30 DAYS JAIL FOR BRUTAL City To Ask Earl Haig To Arrange Stop-Over In London

Harold Woodhouse of Manor Park Sentenced to 30 Days in Juvenile Court.

BOY BEATEN WITH STROP

Children's Aid Society Applies For Custody of Abused

For brutally beating his eight-yearold son with a razor strop because the boy disregarded orders not to go in swimming, Harold Woodhouse of Manor park was sentenced to 30 days in the common jail by Judge G. Q. Warner in juvenile court this under the Children's Protection act.

The boy was lashed with a leather strop which bore metal strips on the end. He was beaten from his neck to the lower part of his back. His injuries necessitated removal to the Children's Shelter, where he received medical attention.

medical attention.

He was told by his father a week ago last Sunday that he must not go in swimming. The lad paid no heed to the parent's orders, however, and proceeded to bathe at the Coves.

First Move To Enforce Luxury Levy Locally Brings Widespread Protests.

FIGHT ORGANIZED

Widespread protests and charges of provincial government discrmination this morning greeted the first official move to enforce the new luxury tax on bottled beverages. Grocers, soft drink manufacturers and distributors, and soda fountain proprietors have joined in opposing the latest luxury levy, and plans were laid today to organize and aid the Ontario retail grocers' association in fighting the tax. Pads of quarter-cent luxury stamps were delivered personally to dozens of retailers, and they were advised that each bottle must be stamped when a sale is made. Failure to comply with regulations makes the offender liable to a fine of from $10 to fender liable to a fine of from $10 to $100 for the first offence.

An advantage which the American fivers will have will be in the greater gasoline carrying capacity of their planes. Their reserve supplies will give them a considerably greater radius than that of the Amundsen there and will exhell them to do considerable scouting and to take careful observations before risking a descent. This Amundsen was un-able to do. With his limited gasoline able to do. With his limited gasonine supplies, he had only one shot at the pole—and with the aberrations of his compass it was almost a shot in the dark. While it is true that he was equipped with a solar compass, which he says performed satisfactorily, this could have given him only a general direction, and he lacked the minute and elaborate preparations for aerial observations which Commander Byrd

Still another superiority of the American equipment is the third plane. This will allow much more latitude in approach by relays and more sustained flying efforts.

Shearer in the film Waking Up the Town, showing at Loew's for the first half of this week. The transition from fiapper to housewife is one which few actresses could carry out quite so well as Miss Shearer. She and Jack Pickford star in the film, which is crammed with action, thrills and laughs.

Back in New York the man yields to the blandishments of a young heiress, who was instrumental in financing his mining venture and who aided in making the tital marriage a failure. The actress returns to the stage, where she is co-starred with her mother. A natural maternal jealousy is overcome and the mother succeeds in uniting the girl and the young mining engineer.

The play represents an intimate character analysis of the inhabitants of any small American town. Jack is shown in the role that fits him best, that of a serious-minded youth so reticient and bashful that he is unable to "sell himself" to influential persons who easily could utilize the ideas he submits and therewith add to their own glory and wealth and at the same time start Jack on the road to success

SMITH ADVOCATES KING ST. SITES

New Police Station and Central Fire Hall Would Be Well Located.

King street sites for a new police depot and a new central fire station are advocated today by Ald. Edwin Smith, chairman of the town planning commission. Ald. Smith declares the time not ripe to discuss city hall sites and that the town planning commission is not likely to discuss city hall in their 1925 general report on planning.

The northeast corner of Wellington and King streets is recom-mended by Ald. Smith as the ideal site for a new central fire station. King street provides a fine open ar-tery connecting the east with the south and west and central parts of the city. It is a block away from the street car lines, is well paved and is usually not bothered by the main stream of traffic east and west. Ceremony at Hospital Will Precede Great Memorial Service.

Prior to the service which will be overseas, a special little ceremony ness? will take place in Victoria hospital in memory of the London nurses whose lives were sacrificed in the great war.

This preliminary service takes place at 4 o'clock and is being ar-ranged under the Local Council of Women, as in the case of the big ser-vice at night. At this hour, a group of women will visit the hospital and place a wreath beneath a shining tablet there, bearing three names of London nurses who lost their lives in the service of their country— Nursing Sister Agnes MacDougall. Nursing Sister Henrietta Mellett and Nursing Sister Catherine Maud Mac-donald, all Victoria hopital gradu-

Arrangements for this service at the hospital are in the hands of Mrs. A. T. Edwards and her committee. Mrs. John Rose, president of the Local Council of Women, and her executive are sending out special invitations for the great memorial service which is to be held in the evening and is open to the public. A special effort is being made to have representatives of the different women's organizations present—the I. O. D. E. with their standards, as well as medical men and clergy who served overseas, and relatives of the nursing sisters. The military and G. W. A. have been asked to lend their

The service is being held simulaneously with memorial services hroughout the Empire, and at the same time as the great memorial service in York Minster, England, when the Duchess of York will unveil a memorial window erected to the memory of the nursing sisters of the Empire by the International Council of Women.

The following clergy and doctors who served overseas are being sent special invitations to attend the memorial service on Wednesday: Major J. Bruce Hunter, who will of-ficiate at the service; Col. Wm. Beater of the evening; Dr. Stuart Fisher, shoes. Dr. Ivan Wilson, Dr. Roland Rey-nolds, Dr. Busby, Dr. McDermid, Dr. Edwin Seaborn, Dr. Steele, Dr. W. P. Tew, Dr. W. L. Can She Find Happiness in Marriage on the Installment Plan? Miss Seventeen, Who Wants to Elope.

Dear Miss Dix-I am going to marry a man whose business will take held in the First Union church to- him away from home from Monday meeting of the Provincial Chapter morrow night, in memory of the to Friday of each week. Another phase of the problem is law. What about that? A. H. K.

According to the old proverb, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," and you will have quite as good a chance of staying in love with your husband and keeping him in love with you, if would if it were a steady job.

The great trouble with matrimony is its monotony. It palls on men and women because it is the same deadly grind, year in and year out, and after a time they get fed up on

The real reason that so many married couples quarrel and arane over everything is because they are unconsciously rebelling against this everlasting same-ness, and are trying to put a little pep and ginger into the situa-

And the reason so many hus bands and wives fall out is because they are tired of each other. They see too much of each other. They have told each other everything on earth they know over and over again, and they bore each other to tears.

That is why a man will fall in love with some other woman not half as good-looking or attractive as his wife, and a woman will imagine tie, Captain Garbutt, G. O. > Undoubtedly, the great remedy for most domestic ills would be a part-time marriage, and for husbands and wives not to be together too much and you will achieve this in your Friday-to-Monday matrimonial arrange Long absences between husbands and wives are dangerous. Short ones promote marital happiness.

When a husband and wife are separated for a year, or for several ears, they get weaned from each other. They get accustomed to doother. They get accustomed to doing without each other. They form and ties and habits. They develop along different lines, and the danger along different lines, and the danger is that when they come together again they will be changed beyond the possibility of adjustment. But a short absence merely piques their short absence merely piques their week, was presented with a birthday interest in each other, and gives ring on behalf of the company. A

As for your living with your mother-in-law, whether that is a success or not depends principally on yourself. There is no more reason why you should not get along peaceably with her than with any other woman.

Please advise me.
"I WANT TO GO."

Answer: Don't do it, my dear. Don't ruin your life at 17 just because you are peeved with your Undoubtedly, you would hurt him, but you would hurt yourself a million times more.

Seventeen is so young. You have got three times, may be four times, seventeen years more to live, and if you make a fatal mistake now, think how long you have got to repent it. And, believe my child, you will make a mistake that you will bewail in sorrow and tears, if you make a secret marriage to a boy who can't even make a living for you.

In the first place, you are too young to marry at all. At 17 you are still a child, with a child's tastes and desires. You haven't the faintest idea of what sort of a husband you are going to want when you are grown up. There are ten chances to one that any boy you marry now you will be sick and tired of by the time you are 21.

Then, you have not had your playtime. You are not ready to settle down, and be tied to a house and babies. You want to dance, to run around, to have good times with the other boys and girls. Any girl is a ool who cuts herself out of this.

In the second place, a secret marriage is always a mistake. It always reflects on the girl, and leaves a little shadow on her name. Marriage is not a thing to be done in the dark. Those you are married on the installment plan so to speak, as you want the respect of their

"In His Quiet Moments"

A True Story

Always the life of the party everybody admires Ted Carruthers for his breezy good nature and winning personality. He is a real man through and through.

But in his quiet moments-

Poor Ted has his personal problem from which he cannot shake himself free when alone. A recent illness, the price of overwork, left his health impaired. The doctor says it is only a matter of time.

He now has only a few short years in which to provide for Mary and the children. What is he to do? He is not able to get life insurance and cannot save much more than $300.00 a year. In five years this will be but $1,500.00—not nearly Tis now he realizes just what it would have meant if he had insured when able, to provide for his wife an income of at least $100.00 a month ($1,200.00 a year) as long as she lived. At his age (35) $6.40 a week with the London Life would have guaranteed it, and worry would not now be further sapping his strength, killing any chance he may have had of recovery.

The future may easily be made safe for loved ones by insurance, and worry removed from those who have dependents.

That the Canadian Mother May Have Quick and Ready Information On Feeding Her Child BORDEN'S EAGLE BRAND MILK

In the following charts and data we provide the Canadian mother with the necessary information she may require for the use of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk for her child. You will note that the directions provide for a child from three days of age through until the child is 24 months old.

In addition to the directions for feeding Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, the mother should read carefully the suggestions which should be adopted in connection with the use of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk. The Borden Company Limited is proud of the fact that it has been helpful in the raising of many, many Canadian infants into sturdy boys and girls and men and women who are a credit to their country. For further information, do not hesitate to write direct to The Borden Company Limited—Montreal,

IMPORTANT.—In preparing feeding mixtures it is imperative that all utensils, bottles, nipples, etc., should be sterilized in boiling water before using. Use a dry spoon in removing contents from the can, and in measuring be careful to pour from can to spoon, allowing the milk in the spoon to level itself. Repeat this procedure with every spoonful measured, using the same spoon every time. This will insure accurate measurement and produce the best results.

DIET FOR CHILD DURING THE SECOND YEAR

Usually after the twelfth month, the mother should select a diet schedule. Every new article of food should be carefully prepared, and given at first in very small quantities. All meals are to be given regularly, with nothing between meals. With many children this expansion of the diet list is attended with considerable difficulty. They are thoroughly satisfied with milk, and refuse all other form of nourishment. In such cases, withhold the milk until the more solid articles of food have been eaten. If both are given at the same time, the child will prefer the milk and when he has finished drinking it he will refuse the solid food. The following diet schedule will permit the mother to select a suitable meal from the foods listed. It is never advisable to make a change in diet during very hot weather.

NOTE: One teaspoonful of EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK added to one ounce of boiled water results in a mixture equivalent in nutritive value to whole milk. Whenever the word milk appears in the following diet, EAGLE BRAND should be diluted accordingly.

7 A.M.—Oatmeal, barley, or wheat jelly, one to two tablespoonfuls in 6 or 8 ounces of milk. Stale bread and butter, or rusk and butter.

9 A.M.—The juice of one orange.

11 A.M.—Scraped rare beef, one to three tablespoonfuls, mixed with equal quantity of bread and moistened with beef-juice. Or a soft-boiled egg mixed with stale bread-crumbs; a piece of rusk and 6 or 8 ounces of milk.

3 P.M.— Beef, chicken, or mutton broth, with rice or stale bread broken into the broth. Six ounces of milk, if wanted. Stale bread and butter or rusk and butter. Many children at the above age will take and digest appleauce and prune pulp; when these are given, milk should be omitted.

6 P.M.-Farina, cream of wheat, wheatena (each cooked two hours). Give one to three tablespoonfuls, served with milk, or with butter and salt. A drink of milk. Rusk or stale bread and butter.

The following suggestions have proved to be helpful when properly used with bottle feedings, and they may be used in conjunction with Eagle Brand Condensed Milk.

Always pour the milk from the can into the spoon—allowing it to level itself but not run over. You can readily understand that by dipping the spoon into the can you get more than a level spoonful, because of the milk that would adhere to the bottom of the spoon.

When you have added the milk to the water stir thoroughly. This is important.

After opening, it is safe to leave the milk in the original can. We recommend that you cover the can tightly with an inverted cup, and keep it in a cool, clean place.

ORANGE JUICE

When baby is four months old, give one teaspoonful of strained orange juice, diluted with equal quantity of boiled water, once daily before feeding time. Gradually increase the amount until you are giving the strained juice of a half of an orange undiluted, once daily before feeding time. Orange juice may be continued until child is old enough to eat other fruits as well as oranges.

OATMEAL JELLY

When baby is five months old, add one teaspoonful of oatmeal jelly to each feeding. Gradually increase the amount until you are adding three tablespoonfuls of oatmeal jelly to each feeding. To make oatmeal jelly add four ounces of oatmeal to one pint of water; boil for three hours in a double boiler, and add enough water so when cooking is completed a thin paste will be formed. This while hot is forced through a strainer to remove coarser particles. When cold a semi-mass will be formed. Oatmeal jelly may be continued until child is old enough to eat well cooked whole cereals.

CONSTIPATION

Oatmeal water very often relieves this condition. To make oatmeal water add one heaping tablespoonful of oatmeal to one pint of water, and boil for three hours in a double boiler. This will make a little more than half a pint of thick gruel to which add one pint of water that has been boiled. After straining mixture through fine strainer, you should have a little more than a pint of whitish liquid. This should be used with each feeding instead of the plain boiled water. If you find that this makes bowels too loose, dilute oatmeal water with plain boiled water.

Barley or rice water may be used instead of oatmeal water. If necessary two to three drops of plain codliver oil may be given twice daily added to the morning and night

Give nothing but plain boiled water for twenty-four hours. Then start feeding with barley water, or rice water, to which has been added a little salt to improve the taste. If these feedings are retained, and bowel movements lessened, small amounts of very weak regular feedings may be started and gradually increased according to baby's condition. If your baby does not improve after trying the above suggestions, consult your doctor at once.

BARLEY WATER

Obtain the very best barley flour. Add one rounded tablespoonful to one pint of water. Boil for thirty minutes, strain; then add enough water to make one pint.

Add one tablespoonful of rice to a pint of water. Boil three hours, adding water from time to time so that you will have one pint of rice water at the end of the three

It is seldom necessary to use lime water with Eagle Brand Milk but should there be undigested particles of food in the bowel movements (which seem to be otherwise normal) or should there be vomiting of large curds shortly after feed-ing—or colic—it would be then advisable to try lime water. Obtain freshly prepared lime water at the Druggists, of which add 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls to each feeding.

COLIC OR VOMITING

These conditions may be due to over reding, or constipation. Reduce quantity of food and use constipation formula, or lime water formula, as given above.

Trouble Already

Yes, one June bride she made a pie, her husband went unto his bed. the pastry stuck unto his ribs and anchored like a chunk of lead.

A bride of early days in June has had a sad scene in her house, she's had a thing she didn't want, a rumpus with her brandnew spouse, and all because she started in by readin' chapters from a book, then startin' in to follow rules as how and what she'd start to cook.

She'd never made a pie before, her mother never showed her how, in fact if she had asked her to the girl would likely made a row. She knew that it was mixed and rolled and baked and cut for folks to eat, but heretofore she'd kept away from blushin' from the oven heat.

When she began to keep her house she figured out she'd have to start, and through the stomach of her man lay anchor hold upon his heart. So she went out and bought some flour.

put some bakin' powder in, and rolled the stuff upon a board and spread it edgeways in a tin. The stuffin' was put in on top just how it said within the book, she reckoned when she got that far her pie looked how good pie should look.

She put it in the oven then to make it bake like how it should, and figured by the smell it made as how that pie should be quite

He ate a helpin' like he should, and praised the dough unto the sky, quite pleased that he had wed a girl who'd made a bouncin' home-made pie. But he felt queer inside his vest, he groaned when he crawled into bed, the pie laid hard against his ribs and lingered like a lump of lead.

And when he groaned and took a pill and said as how she couldn't cook, she sobbed and hollered out that she had done accordin' to the book. And there's a coolness in that house, a sad event in married life, such things as cause a man to go and say cruel things unto his wife.

Ah, just one word unto such brides, come gather round and listen in, for these be words that you should heed just when you're ready to begin: "If you would cook a dish to please a he-man walkin' on two legs, you can't go wrong if you will cook such stuff as just plain ham and eggs."-ARK.

Negotiations Are Under Way To Establish Service From Port Stanley.

The spreading fame and popularity of Port Stanley, both on the Canadian and American side of Lake Erie. is evidenced by the opening of negotiations this week for the establishment of an air line between Cleveland and Port Stanley, to be operated on a scale comparable with the famous air line between Paris, France and old London.

Cleveland interests are closing an agreement for the lease of a section of beach property as a landing stage and within the next three or four weeks they expect to have their new service in operation.

The company, if its present plans are carried out, will employ a $90,000, five-passenger machine on the Port Stanley-Cleveland route, and will undertake to maintain a dependable schedule summer and winter for pandling commercial passenger traf fic and light express.

The machine, a brand new one, nov being completed in the plant tha produces the London-Paris passenger produces the London-Paris passenger planes, is unusually powerful, and capable of sustained high speed. LEAD SOON FADES

Mike Baker's Braves took the first f the series with Kitchener yesterday by an 8 to 4 count-a long, drawn-out Connie Fields, working his first came for over a week, won handily and although the Colts opened up a rally in the ninth for five of the dozen nlows they achieved and scored two runs, it produced no chills of apprenension among the customers. Fields hurled nice ball and the team fielded well behind him.

The Londoners got only one more safety than the visitors. but were aidd and abetted by ten walks and a hit batsman. From Knotty down, the Colts seemed to feel somewhat downcast and depressed, but should be themselves today. Even the early part of the affray didn't-tend to perk up the Colts, though they enjoyed a two-run lead from the time they trotted in from the field in the first inning until the Londoners overtook it about 4:33 minutes after that. Chuck Nossett, who started to chuck them around for the Colts, only lasted into the third inning. Three runs were over and two on base in the third when Nossett made the first man out. Schueper a new southpaw whom Knotty trotted out from somewhere, pitched acceptably after that. The Tees got seven hits off him, even though ha is a southpaw, and these were good for three additional runs. seemed to feel somewhat downcast and him, even though ha is a southpaw and these were good for three additional runs.

A walk to Beatty with two gone in the first round started to gum up things for Fields, as Knothe dropped a short single into left and Keating and Knapp both singled, sending in two runs. Fields shut the Colts out without a hit in five frames after that, the visitors breaking out only in the fourth to get three blows but no runs.

Nossett walked the first two to face him, and Stimpson moved them on with a sacrifice. Cross' long sacrifice fly scored Baker. Vermilyear also scored when Deloof let Loepp's good peg get through him. Brower doubled after that, the only extra base hit of the game, and Sandquist drew a walk, but Kernan was outed by Knothe.

Nossett settled down in the second but the Tees' bats unsettled him again in the third. Cross singled to open it Brower bunted, and as Knapp let Beatty's toss roll on to the outfield, the runners took second and third. Both tallied on Sandquist's single to left. Sandy making second, from where he could injure knotty's feelings. Scheuper walked Fields, but Loepp, coming fast for Baker's fly; pegged straight to the plate while in full flight to complete a double killing that helped out considerably. Two brilliant catches after long runs by Loepp turned back the Tees in the fourth when two were still on base.

Again, with the irons, it is frequently necessary to impart backspin to the ball in order to stop it within a certain radius. And the lie of the ball naturally makes for harder hitting.

THE ADVANTAGES OF THE STICKS.

Constantly it is being deplored that the bunt, base stealing and other smart plays of baseball are disappearing from the major leagues. With the new fast ball, the managers insist on hits. It is almost impossible to bunt with the lively ball, it's been found. Stealing is going nto the discard because dependence upon a hit is emphasized on every major league ball club.

Yet in the minors they still depend on both the bunt and base Not so much dependence upon the stick in the sticks.

* * * * DOC CRANE BOOTS ONE.

W. O. McGeehan writes: Despite my horror of what the boys might call carping criticism of brother newspaper worker, I cannot help inviting attention to opening of one of Dr. Frank Crane's essays in the New York Journal.

When you knock a ball over the fence in baseball you are out "There are certain bounds or rules that inclose every game. You must keep inside of those bounds. If you do not you stop the game." There are, as the good Doc says, bounds or rules that inclose every game. This applies even to the writing game. The bounds in the writing game should mean that the writer should keep within the scope of sub-game should mean that the writer should keep within the scope of subjects concerning which he knows something. A good rule is "Never write on something of which you know nothing."

Can it be that the good Doc, whose business is writing on sterling Americanisms, never has seen an exhibition of the great American game? This particular essay sounds very much as though he had not. The Doc has not even seen Babe Ruth. That is clear. For the Babe in one year knocked the ball out of the lot fifty-nine times. Not once did this put the Babe out, and not once did it delay the game. In fact, every baseball player in the world is earnestly endeavoring every tim he gets a bat in his hand to knock the ball over the fence.

The essay of Dr. Crane concludes: "Doc Cook thought that he could fool the world. When he knocked the ball over the fencesby sending in crooked reports from the north pole he kept on running."

Like Doc Cook, Doc Crane seems to have knocked the ball over the fence. I hope that he will not keep running. It was a foul ball.

City League Solons Settle Hermit-Alert Squabble.

The softball game between the Hermitage club and Alerts last week, which was won by the former and protested by the latter team, was ordered replayed by the softball protest complayed by the softball protest committee vesterday.

The Alert management submitted a statement to the effect that Umpire Earbour, at the plate, without being asked for a decision, over-ruled base umpire Whise on a play at third. The runner, "Corker" Legs, advanced from second on a passed ball, and was called out for interference. The Aert management of the second out for interference. agement says there was no interference as the throw to third was high, and as the throw to third was high, and he had the base easily. Base umpire White stated in a deposition that he called the runner safe, but that his decision was over-ruled by Barbour. The run would have scored, as a triple came right after the decision and this would have given the game a different complexion.

The Hermitage secretary said the protest was not being defended, and the committee accordingly ruled that the game be replayed.

Fred Walker and George Tambling were added to the protest committee at the request of the city softball league executive.

This morning's local market was a great strawberry session, over 7,000 boxes being presented for sale. The price dropped to 18c and 20c wholesale and 20c to 22c retail. It is most likely that this will be the last day that strawberries will be offered on the square in large quantities, owing to the lack of rain.

Green peas were a little easier. The price asked was 45c to 50c a quart.

Two loads of oats made their appearance for the first time in a good while. Dealers also received a carload, which helped to relieve the shortage. The price asked for oats was $1.75 per bushel.

Grain Markets

Canadian Press Despatch Winnipeg June 22.-The lack of export buying and continued favorable

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, June 23.—Owing largely to an unexpected advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool, the wheat market here took an early upward swing today. There were also advices at hand telling of too much rainfall in some sections where harvesting of winter wheat is in progress. Opening prices, ½c to 13½c up, were followed by something of reaction, and then by a rise to $1.55½ for July and $1.53½ for Sentember.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Opening unchanged to 1½c higher, the corn market later advanced ali around. September touching $1.0734.

Surmounting untold difficulties the missionaries of Peru are making strides in their efforts to Christianize that country, according to the message brought to London last night by Rev. Calvin MacKay, who spoke at New St. James' church. The minister has completed five years in the South American mission fields. At present he is on furlough, visiting his father, Rev. James MacKay.

A great number of Peruvians had been won over to the faith, said the missionary. It had been a great effort to bring the word to them, for the natives clung tenaciously to their traditional beliefs. The complete victory was yet to be won. Schools and teachers were playing a great part in advancing the cause. Interest in the Bible was awakening. In the hinterland the natives who once enjoyed a truly great civilization had sunk to tragic depths of ignorance and illiteracy. The proof of the spiritual awakening was seen in the many who had dedicated their lives to Cristian endeavon

Robb Points Out Canadian Consumer Will Benefit As Result.

PARTISAN BATTLE

Sutherland, Stansell, Tolmie and Others Line Up in Opposition.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, June 22.—Reductions in he duties on raisins and dried currants will not make much difference A. Robb, acting minister of finance, told the House of Commons this afternoon. The house is considering the Canada-Australia trace treaty, under which raisins and dried currents which raisins and dried currents which raises and dried currents which restricts the finance, agreement as compared with the one made last fall, with respect to the tariff rate on Australian goods common fine into Canada. Which increased the advantage to Australia.

Mr. Sutherland did not believe that anyone would pretend that Canada. to the industry in Canada, Hon. J. rants would enter Canada free of anyone would pretend that Canada on these commodities will make some erally for home consumption slight reductions in revenue in Canada, Mr. Robb said, but that is the only effect it will have.

Mr. Robb was asked questions from Australia. every part of the house, the opposiwery part of the house, the opposition concentrating on the reduction of the duty on Australian lutter. Mr. Robb steadily maintained that the reductions had been made solely with the object of reducing the bost of some of the necessities of life in Canada.

Nothing to Fear.

Mr. Robb pointed out that he represented one of the largest dairy constituencies in Canada. If he considered that the treaty would not be beneficial to the people of Chateguay-Huntingdon, he would certainly have hesitated to introduce ir. A country such as Canada, however, which exported so much cheese and butter, had nothing to fear from any country in the world in this respect.

Coming to the question of sugar, Mr. Robb said the reduction of the duty on sugar from Australia would make a reduction in Canadian revenue, which estimated on the 1924 imports would be only$2,950 per annum.

Canada was negotiating with Auscala and beneficial concluded by rum.

Canada was negotiating with Australia, said Mr. Robb, to get more favorable consideration for other Candian products. There was an embargo in Australia against British Columbia apples, because of alleged fire blight in British Columbia, but Pritish Columbia put an embargo on fire blight in British Columbia, but Pritish Columbla put an embargo on Australian apples because that province feared the codling moth; the government was trying to overcome difficulties like this in its effort to secure for Canadian products a wider market.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, expressed his intention of voting against the treaty, which he described as "a mixture of good and evil." There was much in the treaty that was good in it and much as good in it.
