stressed the case of what is popularly known as the "hard-up" man.

IN LOOKING OVER

IN LOOKING over the report of Colonel N. P. McLeod, Inspector of Federal Taxation, Commissioner Frink said he noticed that returns were quite satisfactory and that the Inspector made a notation to the effect that, though the installment plan was available to taxpayers, only a comparative few took advantage of it. He thought this was a fair commentary upon the civic situation. Moreover, the law distinctly states taxes are due to be paid at a certain final date. After that date it is within the power of the city and its officers to levy upon delinquents. However, very little levying has been done in Saint John. Constables have extorted the cases of those against whom they had warrants, and have been accepting payments of varying sizes, on account. This has been going on for years, as everybody knows, said Commissioner Frink.

MANY ARE IN ARREARS

ASKED if there was much arrearage in tax bills, the former Mayor said unfortunately there was. Some were two, three and four years behindhand. It was largely upon these back bills that installments were being paid, although some of the new tax bills were negotiated on that basis of payment through constables as soon as papers were made out for enforced collecting. Commissioner Frink would not oppose any logical scheme evolved to make the collection of taxes easier upon the people; he was merely quoting his experiences and personal knowledge of many years back.

THE Commissioner did not know whether Mayor White had received from the Chamberlain a statement on tax collections and current finances that would bear any influence upon the agitation of the Retail Merchants' Association relative to taxes on the installment plan. He did not know, however, that a heavy overdraft existed against the city and an increase of the interest burden to be carefully guarded against in any move made to change the law. He was reasonably demanded provided it did not plunge conditions into a worse state. The chief thought in his mind at the present time was that of caution and sure-footedness, he suggested.

Their Lordships further directed that two counsels are to be on each side, with the liberty of another counsel to submit special points concerning the Province of Quebec. One counsel on each side will reply.

Sir John Simon, K. C., representing Newfoundland, said that the case of proving a claim to the disputed territory really rested on neither party. Both sides agreed that it was impossible that one side should make both the opening and closing speeches.

Sees Evidence of Large Traffic

Automobile tourist traffic to New Brunswick continues to be heavy as shown by a recent trip to St. Stephen and St. Andrews, made by J. C. Berris, secretary of the N. B. Automobile Association. On his way to St. Stephen Mr. Berris counted no less than 115 outside cars coming to Saint John, four of which came from other parts of Canada and the remainder from the United States. At St. Stephen one day this week between 6 a. m. and 5 p. m. 95 cars entered at that port of entry. On Mr. Berris' trip on the first ten miles from St. John towards St. Stephen, a great majority of them from Maine. This shows the heavy traffic on the roads, which were said to be in very good condition.

SITUATION GRAVE

Likely That New Cabinet Will Seek Powers Asked for by Caillaux

PARIS, July 20.—The franc this afternoon went down to 49.33 to the dollar and 240 to the pound.

PARIS, July 20.—The new ministry of Edouard Herriot, with Anatole De Monzie holding the portfolio of Minister of Finance, has been formed. M. Herriot worked unceasingly yesterday after President Doumergue the previous day had requested him to endeavor to get together a ministry to take the place of that of Aristide Briand, and official announcement was made last night that he had been successful.

"My cabinet has but one aim—the defence of the franc," was the statement made by M. Herriot to President Doumergue when he presented the ministers at the Elysee Palace shortly after 12 midnight.

"Apart from all party spirit," the Premier added, "it promises the country an energetic administration. It requests the nation to preserve that calm, in the same extent National industry, is one of the indispensable elements for the recovery of the franc."

TO HOUSE THURSDAY

M. Herriot informed the President that the policy of his ministry would be elaborated at a meeting on Tuesday and read before Parliament on Thursday.

M. De Montale, who was Minister of Finance in the Herriot cabinet last year and urged a forced loan, while M. Herriot desired a capital levy, declared that the government would not have recourse to inflation, but at the same time the Minister of Finance would be helpless without "certain latitude and certain liberty of action."

WANTS FULL POWERS.

He added that when he asked for a vote of confidence in Parliament he would also ask that means of action as far as financial questions are concerned be accorded it. This was interpreted to mean that M. De Montale would request very much the same full powers as the Briand government had asked and that if these are granted he will promptly move an adjournment of Parliament until October.

Among the financial measures attributed to some quarters as being demanded by M. Herriot is some form of a capital levy. The Premier is opposed both to credits abroad and the use of the gold reserve of the Bank of France to stabilize the franc, believing this can be accomplished by "National effort" which will be furnished by vested capital.

ELEVEN RADICALS.

In the new ministry there are eleven Radicals and Radical Societies. M. De Montale is listed as a member of the Radical Society Left. Louis Loucheur, the new Premier of Commerce, is one of France's wealthiest industrialists.

At a special meeting of the New Brunswick Board of Fire Underwriters held yesterday in the board rooms it was decided, as a tribute to his long and efficient service, to superannuate Peter Clinch, the secretary of the board, who has held that position for nearly 47 years.

Mr. Clinch started in the fire insurance business as a young man with the late Louis A. Simon. SAINT JOHN, N. B., JULY 20, 1926.

TAXES.
The question of change of discount date or of instalment payments this year appears to be definitely ruled out by a letter from the City Solicitor to His Worship the Mayor. While this will come as a disappointment to many, we have the Mayor's assurance that he is urgently addressing himself to the whole problem of civic taxation and that the citizens may expect a definite and constructive pronouncement at an early date. The question of instalment payments is not to be shelved and the City Solicitor indicates in his letter how the desired end may be achieved.

PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS.
The playground movement has extended to South America. We are told that Uruguay, with a population of a million and a half, has appropriated more than half a million dollars for playground equipment since the movement started in 1911, and that progress is being made in other states. Both children and adults use the grounds, and on Saturday afternoons and Sundays picnics and play continue until far into the evening. The child life and social life generally has long been recognized in Europe and is now well established in North America, and noting the results one is led to wonder why anyone ever objected to a reasonable expenditure for this purpose.

MORE CARE NEEDED.
The week-end record of automobile accidents in New Brunswick, as reported in the daily papers, is deserving of some serious thought. In the columns of the Saint John papers yesterday were reports which told of at least one death and more than a dozen people injured through alleged accidents in which the motor car figured. How many more mishaps occurred, news of which was not published, can only be guessed at, but it is safe to assume that the reports of all the accidents in the province since Saturday have not been given to the public.

YUKON PRINGLE.
Rev. John Pringle at seventy-five, is an example for much younger men. One of his titles is "Yukon Pringle," reminiscent of the days of the gold rush and the hardships of that place and period. He has lately turned his back on a life of comparative ease to take up missionary work on the frontier of civilization. Recently he had a narrow escape from drowning while crossing a ferry. A Kamloops correspondent says of him: "Dr. Pringle is one of the most remarkable men in the district. After a lifetime of adventure and action, at the age of 75, he has entered into a further chapter of pioneering and enjoys his work on the Thompson, giving him, as it does, the open air, the spirit of adventure, the meeting of new people and that feeling of never growing old which he possesses in a wonderful degree."

The Progressives are responsible for the death of the last government, at least a certain group of them. After having succeeded in obtaining during more than five months of session, practically every principal legislative measure which they wanted, a group of them has revolted, if one can describe it in these words, against the government on the question of the natural resources of Alberta and deserted it before the customs report had even been brought down in the House.

POEMS I LOVE
"As We Rush," by James Thomson.
THE author of these modern lyrics must not be confused with the James Thomson who wrote "Rains, Britannia." He lived from 1834 to 1882, and the very roar and plunge of his train seem more to be in the line, in three short stanzas he has compressed a great emotional feeling that every lover will recognize. The second stanza contains a perfect image.
As we rush, as we rush in the train,
The trees and the houses go wheeling back,
But the starry heavens above the plain
Come flying on our track.
All the beautiful stars of the sky,
The silver doves of the forest of night,
Over the dull earth swarm and fly,
Companions of our flight.
We will rush ever on without fear;
Let the goal be far, the flight be fleet!
For we carry the heavens with us, dear,
While the earth slips from our feet!

Queer Quirks of Nature

THIS AUSTRALIAN ANT-EATER HAS NO TETH
BY AUSTIN H. CLARK
Eggs we usually associate with hens and other birds, with turtles, lizards, snakes and similar creatures, but according to Arthur J. Poole of the U. S. National Museum, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution, the curious little ant-eater shown in this picture is also an egg layer.
It is called the Australian spiny ant-eater, and is found only in Australia and Tasmania, with closely related kinds in Papua or New Guinea.
It is about a foot in length and is covered with short, thick quills, some of which are more than a quarter of an inch in diameter, but about half an inch to three inches in length.
NO TETH
It has no teeth. It lives almost entirely on ants and white-ants, or termites, which are small enough to be swallowed without being chewed. It gets its food by tearing down or digs into ant mounds with its long and very strong jaws, and then carries the victims with its long and sticky tongue.
It sometimes buries itself in the ground leaving just a portion of its quills above the surface. It can burrow into the ground with remarkable ease.
When surprised or interfered with, it usually just rolls itself into a ball, tucking in the head and legs safely tucked in beneath.

YOUNG ONE IN POUCH
Recently the pouch of one of these animals was examined and was found to contain a young one, probably two or three days old, measuring one and five-sixteenths inches in length. The empty egg shell was also in the pouch.
There are other kinds of ant-eaters in Australia not at all related to this one, but to the kangaroos and others in South America and elsewhere, not at all related to either of these kinds.
Also there are many different creatures, wholly unrelated, with spines or quills on the back, like porcupines, hedge-hogs, spiny rats, etc.

BRITISH TRADE HIT BY STRIKE
(New York World).
The Board of Trade figures for May show that the nine days' general strike and the cessation of coal mining have had a serious effect on Great Britain's foreign commerce. Imports during the month were 22 per cent. less than in May, 1925, and exports declined 22 per cent. The export movement was, in fact, the smallest since June, 1922, when foreign trade was still in the doldrums incident to post-war readjustment. The combined imports and exports for May were $26,000,000 less in value than in the same month a year ago. This represents a loss of 25 per cent. in total foreign business, and to a country so largely dependent on external commerce for its prosperity that is a heavy blow.

Fast Work
(Los Angeles Times).
Difference in time permitted the the public an unenviable must traverse. The matter of cost is not to be considered. The public safety is above cost. The elimination of grade crossings has been studiously avoided and deferred by the roads. Their delay has constituted a tragic experience in this and in all other cities. There is room above and below the grade level. Let the roads employ it. The public safety demands it, and public patience in this connection is exhausted.

SYMPATHY
THERE was something the matter with Willie today. I could tell by the way he would act. He hung round the house, and he gave up his play, and he seemed kinda blue, fer a fact.
It isn't like kids, who are seven years old, to be stayin' indoors after school. You know they are all in, without bein' told, er they've done somthin' wrong, as a rule.
I questioned the youngster, and after a bit, he told me what made 'im feel blue. "I'm stayin' indoors 'cause my dad had a fit. I forgot what he told me to do."
I guess we've all lived through that sort of a fit going to the store for, Willie's plight. All kids have a habit, when lost in their play, of forgetting to do things up right.
The end of the story is always the same and there never will be any other. Though mother has told on the child—just the same, real sympathy comes from his mother.

When mother asks dad if he remembered to mail her letter, he always says, "Yes." And that's when he remembers that he forgot to mail it.
HOW THE HIPPOPOTAMUS GOT ITS NAME: A couple of other guys, way back in the dark ages, saw a hippo and one of them said, "Say, that thing looks more like a hippopotamus than any of the hippopotamuses I have ever seen." "I think so, too," came the reply. And it's been called a hippopotamus ever since.
If you ask the average little boy what he is going to the store for, he can't think of any good reason.
When for his supper he was late, he found his wife in trim. For though his meal was very cold, she made it hot for him.

NOW, HONESTLY—
Come on, now—if you are a clerk in any store in town, lend a friendly ear.
What sort of a clerk are you? Your value to the store depends on that.
People irritate you, of course. Lots of folk are inconsiderate. And that's wrong.
But, do two wrongs make a right? Not on your life.
It's the clerk who lets irritation roll off his mind like food of a baby's bib, who amounts to something.
A pleased customer comes back. But the clerk who runs customers out of the store, and runs himself out of a job has a hard time coming back.

SARDINE FACTORIES OPEN FOR SEASON
Inspector Calder Says Outlook For Bay Fishermen is Good
"With the opening of the sardine canning plants at Eastport yesterday, all factories in eastern Maine and Charlotte county are ready for the season's business and everything points to a prosperous year for the sardine fishermen," said J. F. Calder, of Campobello, fisheries inspector, last night. Mr. Calder arrived in the city yesterday on a brief business trip. Mr. Calder said that sardine fishing was very good at Campobello and lately promising at Deer Island and in St. Andrews bay. The inspector stated that the herring in some localities, especially at Chance Harbor and Dipsey Harbor, were a little larger for sardines. The greater part of the large herring run will be smoked, according to Mr. Calder. The inspector remarked that a bright spot in the fish business is the market advance in the prices being paid for smoked herring. "This is a boon to Grand Manan fishermen," Mr. Calder said.

BUILDING LOBSTER POUNDS.
As regards line fishing, the inspector said that this branch of the business was very quiet at the present time. There is a fair run of hake but prices are rather low, according to Mr. Calder.
Two large lobster pounds, the operation of which is expected to prove remunerative to the fishermen during the coming lobster season, are in the process of erection at Grand Manan, Mr. Calder said. When completed, the island will have three of these pounds. During the lobster season, which in Grand Manan extends from Nov. 15 to June 8, the lobsters will be placed in these pounds and kept for sale during the summer months when prices are high. Mr. Calder said that 80,000 lobsters will be impounded in one of the pounds now under construction.

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Correspondent.)
GENEVA.—(By United Press)—The League of Nations has created a new form of diplomacy.
Founded, as it originally was, to kill secret diplomacy, it has succeeded in giving birth to what might be called open secret diplomacy.
Within the past two years Geneva in general, and the precincts of the League in particular, has become the world's recognized center of open agreements, secretly "arrived at."

Before the war for the foreign minister of one country to visit the foreign minister of another country meant a degree of publicity that rendered almost impossible any specific aims being reached. At that time diplomacy could not stand publicity of any kind—even the publicity of the mere fact that negotiations were going on was likely to be fatal.
LEAGUE BUSINESS
But now instead of paying visits to each other in the different countries, the foreign ministers of all the leading nations of Europe now come to Geneva every three months, or oftener, and under the pretext of transacting "League business" take advantage of the close contact that is offered to reach secretly, but under the eyes of the entire world—including the 20 newspaper correspondents—whatever agreements they may have under consideration.

HOW IT WORKS
The way open-secret diplomacy works out at Geneva is something as follows:
Bribe, for example, may "happen" to take the same train to Geneva to "transact League business" as Chamberlain. On the way private conversations—before the very eyes of everyone on the train—may be conducted for hours.

At Geneva, the French and Spanish delegations may occupy the same hotel. Briand, all he has to do, is to slip up stairs, by the front way or the back way, as he may choose, and an exchange of views quickly takes place.
On the way to the next morning's meeting of the Council, Chamberlain may be descending from his automobile at the door of the Secretariat, happens to see Chamberlain, and the German minister general at Geneva standing in the hallway. They walk together, through a throng of newspaper correspondents and public generally, for two minutes, Chamberlain tells to Chamberlain, in general, the latest word that he would like to have transmitted to Berlin.

During the session of the League council, while Viscount Ishii, the Japanese delegate, is reading a long report on the League's international health efforts, in which no one is interested and to which no one is paying attention, the Italian delegate, Senator Scialoja, has only to whisper into the ear of the Brazilian delegate at his left, the latest word that Mussolini has to say on the question of Italian emigration to Brazil.

OUT-OF-WAY PLACES
Then, too, the shores of Lake Geneva swarm with little out-of-the-way eating places—where the eating is good and the public is not abundant.
There the various foreign ministers and diplomats who are at Geneva, transacting "League business" meet by chance and transact business that isn't that of the League. A half hour afterwards they are back, innocent looking, attending a meeting of the council or some League commission.
Under the alibi of being at Geneva on "League" business, capable European foreign minister or diplomat can in a few hours "accidentally" meet the foreign ministers and diplomats of nearly any leading country and in little private conversations, with everybody looking on, can arrive "openly" at his own little secret agreement.

LONDON, July 20.—Trade union membership in England for the year ending March 31, has fallen to the lowest level, according to the report of the general Federation of Trade Unions. The most commonly advanced reason for this is the inactivity throughout the year, but the largest loss of membership rose through amalgamation. The 116 affiliated societies with 735,000 members show a decrease for the year of two societies and 94,948 members. In 1921 the federation had 184 affiliated societies and an aggregate membership of 81,883,025.

Cars in Collision Near Musquash
N. J. Curtis, of Connecticut, who arrived in the city yesterday by automobile made a call at police headquarters and reported an accident that happened to him during his drive from St. Stephen to this city. He stated that when approaching a bridge about six miles west of Musquash he saw a New York car occupied by three men coming towards him at a rapid rate of speed. The New Yorker put on his brakes, which caused his car to reverse with the result that both cars collided. Fortunately none of the occupants were injured, but both cars received damage to fenders, mud guards and lights. After they were untangled they were able to proceed. Mr. Curtis told Detective Biddiscombe that he wished to show that he had made a report of the accident to the police in case that some action might be taken by the other party in the United States.

The Cruel Mother Who Warns Her Daughter Against Marriage Because Her Own was a Failure—How Fat Should Parents Interfere in a High School Romance?—The Business Girl Who Wants to Boss the Boss.

DEAR MISS DIX—My daughter, a very sincere and lovable girl, is engaged to a young man. They love one another very much, but I had a very bitter matrimonial experience myself and my dream of love was shattered very shortly after I married, so I have warned my daughter continually not to trust any man and to have no faith in any one. Am I wrong in doing this? MATER.

ANSWER: Very cruel and very wrong, I think. We cannot judge the world from our own narrow point of view. Life is bigger than that. To say that all marriages are failures because your own was a failure is as foolish as to conclude that all apples are rotten because you happen to get hold of a rotten one.

Your observation of men has been a biased one if it has led you to believe that all men are faithless and untrustworthy. Undoubtedly there are many men who betray their wives, but there are millions more of them who are as true and loyal as steel.

I have known many men who were philanderers, but where I have known one roamer I have known a hundred who were as domestic as the house cat; who never saw any women but their wives after they married them, and who spent their lives cheerfully toiling for their wives and children.

Taking it by and large, there are just as many good husbands as there are good wives; just as many self-sacrificing husbands as there are self-sacrificing wives; just as many men who are martyrs to faithful, complaining, neurotic wives as there are saintly wives who endure groveling husbands with superhuman fortitude. You must know all this, and so you are teaching your daughter a falsehood when you teach her that no man is to be trusted. The chances are at least two to one that she will get a good reliable husband, and that is a fair sporting chance that any woman is justified in backing.

Of course, in trying to keep your daughter from marrying you are attempting to save her from possible unhappiness, but there again I think you are making a mistake, for in trying to play too safe you lose out. "Nothing ventured, nothing gained" holds good of everything in the world.

Those who are afraid that everything they eat will make them sick lose all the pleasures of the table. Those who are afraid of getting hurt have no joyrides, take no journeys into far countries. Those who are afraid of losing their money hide it in a stocking and collect no dividends. And those who are too afraid to take a chance in the matrimonial lottery, who stropely their emotions, who stifle their love, who let their hearts wither within them, miss the great joys of comradeship, of children, of home that the old maid or old bachelor never knows.

Possibly they do save themselves from a few pangs of disillusion. Possibly they save themselves from the sorrow of a wrecked marriage, but even so, the man and woman who marry the ones they love, even if they lose out in the end, are better off than those who never marry at all. They have had their hour of rapture and that was worth paying for. Besides, the man and woman who have married have a different outlook upon life from the unmarried, and that is also worth paying for.

So don't try to keep your daughter from marrying, and don't poison her mind by teaching her that all men are unfaithful. It is not true.

A woman's whole happiness depends upon her faith in her husband. Wreck that and you have wrecked everything.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—What attitude should parents take toward a high school romance? The one in mind is being carried on by a 17-year-old couple. By that I mean the boy brings the girl home from school, takes her to a show once in a while, and so on, but the girl has never invited her friend to her home. They are not overcasters, the boy intending to go to a business college and the girl to a distant university. To what extent should the parents interfere? DUBIOUS FATHER.

ANSWER: Keep your hands off. Shut your eyes. Pretend that you see nothing in the association of your 17-year-olds that is more significant than would be the companionship of two girls or two boys.

Let the boy hang around the house this vacation, as he is pretty sure to do. Make him one of the family, and if the young couple imagine they are in love don't get serious. In that way you can keep them from taking themselves seriously, which is the important thing.

Opposition is the most effective way in the world of turning a harmless little girl-and-boy flirtation into a tragedy.

Forbid a girl to see a boy and you immediately put him into the contraband class and make her determined to have him at any cost, for every girl is true daughter of Mother Eve and hankers after the apple that is denied her. Shut your door on a boy and tell your daughter that he shall not come in your house, and she will meet him on the street and take stolen rides with him. Tell seventeen she is too young to have beaux and she will sloop to show you that she is old enough to marry.

But if you raise no objection to the boy, if he is free to come and go, and they play around all they like under your eyes they will be contented with their harmless little puppy love and time will do the rest.

When the girl goes off to school the boy will get interested in other girls, and the girl will become absorbed in her new life, and absence will get in its fatal work. At first they will keep the mails hot with their letters. Then the correspondence will just peter out and die a natural death of pernicious anemia.

High school romances are harmless if permitted to run their natural course unhindered, but they become dangerous when parents undertake to stop them.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—The manager of the concern for which I work insists that every person with his job relative to the business, regardless of whether he is right or wrong. In many cases he is entirely wrong, but he will accept no suggestion, and it gets on my nerves not being able to express our opinion. I also think environment in an office means a lot to a business girl and the fact of not being able to express one's opinion leads us to be almost afraid to say anything anywhere—gives us the inferiority complex, you know. I feel that I am in a rut and I think it better that I look for another job, but will I encounter the same thing in another office? BETTY.

ANSWER: There are two ways of looking at that question, Betty. The first is the employer's. Undoubtedly it is the prerogative of the man who is paying for work to have it done exactly as he wishes.

Also, he is not paying for gratuitous criticism from his employees. Possibly you may know better how to run the business than he does. Probably, as he is the head of it, he knows best. So that's that.

If you feel that you have gotten into a rut and have reached a place where you can learn no more, and there is no inspiration in your job, it is time to change.

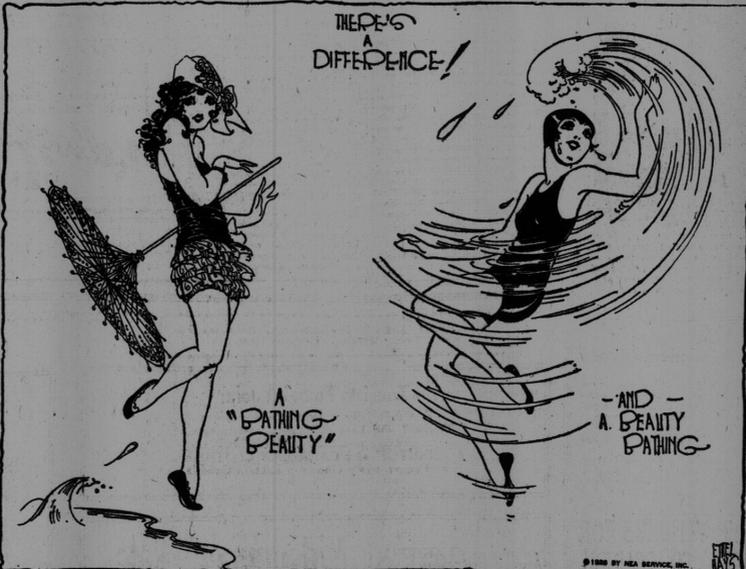

But everywhere you will find that telling your boss of his mistakes is no way to get any cheers from him.

FITTED LACE TREATMENTS MARKS SMART SUMMER UNDERIES

By Marie Belmont

The use of fitted lace treatments marks a number of the more expensive summer undergarments. Often this smart use of lace also fills a very practical need, for in this way one garment is made to substitute for two. As an example, the combination above has a fitted brassiere top, which does away with any need for a separate brassiere. The material is cream batiste, and the lace is cream flax.

Another effective use of lace is seen in separate panties, with a shaped lace yoke about the hips.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

Who enters in this quiet gloom, where music's voices ebb and flow, leaves all of summer's scented bloom, blue sky above, green hills below; leaves, too, the drab events of earth, the weary round of every day, to travel down the ways of mirth, to dwell in lands serene and gay. For here are regions untried by any dross of worldly care, here happiness is never cloyed and soaring hearts no burdens bear. Again, grim tragedy reveals its story as the films unwind, with all of pain a mortal deals, with all the grief of all mankind. But, sad or glad the movie leads, by winding paths of time and chance, away from all the world's harsh needs to splendid vistas of romance.

SEE-SAWING UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

SEE-SAWING up and down Broadway, I saw Williams Gibson McAdoo, none other than the candidate for the presidency, at one of our most popular night clubs. . . . But, verily, I am told he ordered milk toast which must have thrown the cook into great confusion and which would doubtless have been leered upon by the Ritz waiter had the guest been any other than W. G. M. . . . Saw Renee Adoree strolling in the Times Square belt, her arm cozily tucked in that of Rudolf Prial, the Viennese composer, and, whereas their engagement has been off rumored since her divorce from Tom Moore, and whereas she has not verified it yet, verily, they are much seen together. . . . Saw Belle Baker, who is said to have the longest non-stop record in vaudeville. . . . Her two-day appearances date back over her entire career, and, I am told, she is finally to desert in favor of musical comedy. . . . Also Eugene O'Neill, the play scriber, much tanned after a season in Bermuda. And they tell me he brought in his hip pocket—no, not what you think—but a play, "Lasarus Laugh," and another concerning Marco Polo, which he has been revising and which makes the famed traveler the first of the 100 per cent. business men. . . . Also one John Doukas, whose name may not be so familiar to you. . . . Doukas came to New York with $1.25 as his sole worldly goods. . . . Earning some few dollars, he started a tiny candy store. . . . Later he became known as the "East Side Candy King." . . . Today he owns a big chain of stores about Manhattan. . . . The occasion on which I saw him was the opening of a new Secomo avenue shop, quite the most glittering place upon the East Side. . . . They know him there for his charity, for he has never forgotten his poor beginnings. . . . Just another of New York's countless romantic rises. . . . Note that artistic tufts of beard upon the chin are quite the thing with our young collegians, shipping clerks, et al. . . . The summer substitute for beaver coats, no doubt. . . . The shortest and lightest skirts are to be seen in Fifth avenue business. . . . And the weavers seem to be in or younger. . . . That "school-girl complexion" seems to have become a lost art. . . . Panamas and leghorns are more popular than straight "straws" this summer, say the shopkeepers. . . . Also neckties with large, garish designs. . . . Also socks of "loud" pattern and color, such as we would have worn only after a licking when we were young. —GILBERT SWAN.

FINANCING OF G. P. H. DEFENDED BY PRESIDENT

Lived Within Appropriation for Number of Years, He Says

COAL SUPPLY IS UNDER CRITICISM

Claimed There Has Been Shortage in Weight and Quality Poor

Mr. E. Agar, M. L. A., chairman of the Board of Hospital Commissioners, came out strongly in defense of the financing of the hospital, at a special board meeting yesterday afternoon, when his attention was drawn by Mrs. J. V. McLellan, commissioner, to a letter which appeared in the press and signed by S. Norman Sanction, in which the latter had stated that the institution had shown a deficit last year of $14,000 or $20,000. Among the other questions discussed was one of coal supply.

In discussing Mr. Sanction's statement, Mr. Agar said that the General Public Hospital was a free institution. It depended for its conduct upon the money of the rich and the good will of the poor. It deserved the co-operation and assistance of all right thinking citizens of the community.

When one reads a communication like this it certainly is very depressing to those associated with the hospital, declared Mr. Agar. Going further, he said that the hospital looked for its support from the patients who could pay, and the deficit was made up by taxation. Last year, he claimed, there was about $2,000 coming to the hospital in bond issues. The hospital owed, at the end of the year, some $800 in unpaid bills and the year was finished with a surplus of about $1,300. Mr. Agar claimed it was quite some time since the hospital had an overdraft at the bank.

J. King Kelley, county secretary, here stated that the hospital owed the county about $14,000. It was true, he added, that the county overpaid this $14,000 as far as the hospital was concerned and naturally this amount was still owing to the county by the institution.

The matter is that the hospital got $14,000 more out of the County Council than the County Council got out of the tax payers. The tax payers went behind $14,000, not this hospital. We keep the books here of this institution not the books of the County Council. Each year we ask for so much money based on our budget. We are living within our income and we are not defaulting to the County Council.

Mr. Agar claimed further that it was not fair to come back on the hospital when the County Council failed to raise the necessary funds asked for in the annual budget. Referring again to Mr. Sanction's letter in which also attention was drawn to the salary paid Dr. Kirkland, Mr. Agar stated that it was not a burden on the tax payers of the community, the department being self-sustaining. The X-ray department was a very important part of hospital work, he claimed, and the charges made here were practically the same as those charged in other institutions.

The department was very essential to the public welfare and it is not correct the tax payers one cent, said the chairman. The X-ray apparatus is there for the use of those who can not afford to pay and in this way it is of a great benefit to the public generally. In regard to Dr. Kirkland's salary, Mrs. Agar stated it came out of the proceeds from the department's own work, for those who are in a position to pay. The salary paid is $4,000 plus a bonus. It did not cost the public anything as the department was more than supporting itself and easily paying all expenses, concluded the chairman.

The coal supply at the hospital was discussed at some length. Mrs. McLellan brought the meeting's attention to certain reports that had been brought to her relative to the coal situation. She stated that under the present contract with the Colwell Fuel Company there was to date a 24-ton shortage. Mrs. McLellan claimed that the coal being received at the institution was present was "not good" and she favored a cancelling of the present contract.

W. E. Emerson, commissioner, said if the coal now being received was not giving satisfaction then he would suggest the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter thoroughly. He favored an investigation under oath. Mrs. McLellan said that she would welcome an investigation into the coal supply either by the County Council or the Hospital Board.

HAPPY TIMES AT LADY BYNG CAMP

Kiddies Not Anxious to Return Home — Gaining in Weight

Q—"Do any of the children here want to go home?" A—"No" (in general chorus). Such was the question asked the children at the Lady Byng Camp at Belmont a few days ago and such was the emphatic reply. Happy times are being enjoyed by the children at the camp and as each day goes by the general health of the kiddies is noticeably improving.

For the last week there was a general gain of 21 1/2 pounds among the 18 children, which is 3/4 of a pound more for the general average than the previous week. The highest individual gain was three pounds.

It was stated yesterday that contributions are not coming in as briskly as last year. The sum of $10 has been received from Mrs. Walter O. Allison. It is hoped that the response to the appeal on behalf of the camp will be more apparent this coming week.

If Teeth Lack Gleam Just Do This

Gives sparkling whiteness quickly

UNATTRACTIVE teeth; dull teeth, toothless gums—don't let them handicap you any longer. That's unnecessary. Important new discoveries have been made. It's been learned teeth are seldom naturally "off color." You can quickly restore them to gleaming, clear whiteness. One's whole appearance thus is often changed. Please accept a 10-day tube of this new way, a way to which, largely on dental advice, the whole world is turning. You can work a transformation, as thousands have done, in the beauty of your smile.

UNATTRACTIVE teeth; dull teeth, toothless gums—don't let them handicap you any longer.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color," dingy and unattractive. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

DELANEY'S NEXT FIGHT PROBABLY WILL BE WITH SHARKEY

NEW CHAMPION IS NOW RESTING DUE TO HURMB

Expected to Wage Active Campaign—Paul Will Try to Regain Crown

NOW that Jack Delaney, the new world's light-heavyweight champion will be able to rest for a short time, due to an injured thumb, the champion most likely will prepare for a battle against Jack Sharkey of Boston, which is scheduled to be staged at the Coney Island Stadium next month.

While the champion's plans have not been announced as yet, it seems certain that he will wage an active campaign. He is at the top of his form, his services are in demand and it is an ideal chance for him to capitalize his reputation. Following the Sharkey bout it is believed that Delaney will be prepared to entertain Tom Loughran of Philadelphia, an outstanding candidate for the light-heavyweight crown.

Delaney is at his home in Bridgeport and doubtless will remain there for at least another week. Paul Berenbach, the vanquished champion, is far from downcast at his home in Astoria, and while his plans are uncertain, one thing is definite, he said, and that is he will make a determined effort to regain the title, and, perhaps, before the season is over. There is a possibility that Berenbach will take Delaney's place on the card which will feature Charles, the French heavy-weight.

COUNSEL CLAIMS NO CRIMINAL INTENT

Man, Accused of Breaking and Entering, is Freed of Charge

A touch of humor was lent to the proceedings in the Police Court this morning during the hearing of the case against John McCormick, charged with attempting to break and enter the premises of Lee Ching, 288 Charlotte street, with intent to steal, when counsel for the defence, during his application for the dismissal of the charge, said that he was prepared to satisfy the court that the accused was in times to a peculiar habit when under the influence of liquor in that he invariably went places without his shoes.

ASKS DISMISSAL

E. J. Henneberry, for the defence, asked that the case be dismissed on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence before the court to warrant sending his client up for trial on the charge of attempting to break and enter with intent to steal. Counsel contended that the accused was drunk and had no intention of stealing anything, his words to the officer conveying a meaning entirely foreign to any such intent.

TRIAL STARTED ON SLOVITT CHARGE

SEE THE FALLS

At high tide the water of the Bay of Fundy reaches a higher level than the water of the Saint John River and forces its way through the gorge of the Falls, creating a "Falls" effect.

At low tide the water in the Bay becomes a much lower level than that of the river, that the fall of water is reversed and flows down river into the Bay.

At mid tide, when the level in the Bay and River are about equal, the water at the Falls becomes smooth and the surface of the water is like a mirror.

To fully appreciate this wonder of nature it should be seen at all three stages.

The best time to view this phenomenon is: TODAY High Tide 8.20 P.M. Half Tide 8.13 P.M. Low Tide 8.06 P.M.

As Hiram Sees It

THE SETTLEMENT:—Well, sir, that yacht cruise going 'up Long Reach' last Saturday was with 'lookin' at 'em. They had a good wind-an' the yachts an' motor boats was strong along from Pancake Hill to the other side o' the Devil's Back. It was fine to see them white sails scudidin' along-an' it minded me o' one time when Sid Kerr took me an' John Rogerson an' Charlie Kain an' some more fellers fer a sail up the Reach an' back. We had an old Bay 'Fundy schooner an' she could carry all the canvas she had when some o' the little fellers was close-reefed. We sailed right through the fleet-an' the last one we passed was a crack yacht owned by a feller named Lovett from Yarmouth. When we hauled aboard we were through the megalophones: "Where'd you get that old skater?" Well, sir, we had 'er-an' we licked 'em all. Them was the days—yes, sir.
