Paris, Sept. 30.---An armistice Amsterdam, Sept. 30.-King Ferdinand of Bulgaria has telegraphed to Emhas been concluded between the peror Charles of Austria, assuring him of his loyalty to the Quadruple Allience, Allies and Bugaria on the Allies' according to the Neue Friele Presse, which is quoted in dispatches reaching own terms.

Bulgarian representatives have agreed to an armistice—probably the first step in Bulgaria's withdrawal from the alliance with the central powers—a few days less than three years after she entered the war on the side of Germany. It was on October 8, 1915, that Bulgaria issued a manifesto, announcing her decision to cast her lot against the Enterte alliance. She had been fifteen months in

In the manifesto issued at the time of her entrance into the ranks of the Clash Between Soldiers and belligerents, the Bulgarian Government declared that her trade interests and phomic rights, were inseparably bound up with Turkey, Germany and Austria.

It was added that Germany had offered Bulgaria in return for her neutrality, the whole of Macedonia, including Uskub, Monastir and Ochrida. A still greater territorial expansion at the expense of Serbia was said to have been offered as condition of active military assistance.

During the period of Bulgarian neutrality both the Entente alliance and the central powers have made offers to Bulgaria and Russia, who for years had protected Bulgarian interests sent an ultimatum to Bulgaria early in October, 1915. aria refused the Russian demands. The Bulgarian manifesto said that Bulgaria did not believe in the promises

Bulgarian troops invaded Serbia on October 13, 1915. Her entrance into the r led to the overrunning of Serbia, Montenegro and Albania by the armies of central powers. Bulgaria's joining the central powers was one of the reathat led Rumania to enter the war on the side of the Entente late in August

The population of Bulgaria was not unanimously in favor of Bulgaria joining Teutonic alliance. The Government took harsh measures against those op-ed to the war and those who were friendly to the Entente. Bulgaria was invaded by British troops at a point north of Saloniki, and on september 27 General D'Esperey, the Allied generalissimo, announced that he lad received from the Bulgarian Government a proposal that military operations be suspended, pending negotiations for an armistice. London, Sept. 30 .- British, American and Australian forces pushed forward last night on the front between Bellicourt and Gonnelieu, in the face of the severest opposition, Field Marshal Haig announced today.

Four thousand prisoners were taken by the Allies yesterday to the north of St. Quentin, and forty guns were captured there. British forces have entered the northern suburbs of Cambrai. On the front northwest of Le Catelet, German counter-attacks pressed the British back to the outskirts of Villers-Guislain, while to the southwest of Le Catelet similar pressure sent Field Marshal Haig's troops back to the edge of the village of Bony. Th text of the statement reads: "In the operations yesterday north of St. Quentin the Midland Division alone took 4,000 prisoners and forty guns.

Interesting and appealing letters accompany the rush of Advertiser coal coupons to this office. One of those received today is one which not only makes some interesting points, but drives home the contention of numerous people that the city should see that there is an equitable distribution of the available fuel supply. This letter, written by a Piccadilly street woman, is interesting:

be relieved a little it would lessen much suffering."

Soldier's Wife Suffered.

"I do hope I will be able to get coal better than I did last winter," writes a mother of five children, whose husband has been in France three years and four months. Day after day last winter she, with one of her children, lugged home a bag of coal that they might keep the others warm. Many days she returned with the bag empty. "My husband is a man 74 years of age, and not able to work all the time," writes an aged woman. "I am a 33rd Battalion veteran, and lost one of my arms. I have a wife who is far from strong, and an infant babe," writes a soldier. Both are without coal.

These appeals are only a few of those received. The Advertiser has 244 such appeals to date. Over 80 per cent of them are from people without a pound of coal in their cellars.

SEVEN YEARS GIVES UP HIS PASTORATE

LONDON SOLDIER Rev. W. M. Walker Tenders His Resignation.

HAS HELPED PROGRESS

And Has Been Active in the Work of the Bible Society.

Rev. W. M. Walker, pastor of the Wortley Road Baptist Church, the minister of longest standing continuously in one charge in the city, tendered his resignation at the evening service on Sunday. Mr. Walker came to London 27 years ago from Barrie, where he had been pastor for nearly five years after taking his theological course in McMaster University, following his graduation from Toronto University.

Quiet, unassuming, and reticent, Mr. Walker's choice has always been to keep his own personality in the background. Notwithstanding this fact, however, he has won the admiration and regard of people of all denominations. By brother ministers, he has been beloved and esteemed for his high idealism, his scholarliness and his deep spirituality. In leaving the Wortley Road Church, an exceptionally close tie is being broken between a pastor and his people. He has been with his congregation so long that he has become a part of the members' lives.

PTE. R. E. STEWART, son of R. B. Stewart of Elmwood avenue, has been admitted to Gironde Hospital, France, suffering from pneumonia, according to official word received by his father on Sunday. Pte. Stewart enlisted with the 135th Battalion when only 16 years of age, appearing older because of his excellent physique. When overseas, he was transefrred to a forestry battallon, with which he has served up to the time of his illness. During the years of his pastorate, a fine new church has replaced the old Wortley Road building. In addition to ministering to the congregation, Mr. Walker has found time for many outside activities in which his assistance has been of great value. He has been for several years a director and vice-president of the Western Ontario Branch of the Bible Society in the work of which he is deeply interested, and has also been a member of the board of the charities organization. MEN ALL IN HIGH SPIRITS Either Side.

Yesterday was the Feast of St. Michael and the fifth anniversary of St. Michael's R. C. Church, in the north end of the city. Bishop M. F. Fallon addressed a capacity congregation in the church last evening, when the anniversary, as well as the feast day of the patron saint of the church and that of the bishop, was fittingly marked. The bishop's sermon was much the same as that delivered in St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday, September 15. It was an outline of the pope's position in the war. rives, but into that day, when men snall see him as he is."

A short address was also given by the minister, Rev. D. C. MacGregor, and a fine musical program rendered, including choruses, a duet by two boys, a solo by Bert Thomas, representing the Chinese class.

Accused of Being Partisan of German, Bishop Fallon quoted the pope as saying.

Impartial. Not Neutral.
Bishop Fallon declared that the pope was impartial, "not a neutral mind." He does not close his eyes to untruths, dishonor and criminality, but holds the scales even and impartial. For 350 years there has not been a stone on the way-side that people have not been ready to cast at him."
"Today," said the bishop, "we are asking the pope to side with us. The pope says: If you want me to judge, let me take the position of a judge, let me take the position of a judge. Don't come and ask me offhand to decide in your favor. Remember that for 350 years you would not recognize me." declared Bishop Fallon, "a man the war.

During his remarks last night, Bishop Fallon, while sticking to the main theme of his sermon, embellished considerably some of the points made in his previous sermon. Only in one particular did he digress. That was in regard to the pope's stand in the war. He lai dspecial emphasis on this point and went into the matter more fully.

Alleges Misrepresentation. ticular did he digress. That was in regard to the pope's stand in the war. He lai dspecial emphasis on this point and went into the matter more fully.

Alleges Misrepresentation.

Bishop Fallon said that today, as in the last 350 years, the pope was the subject of insult, calumny and misrepresentation. One could hardly take up a paper, magazine, or listen to a public address, without finding something in sulting, reviling or misrepresenting the pope. The campaign, which he described as "absolutely and decidedly ignorant." he declared to have been "devised in darkness and carried on in the light. It was cieverly concealed. It was being worked in the countries called the Allies', and also in the enemy lands. "I mentioned the fact to the pope, said Bishop Fallon. "I told him that in England and France, among the troops of the Allies, the Canadians, Australians, British and French, they all said "The pope is against us."

"I might add." said the bishop, "that the only answer I ever made, and this particularly to the Englishmen, who pride themselves on their honor, was: "I would then point out that they prided themselves on their honor, as gentlemen, and then inform them that the pope is a gentleman.

"The pope asked me if I would like to see in parallel columns what the English, French and German papers were saying about him." Bishop Fallon said that the pope then the English and French papers showed that he was all German or pro-Austrian, while in all the Gérman papers he was all French.

"The two mutually destroy each limit of the polaintiff, and limit in the two mutually destroy each limit of the polaintiff, and Graydon & Graydon have the case for Gootson.

PRESENT GERMANY IS "IMPOSSIBLE" IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Wilfrid Laurier Wants War Banned Forever.

DEFINES TRUE DEMOCRACY

[Special to The Advertiser.] MONTREAL, Sept. 29. - Before the fifth Sunday Meeting Association of Canada, 'and in the presence of upwards of four thousand people, who packed St. Denis Theatre and overpacked St. Dems Theater and out flowed the aisles, Sir Wilfrid Laurier tonight set forth, in the course of a speech lasting for over an hour, his gospel as to the relations of the nations after the war, and as to the relations of the people which formed these nations for the years to come. A league of nations, which at first might only comprise the present Entente, Great Britain, France, Italy, Deigium, Serbia, and—last, but by no means least—the great democracy of the United States, to be complete and utterly prevent—war must leave no great nation excluded would be the proper method for the banishing of war forever from the earth.

No Faith in Germany.

"With all my heart," he declared, "I subscribe to that doctrine. There should be a league of nations, so that war may forever disappear from the land. I have no doubt that as soon as the war is finished there will be a league of nations between the Entente as it is today. It will be a powerful league. But such a league, powerful as it may be, cannot stop war altogether, so long as there is a great power flowed the aisles, Sir Wilfrid Laurier it may be, cannot stop war altogether, so long as there is a great power which will not be bound by the laws of nations, and will not respect the sanctity of treaties, and such a power is the power of Germany as she is at the yery moment."

the very moment."
Labor and Capital.

cause each was indispensable to the other.

"I have to say," he declared frankly, "that up to the present between the working classes and other classes of the community there have been more clashes than union. There should be more harmony. If the relations between capital and labor have not been as cordial as they should be. I blame capital more than I blame labor. Reforms have been won, it may be said, from a resisting capital. It may be said that they were hard to win."

Use of Violent Means.

"On the other hand, speaking as free men to free men, too often violent have been the methods used to secure these reforms. You may say that the ends could not have been securing saving by violence; but I do not turn my eyes to the dark past. I turn my eyes upon the dawn which, I think, I see already reddening the hills. Capital and labor must walk hand in hand. They are indispensable to one another. We are working for democracy, and democracy means peace and harmony between man and man.

The day upon which I could close my eyes with delight would be the day when I could see a league of nations, consisting of France, my native land, of Great Britain, whence I have drawn my inspiration throughout my political life, of Italy and of the American republic, which has been the beacon of democracy, whose flame has always risen high to heaven. That would indeed be a day on which to rejoice. It would be an example not for the nations only, but for individuals, that is the ideal I hold up to my fellow-countrymen."

A Great Reception.

The organization, whose guest of the organization, whose guest of the organization, whose guest of the organization to free relations only, but for individuals, that is the lideal I hold up to my fellow-countrymen."

A Great Reception.

The organization whose guest of the prevention of the relations only, but for individuals, that is the lideal I hold up to my fellow-countrymen."

A Great Reception.

The organization, whose guest of honor Sir Wilfrid war, and of which he was last night elected the first honorary honor Sir Wilfrid war, and of which he was last night elected the first honorary member, comprises representatives of all the railway brotherhoods and organizations of Canada, and the bulk of the audience tonight was English-speaking. Loud and prolonged applause greeted his entering; his address was punctuated plentifully by applause, and the motion of thanks tendered to him at the close was passed with a thunder of cheering which filled the vaulted theatre. He was introduced by Chairman Woodworth of the association, and by Mayor Mederic Martin, to whose address he replied brifly and wittily in French. The remainder of his speech was in English, and seldom has he been seen in finer form.

A Champion of Labor.

In the nature of concrete proposals he found that most of the program laid out in the constitution of the association "appealed to his liberal tastes." He favored old age pensions, or insurance as a solution of certain pathetic conditions, which, he declared, should not exist in a courtry like Canada. Labor, he declared, should be effectively represented in all legislative bodies of the Dominion.

"T agee altogether on that principle," he declared, "The Parliament of Canada should be a perfect mirror of the population of Canada. Workingmen, businessmen, professional men, all classes without exception, ought to be represented; all opinions, not even excepting conservative opinion. I want them alls-Conservative, Tory, Nationalist, all the extremists. I want them represented in the Parliament of Canada and let the best man win.

Women must organize as well, because now they are voters, or will be as soon as this beautiful "wartime election act" is shelved, as we hope it will be in the near future; and, mind you, every ignorant voter is a menace to the freedom of our land — women should organize and learn how to vote. From whom shall they learn? Here is a plan: Let every community club choose the best informed of its numbers for secretary, and then let the community clubs be merged into township organizations whose secretaries are chosen for like reason; the township into county and the county into provincial, and the provincial into dominion organizations. Let the knotty points be passed until an answer is found.

It is an honor rather than otherwise to wear the "uniform."

PLAIN TALK FROM THE PRESIDENT.

Austria's invitation to a conference, Presi- time a cardinal defect in the system. dent Wilson has struck another hard blow at the central powers' peace offensive. There can be no misunderstanding of the following statement made to a gathering of Liberty Loan workers at New York

"Peace is not a question," declared the president, "of coming to terms, for we cannot come to terms with them, as they have made it impossible.

"Peace must be guaranteed, for there would be parties to the peace whose promises have proved untrustworthy, and means must be found in connection with the peace settlement to remove that source of insecurity.

"It would be folly to leave the guarantee to the subsequent voluntary action of the governments we have seen destroy Russia and deceive Rumania."

These words should demolish Berlin's hopes of a bargain-counter peace. The president makes May he live that long. it clear-and he speaks as much for the entire Entente as for the United States—that the Allied nations do not consider that the central powers have a case. Therefore there can be no bartering, no compromise, no give-and-take. There is but one issue, the making of the world safe from a repetition of the present catastrophe, and the record of the central powers absolutely cuts them off from any terms save such as the Allies choose to inflict. There is a fine frankness about the president's words. He tells the enemy baldly he cannot be trusted to carry out any engagement or pact. The "scrap of paper" policy of Germany has definitely placed her apart from decent, honprable peoples, an outlawed, untrustworthy na-

The president insists that guarantees will have to be supplied to insure the security of peace when a settlement is reached, but just what he would consider a guarantee that the central powers would not resume their plottings is not stated. It may be that Mr. Wilson had in mind a promise to carry out just peace conditions signed by a body of Germans truly representative of the masses of the people. Once before he put this forward as an essential part of a peace settlement, but since that time the masses of the German people have repeatedly approved the deceit and ruthlessness practiced by their leaders. It is more than likely that the president now realizes that the only way in which the Germans can be prevented from making a fresh attempt at world domination is to take from them their military power. With his armies permanently demobilized, his navies taken over by a league of nations and the Krupp plants razed or given over to industrial purposes, the Prussian will be impotent. This with some degree of economic control is the only guarantee that is worth considering. It is the one certain security against the further slaying and enslaving of nations. Mr. Wilson is simply repeating what he and the other Entente leaders have said distinctly and frequently-that Prussia must be treated as we treat a madman, placed in a position where it is impossible to do further mischief. If there are any sane, reasonable men left amongst the rulers of Germany Mr. Wilson's latest word should show them the futility of their peace drive.

THE DEFECT IN THE SYSTEM.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: We were so pleased to read in last evening's Advertiser your plea for the dear women and chil-dren who are threatened with starvation on account of the wicked judge condemning their poor husbands to long imprisonment. This old-fashioned policy of law and order is played out. Why should a person be punished for helping himself to something his neighbor has in abundance while he has none? Why should one person have everything while the poor workingman—with a wife and children and "dear baby"-is punished for a trifling matter of helping himself from the stores of his rich neighbor's plenty.

We congratulate you on the stand you taken on behalf of the poor laboring man, and, although many of your readers are very displeased and threaten to stop advertising, etc., we trust you will still press on in a good cause. The London people are so hard-hearted. They would certainly stand by and see those women and their little ones starve and freeze. That unjust judge must feel rather small when he sees the big headlines and attractive type of your wise and just criticism. Let the men go free, I say, and so long as they do not steal from you or me give them a free hand.

The world's goods are not divided fairly anyhow.
Sincerely yours, DUM VIVIMUS VIVAMUS.

That fateful August day, When Belgium's soul arose in flame To show the world the way! -Arthur Hobson Quinn in the Philadelphia Public Ledge

THE FIRST

When the blood of the first of Belgium's sons Flowed out from his wounded side, Then the horror of war sat with my soul

And could not be multiplied! The millions have fallen since that grey day, But for me the foul thing was done, When he fell and the earth was stained with crime He died-and it needed but one!

When the first child pierced by the Prussian steel Sobbed prone on its mother's breast, Then the horror of war sat with my soul For the ages made manifest!

The thousands have perished since that child died, But the first was the sum of them all, The first child that died felt the pain of its wound-Kill one-and for me kill them all!

When the first tears coursed down a maiden's face, And an agony clutched at her breath,

Then the horror of war sat with my soul, And thousands have gone to a frightful fate,
Since she trod the paths of blood,

Yet the curse on her life was a sign to me-Betrayed!-all the sisterhood! When the first cross was struck and a figure fell,

As the march of Huns rolled on, Then the horror of war sat with my soul, And I called to that Only Son, "You gave a word to the thief who was nailed a post that stood closely by, What of those who have made a God of their lust, Senses Are Unrellable. Fever does not arise if the central stations, such as the gland juices or the brain fibres, send quick and securate messages back and forth to balance the output and the manufacture of heat. If the balance heaven "the property is" and output and the manufacture of heat. If the balance between "thermotaxis" and "the megenesis" is swittly and precise-ly mintained there is no rise of tem-perature; that is to say, no fever. But this balance may be re-established at a wrong point, several degrees above the standard. This is what happens when a fever is present and holds a steady course. Such a fever is at a false standard.

The proof of man's unreliability as a judge without instruments is well illustrated in a myriad of ways, one of which has to do with the sensation of heat. This is dependent upon the skin. If the surface of the skin is warm you say that you feel warm. The glow produced by alcohol supplies you with such a false impression. What you actually perceive, however, is the flux of heat from the interior of your tissues to the an eventful year, taxing all their powers of acumen and ingenuity. A child born on this day will be clever, industrious, but impulsive and hasty. It should be schooled in the virtues of discretion, deliberation and conservatism.

The real meaning of the word "home" is not understood by the Japanese. There is nothing homely in a Japanese house. By the shifting of a few shut-bers it can be thrown open to the four winds of heaven; and, although the greatest care is taken to keep the woodwork and matting spotlessly clean, a man is far prouder of the possession of a few yards of garden than of the noblest palatial residence without a tree or a shruh.

Solving the Problem of Finding a Suitable Frock For a Woman Who Needs Individual Styles.

There are two essentially different broidered in twist cord of Pompeian red. The beit is made of this same cord with tassel of the same color. A unique style selection. One is the woman of standardized figure. She may or may not be perfectly proportioned, but the tassels are flat, square and rather heavy instead of the conventional round ones.

standardized figure. She may or may not be perfectly proportioned, but the outlines of her figures are like one of the half-dozen or more typical figures that one sees.

That type of woman looks well in everything modish. Be she tall or short, she nevertheless seems to conform to some standard mould. She usually is the type that can easily adjust her hair to the changing demands of fashion and with equal ease adopt the most recent caprice of fashion as regards carriage, hang of shoulders or swing of veil and scarf. She is invariably "well dressed" or "stylish," according to the point of view of her observer.

The tasssets are the conventional round beavy instead of the conventional round ones.

Kimono sleeves have a curious medallion of an Oriental-shaped motif in the Pompelan red. The upper portion of the sleeve is quite tight, but the second half is full and almost bell-shaped. It is finished at the wrist with a narrow elastic, which is then turned under the sleeve and hidden. A narrow panel of the tricotine depends from the waist both in front and back, and is finished with a deep fringe of the Pompeian red cord. There is something of the mediaeval simplicity in this frock which makes it exceedingly suitable to the woman with classic features or artistic personality.

with equal ease adopt the most recent caprice of fashion as regards carriage, hang of shoulders or swing of veil and scarf. She is invariably "well dressed" or "stylish," according to the point of view of her observer.

But there's another class that's not so easy to assist in the choice of a frock—the woman who does not conform to any of the standardized groups of figures. There are a large number of such women, and when they wear so-called "stylish" clothes they invariably look "ready-made." Sometimes they are slim young things, colorless and timid of bearing. Or they may be large of figure, but not well proportioned.

Now, madame considers it an artistic crime to permit these latter women to encase themselves in some particular new and fashionable model just because "they" are wearing it. Women seem peculiarly content sometimes to bury their individuality underneath many casings of unbecoming raiment, just because it is in the height of fashion or casings of unbecoming raiment, just be-cause it is in the height of fashion, or, worse yet, they observed a similar cos-tume look exceedingly well on some other worse.

worse yet, they observed a similar costume look exceedingly well on some other woman.

Every woman really ought to study herself so that she knows permanently whether she can carry off contemporary stylish clothes without sinking her personality or whether she ought to confine herself to strictly individual styles. A woman's personality is made or killed by her clothes, and sometimes just a little care in selection will make all the difference in the world between a paie or dominating personality.

Good Belting Service in Hard Places

TMPROVED service and L lower belting costs have come wherever Goodyear Extra Power Belting has been installed in hard places-on drives exposed to the heat of furnaces, the live steam of engine rooms, the variable atmosphere around a lumber mill, or the outdoor conditions of a thresher outfit.

In the Wallaceburg plant of the Dominion Sugar Company, for example, there is a Goodyear Extra Power Belt that has won for itself an unusual record-and firm friends.

For it has solved a difficult belting problem. It has overcome conditions under which other belts and other types of belting have failed completely. Even under normal conditions the service this belt has yielded would be welcomed in many plants to-day.

Read the brief statement given us by Mr. F. W. Gonyan, their Chief Engineer:

"This belt is 46 ft. 4 in. of 7 in. x 8 ply Extra Power and runs on Screw Conveyor Drive. Load variable. Belt always exposed to live steam. A special ... wouldn't start the drive; another type of belting lasted one week; .... unsatisfactory-

---Extra Power has run one year and has never been touched."

Similar testimonials have come to us from every province in Canada, proving that such troublefree service is not exceptional that on exposed drives such as this, Goodyear Extra Power Belting is wi ning a Dominion-wide reputatic a.

For example, duplicating the above statement of Engineer Gonyan, we have received the following from E. C. Farber, of the Beaver River Lumber Co., County Line, B.C.

"The conveyor belt runs direct from a small engine to the conveyor drive and is a six inch, six ply Extra Power Belt. It is subject to steam and heat in the engine room and to cold and dampness on the outside. Although it has been in use for a period of five months now under these conditions, there is no sign of deterioration and there is no slippage."

Backing up these two testimonials comes this verdict from J. Mahhon & Sons, Calgary, who use Goodyear Extra Power on their threshing outfit:- "Your Extra Power Belt is as good now is when the season commenced, and we had the hardest threshing we have I ad as long as we have been threshing."

Belting that gives good service and lower costs under abnormal atmospheric conditions is surely a better belt for all ordinary drives. The Goodyear Belting man has a big story to tell you. He's a man trained to discuss belting problems. Perhaps he may help you. His service or ours involves no obligation. Phone or write the nearest

"A little over a year ago," he continued, "I suffered from a bad case of la grippe that pulled me down till I was hardly fit for a thing. I lost my appetite and what little I managed to force down soured on my stomach and felt as hard as a lump of lead in me, and I was miserable night and day. Reasons for Gratitude Set Forth by Ministers.

Harvest thanksgiving services and in Christ Church on Sunday Halvest thanksgiving services were held in Christ Church on Sunday. The morning service was conducted and the sermon preached by Rev. J. W. J. Andrews of Holy Trinity Church, St. Thomas. Basing his sermon on the words: "He took the cup and gave thanks." St. Luke, 22: 17, he showed that in view of the cross of death on the following day, Jesus Christ had cause to give God thanks, for in looking through and beyond the sorrow and sagrifice of the present he saw redemption and glorious liberty for an ensisted world. slaved world.

The Daily Paper.

In addition to these there were moral and spiritual institutions which governed lives and gave such an enviable opportunity and position. The art of printing and its development of the daily newspaper was one of immense value. It informed the reading public of the doings of the whole world. The one great reason Russia fell was her inability, through ignorance, to get information spread abroad of the principles of her allies and the faithfulness of Great Britain, nine-tenths of her people being unable to read, made it impossible to let her millings here were moral.

The educational facilities of Canada and the British Empire at large were another great blessing. The courts of law, where man with man could have his claims adjusted equitably, was another institution like the foregoing, which is not of present-day growth, but is a heritage from our ancestors. LILLIAN GISH and HENRY WALTHALL in D.W. GRIFFITH'S . The Great Love? An ARTCRAFT Picture Showing at the Majestic today, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Lillian Gish, who portrays the role of Susie in "The Great Love," makes her initial appearance under Arteraft auspices in this photoplay. Miss Gish has been a star n motion picture work for several years and her winsome personality and talent have won for her a large and enthusiastic screen following. Her most recent appearance was in Mr. Griffith's great war picture, "Hearts of the World," shown during fair week at the Majestic. Miss Gish appears in "The Great Love" as a young Australian girl, who lives in England and loves an American soldier and who eventually finds "the great love" in the service of her country and the cause of the world democracy. Her characterization is said to be unusually effective and with the portrayals of Robert Harron, as her sweetheart, and Henry B. Walthall, as an unscrupulous British baronet, who seeks to win her for he money, forms an artistic combination seldom seen in motion pictures.

"Perhaps one illustration will help to do this. In the modern board of trade, which is what London will have at the end of this campaign, the officers and directors are literally the servants of the members; it is a misnomer to speak of them as the governing group.

Mr. Foster said last night he had been asked by many persons just what is contemplated by the expansion and had prepared a class of business.

Interest Needed.

"This is the best kind of a start we could possibly make. In fact, if we could not feel at the outset that every citizen of London was interested in the building of a worth-while board of trade, it would not be worth the time these men are giving and are going to give to undertake it.

"As an outsider, I may perhaps be permitted to say that the only criticism I have encountered of the present board of trade is that it has been too small, and that its activities have been in the hands of too few men. The obvious answer to this is that the critics did not become members and then endeavor to correct what they regarded as a footh."
