Most Powerful Family in the English Court - New Chinese Cabbage.

London, May 26.-The most powerful amily at the English court is that of the Knollys. During the recent ab-sence of the King and Queen on the continent it was Lord Knollys, his trusted secretary, who really had full charge of the royal menage, and who, pesides, looked after the important affairs of state, keeping the sovereign posted daily on the progress of maters at home and executing his Majesy's orders. Lord Knollys is but a few years older than the King, held the position of private secretary for many years while he present ruler was Prince of Wales, and for 33 years prior to the Queen's death he was groom of the privy and then he watched the sensations chamber to Queen Victoria. For his sertification was system. Prof. Head had the sensation that followed. Then he had the nerves vices to the royal household he was raised to the peerage in 1902. The wife of Lord Knollys is one of he prettiest women in England. Though nearly 40 years old now she retains the beauty of her youth. Two children are the result of this union, Elizabeth. aged 16, and Francis, aged 11. Besides official residences at the St. James and Windsor palaces, Lord and Lady Knollys have a charming riverside estate near Henley-on-Thames where they frequently entertain notable "Pe-tsai" celebrated the first anniversary of its introduction into Europe this month. It has now become both fashionable and popular, and is ousting altogether its western cousin, which is the homely cabbage. On May 1, 1904, M. Bois, assistant lecturer at the Paris Museum of Natural History, presented M. Cure, secretary of the Syndicate of Parisian and Suburban Market Gardeners, with a parcel of pe-tsai seed. Thus the Chi nese cabbage began its now prosper ous career in France.

M. Cure studied the habits of the new vgetable, and found out the best time or setting, the soil required, and so on. Pe-tsai was then grown by some 20 market gardeners round Paris, with satisfactory results, and it is now a stock article on the central markets. bage, being larger, tastler and ten-

In Belgium interdict has been placed on the terrible drink, and its manufacture and sale are now forbidden in that country. According to one of the anti-absinthe writers, M. Maurice Talmeyr, 133,000 hectoliters, or 2,926,000 gallons, in round numbers, of the stuff, are annually ab. sorbed by the French people men and that in many instances physicians women, for the women have also learned to like the fee verte, now the spreading disease germs. Sixty years back there wre only 10,000 registered lunatics, and now there are 80,000. The increase in crime is also traced to the love of absinthe among the masses. Dr. Garnier, in his "Folie a Paris." and his "Criminel Instinctif." numerous cases in proof of this, but he says that if absinthism and alcoholism are not the sole motors of moral perversion, they may, in his opinion, be considered the predominating causes of the same. The doctor further says that in a family addicted to alcoholic stimulants absinthe is put in the soup, and also "alcoholism, lunacy and crime form a somber trilogy, closely united and intertwined.' M. Talmeyr, who quotes Dr. Garnier, is more emphatic than the medical man in his denunciation of absinthe, which, he says, makes maniacs, epilepidiots, murderers and monsters. He accordingly calls upon the Government to do something, but he is doubtful if the example of Belgium with regard to absinthe will be

London, May 25.-The Marshall Hall orize, given every five years by the Royal Medical Society, has been awarded to Henry Head, for an important discovery of the workings of the nervous system. Prof. Head had the sensory nerves of his arm divided that followed. Then he had the nerves reunited by stitching, and he watched the progress of recovery. The result was that he discovered that there are two distinct sets of sensory nerves. One conveys the sensations of pain, heat and cold, and the other, the sensations of touch and also enables one American Admiral Says They Are Well Constructed—Aim Improved by Pointers.

Paris, May 25.—Rear Admiral Charles Neill, of the United States navy, in n interview this week, said: "I have no information concerning any alleged defects in British naval ordnance except that I have read in the newspapers, and I am of the opinion, from my knowledge of ordnance in general, that undue importance has been given to the matter. The British naval guns are undoubtedly constructed of the best material, and on the most scientific principles, and it is not likely that they exhibit any defects, except such as are common to all modern guns for high velocities. A gun is like any other piece of mechanism, and in time will show the effect of wear and tear. It is said that the powder used in the British navy, that is the old form of cordite, is more destructive to the bores of guns than the pure nitrocellulose powders are, and I believe this to be the case. Still, cordite has some excellent qualities which the nitro-cellulose powders do not possess, that is, its ballistic properties are very high, and therefore a less weight of charge is required, costing less money,

FLYING MOTOR CYCLE

Prince Goes From Monte Carlo to Paris in Model Machine.

Paris, May 25.-The Prince of Monaco traveled from Monte Carlo to Paris this week on a motor cycle for the purpose of reading before the Academy of Sciences a paper describing his experiments with new airships carried out in the Oceanographic Museum. The apparatus was invented by Maurice Leger, one of the prince's consulting engineers. It consists of two superinforced screw wings rotating in opposite directions, electricity being the motive force.

The model repeatedly rose to a height of eight to ten meters, carrying a total weight of 110 kilos. The Prince of Monaco believes the apparatus, which is named "Helicortere." will solve the problem of aerial navigation. The possibilities of flying machines heavier than air were further shown by an experment carried on at the Aero Club grounds in St. Cloud by two young Genevese brothers. Henri and Armand Dufaux. Many aeronauts witnessed the trials and were loud in their praise. The apparatus consists of a beam five meters long, bearing a motor in the center and screw wings at each end. A special new feature is the weight wings of only 250 grams. The machine, weighing seventeen kilos, rose 25 meters, carrying six kilos ballast. The Dafaux brothers will build a full scale apparatus. In the opinion of leading scientists there have been no such conclusive experiments since 1877. •

Ö~~~~~~~~~ FIGHTS A BULL; WINS A BRIDE

Cowboy Tackles Ferocious Beast to Save the Life of School Teacher.

Earling, S. D., May 25.-Romance and adventure in real life are rarely experienced to a degree that has befallen Jack Weston, a cowboy and ex-Harvard man who is employed on the B-Y ranch, and Miss Mamie Hilgers, a pretty school teacher. In saving her federal judge.

The strike did not spread to any great extent today, and there was little disorder. Several lumber firms made a few outdone any act of the hero recorded in Owen Wister's "Virginian." Miss deliveries. For the first time since the deliveries with the first time since the deliveries are the deliveries. and during the long days while the bones of his leg and chest were knitting together once more Cupid busied himself with their heartstrings, and it is now the understanding in this community that a wedding is to take place the latter part of June. Miss Hilgers was returned from her school through a 1,000-acre pasture, selecting a "short cut" in the hope of escaping an approaching storm. She approached too near to a herd of cattle and attracted the eye of an enormous bull. The animal was unused to feminine attire and resented the intrusion. With a mighty bellow and lowcred head he charged upon the helpless woman. Weston was engaged in cut-ting a calf out of the opposite side of the herd and took in the situation just as Miss Hilgers realized her danger and Riding up at a furious pace he reached her side when but ten vards separated her and the great brute which was intent upon crushing her, He emptied his revolver in front of the very eyes of the bull without checking its speed. There was nothing left for him to do if he would save the fair school teacher but to ride his horse horse was disembowled and the rider thrown to the ground in the collision. Weston struggled to his feet as the bull was preparing for another charge at the woman. Though he was unarmed Throwing off his coat as he ran, he exposed a vast expanse of a red flannel shirt which he wore, in the hope that it would divert the bull's attention His strategy succeeded, and the next charge was directed at him. As the lowered horns approached him, he them with both hands and swung himself clear of the ground, trying at the same time to wrench the head so as to break the brute's neck. In this purpose he failed, but he tem-porarily foiled and bewildered his antagonist. Again and again the bull tried to gore him, but he managed each time to throw himself onto its back or to the opposite side, clinging desperately to the horns all the while. At last the bull hit upon the plan of bearing its breaking the collar bone and two ribs. Weston would doubtless have been which saw "The Fatal Wedding" were bigger than those at the Grand and ture of Harry Williams, a rancher, who Majestic here, or at the Hamilton, had been summoned in the meantime

> With Miss Hilgers' assistance the now unconscious Weston was loaded on to the back of Williams' horse and borne back to the Williams ranch, where Miss Hilgers was largely in-

A Wail From St. Thomas.

LONDON, FRIDAY, MAY 26.

Stratford Beacon points out that St. Thomas is a Conservative city and Conservatives have been loud in their not been strictly enforced. And Mr. A. B. Ingram, M. P. of East Elgin, who men, has been among the loudest in them. his denunciation of the Government on this score. So late as last session he was vociferating in the House of Commons, with the object of currying favor with his railroad constituents. Now home in St. Thomas, some of his party tawa. friends are singing another tune. They were ready to applaud the deportation of Grand Trunk Pacific officials, but the boot is on the other foot in the present instance.

Philadelphia's Uprising.

It is not long since Lincoln Steffens in his series of articles on municipal government, described Philadelphia as "corrupt and contented." For twenty years that city has been dominated by a ring as piratical as Tammany in its forget the expulsion from Buffalo of high and palmy days. All the persons Mr. Ernest Ruse, now ticket agent at on the pay-roll of the municipality, numbering 20,000, are creatures of the machine. Having this force at its disposal, and having control of the election machinery and millions of money stolen from the people, the ring has been able to flout the moral sentiment of the city which has occasionally risen in rebellion, Mayor Weaver who is now leading the forces of reform, was the nominee of the machine, and was supposed to be past praying for. He appeared to be the pliant tool of Durham, the boss of the ring, when the present raid on the civic treasury was civic patriot that a hundred churches hope of touching his conscience. But he gave no sign until the gas grab had cilmen have put through a deal by ment of $25,000,000 to the city, will get a 50-years' renewal of its franchise which expires in 1927, and will be em- He had just handed in the commis- Tourneys for love and battles for hate; powered to charge consumers $1 per 1.000 feet for the next 72 years. By a bill passed in the last Legislature, the power of appointing the directors of public safety and public works will be taken out of the hands of the mayor in 1907. If the machine can tide things over until then it will have a permanent clutch on the city unless shaken off by an aroused and persistent moral sentiment.

Dispatches from Philadelphia describe the city as verging on civil war. The machine councilmen are being threatened by mobs of citizens, and "but I am particular whom I dance there are fears of bloodshed. Phila- with.' delphia is no longer contented in cor-

The intention also of Parliament was that the claim should be located in person. But in this in-stance the regulations were changed, and it was not necessary to locate the lands in person. Mr. Foster claimed that this was done on the eve of the last general election, and that the result was that the scrip fell into the hands of speculators, and the halfbreeds did not get the advantage of it. Mr. Oliver said that the first order in council defining the rights of halfbreeds was definite and comprehensive The half-breeds' commission in 1901 made restrictions which were never made before. There were several commissions since 1885 dealing with scrip, and none of them had given the decision which debarred the halfbreed of scrip to which he was otherwise entitled because he had gone to the United States. ### Auditor-General's Position.

In supply this evening a breeze sprang up in reference to the position of the Auditor-General.

Mr. Lennox suggested that a reference by Mr. Oliver indicated that the Government intended the Auditor-General should go, and that they would welcome his disappearance. He insisted the Government would not be able to get rid of the strong public sentiment in the country. The Finance Minister has refused to amend the audit act, and was waiting for the Auditor-General to drop out. Hon. Mr. Fielding replied that the efusal of the Government to accept he resignation last year showed they were not anxious to get rid of him. As to the question of amendment to the audit act, that was a question for the Jovernment, representing the people, and not for the Auditor-General to de-

Four Hundred Men Already Enlisted Petrifying a Group of Men in Odd Positions One of Lightning's Queer Fanches.

> Paris, May 25 .- "It would seem that lightning is a subtle being whose nature comes between the unconscious force of plants and the conscious force of animals. It is like an elementary spirit, eccentric or rational, clever or silly, farseeing or blind, headstrong or indifferent, passing from one extreme to the other. It wriggles through space, appearing and disappearing like lightning. "We call such actions freaks, but they are determined by causes. These causes we have yet to learn." The speaker was Camille Flamwho has devoted much of his time to exploring the mysteries of lightning. "Each year," he continued, "I rereach year," he continued, "I received from the ministry of justice official accounts of all accidents from lightning as described in police reports. Here lightning kills, there it passes without injuring. Farther on, it seems absolutely frollicking. I have hundreds of examples. And yet it is not possible to draw from them any conposition as to a law Sometimes it. clusion as to a law. Sometimes it gives rise to the hypothesis that it i a thought which, instead of being attached to a brain, is attached to an electric current. "All that can be affirmed for the present is that in spite of its apparent independence, lightning does not act as freely as we might be inclined to believe. It obeys certain laws still undetermined, and its actions, seemingly so unregulated and so capricious are not the result of sheer accident. The plea of chance is a refuge for our ignorance, but it cannot explain thes fantastical phenomena. "The only sure way to reach general facts is by consulting particulars. This is the method I invariably adopt in The Speaker announced this after- freaks of lightning which I have succeeded in bringing together.

Since the lightning episode he has been able to walk without the stick.

"Ball lightning is the most mysteri cus form of lightning. It sometimes behaves like a small animal with the most evil nature. Its shape is not always spherical, though generally so. London, May 25. - There was a further acrimonious discussion in the House of Commons this afternoon on the riotous scenes in the House, May 22, and a recurrence of the disorder at one time seemed imminent owing to Premier Balfour's remark that Sir through where the ball had passed Henry Campbell-Bannerman (the Liberal leader, guaranteed that there "In 1897, at Liguy, France, a hus-band and his wife were sleeping quiet-ly one night when a formidable noise awoke them. An act of much thoughtfulness and good sense is reported from the little town of Haparanda, in Sweden. The women of the place have decided to relieve men of the necessity of doffing their hats to women in the streets as long as the cold weather lasts. It has gone forth that during the winter

FORTNER'S FUNERAL The funeral of the late Mrs. Hannah Mary Fortner, formerly a resident of this city, who was killed the other day by falling off a train near North Bay was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock from Stewart's undertaking parlors. The cortege proceeded to Delaware Methodist Church, where services were held, and the remains were laid at rest in Delaware Cemetery. Mrs. Fortner was 70 years of age. TONIGHT AT THE GRAND.

"Tonight's the night" is all you can hear around the Grand today. There is an air of mystery around the stage door which even Manager Turton has been unable to account for, but the cat will be out of the bag tonight, when the monster benefit tendered to the stage hands of the theater by Manager Small gets in full swing. The entertainment, as far as known, is to be the biggest and best show ever presented in London at popular prices, and this is talking some. Besides the complete scenic and dra matic presentation of "The Fatal Wedding," vaudeville features will be plentifully distributed through the show, be-tween the acts and after the dramatic performance. This will comprise a grand double bill, but according to some of the "boys behind" there is to be something doing besides the regular performance, and, to quote one of the "flymen," "everything will be up in the air."

LOUISA GOES BOWN

Two Years in Mercer the Lot of the Old-Timer.

Police Magistrate Love has given Louisa White so many chances to turn over a new leaf that when the old ofender appeared in court this morning it would be useless to exercise he felt further leniency. Louisa's chief failing is a love of liquor. When "on the rock" she invariably works in hotels, but her periods of sobriety usually do not extend over many weeks. She had no excuse to offer today, and the ma-gistrate thought the best thing he could do was to send her to the Mercer for two years. Vagrancy was the charge preferred against her. Had it been drunkenness she could not have been given over 21 days in jail. Wm. L. Ford was charged by Dan Stewart with trespass. He promised to vacate the premises immediately and on this condition the case was dis-

Two others who had been on a spree were among the occupants of the cage. One was remanded for a week. The other was given to understand that he had to make himself scarce around his mother's house in future. A bicyclist was assessed $2 for riding on the sidewalk. Company On Their Asphalt -Bitulithic Question.

Messrs. Pratt and Fallahe, represently, met in the city engineer's office to-day and had a rather warm argument for a few minutes. It seems that some residents of Queen's avenue complained to the city engineer that the Barber Company was not putting the three inches of asphalt called for in the contract on the Queen's avenue pavement. The engineer, with the inspectors, investigated the charge, and found that the asphalt in the thinnest place measured over three inches—in some places over three inches and a half. The Barbers were very angry because their honesty had been impugned, and they blamed the Warren agent for circulating the report. Thus the rival agents became mixed up in the argument in the city engineer's office.

Mr. Fallahe denied that he made any such statement. "The only way I can please you is

"You're talking for newspaper notoriety now," exclaimed Mr. Pratt. "If my company had the profits the Warrens make we, too, could indulge in big advertising," he said naively.

"Well, you got your asphalt for $9 a ton and sell it for $35," retorted Mr. Fallahe. "That profit ought to enable you to spend a few dollars."

Mr. Pratt disputed the figures, but the Warren agent explained that he had been assistant cashier for the Barber Company for some years in Buffalo and that he knew what he was talking This ended the debate for the time

The many hours of hard work spent had its effect upon the firemen. Today several of them are completely fagged out. Yesterday, seven fell by the wayside, and three are off work today. Water which has been poured upon Fireman Tait appears to have been more seriously injured than was at first reported. Just what the outcome of his injuries will be it is difficulty to say. Firemen Tait, Matthews and Borand are laid up today. From two o'clock yesterday morning the fire raged with but slightly bated vigor, and the firemen found it ecessary to fight the flames every ninute. The steamer was kept at work without a break from the early morning until midnight, and the engine stood the great test well. Engineer Allen declares it has not a peer in America. But the firemen did not wear as well as the engine. The heat parched their throats, and their faces were scalded by the steam and smoke. The wind also blew the dust from the roadways in clouds, and the chief about 5 o'clock saw his men staggering blindly around the burning ruins. In half a dozen cases the men's eyes had given out and they were compelled to lay off for an hour or so to recuperate. The chief had the city scoured for smoked glasses for them, but strange to say the glasses could not be secured. Today, Ald, Gillean, who happened to have a stock on hand, gave the firemen every pair he had in his store. Substitutes Gave Out.

About twenty willing workers were engaged. The regular men were then for a time relieved, and they ate for the first time yesterday at about 5 o'clock. As soon as they recovered, the men who had been overcome by the smoke returned to duty, and were spared as far as possible. As the night wore on, however, the green substitutes grew tired of their jobs and many of "We can't stand the smoke," they said. "We're willing to help, but the job is too much for us." Then the chief was compelled to order the regulars out again, and men had men watching the big freight shed from Nos. 2 and 3 stations, under assistant Chief Aitken, fought the smol- of the proximity of the fire yesterday dering flames all night officers are so hourse foday that it is to them taken from the freight sheds very difficult for them to speak.

The fire was undoubtedly the hottest London has as yet known. The huge in fighting the Dyment-Baker fire has piles of lumber burned with a fury, which from a spectator's standpoint, was magnificent, but which almost fought the firemen away from the scene of the trouble. Despite all the them, the lumber piles are still burning, and will in all probability continu to burn for some time yet.

Water Supply Stood Strain. Desolation marks the scene of the big fire today. On the corner, where the big mill stood, nothing is left but a pile of brick ruins, and on the Michigan Central siding stands a small mountain Fireman Tait, injured at the Cor- of scrap iron-all that is left of three coran fire, after fighting the big fire freight cars and their loads of agricultural implements: North of the Fireman Matthews, overcome with track huge piles of charred pine are moke and heat at the Dyment-Baker smoldering with a persistency which irritates the fire-fighters. Streams of water are still playing on the ruins from all quarters. To the east on Bathurst street the remains of the old Grand Trunk roundhouse are to be seen, and these add to the desolation of the scene. The water supply stood the great drain upon it well. When Engineer Simmle heard that a big fire was burning in the city he set three big pumps to work and they poured the water into the reservoir at a tremendous rate. In the city the firemen were pouring a dozen streams on the fire, and the big steamer was sucking the water out of the Wellington street main and throwing it in great volumes into the blaze. But despite this demand upon it, the water in the reservoir only showed a fall of 16 inches during the There were fourteen feet of water in the basin when the fire broke out. and the lowest depth it reached was 12 feet 8 inches

PEEL-WILLIAMS

The Church of St. John the Evange list, corner of St. James and Wellington streets, was the scene of a very quiet wedding at noon today. The bride was Miss Rosalind Williams, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. T. Williams, of St. James street, and the groom was Dr. Alfred J. Peel, lately a practicing physician in South Africa. The bride, who was assisted by her sister, Miss Mabelle Williams, was attired in a very becoming traveling dress of brown cloth. The groom was assisted by Dr. H. A. Stevenson, of this city, and Rev. W. T. Hill, rector of the church, performed the ceremony. Only relatives of the bride and groom were present. After the wedding breakfast, served at the residence the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Peel left via the lake route for Edmonton, where Dr. Peel is to practice ms pro

a Little Trouble—Want "More Time."

Queen's avenue, the other afternoon, but this time no one was hurt. Large numbers of Italians are employed as laborers in this vicinity at present, and they don't always agree well with the other men. In fact, many of the Canadians complain that the Italians are too well treated by their bosses.

The trouble yesterday arose over what might seem a very minor matter, but which was very important from the point of view of men employed on railway sec-tion work. The work train, with Foreman Nichols, about 25 Italians and a few others, had been down the line towards Windsor on Wednesday, repairing rails and laying down new switching material. The train returned to the city yesterday morning and "laid up" in the east yards, there being no work to do, and after morning and "laid up" in the east yards, there being no work to do, and after dinner the Italians swarmed around the foreman and demanded "more time." To understand what this means, it is necessary to know that trackmen who have to take the train to and from the scene of their labors, are paid for half the time consumed on the way while not actually consumed on the way while not actually working. The men from Italy decided that they wanted to be paid for all the time spent on the road, whether sleeping or working, or en route from place to

for the police, and when the Italians saw several bluecoats coming they retreated en masse into their quarters on the cars.

Unmatchable Suit Values@

For Friday and Saturday we've prepared a couple of suit bargains that'll make a stir for the last Saturday of the month. The cloths used in these suits are genuine Irish homespuns and the celebrated Hewson summer tweeds. They come in entirely new designs and colors, and in every case the patterns are exclusive with ourselves. They are qualities usually seen only with the best custom tailors, and that would cost you $18.00 and $22.00 respectively, and then would be no better made.

* THE BROOKLYN HANDICAP.

The Brooklyn Handicap, for three-year-olds and upwards, is one of the principal events of the year on the American turf. This year it was made more valuable than usual, the stake amounting to $20,000, whereas in no previous year did it exceed $17,750. The pick of the thoroughbreds are generally entered, and to win the event is considered by the owners to be one of the greatest turf honors. During the last ten years - the handicap was first run in 1887 - the fastest time was made in 1903 by Irish Lad, 2:05 3-5, the next best time 2:0614, being made by Banastar in 1899. Two jockeys have each won the race

Harry Ranahan, HERE'S A NOVEL

Of all the officials in the city hall, City Clerk Baker is the one who now above all others stands out in the great white light. Last night he sent a communication to the board of works, which for a while caused the aldermen to wonder whether it was a bolt from the blue or a message from Mars. Unique in his generation, unique in the world of officialdom, Mr. Baker stated that he has not enough work to do, and with tears in their eyes the aldermen promised to take his grievance into consideration.

his department.

"No doubt, Mr. Kingston, with his limited staff, was very anxious to have the work done by the assessment commissioner," the city clerk concluded "but as we have not enough work to do now, we would be greatly pleased if the council could see its way clear to make the transfer." The aldermen were spellbound for a Verdict in the Case of Wm. J. Plant -Funeral at Popular Hill.

The jury empaneled by Coroner Ross of Hyde Park, to inquire into the cause of the death of the late William J. Plant. who was killed while riding on a hand car, gave a verdict of accidental death last night. Plant was struck by the handle of the propelling gear.
The remains of the late Mr. Plant were laid at rest yesterday afternoon at Poplar Hill Cemetery. The funeral, which was held from the residence of James Campbell, Poplar Hill, was largely attended. Court Benevolent, No. 165, Canadian Order of Foresters, of which the deceased was a member, at-tended in a body, and conducted services. Bro. J. N. Atkin, P. C. "Faust" Rendered by the Lon-

The rendition of the opera "Faust' in the Princess rink last evening by the London Festival Chorus and the Thomas Orchestra of Chicago brought to a close the two days' big musical festival, which has been conducted so successfully under the St. Andrew's Society auspices. A good musical festival has been something that London has wanted for a long time, and the city's music lovers sincerely trust that it is an institution that has come to stay. The society is to be congratulated as the founders of a festival which may become an annual affair, judging by the large support which it received from the citizens.

Considering the huge size of th

Princess rink, it may be said that the festival drew monster audiences, and last night, despite the wet weather,th crowd was even larger than on the two previous occasions. No musical event in London has ever been so largely attended, and it cannot be said that there is any other city in America that has a larger proportionate number of lovers of good music than London. To musicians who deplore the extent to merely "catchy" character, the way in which such a large number of citizens have listened so appreciatively to the days must have been pleasing.

Regarding the Theodore Thomas Or-chestra not much need be said, further than that it is generally regarded as the finest in America. The mag-orchestra was a revelation to many,

while the way in which it accompanfed the chorus in the "Elijah" and the "Faust," left nothing to be desired.

D. Jordan, organist of the First Me thodist Church, carried through their part in the festival excellently. Never has a chorus of its size been brought together in this city, and never has a chorus worked harder or more faithfully. Very little fault can be found with their rendition of "Elijah," and still less fault with "Faust."

The "Kermese" act by the chorus was given with the enthusiasm which is necessary to make it a success, and he way the climax was worked up was very commendable. The favorite Soldiers' Chorus," "Glory and Love to the Men of Old," also drew great ap-plause from the audience. Music overs will be glad to hear Mr. Jordan and the chorus render "Faust" again ome time in the near future. Regarding the soloists, there was, as there always must be, a great deal of difference of opinion. There are few soloists who please everyone, and the more the listener knows about the art of singing, the more he can criticise in his own mind the rendition of solo parts in such large undertakings as the one in question, for unless the soloists are at the very top of their profession always leave something to be desired. The soloists who took part in 'Faust" and "Elijah" were not "at the top," and yet they deserve credit for the work they did do. The difficult role of Faust was undertaken by Mr. Holmes-Cowper. Tenors are scarce these days, and Mr. Holmes-Cowper was one of the best that have ever yet appeared in this city. Mr. Marion Green, baritone took the part of Mephisto and carried it through well. He has a voice of good rich quality. "Even the Bravest Heart May Swell" was the best effort of Mr. William Beard, who took the part of Valentine, and who has a baritone voice of sympathetic quality. Mr. Arthur Garthwaite, the only local singer who took part, was thrown into comparison with soloists who have studied the art longer and who have had experience in largtr musical centers, and yet Mr. Garthwaite did not suffer from the comparison to any great extent. He carried the part of

A NEW "JIM THE PENMAN"

Raises Check to Large Amount and Completely Fools Bank. New York, May 25 .- So cleverly had a check which made its appearance in the Tombs court today been altered known men in the country, if not in the world, capable of doing the work. These five men are in receipt of a regular pension from the American Bankers' Association in return for which they have agreed to refrain from exercising their unlawful and dangerous talents. All of them have been kept under onstant surveillance for years, and the police say it would have been next to impossible for any of them to have altered the check without their identity becoming known. They are convinced, however, either that this has been done or that a new and unknown "penman" equal in every way to the most accomplished forgers of the past, has begun work in this city. Frank Clifton, a bartender, was arraigned in the Tombs court today charged with attempting to pass the check, which had been raised from $110 58 to $2,800. The police are convinced that even if Clifton had any guilty knowledge regarding the check he was only a tool for the real criminal. He was held for further examina-According to statements made by detectives and Assistant District Attorney Kresel in the police court, the original check was stolen while in transit through the mails. It was then taken in hand by an expert, photo-graphed, and tracings were made of To put off the change is to risk that all the handwriting in the body of the which may be irreparable.
