WHOLE NO. 372.

The Cardinal Antonelli Scandal.

(Correspondence to the N. Y. Herald.)

Rome, July 15.—In former letters I sent you the latest developments in the famous case of Lambertini vs. Antonelli, which is now agitating all Rome. It is well calculated to excite not only Rome but the whole Christian world; for a claim to the inheritance of the late Cardinal Antonelli advanced by the Countess Loretta Lambertini against the Cardinals' three brothers and heirs, Counts Gregorio, Angelo and Luigi Antonelli, on the plea that she is the natural daughter of his Eminence, and repeatedly recognized as such by him during his lifetime, naturally arouses the deepest interest and concern. As the property left by Cardinal Antonelli is reported to amount, in round numbers, to forty millions of francs, the award of the civil tribunal is expected with great interest, as well as well as the three brothers mean to defend their cause by every artifice the law affords, nor will they hear of any negotiations for an amicable arrangement.

WHAT THE POPE THINKS.

The obstinacy on their part is very painful to the Pope, who, after so many years of intimacy with his Cardinal Secretary of State, had an unlimited trust in him and never could credit any of the rumors which many years ago and on successive occasions reached his ears respecting the immorality of Cardinal Antonelli's private life. His Holiness was fascinated with the Cardinal, who was certainly a very influential prelate in the Vatican, and a most chivalrous champion of the Church, never could conceive of Pius IX. that Cardinal Antonelli was in any respect a disgrace to the cardinalate. On the contrary, the contrary of the Cardinal's character was established in Rome since the change of government in 1870.

BLACKMAILING THE CARDINAL.

Mr. C.—waited on the Cardinal at the Vatican and informed His Holiness that he was in possession of all the facts relating to this affair and had become the guardian of his daughter. Of course the Cardinal was anxious to avoid publicity, so he at once handed to Mr. C.—a sum of money for his daughter's maintenance, and 10,000 francs, in two instalments, for the young Loretta's dowry. With this sum she married Count Lambertini, and subsequently went several times to see her father at the Vatican. When she could not see him she wrote to him, and he answered, these relations being maintained until the Cardinal's death.

THE FAMILY STUBBORN.

The Pope, however, has failed to persuade the brothers Antonelli of the advisability of a compromise; and, irritated at their persistency, His Holiness a few days ago refused to receive one of them who had asked for an audience in order to explain the motives which determined him and his brothers to resist the claims of the Countess Lambertini rather than purchase her silence by yielding to her small portion of her father's enormous wealth.

WHAT IS THOUGHT IN THE VATICAN.

In the Vatican the Cardinal's gallant escapades have been known and talked of for years by every inmate of the palace, except, as I have already said, the Pope himself.

THE CASE OF THE DAUGHTER.

To prove the principal alleged facts of this singular case, amounting to $2 in sum, the Countess Lambertini's advocates, in the first sitting of the tribunal on Wednesday, demanded that their witnesses should be heard. Among these there are three whose evidence is considered extremely important and conclusive. These are a priest now seventy years ago, a midwife and the late Cardinal's house steward or dean of the domestics. The President of the civil tribunal will give his determination on this point next Wednesday. The defendants' advocates maintain that it is superfluous to listen to evidence relating to the paternity of the Countess Loretta Lambertini, because her birth was officially recorded in the baptismal register in Santa Maria in Via, in 1855, as daughter of Signor and Signora Marconi, her generally reputed parents. The defendants have also formally intimated to the claimant that if she makes use of a letter to the priest above mentioned, on which her lawyers greatly rely, they will sue her for forgery, not admitting the authenticity of the letter. This step would suspend the whole trial.

Hitherto the scandalous chronicle of Rome had set down the Signorina Loretta Marconi (now Countess Lambertini) as being really the daughter of Signora Marconi, with Cardinal Antonelli as her father, but now the Countess claims to be the daughter of a highly connected foreign lady, still living and married, whose name will not be pronounced unless so required by the brothers Antonelli. She is ready to prove that her reputed mother, Signora Marconi, became acquainted in 1850 with Cardinal Antonelli, with whom she established intimate relations. The lady kept an option's shop, and was forty-five years old. Five years later she rendered the Cardinal a great service by pretending to be envious, in order to account for the appearance in her house of a female baby, just born of

THE CARDINAL AS A FOND FATHER.

The Cardinal was subsequently in the habit of going frequently to see his infant daughter at Signora Marconi's house, and requested the nurse to make the baby always wear round her neck a gold medal which he gave her, bearing the inscription "Jacobe Antonelli, S. R. E. D. C. A. Publi. Negot. P. IX. P. M." His Eminence carried constantly about him his daughter's portrait in a red silk case. On driving past Signora Marconi's residence he used to look up at the window and smile at the baby who was held there for him to see. At the child's birth the Cardinal consigned to Signora Marconi 129,000 francs, the interest of which sum was to serve for her maintenance and education. On a subsequent occasion he added 70,000 francs, for the same purpose, and made presents to the child amounting in value to 20,000 francs. Meanwhile the child grew up, but when her reputed mother died a few years ago it was found that she had spent not only the interest but the capital of the money which the Cardinal intended should form the fortune of the young Loretta. Signora Marconi's death was a great relief to Cardinal Antonelli, who was fatigued and perplexed by his indiscreet demands. She left as guardian of the young lady a satirical journalist, established in Rome since the change of government in 1870.

DISRAELI.

THE POLITICAL EFFECTS OF THE RUSSIAN FAILURE.

The unexpected dash across the Balkans which carried the advanced guard of the invaders almost to the walls of Adrianople, was as unexpected as it was unwelcome to the neutral powers, for they found themselves denied the breathing time they had calculated upon, and brought face to face with the contingency they most dreaded, and for which they had made no provision, namely, the occupation of Constantinople by the Russians. The speeches in the Hungarian Parliament, the frequent Cabinet council in Vienna, the mobilization of Austrian troops, and the active interchange of diplomatic notes between Count Andrassy and the Ministers of other countries, all indicated a degree of perturbation on the part of Austria amounting almost to a panic. It was evident that something must be done, and that quickly; but the question was what to do and with whom to do it. Austria found herself in the presence of a great danger without an ally to depend upon; but the catastrophe was averted at the very moment when further hesitation would have been fatal.

THE WEAKNESS FOR ATTACK WHICH RUSSIA HAS SHOWN.

The weakness for attack which Russia has shown will doubtless exercise a potent influence on English policy hereafter. Even the most potent Russophobe must see that Russia has shown herself to be no danger to India. If, after straining every nerve, she is in a far worse position four months after the commencement of hostilities with Turkey than she was when she began, where would she be at the expiration of the same period if a campaign were undertaken for the invasion of India? If she cannot supply her armies in Bulgaria from the Pruth to the Danube in too long, and therefore defective for transportation purposes, how would she maintain her communication from the Caucasus to the Indus? If she cannot cross the Balkans, how can she ever hope to cross the Himalayas? The easy victories of Mukhtar Pasha in Asia Minor, where the natural obstacles of the country are his great source of strength, prove how impossible it would be for Russian armies to force their way through regions far more impracticable, only to be met at last by 300,000 highly trained and disciplined troops. The experience of England the last time she had to contend with the bear of a possible Muscovite invasion; and it may, therefore, be anticipated that the policy of the Cabinet will be modified by the revelation which it has afforded of the inherent military weakness and incapacity of Russia.

THE PROTEST OF BISMARCK AGAINST TURKISH BARBARITY.

The protest of Bismarck against Turkish barbarity only has been the effect of bringing out in stronger relief the uncivilized character of this holy war on both sides, and the conduct of Russia in recruiting from among the Bulgarian peasantry of the invaded country and forming Bulgarian legions, is not only against any principle of warfare organized by the German armies, but is most inhuman as regards the Bulgarians themselves, for we hear that out of 5,000 Bulgarians who composed this legion under Gen. Gourkine, only 1,400 escaped, he having abandoned them to Eski-Sagra to the tender mercies of the Turks. In no country would the native inhabitants who enrolled themselves as soldiers in an invading army be allowed any quarter. The Germans in the Franco-German war, for we hear that out of every man found with a gun, who was not in uniform, the moment he was captured, even though he was a Frenchman fighting for his country, these Bulgarian levies are inhumanly treated, with no military standing of any kind, fighting against their own country, their raison d'être being that they desire a war of revenge on their fellow-countrymen; and while we have evidence from the character of "avenger" they are repeating the atrocities on Mussulmans of which they had themselves been the victims, it is in the last degree unbecoming in the German Government to have the Russian Government undertake in the interests of humanity. In fact, there is an irony in the sympathy expressed by the German Government for Russia, which, if we were Russian, would have us strongly to mistrust it. People who really sympathize, really help; they do not confine themselves to fine phrases, or to acts which draw attention to episodes which had

HAVE had a great run ever since the season opened. Here Mr. A. B.
 Sheraton has one of the finest warehouses in Canada, certainly the most spacious and convenient of any in the Maritime Provinces. The room is 80x60 feet, with a 12 ft. gallery all around, and is lighted by 50 large windows, forming a most cheerful, airy and pleasant place wherein to spend an hour in the deliberate peruse of an important household duty at this season of the year—the study and selection of new carpeting. The stock of carpets here offered to intending purchasers is quite bewildering, as regards variety of make, pattern and style, but while many may be in doubt as to the best selection to make where so many new and beautiful designs are offered in the Tapestry (Crosley's choice), All-wool Scotch, Union, etc., there is not the slightest doubt in regard to price, which is agreed in regarding as hitherto unprecedented in cheapness in this city. The hall and stair carpeting, the felt draughts and squares, the coons and manilla matting, the mats, rugs, and stair coverings, are presented in great variety and at prices which place first-class goods within the reach of all. There is also a great display of floor oil cloths, in all widths up to 30 ft. and of the latest designs in English and American goods; Curtains, Lingerie in every variety and fashion; gilt and walnut Cornices and handsome gilt cornice poles; as well as mattresses, pillows, bolsters and other necessary household articles. The establishment is complete in all its departments; and the rush of business which has rendered work necessary far into the night attests to the satisfaction which buyers have received at Mr. Sheraton's hands.
 Carpet cleaning, by steam, is also conducted at this establishment; the charge is only four cents per yard. Mr. Sheraton has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. J. W. Lingley (formerly of Sheraton, Son and Skinner) as buyer and book keeper, and in the latter extending to customers, he has also the able assistance of Mr. Robert Thompson (from the same house)—both well known and highly respected in this line of business. Altogether, the new firm has made a most successful opening and entered upon its campaign cheered by the patronage and medical advance of a host of friends. [June 21]
