The British Tory Party Will Not Be Recognizable

In the Garb Adopted at the Recent Conference.

A Franco-Russian Treaty of Alliance Signed—Uganda To Be Held by the British—No Hope for Nell-Cream—Marlborough's Death Attributed to Natural Causes.

The Duke Died a Natural Death. LONDON, Nov. 11.—A coroner's inquest into the death of the Duke of Marlborough held at Blenheim to-day resulted in a verdict that death had resulted from natural causes.

A Franco-Russian Alliance. PARIS, Nov. 11.—It is announced that a Franco-Russian treaty of alliance will be signed. It is stated that the Russians are prepared to consider the German proposals for a commercial treaty have reported that their proposals are not accepted.

Fearful Weather at Sea. LONDON, Nov. 11.—The steamer Canadian, at Glasgow, from Baltimore reports that the most fearful weather prevailed during her passage. Tremendous seas broke over her and Capt. Goodwin was compelled to leave the vessel to sea. She remained in this position for 80 hours. Her crew of 25 men were lost.

Baby Farming at Sydney, N. S. W. SYDNEY, N. S. W., Nov. 11.—The excitement occasioned by the wholesale baby-farming operations of the Makin family has been increased by the discovery to-day of two more bodies in the yard of the house at Redfern, formerly occupied by the Makins. This makes thirteen bodies thus far unearthed, and the search is being continued.

The Fighting in Dahomey. PARIS, Nov. 11.—The Brandon, a French dispatch boat cruising off the Dahomey coast, recently surprised the British steamer King Holly, with a cargo of Winchester rifles and ammunition which was beyond a doubt intended for the Dahomeyans. The vessel was seized and her cargo confiscated.

Gen. Dods has telegraphed the details of the fighting that preceded the capture of Oua. On Nov. 11, the village of Oua, in which the British King had a large palace, was carried by assault. The Dahomeyans fought desperately. They were commanded by the King in person, and any show of cowardice was punished by instant death. Six of the French were killed and 45 wounded. The loss was sustained chiefly through the French falling into an ambush. Eighteen Europeans were wounded by those in the ambush. On Nov. 12, the French bivouacked on the walls of Oua. The fighting was continued for the town they found it had been evacuated and they took possession.

Russia Menacing Germany. BERLIN, Nov. 11.—The Kreuz Zeitung confirms the report of a serious menacing of Russian troops on the German frontier.

Uganda to Be Held. LONDON, Nov. 11.—It is understood as the result of a lengthy Cabinet council to-day the British Government has decided to retain possession of Uganda. The East Africa Company will withdraw in March, but the British Government will, it is believed, retain part of the company's organization.

Nell-Cream's Last Hope Shattered. LONDON, Nov. 11.—Nell-Cream's solicitor, Mr. Waters, received from Mr. Asquith to-day a letter in which the Home Secretary says that after a careful examination of the affidavits bearing upon the case it is impossible to interfere with the sentence of the court.

Dreadful Crime by a Woman. LONDON, Nov. 11.—A St. Petersburg special says a woman named Akkerman, a plutocrat in stature and strength, sought shelter at the house of a peasant woman named Yvorskaya Savera. They became friendly and drank a quantity of vodka. When the liquor gave out Yvorskaya went out to get another bottle. When she returned she was almost struck dumb with horror on finding that her guest in her absence had killed her baby, gnawed the soft parts of the body and sucked its blood and brains. The woman was then in the act of attempting to kill another child. The mother rushed in and tried to save her child, but the visitor struck the little girl with a bludgeon and killed her. The mother's brain was turned by the terrible scene, and she became a raving maniac. She attempted to kill herself, but neighbors who had been attracted to the scene by her wild shrieks prevented her. The Akkerman woman made a desperate resistance, but was overpowered and locked up.

The Conservative Programme. LONDON, Nov. 11.—No event in the recent history of the Conservative party approaches in importance the adoption of the new programme by the conference of Conservative Associations just held in Edinburgh. The platform is Democratic, and it is claimed it even goes beyond the Newcastle programme of the Liberal in admitting popular control of party legislation and, allowing greater independence of opinion among the adherents of the principle of unionism. The rigidity of old Toryism has absolutely vanished and is replaced by an elastic constitutionalism which Mr. Balfour and other leaders have accepted, though certain of the like the Duke of Rutland continue to think it incompatible with genuine conservatism and dangerous to the success of party government. The programme includes a radical registration reform, a reduction of the period of necessary residence to qualify voters, extension of the franchise to female ratepayers, the disfranchisement of illiterate voters, popular control of the liquor traffic, a provision for old age, assistance to workingmen to enable them to acquire land for building purposes, an amendment to the employers' liability laws and factory acts in the workingmen's interests. Finally, some touch of home rule was infused in the programme by the approval of the transference of private bill procedure from the committees of Parliament to local bodies.

Wesley Centenary Fund. LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Wesley centenary fund has been closed. There has been expended in restoring Wesley's chapel the sum of £16,000, leaving a deficit of £4,000.

Another "Pleasant Event." LONDON, Nov. 12.—Mr. James Ismay, the well-known ship owner, and Lady Margaret Alice, eldest daughter of the Marquis of Hertford, have been married at Arrow Church, a short distance from Rayleigh Hall, the seat of the Marquis, in Warwickshire. The Rev. Lord Victor Seymour officiated. The Countess of Warwick and other members of the nobility were present.

Supposed Deserters Shot. PARIS, Nov. 11.—A dispatch from Dahomey announces that Gen. Dods has caused to be shot the white men found in the army of the King Benzanzi. Three of them are Germans—Weickel, Pauch and Schultze. One is a Belgian and another an Englishman. They are supposed to have been deserters from the German and German Congo country and the Cameroons. The executions have produced a certain amount of excitement, for the German newspapers had said that such a step would be contrary to the rights of nations.

A New Weapon. VIENNA, Nov. 12.—The experiments with the new Manchester rifle by Government experts have proved that the weapon is in every way satisfactory. The new rifle fires 120 rounds a minute and is sighted at 270 yards. It is of smaller bore than previous Manchesters. Its bullets have an increased velocity. The weight of cartridges is lessened and the recoil is reduced to the minimum. Shots can be fired in rapid succession or at any desired interval. Experts pronounce the mechanism of the new weapon to be sound and simple. Though it pours out a hailstorm of bullets it does not become too hot to handle.

Mrs. Maybrick's Friend Ejected. LONDON, Nov. 12.—Mr. Alexander Robertson, who had previously petitioned the court in favor of Mrs. Maybrick, under sentence for poisoning her husband, appeared again in the Court of Queen's Bench before Judge Folke and Mr. Hawkins, and insisted on being heard. He said that he did not appear before the court as a solicitor for Mrs. Maybrick, but demanded, in the name of the citizens of Great Britain, that her case be reopened. The judges tried in vain to stop him and ordered him ejected from the court. He was forcibly ejected, shouting that he would come back again and renew his demand.

The Commission Attacked. DUBLIN, Nov. 12.—The Evicted Tenants' Commission is being attacked from every side, and there is scarcely any doubt that it will result in a complete fiasco, so far as any material benefit to the persons who have lost their holdings is concerned. The committee organs complain that the tenants themselves are treating the commission with indifference. The evidence submitted to the commission on the five days in which it has been in session may be summed up as follows: On Monday the evidence of an witness, a man of common sense, and on Tuesday the evidence of a bishop and a priest; on Wednesday the evidence of a Dublin Castle official; on Thursday the evidence of a priest and a "bog trotter," and yesterday the evidence of one tenant. From this it will be seen that the commission is not making very rapid progress toward the solution of the vexatious question of what shall be done to relieve the evicted tenants whose wants are pressing. Wm. Redmond's paper, an organ of the Parnellites, describes the appointment of the commission as the biggest blunder ever perpetrated.

BANK OF MONTREAL.

The Semi-Annual Statement Considered Fairly Satisfactory. MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—The Bank of Montreal's semi-annual statement issued to the shareholders to-day shows that the earnings for the six months ending Oct. 31 amounted to $604,144, or about 5.04 per cent. on the paid-up capital. The year of 1891 amounted to $666,642.73, or 5.50 per cent. on the paid-up capital. The statement has caused some disappointment, but is regarded in financial circles as fairly satisfactory under the circumstances.

Ten Vessels Lost. CLOUDESTON, Mass., Nov. 11.—A dispatch from St. John, N.B., says that as a result of the gale of Oct. 19 ten vessels were lost or are missing, and two lives are known to have been lost.

Eight Men To Be Hanged at Once. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 11.—Governor Brown today fixed upon Dec. 30 and signed the death warrants for the execution of the eight murderers of Dr. J. M. Hill, of Kent county.

In the Interests of Temperance. OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—Representatives of temperance organizations and religious bodies in Ottawa have taken initial steps to the proposed federation of the temperance interests of the city with a view to more successful temperance efforts.

Ottawa Methods in Samoa. Accounts from Samoa disclose great dissatisfaction among natives over methods pursued by a commission appointed by the foreign powers—United States, England and Germany—in application of funds received for taxes. The complaint is that the tax fund is consumed in the payment of high salaries to the commissioner and his appointees and they get no return in way of improvements for heavy assessments made upon them.

Lost With All on Board. HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 11.—News has been received at St. John's N.B., of the loss of the schooner Emeril, of Tizard's Harbor, with all hands, at Cann Island on Saturday night while endeavoring to make Seldomecomely. She carried a crew of four men—Master B. Percy, Wm. Gates, a man named Whyte, and another, name unknown. The vessel was driven on the rocks and the crew were unable to reach a place of safety.

Calculations and Comments on the United States Elections.

A Short Speech From Grover Cleveland President-Elect.

Mrs. Cleveland and "Baby Ruth" Called for by the Crowd.

Probable Personnel of the Cabinet—Composition of the Next Congress.

THE PRESIDENT-ELECT'S FIRST SPEECH. The first speech which President-elect Cleveland made after his election was assured was delivered from a window of his residence in New York city. At 3 a.m. on Wednesday a surging crowd, which had waited for two long hours hurrying for the victor, was greeted by a sight of Mr. Cleveland. He said:

My fellow citizens,—I thank you for your visit, and for the enthusiasm you manifest. It is pleasing to me to read in your faces, and to note in your voices, the joy you feel at this magnificent victory. It is the proudest moment of my life. What man, indeed, would not be proud to be the leader, the standard bearer, of that noble army of freemen who have fought so loyally for the principles of the Union? I have not defeated the iniquitous schemes of the framers of the Force Bill! The hour is not propitious for a lengthy address, but I wish to thank you, one and all, and for the loyal support you have given Democracy and its principles. All I can do in this hour is to appreciate the enormous responsibility attending the great office to which you have elected me, and, by the grace of God, I will try to merit the confidence you have reposed in me.

Then one bright young man thought of "Mrs. Cleveland," he yelled. The cry spread like wildfire. One man shouted "Frankie!" "You called her 'Frankie' again, I'll break your face."

The crowd was calling, in piercing, rhythmic tones, "Mrs. Cleveland." A minute later a light was seen dimly through the velvet curtains of the room above the porch. Then up went the shade, and the smiling face of the most popular woman in the land appeared in the window. She was attired in a tightly fitting cloth gown, and as every mother's son among that vast crowd lifted his head and smiled and looked as happy as a girl in her first long dress. Then the same bright young man who had first called for Mrs. Cleveland, sang out:

"What we want to see Ruth!" "That blessed baby!"

The happy little woman in the window bowed, smiling brightly and disappeared. In three minutes she returned, bearing in her mother-arms a darling little creature, all wrapped up in some fleecy white material. You could hardly see the baby-face at first, but Mrs. Cleveland lifted her famous forehead on high, and the crowd couldn't cheer enough. The blue eyes of Ruth opened wide, and as the red and blue and green fire lighted up the scene, the baby hands were capped together, and one could fancy one heard the infant chuckling of delight.

CLEVELAND'S CABINET. The Cabinet slate generally secured out by politicians to-day was as follows: Secretary of State, Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware; Secretary of the Treasury, John L. Mitchell, or ex-Postmaster-General W. F. Vinas, of Wisconsin; Secretary of the Navy, Whitney, of New York; Secretary of War, W. B. Franklin, of New Hampshire; Secretary of the Interior, Isaac P. Gray, of Indiana; Attorney-General, Congressman Culbertson, of West Virginia, or Congressman Culbertson, of Texas; Postmaster-General, Don M. Dickinson.

A BIG SURPRISE. Probably one of the biggest surprises of Tuesday's ballot was the election of Dr. George P. Harkness (Dem.) in McKinley's district. Complete returns wipe out the usual majority of 4,181. The victory was secured over Thomas R. Morgan, sen., of Alliance, by a majority of over 1,000.

PLEASE CANADIANS. A Montreal press dispatch says: The Montreal Stock Exchange, and in fact business generally, are in high feather over the results of the Presidential election in the United States. One and all believe it will be of material benefit to both the United States and Canada in all lines of trade, as reform of tariff is necessary.

THE MARKETS ARE STRONG AND STEADY AS THE RESULT. A SPLENDID CHARGE THROWN AWAY. The London Daily Express expresses regret because what it terms the "pendulum chance" of the Republicans was "thrown away," and says: "Through following the Will of the Wisp protection they allowed the sceptre of leadership to fall into the hands of their rivals."

DEFEATED ON THE TARIFF QUESTION. NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Herald's Washington special correspondent telegraphs the gist of a talk between President Harrison and an intimate friend on the Republican defeat. According to the dispatch the President said the defeat of the party was due mainly to the position of the party on the tariff question. The Republicans had forced this issue to an extreme which evidently did not meet with the people's approval. The Force Bill, the President thought, had not much to do with the party's defeat. It not only had the effect of keeping the South solid, but made many Democratic votes in the North. Last Tuesday's verdict, the President said, could be construed in but one way. It means a consolidation of the extreme high tariff policy of the Republican party for years.

A MOMENT CANADIAN'S OPINION. OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—Mr. John Ross Robertson, of Toronto, was in town last night en route home from New York and Boston. Asked what he thought of the result of the Presidential election he replied: "I will tell you what I think. I believe it means that the people have decided that the Government and the manufacturers shall no longer work in partnership." He added that the result must have a wide-reaching influence in public opinion in Canada. The Canadian tariff would have to be modified. The farmers were beginning to exercise their power. They would probably control the legislative branch of the United States Government.

BRITISH OPINION. LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Daily Telegraph this morning publishes a number of interviews with representatives of various trade interests of Great Britain. The president and secretary of the Sheffield Chamber of Commerce and the heads of various firms in that city are represented as being pleased at Mr. Cleveland's victory but not sanguine of any immediate result in the way of tariff reform. In one interview an ex-manufacturer, named Richardson, is quoted as saying that he thinks that if any reduction is made it will be for selfish reasons, and will only benefit America.

A number of interviews had in Liverpool made it apparent that keen interest is evinced there in the result, and it has been the chief topic of discussion in the cotton market, on the stock exchange, and among the frequenters of other business centers of that city. The opinions expressed are various. Some of the shipowners especially, think the result will be of great benefit to them. In addition, the reduction of the exportation of woollens and other such goods formerly sent to Liverpool to be shipped by fast steamer is now shipped more cheaply. The cotton trade, it appears, has suffered less than some other industries and its operators are less excited by the news.

A number of the interviews represent the citizens of Belfast as jubilant over Cleveland's victory and as talking of nothing else, the cotton country having suffered severely through the McKinley tariff. Sir Daniel Dixon, the mayor of the city, who is a shipowner, says he is rejoiced for the sake of Belfast and that he expects improved trade both in exports and freights. Sir James Orr, M.P., writes:

While Lieut. Wolf, of the twenty-second district, was sitting at a front window at the station house yesterday afternoon, he saw what he supposed was a woman dressed in man's clothing walking down the sidewalk toward Lehigh avenue. His first thought was that it was a crook or an escaped criminal trying to conceal her identity. Special Officer Whitcomb, who came along Lehigh avenue just then, arrested and brought her into the station house.

"What is your name?" asked the lieutenant. "Mrs. Peter Watchern, of Park avenue and Bishop street," answered the woman. "Then you are not a man, as you would like the public to believe?" said the lieutenant to Mrs. Watchern.

The woman became very serious and answered: "I was foolish enough to wager that Harrison would be re-elected, and in the evening of his being defeated I was to walk the square several times in succession dressed in men's clothing, and that is the reason why I am thus attired."

She appealed to the lieutenant not to make any trouble for her, and she was permitted to go home, badly frightened. HE BREAKS THE RECORD. Mr. Cleveland breaks the record in one respect. He is not the first citizen elected for a second term as President. Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, and Grant were all re-elected, and Mr. Cleveland comes eighth in the list of two-term Presidents. But no other citizen of the United States was ever returned to the Executive Mansion by a vote of the people after having once departed from that desirable place of residence. Mr. Cleveland will be the first two-term President whose service was not continuous.

A CLOSE VOTE. HELENA, Mont., Nov. 12.—The vote in doubtful districts is so close that it will take the official count to decide. Giving the Republicans all four, the Democrats will still have one majority on a joint ballot. This insures the election of a Democrat to succeed Sanders (Rep.) in the Senate. Enough returns are in to show a Republican majority on the Presidential ticket.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 12.—The last returns from all but 283 precincts in this city and State at large give Harrison a plurality of 4,181. The returns indicate that the Democrats will have a majority of two on joint ballot on the next Legislature.

GEN. WEAVER'S VIEWS. DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 12.—Gen. Weaver says his party is not a temporary affair, but it is going to stay in the field, and will win in every campaign for the future. He says that all over the country the work of organization will be pushed steadily. Gen. Weaver also says he has received private advices from Alabama which convince him that the State will give by 3,000 plurality and he expects to make a fight for it.

THE DEPUTED AND DOUBTFUL STATES.

CALIFORNIA—Returns from 1,821 precincts in California give Harrison 104,763; Cleveland, 101,633; Weaver, 20,553. Harrison will carry the State by a small plurality, unless Cleveland's majority in San Francisco exceeds 7,500.

INDIANA—Complete returns from 88 counties in Indiana show a net Democratic gain over 1888 of 10,300, making the Democratic plurality thus far 7,502. The result in five counties will probably increase this 500. The Congressional delegation consists of 11 Democrats and 2 Republicans.

KANSAS—Chairman Briental to-day claims that the Populists have elected 6 out of 8 Congressmen.

NEBRASKA. In 73 counties Nebraska out of 90, Harrison has 74,277, Cleveland 21,772, Weaver 68,643. The Republicans lack two members of controlling the Legislature on joint ballot.

WASHINGTON—Latest returns show that Harrison carries the State by 400. Gov. McKinley (Rep.) will have a plurality of 2,000. Republicans elect both Congressmen.

WYOMING—Returns from all counties in Wyoming, except Fremont, give the State to Weaver by a majority of 500, and Fremont is said to have gone for Weaver.

Fusionists have 15 majority on joint ballot in the Legislature.

REVISED RETURNS. The following table, corrected by returns received up to 3 o'clock this (Saturday) morning shows the completeness of Tuesday's Democratic victory. The total electoral vote being 44, it requires 223 to elect. These are the figures:

AFTERNOON TELEGRAMS

A Kansas City, Mo., dispatch says the grain blockade is over.

A number of Welsh tinplate manufacturers, whose works have been closed, are giving notice of a resumption of work at their establishments.

Arthur W. Wuellmes, a Frenchman, will begin a 50 day fast in Cleveland Dec. 5 under the auspices of the Western Reserve University Medical College.

The production of "King Lear" by Henry Irving at the Lyceum Theater, London, Thursday night, is pronounced to be one of Mr. Irving's greatest triumphs.

Advices from Honolulu state that business there is at a standstill, and the Government is almost bankrupt, while the Queen and Legislature are at loggerheads.

The executive committee of the Irish Land Owners' Convention has resolved to advise landlords to withdraw entirely from the proceedings of the evicted tenants' commission.

Geo. C. Frederick, the slayer of Geo. Scott Morris, attempted suicide in Detroit Friday by cutting his throat with a piece of window glass. He is but little the worse for his terrible experience.

Wm. H. Brant, a sleek young English swindler who has operated all over the country, is under arrest in New York. He admits that he has duped hundreds of good natured people out of sums ranging from $10 to $50.

At San Jose, California, Henry P. Lanz, aged 25, recently appointed manager of the Fredricks brewery, was found hanging to a tree on Friday. His hands were tied behind his back, his feet tied together and a handkerchief over his mouth.

By a freight wreck near Ludlow Grove, Ohio, on Friday, a parlor horse car with fourteen valuable horses belonging to Mr. Morris, of Westchester, N. Y., was thrown down an embankment. All the horses were more or less injured. One, an imported stallion, was valued at $25,000, and the others were valued at $35,000.

Reports have been received at Moscow that the 165 Russians whom Col. Yanoff left behind him in camp in the Pamirs are in a critical position, being threatened by a force of 1,000 Chinese. The Russian Government, therefore, decided to dispatch to the assistance of the Russians a small expedition, including a detachment of artillery.

Lake Superior Ore Shipments. CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 12.—With lake navigation nearing a close, it is now evident that iron ore shipments from the Lake Superior region for 1892 will be about 9,000,000 gross tons, and it is estimated that shipments next season from the new Mesabi iron range of Minnesota will cause a total movement in 1893 of 13,000,000 tons. Forty-nine new vessels valued at $6,930,505, are now being built in the lake ship yards to care for this increased traffic.

At Conneaut, Ohio, a new port has been opened and $3,000,000 expended in ore and coal docks, which are connected with the iron and coal districts in the vicinity of Pittsburgh by the new Pittsburgh, Chesapeake and Lake Erie Railway. The first cargo of ore has just been delivered at these docks. It is estimated that they will handle 500,000 tons next season.

Hamilton L. Morrow, M.P., Boyleston, N. S.: "Being troubled for years with sick headache, I was induced by the solicitation of a friend to give your K. D. C. a trial. Its effect was almost magical and the relief from even one spell of sick headache is a boon that can only be appreciated by those who have suffered from that scourge."

STILL ANOTHER PROPOSITION.

What the London Street Railway Company Offer to Do.

Text of Proposal Submitted to the Finance Committee by Mr. Cronyn
—Statements of the New Company Discussed.

The principal business of the finance committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon was to meet a deputation from the London Street Railway Company. Ald. Garthshore (chairman), Judd, G. E. Drenney and Leonard, and the Secretary E. W. Jones, were present. Mr. V. Cronyn, president of the London Street Railway Company, said that he had come prepared to make an offer to the city. A new company, he said, was to be incorporated and the council requested to appropriate the expense the company had incurred on the city, and he was convinced that he could show the committee that the city had been saving the cost of it. At the time Richmond street was block-paved the corporation appropriated the gravel to their own use and charged the company with the cost of it from one portion of the street and another. This gravel being sold to the company, and the city one street alone the company saved the city an expense of $1,680. On both Richmond and Dundas streets the city saved 41 cents per square yard between the

Ald. Leonard—I think it is a very liberal offer.

The matter was then laid over until Monday evening.

Murray Anderson applied for remission of a portion of the taxes on the stores at 638 and 640 Dundas street. The former is assessed at $1,700 and the latter at $1,690. Both had been vacant this year. The matter was referred to the Court of Revision.

The Magee Manufacturing Company, recently burned out, asked for remission of taxes for 1891. Last year the taxes for 1890 amounting to $78, were remitted. Half the taxes will be remitted this year.

Parke & Pardon asked for a fixed assessment for R. Dennis & Son, King street, who had recently rebuilt.

D. S. Perrin's application for $200 salary for Humane Society Inspector was filed for funds.

Geo. Elliott's application re taxes was referred to the inspector, as were also E. Hickey's, Mrs. Bremner's, and May Brown's request for remission of taxes.

The Protestant Orphan's Home Board asked that their annual grant be increased from $500 to $500. Filed.

Ald. Leonard moved that the auditor submit to the council the rate per capita of the city as compared with that of London, West, and also the ratio of improvement and city government for each. Carried.

Danesbury House.

"I don't like water, Arthur. Beer is nice."

"But you are aware—how have heard—that our own manna wished us to drink it; and you would so very much oblige me by doing so."

Truth to say, the last argument had most weight with William, for he was very fond of Arthur, and wished to do what he desired. So the next day at dinner he requested the servant to give him water, not beer. He made a face over it, however, and but it did not stop him as he tasted, upon which Mrs. Danesbury said some mocking words to him, which set him still more against the water, and he actually, positively, told her own two children that they might that day have a double portion of beer if they wished it.

"To teach Arthur," After dinner, William whispered to Mrs. Danesbury, "very sorry, but he never should be able to drink the 'nasty water' with dinner. Of course he could not; the child had never been accustomed to drink it; Mrs. Danesbury had given him the taste for stronger things."

On this Sunday, as they sat at dinner, Arthur was describing to them his university life. He appeared to have formed a close friendship there; it was with a young man of his own age, who had matriculated at the same time as himself, the Hon. Reginald Duer.

"These college friendships do not continue in after life," observed Mr. Danesbury.

"Mine with Dacre will not, I dare say," replied Arthur, "for our paths will lie far apart. He will be a peer of the realm; I, but Arthur Danesbury of the iron works."

But it is very pleasant, he said, to have him so close, and keep him out of mischief; for me, he would be head over heels in it."

"You keep him out of mischief," laughed Mr. Danesbury.

Arthur laughed also. "It is true though, sir."

On the afternoon of the following day, Monday, Mrs. Danesbury was walking along a somewhat unfrequented path at the back of his factory, when a woman all in rags, a beggar apparently, came in view. He took no notice of her; he was deep in thought, but the beggar, halted as he passed.

"Mister!"

"It was Glisson! Mr. Danesbury was checked when he recognized her. She leaned against the wall and broke out into wails and sobs."

"Glisson, what has happened? How is it that you are like this?"

"I'm just a beggar on the face of the earth, sir. I have no home and no food, and I am thankful for the world to give me shelter. I was coming to the old familiar home-place, to sit myself down in the fields and to die."

"You appear to be ill, almost helpless?"

"That's what the rheumatic fever has left me. I caught it, and the parish doctor says I shall never have the proper use of my hands and arms again, and my legs totter under me."

"What have you been doing since you left us?"

"Ah! what have I been! When Mrs. Danesbury turned me out and most cruelly she behaved to me; my master, I must say it, though she is your wife, and may the Lord help the poor creature, they fell under her temper—I went to London. Not direct; for I stayed here and there upon my road; I was almost mad, with what one wretched thought or other. All at once I thought I'd go off to London, and find out my brother and his wife. Well, sir, I did, and a fine state I found them in. Oh, sir, those that live in the country have need to be thankful for their little home to sit in. I have been six days in walking; it's Master John."

"Master John! the old familiar title of his boyhood," he resumed, in a tone of deep commiseration, "have you relinquished that?"

"Nothing. I have just grubbed on with 'em in their vice and wretchedness; selling my clothes, and starving till I can starve no longer, so I resolved to come here to sit. I have been six days in walking; it's Master John."

unfortunate habit which they tell me you took to?"

"She shook her head, 'No, sir.' 'No.' 'The craving for drink has grown upon me. My odd pounds went in it. It's more to me now than food.'"

"Oh, Glisson!"

"As long as I was in your house, sir, I kept it under, I should have kept it under still, for I knew I must do it. I did drink a drop at times, but not much to harm me. What possessed me to take so much the night Mrs. Danesbury found me, I can't tell. But, up in that dreadful London, in the midst of bad example, with nothing but poverty, and ruin, and rags, and famine around me, and having gin-shops at every turn of a step, which make the best drink when they would not—that did for me. It does for thousands. My brother might have been sober enough, but for those enticing places, and his business would have gone on."

"Glisson, what could have been your inducement to fall into such habits?" inquired Mr. Danesbury. "What was the commencement?"

"Do you remember a cook you once had, sir—a fat, red-faced woman; Dolly, we used to call her in the kitchen; one of the best cooks that ever came to the house. She left just after Master William was born."

"Yes, I do remember her," said Mr. Danesbury, who had been casting back his thoughts.

"She taught me. She drank gin; a great deal of it. As soon as ever my mistress had been into the kitchen in a morning to give orders, she'd begin; and she never left off throughout the day. Yet she would send up her dinner properly, and do her work well, and never show it. There was no baby then, for little John had died, and I took to steal down stairs at night, and sit with her in the kitchen, after the servants had gone to bed, and drink some with her. I got a liking for it, Master John, and it stuck to me and I could not leave it off."

"Yes," he uttered, after a pause, a sharp pang striking him like a dart, "could it be that this was the cause of your giving the child the laudanum—and so leading to the death of your mistress?"

"To tell the truth, sir," she shrieked, "And I have had a devil's mistress' face before me ever since, and I have drunk worse to drown it. Fare you well, sir; fare you well forever."

She turned off, sobbing and moaning; and Mr. Danesbury saw her sink down behind a tree at some distance.

"What should he do with her? He could not let her starve. Painful as had been the last revelation to him, he yet felt that he must give her succor. He was a considerate benevolent man, and he would have been so to an enemy. Thomas Harding approached, and Mr. Danesbury informed him of what had occurred."

"It never was that object I saw pass around, as I was waiting at the gate to give the signal for the bell," he exclaimed. "A bundle of rags, sir; bent as if with age, with a stick in her hand to lean upon."

"The same," answered Mr. Danesbury; "that was Glisson. Harding, I must get somebody to take her in. Do you think any will be found to have her?"

"Fifty, sir, only from the respect they owe your late mother, whose servant she was. Let it once be known that it is your wish, and twenty will come forward."

"Will you pay a weekly sum for her support. Do you arrange it for me. Let her comfortable."

"I'll see about it at once, sir."

"Ay, she must be got in somehow; look at her now, under that tree."

Before an hour had elapsed, a home was found for her, and she was conveyed to it, sobbing bitterly.

How got on Jessy Gould? We had better see. She would have got on very well but for the public-house; but Richard had learned to like them much. When her friends came to see her, they found her in the midst of her rising to a good position in the establishment of Mr. Danesbury, otherwise they would not have considered him a suitable match for her. And as yet, Richard, though more comfortably off than many, was not advancing as quickly as he ought to have done. They had four or five children, who were kept as clean and neat as their mother.

It was half-past seven o'clock on a Saturday night, and the bell rang at the Danesbury Works; for the men to go in and get paid. Though so large a number of them, the arrangements were well ordered, and systematic, and by 8 o'clock most of them would be ready to depart.

They passed into the yard, out at the great iron gates. A few proceeded to their homes, but the greater portion were hastened to the public-house and beer-shops. A long line of eight or ten, Richard Gould being one halted in consultation as to which house should be favored with their company, and finally it was decided to honor the Pig and Whistle, down by the new bridge.

A LEEDS COUNTY MIRACLE.

A Story Containing a Lesson to Parents.

The Restoration of a Young Girl Whose Condition Finds a Parallel in Thousands of Canadian Homes—Not Through Willful Neglect, but in Ignorance of the Terrible Consequences.

(Brookville Times.)

The great frequency with which pale, listless and enfeebled girls are met with now-a-days is cause for genuine alarm. The young girls of the present day are, in the healthy, robust, rosy, checked lassies their mothers and grandmothers were before them. On all sides one sees girls budding into womanhood, who should be bright of eye, light in step, and joyous in spirits; but alas, how far from this is their condition. Their complexion is pale, sallow or waxy in appearance, they are victims of heart palpitation, ringing noises in the head, cold hands and feet, often fainting spells, racking headaches, backaches, shortness of breath, and often distressing symptoms. All these conditions betoken chlorosis or anemia—or in other words a watery and impoverished condition of the blood, which is thus unable to perform the functions required of it by nature. When in this condition unless remedied by a course of the natural remedies which give richness and redness to the blood corpuscles, organic disease and an early grave are the inevitable result. It was in a condition closely resembling the above that a young lady in Addison, Leeds, county, was when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People came to her rescue, and undoubtedly saved her from premature death. This case was recently brought to the notice of the Times by H. S. Moffatt, general merchant and postmaster at Addison, who family the young lady in question is which family the young lady in question is which family the young lady in question is

Mr. Gladstone as a Fighter.

A short time ago Mr. Gladstone opened a workman's institute at Salfrey, near Leicester. After the ceremony was completed the right honorable gentleman and several others who had been instrumental in the good work were invited to partake of tea. One of the company made the remark to Mr. Gladstone that he had been recently speaking to a gentleman who knew him at the time when he was a boy at school.

"What is his name?" inquired the Premier. "Mr. —, of Liverpool," was the reply. "Indeed!" ejaculated Mr. Gladstone, "and did he tell you anything particular concerning our school days?" "Yes, sir; he said that you and he once fought, and you thrashed him."

"Ah! I thought he would remember that; and did he tell you what it was we fought about?" eagerly inquired the veteran, with apparent warmth. "No, sir, he did not," was the reply. "Then I rising up with as much determination as if to enter on a debate. 'He induced me to steal some strawberries from a field, and when I had done so he wanted to take all the risk of detection, I was determined not to let him have them, so we fought for them, and I thrashed him, and I stuck to my strawberries. And when you see your friend again, will you kindly remember me to him, and tell him that I do not know whether I could repeat the operation to-day, as I have not seen him for many years, and do not know what condition he is in; but I will mention this fact to you, that that field of strawberries was where I beat him, Liverpool, now stands.'"

"Is this Munc. Pompon?" breathlessly inquired a man who had climbed several flights of stairs and been admitted into a darkened parlor.

"The famous clairvoyant and fortune teller?"

"The same."

"Do you read the mind?"

"With perfect ease."

"Can you foretell the future?"

"The future holds no mysteries that I cannot unravel."

"Can you unfold the past?"

"The record of all things past is to me an open book."

"Then," said the caller, feverishly, taking from his pocket a handful of silver, "I wish you would tell me what it is that gives my wife a headache, and name your price. Money is no object."

THE WEATHER.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 11—11 p.m.—The depression which was in Manitoba last night now with diminishing energy covers the lake region. Another disturbance is situated in the far Northwest, while the pressure is highest in the Southern States. A fresh gale prevailed throughout Eastern Canada last night, and to-day strong winds and moderate rains have been general on the lakes.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Calgary, 26°—54°; Qu'Appelle, 24°—34°; Winnipeg, 14°—18°; Toronto, 26°—40°; Montreal, 24°—32°; Quebec, 18°—28°; Halifax, 38°—38°.

TO-DAY'S PROBABILITIES.

TORONTO, Nov. 12—1 a.m.—Probabilities for the next 24 hours for the lower lakes region (covering the peninsula and as far east as Belleville): Fresh to strong westerly to northerly winds; colder, with light falls of sleet or snow in most localities.

—The postoffice authorities have been notified that paper covered books coming into Canada from the United States wrapped up like newspapers must be transferred to the customs department as they are liable for duty.

—Mr. N. W. Ford, grand-superintendent, London district, paid his first official visit to Palestine Chapter, R.A.M., St. Thomas, on Thursday night. Officers for the ensuing year were also elected. The installation will take place at the next monthly meeting.

—The St. Thomas Social Club held an assembly at the Grand Central Hotel Thursday night. About 70 couples were present, including guests from London, Aylmer, Shedd and other places. Dayton's string band furnished the music and dancing was kept up till 2 a.m.

—Mr. John Monaghan, formerly of South London, now of Ancaster village, who has been in receipt of a pension from the United States Government for some years past as an old soldier, has been granted an increase in his pension from $12 per month, to $15 per month, effective from Nov. 1, 1910. The pension will be only $2 per month.

—Mr. Fred Westlake, who accompanied a party of London sportsmen to Muskoka a couple of weeks since, was brought home the victim of a serious shooting accident. He was in a canoe with Conductor Waters, of London, when a rifle in the canoe was by some means discharged, and the ball entered the calf of Westlake's leg. Dr. Frazer was one of the party and dressed the wound.

—The Oddfellows of Hamilton held their annual concert on Thursday night. The occasion was graced by the presence of Bro. Dr. C. L. Campbell, of this city, who was presented with a beautiful illuminated and bound address, which congratulated him on his elevation to the office of grand sire of the order. Dr. Campbell replied in suitable terms. Among those who took part in the concert was Sim. Fax, of this city.

Wet—Scott.

The residence of Mr. R. Scott, Hyde Park, was recently the scene of a pleasant event, being the marriage of Miss Maggie Scott, to Mr. R. Weir, of Byron. Shortly after 6 o'clock the strains of the wedding march announced the bridal party. The bride, who looked charming in an elegant cream costume with floral garlands and veil with orange blossoms, was attended by Miss Amanda Hodgins, of Clandeboy, attired in fawn beretta with white lace and chrysanthemums, and Miss A. Weir in tan beretta with white lace and chrysanthemums. The groom was supported by Mr. Tamin, of London, and Mr. D. Scott, of Hyde Park. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of cedar and flowers by the Rev. Mr. Haig. After congratulations the company, numbering about 60, sat down to an excellent wedding dinner. Many beautiful gifts testified to the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Weir are held.

Fire Limits to be Extended.

There was no quorum at last evening's meeting of No. 3 committee of the council, and those present—Ald. Fitzgerald (chairman), William and John Heenan—decided to present a minority report. Secretary Bell, City Engineer Graydon, City Clerk Kingston, Market Clerk Wilson and Chief Roe were also in attendance. The city clerk is preparing the bylaws for consolidation and those referring to the business of the committee were read over. The fire limits bylaw will be so amended as to enlarge the territory to which it refers. The street watering inspector submitted his annual report. Conductor Peckitt had performed his duties more satisfactorily than last year, while contractors Webb and Hull had not done their work as well as in 1911. The cars had been out 140 days—35 less than last year. The report was filed for reference. Tenders were received for supplying firemen's trousers, and were referred to the council.

A Busy and Persistent Man.

Detective Wasson, of the Ontario Medical Council, may be a very sick man, but he is also a very active man. While by no means recovered from the severe illness with which he was attacked at this city, while attending the funeral of Harry Phair, he yet visited Owen Sound in the early part of the present week, and successfully prosecuted one Frank and another, fully prosecuted one William Wilcox, for violation of the Medical Act. Wilcox did his best to escape, but the detective's evidence was too comprehensive and straight, and he was fined $25 and costs.

Masonic.

Tuscan Lodge whist party was the largest and most successful ever held. These gatherings improve every year.

A very large crowd will go with St. John's Lodge, 209, on their coming trip to Detroit.

Grand Master Gibson will dedicate the new hall of Stanley Lodge, No. 426, at Toronto Junction, on Tuesday next, at 7:30 p.m.

During the month D. G. M. Hess will officially visit the following lodges: No. 16, King Solomon Lodge, No. 378, London West; No. 29, Nilestone Lodge, No. 345, Nilestone; No. 30, No. 299, Harriestville.

The "Proceedings of the Grand Lodge of Canada" for 1912 have been issued by Grand Secretary Mason during the week.

The volume is one of large dimensions, comprising 287 pages of closely printed matter in small type. From the tabular returns it is learned that there were on 24th of June last 21,428 Masons in good standing in Ontario. During the year 1,431 were initiated, 634 withdrew, 1,367 passed, 316 died, 1,234 died, 258 died, 591 were suspended for non-payment of dues, 14 for un-Masonic conduct, 185 were restored to membership and one was expelled.

A Society Event.

A wedding of more than usual interest, and which was a social affair in the city, took place at the B. M. E. Church on Thursday. The contracting parties were Mr. Isaac Spencer, for a number of years connected with Raymond's sewing machine factory, and Mrs. Annie Jane Downey, of London. Rev. Mr. Oliver, M.A., tied the nuptial knot. The bride and groom were supported by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Smith, respectively, and Mr. Davenport officiated as usher. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock, but long before the appointed time the church was filled to the doors with an eager and orderly crowd. When the bridal party at last arrived they were greeted with a rousing cheer from those assembled. At the conclusion of the ceremony another hearty cheer went up on behalf of the happy couple.

A very pleasant hour was then spent, several speeches being made, interspersed with selections by the colored jubilee singers. Miss Melissa Smith then departed for the church for their home, the bride and groom were deluged with rice and peanuts from those near enough. An impromptu reception was held at Mr. Spencer's house afterwards, where the friends had the pleasure of reviewing the large number of presents. There were of great variety, and some of them costly, demonstrating the esteem in which the recipients were held by their numerous friends. Cheers were given for Raymond's shop, London and the Royal City, and the festive hour was brought to a close.—[Guelph Herald.]

Annual Social Gathering.

The members of Tuscan Lodge entertained their friends at an annual party in the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple last night. The first portion of the entertainment was spent in playing progressive whist, 26 points. Mr. Wm. Spittal carried off the first prize, with a score of 24, and Mr. Bro. A. G. Smyth took the second, with 23. A banquet followed, which was presided over by Mr. A. G. McWhinney, M. of the lodge, presided. The vice-chairs were occupied by Senior Warden Vanstone and Junior Warden Fysh. After an ample repast, the toast list was proceeded with. Speeches were given by W. Bro. Barker, and W. Bro. Porter, V. Wor. Bro. J. D. Clarke, Wor. Bro. A. A. Campbell, Broderick, Paul and Dr. Roome, Bro. Dr. C. L. Campbell, Vanstone, Fisher, and Fysh, Messrs. A. B. Cox, Swaizland, Buck, M. Menet, Dr. Ellis, Dr. Waid, Barker, Alexander, Col. Garsington, Ald. Leonard, McWhinney (Synod of Huron secretary-treasurer), McLean and others. Excellent songs were rendered by Dr. Sippl, Messrs. Davis, A. Macpherson, Wm. Skinner, Massaret and Hampton. There was a pronounced success, and all the visitors expressed themselves thoroughly pleased with their entertainment. The committee, Bro. Dr. Waid (chairman), Bro. Burke (secretary), and W. Bro. Porter, were deservedly praised by all for the completeness of the arrangements. Over 100 guests were present.

BEAUTY AMONG BEAUTY.

The magnificent display of W. S. & C. M. Greenway, who carry off Great Prizes.

There was so much general beauty at the flower show that it would be almost impossible to particularize. The display, however, was of surpassing excellence, that of W. S. & C. M. Greenway, of London West. Evidently it pleased the critical eye of the judge as well as that of the public, for the Messrs. Greenway carried off a splendid share of the prizes. Among them were: The silver cup for the best 25 varieties; the first for 50, 12 and 6 varieties respectively in different classes; first on 20 varieties, single bloom; first on specimen; and the first on pink, white, yellow and crimson. The firm has a magnificent display of cut flowers, and secured first prize for the best collection, first for 25 varieties and first for 12 in another class, besides the Webster award for best single specimen, new variety. The Messrs. Greenway cultivate every kind of flower, and are specially prepared to fill orders for balls, weddings, funerals, etc.

Catarrah, Not Local, but Constitutional.

Dr. Dio Lewis, the eminent Boston physician, in a magazine article says: "A radical error underlies nearly all medical treatment of catarrh. It is not a disease of the nose; it is a disease of the man, showing itself in the nose—a local exhibition of a constitutional trouble." Therefore, he argues, the use of snuff and other applications is wrong, and while they seem to give temporary relief, they really do more harm than good. Other leading authorities agree with Dr. Lewis. Hence, the only proper remedy of cure for catarrh is by taking a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which reaching every part of the body through the blood, does eliminate all impurities and makes the whole man healthier. It removes the cause of the trouble and restores the diseased membrane to proper condition. That this is the practical result is proven by thousands of people who have been cured of catarrh by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

London Domestic Form a Servants Union—Prospects of a Colonial Organization.

The latest trades union development in London, Eng., is the formation of a domestic servants' union. Seven hundred servants have already joined and the number of possible members in London is estimated at 240,000. The members of the union intend to hold an open air meeting to give expression to a demand that the Government establish a servants' labor exchange where no fees shall be exacted, fix hours of labor, regulate salaries, and force employers to give a suitable character to servants on dismissal. Some of the papers refer to the union in a jesting manner. The masters in several districts of Lancashire and Huddersfield have agreed to support the Cotton Spinners' Federation by working their mills four days in a week.

High School Trustees.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: At a regular meeting of a high school board consisting of eight members (seven being present) a resolution to dismiss a teacher is made. Upon this two of the members favorably to him leave the room, and as the motion is being put another member leaves the room, no quorum being the result. The motion is, however, declared carried by the chairman, as the four members present favor the resolution. The three members left for the purpose of obstructing the business of the meeting. milk is sometimes used in place of oil, and it gives the cloth a beautiful gloss. Too frequent washing, no matter how well it is done, will not improve olecloth in the end. Usually this is the kind of treatment it receives, for few housewives seem to recognize the difference between dusty olecloth and a dirty one, and treat both the same. After it has had a thorough sweeping, if it looks dull and dusty, go over it, a little at a time, with a dry mopcloth, and it will look as bright as though washed, and will wear a great deal longer.

FARM AND GARDEN

Beautiful Your Surroundings.

Thrice worthy he who beautifies his home and farm for the sake of self, of family, of neighborhood and of the passing stranger. Few realize the effect of symmetry and beauty in nature on the life of individual and community, unless by travel they have had opportunity for comparison, or have noted the good work accomplished in a town's morals indirectly by application of the laws of order, neatness and ornament. It may be a village improvement association was organized; perhaps one man from an advanced quarter of the globe bought a place and beautified it, or a resident awoke to the prevailing depravity and ordered himself to arise and enjoy the glorious things a wise Creator has put within reach. Somewhere a beginning was made in changing places once chaos into present charm, the same as in forming character or strong in rectitude. It may be that the reader is one person on whom the destiny of his town depends. Though perhaps living in ungrateful desolation, he may make a beginning, however small. With unfaltering determination as the months pass, the man of enterprise will gradually emerge as a leader of reform or a comforter to the poor. Nor are public improvement and the enhancement of values in property which it naturally precedes, together with heightened ethics, the only goal. There is more than possibility, yes, strong probability, that fortune and consequent comfort to the creator of embellishments may increase.

To Develop the Udder in the Cow.
In raising heifers much depends on the care and management given them by the farmer as to their future usefulness. With proper care, says an exchange, he could make her develop into a valuable cow, while carelessness in this respect would make her of little value either to keep or for sale. In the management of young cows whatever will contribute to a large flow of milk tends to develop udder and blood vessels connected with it, milk veins included. Feeding a young cow well for some time previous to dropping the first calf (suspending the high feed just before calving for fear of inflammation of the udder), and having her rapidly and thoroughly milked three times a day after the birth of the calf, resuming the high feed as soon as all tendency to hardening and inflammation of the udder is passed, will tend to make her a good milker.

Aside from abundance of good food nothing contributes so much to increased quantity of milk as rapid and clean milking. If any feed is naturally disposed to be small, special pains should be taken to have it milked as described, and if a good milker cannot be had let the calf do the milking of that teat or teats involved. It is ruinous to begin milking and stop and then milk again. Once started there should be no stopping till the bag is completely emptied. The practice of letting the calf suck, then taking him off, then milking awhile, and letting the calf go to the cow again to bring down her milk will spoil the best of milkers. It is better to have a calf about a cow, at least after the bag has been relieved of the first rush of milk after calving. These facts being neglected by the farmer has sent many cows to the "beef tub" for their worthlessness, that otherwise might have been a good record.

Profit in Bee Culture.

That bee-keeping will compare favorably with any other pursuit in life, is undoubtedly true, and the reason why so many fail in it is that they do not properly attend to it. Men will give their horses and cattle the best of care but when it comes to the bees, they let them take care of themselves, with the exception of hiving swarms and putting on and taking off boxes. In this way there is no profit, and little, if any, pleasure in apiculture. What would they expect from their cows if treated in that way?

The keeping of bees means milking twice a day for at least 210 days of the year, and feeding them three times a day for 180 days, saying nothing about cleaning stables and other work necessary to keep on a dairy. When men are willing to thus care for bees, they will find they will give as much profit as can be obtained from cows, or any other branch of rural industry, and in this profit comes very largely the pleasure side of the question. Bee-keeping means work, with enthusiasm enough put into it to make this work fun; a place for everything, and everything in its place, and to know how to do the job just at the right time and in the right place, if we would make it both profitable and profitable.

We also want the best bees, the best hives, and all modern appliances, just as our enterprising dairymen would have the best breed of cows and the best stables to care for the business. No man will ever make bee-keeping profitable who prefers to lounge around a country tavern or store instead of working in the apiary. In fact, a person will not succeed in any business unless he has enough of his calling in his life so he will be diligent and faithful thereto. "Seest thou a man diligent in his business?" he shall stand before kings," was what King Solomon told his son, and the saying is as true to-day as it ever was. To be successful in any business, a man must "grow up" into it by years of patient toil and study, till he becomes master of that business, when in 99 cases out of 100 he will succeed. It is this getting over, and investing all we have in it, expecting to make a fortune, which ruins so many and gives no pleasure as a result.

Formic Acid for Paralysis.

Two hundred years ago formic acid was obtained from the brown wood ants, it distilling them with water, and the resulting honey-bees. The acid liquor was used to irritate the skin as a counter irritant. The reddening of the skin, when using baths of pine leaves, is also due to the action of formic acid present in the leaves. The formic acid of commerce is formed by artificial distillation.

As regards the irritating action of stinging nettles and other similar plants, it depends, as already stated, on the formic acid. The point is the nettle is as brittle as glass, and by the slightest touch penetrates the skin and breaks off, pouring out its acid and causing the burning sensation.

Some species of caterpillars have formic acid in some of their hairs, which when touched are able to shake at will, and when a person touches such a caterpillar, the poison penetrates the skin wherever it is moist, and causes burning, itching and inflammation. These poisonous members preserve their irritating powers even after the death of the worm. This accounts for reliable statements that visitors to collections of exanthematic eruptions on the neck.

Formic acid, according to the United States Dispensary, diluted with an equal measure of water, is an excellent application to paralyzed limbs, exciting the circulation of the blood and producing exult orythmations redness, with a prickly sensation as if stung with bees or nettles. Formate of ammonia has a specific tendency to the nervous centers, and is contraindicated in cases of any active irritation or inflammation of the nervous centers or about them. Those who handle bees should understand whether or not they are afflicted with chronic head or heart trouble, because such persons cannot safely expose themselves to any large doses of stinging virus with impunity. But in cases of paralyzed limbs, or paralysis not complicated with head or heart disease, stinging may prove beneficial.

Leafy Branches.

As emblems of humanity, leaves are peculiarly beautiful and expressive. Tongues of nature, they are eloquent with divine teachings, which reach at times the inner ear with a strange power. Man sees his own fate reflected in their short-lived beauty. As light a hold as they have of the tree of life. A leaf is the type of a single person, and a whole foliage of a tree symbolizes a generation.

The tree sheds its leaves one by one, until at last it is altogether stripped, and stands bare and desolate in the wintry blast, but its trunk and branches remain. So individual men and whole generations die, but the race survives. The leaf is annual, but the tree perennial; and man is frail and perishing, but mankind have an enduring existence. The dark greenness and vigor of the summer leaf portray the strength and self-reliance of manhood, while its fading hues on the tree and its rustling heaps on the ground typify the decay and feebleness of old age and the strange mysterious passing away which is the doom of every mortal. The autumn leaf is gorgeous in color, but it lacks the balmy scent and the dewy freshness of hopeful spring—and life is rich and bright in its meridian splendor.

Deep are the hues of maturity, and noble is the beauty of success, but who would not give it all for the tender sweetness and promise of life's morning hours? Happy they who keep the child's heart warm and soft over the sad experiences of old age, whose life declines as the last September days go out, with the rich tints of autumn and the blue, sunny skies of June!

Yes, we live as a leaf, and we fade as a leaf. The inspired prophet says it in God's own words; nature echoes it through all the long drawn aisles of the forest; and human experience, from Adam until now, adds its universal yet individualizing illustration—each new case exhibiting some new variety—Leaves have their time to fall.

But then all seasons—all
Then last all seasons for thine own, O death!
We know when moons shall wane,
When summer birds from far shall cross the sea,
When autumn hues shall tinge the golden grain,
But when shall teach us when we look for thee?

The Queen's Highway.

A. W. Campbell, C. E., in the Municipal World, writes that a great deal must be taken into consideration before attempting to construct gravel roads. A capital distinction must be made between gravel that will pack under grave and rollers, and gravel which will not, due to a small proportion of clayey or earthy matter contained in the former which unites and combines the material together. Seaside and riverside gravel consisting almost entirely of rounded pebbles and shells, and all sizes, which easily move and slide upon each other, is unsuitable for a road covering unless other materials be mixed with it, while pit gravel usually contains too much earthy matter. The gravel for the top layer, at least, must be hard and tough, so that the wear will not pulverize it and convert it into dust and mud. It should be coarse, varying sizes, from one half to one and one half inches in largest dimensions; it should not be water worn and should contain enough sandy or clayey fragments to bind it together firmly. Pit gravel usually contains too much earthy material that it should be screened to render it entirely suitable for the surface layer for this purpose. Two wire screens will be necessary, one with the wire from one and one half to one and three fourth inches apart, while in the other they should not be more than one half to three fourth inches apart. The pebbles which do not pass the large screen are to be rejected, and if used should be broken up into small fragments while the earth, small gravel and sand that pass the smaller one, although not suitable for the road surface, will answer for a bed for the road material to prevent too rapid wear of the latter. In ordinary soils an excavation to the depth of ten or twelve inches and of the required width is made for the reception of the gravel. The surface of this excavation, level, or preferable, it may be arranged parallel to the finished road surface by sloping it from the center to the sides. A layer four inches thick of good coarse gravel, in a natural state, is first spread upon the roadbed, which is then thrown open to travel until it becomes tolerably well consolidated. The work may be hastened by using a cylindrical roller, two feet in diameter and a half to three feet long, and a half to three feet long, weighing one and a half to two tons. A better design is to have two such cylinders arranged in a frame, one behind the other, each being composed of two short cylinders, one and a half to three feet in length, placed abreast on the same axis. Gravel roads, carefully constructed in the manner herein described, will possess all the essential requisites of a good road.

Effect of Food on Milk and Butter.
Bulletin No. 80 has been issued from the Ontario Agricultural College containing the following practical points for farmers. The report says:

"During 1891 we conducted an experiment similar to the one here reported. 'The cows used in the experiment were six in number, divided into three lots—two cows in each lot. The general plan was to feed each lot for four weeks on one ration, feed the quantity and quality of the milk and butter, then change to another ration and feed for four weeks until each lot had been fed each ration for the same length of time. The rations were:

No. 1. Kowlage, 30 pounds; oat straw, 20 pounds; hay (cut), 10 pounds.
No. 2. Hay (cut), 20 pounds; linseed oil meal, 4 pounds; cottonseed meal, 5 pounds.
No. 3. Hay (cut), 20 pounds; peas meal, 4 pounds; oatmeal, 5 pounds; cornmeal, 8 pounds.

"For practical use I would not recommend either of the rations used in this experiment. No. 1, I consider deficient in too rich for our ordinary cows, as they did not appear to be able to digest and assimilate so much meal. I would also warn against feeding much more than 50 pounds of corn meal per day to cows weighing under 1,000 pounds. We have found the following ration to give good results: 50 pounds of corn ensilage, 6 pounds of hay, 4 pounds of bran, and 2 pounds of peas and oat meal mixed in equal proportions. If these latter be mixed two half pints, I would recommend the use of 2 pounds of cottonseed meal (in place of the bran or peas) per day to each cow, when it can be bought for about $30 per ton.

"Feed liberally, though not wastefully, bearing in mind that although the percentage of fat may not be increased by liberal feeding, the total amount of fat or butter may be largely increased by causing the cow to give a larger quantity of milk. Three things determine the value of a cow: the quality of her milk, the quantity she gives, and the economical use she makes of her food.

"During the hot weather buttermakers are frequently troubled with soft butter. This is largely due, in most cases, to improper handling of the milk, cream and butter, but there is a tendency during hot spells for the butter to be soft no matter what the care taken. From the experiments here reported I am led to believe that the addition of a small quantity of meal, especially cottonseed meal, has a tendency to make the butter firmer, or at four degrees centigrade. Last summer we fed about 1 pound per day to each cow, while at pasture, and our buttermakers inform me that they did not have a shilling of soft butter during the whole season. Why this is so is not clear, but it is not the cottonseed meal, I am not prepared to say, but I think it had something to do with it. In feeding cottonseed meal it should be mixed with bran, cut hay, or some grain meal."

THE HORSEMAN.

The trotting-bred horse of any special worth comes along at the rate of about 1 in 500, and the man not up in such matters, is about as apt to recognize his rare quality as he is to possess it by a colt as is the man in the moon. The breeding of draught and coach horses is a special work for the farmer, and results pretty uniformly in producing profitable and salable horses.

The harness should be adjusted so that it does not rest on the chest and the collar weight is looked after. This must be small enough so that it will not wobble and create sore, and large enough that the horse can easily breathe when the muscles are inflated and pressed against it. The collar does not properly fit the neck, by reason of a falling away in flesh; or, as is the case with some horses, whose flesh is easily irritated by friction, it is often advisable to have two sets of these pads in order to get them thoroughly dried out between times.

The driver who walks behind a plow team feels the necessity of repeatedly quenching his thirst as perspiration and exercise diminishes the bodily moisture, so that he often refreshes himself from the kept-cool water-jug. Now, a horse is not unlike a man in this regard, and he appreciates a moderately cool drink as well as his master. It is not a difficult matter to supply this want if the driver care enough for the comfort of his team to provide for it. A milk can or some sort of a barrel can easily be taken to the field on a stone-boat or in the wagon, and a few quarts of water to each horse once or twice during the half day will make excellent happy for the horse, and in hot days such attentions are simply acts of mercy.

Train the colts to the halter at weaning time, or before, and tie them in a comfortable stable every night regularly until they are turned out to grass next spring. This makes them easy to handle, and a little trouble, taken some time and a little extra trouble, will certainly pay if a man is raising decent grade colts. Of course where a large number of colts are raised it may be impossible to tie them all up every night unless an extra man is hired who is really needed for anything else, but most farmers can take the time to attend to the colts as they ought to and never miss it.

A halter-breaking horse is unsafe, and if the vice is once contracted it usually remains through life. The height of the manger and feed boxes should be adapted to the size of the colts, and the manger should be so arranged that the colts can reach it while he licks up the grain with his tongue. Of whatever material the floor of the stable be made it ought to be dry and kept constantly covered with a thick layer of straw. We talk of the doctrine of good breeding. We talk of feeding. We would do well also to preach and practice the doctrine of good shedding and good bedding. Nothing contributes more to a animal's comfort than a soft, dry bed.

While the idea that the colts must run out during the entire winter in stables and bare pasture so that they will make hardy, "tough" horses, has cost those who believe in it lots of money, and given them horses tough in the word of the word, the theory that the colts ought to be kept up in close box stalls or tied in a cold stable, or warm one either, for that matter, from fall till spring, deserves to be considered as a very bad one. The colts are not much money in a horse which is forced to stand in the first water on exercise and corn stalks; neither can a good colt be developed by keeping him tied up and stuffing with corn. The colts need exercise through the day, need the shelter of the night. The kind of shelter does not matter much so that it is comfortable.

The colts do not need especially warm shelter. He cares more for comfort than warmth. The stable or shed ought to have a good roof, which will not leak and allow water to drip through, and tight sides, in which there are no cracks to admit draughts of cold air. The doors should be hung so that they clear the ground and shut tightly. How quickly a man will grow if somebody leaves the door open and a bit of cold air strikes his back for a moment or two; yet he leaves the door of the cold stable two inches ajar during some of the coldest winter nights, because he is too lazy to clean away the snow or frozen mud from the bottom of it. The colts' halter ought to be of good leather, and made to fit him. The man who invented the miserable web and cheap rope halter did not know his honor. The colts' halter should be a puller and halter-breaker, and the second is hard and uncomfortable and frequently wears through the skin on top of the head and under the jaw, leaving raw sores, which are quite common when the halter is left on the colt day and night.
