KNOCKERS

What are knockers? Webster defines a knocker as one who knocks, as a door seeking admission. But there is another meaning in the word knocker which Webster might have known but which he did not put down in his dictionary. This term is very commonly applied to a person who can never see good in any person—except, perhaps, himself—or anything, but can always find something to find fault with or cry down.

He is found all over the world mingling with all classes of people and flourishing in every walk in life. He is generally on the outside, sometimes on the inside, but never to his way of thinking, on the wrong side. When he is found he is generally found talking, sometimes weeping, although as a rule these sort of people do not work—except perhaps when they are knocking.

They are found in all public enterprises, especially when the promoters or the shareholders of these enterprises are going to make some money. In this case the knocker is not, as a rule, financially interested. He is easily detected by his talk, which is generally loud and exhibited on the street corners.

Knockers might be divided into three classes, viz., the chronic, the man with the grievance, and the covetor. The first man, the chronic, is the least dangerous. It is a habit with him and he does the most of his knocking on general principles. He never wants to branch out into anything new, and would like to see the world go along the same as it did a hundred years ago.

The man with the grievance is a little different than the chronic. He has generally been ignored in the making up of or thrown out of some public organization or concern. He is, to a certain extent, harmless and the most of his talk is bluster, and is easily seen through.

The third man, however, the covetor, is by far the most dangerous and hardest to detect. It may be that he is a business man and some scheme is being started which, if carried to a successful issue, will interfere with, and lessen, his business and earning capacity. He may also be a man of means who has a good business instinct, and recognizes a paying thing when he sees it. He realizes that it would be a good thing for him and if he can discourage the promoters of some business concern and in the end purchase their interest, he is going to do it. This last man is, as a rule, the most dangerous knocker. He goes about his work in a quiet way giving a rap here and another there, until his hopes are realized with one grand coup. He is probably the only man who benefits himself by his knocking.

In some cases, however, the man in this class is inclined to be careless. The results are then the same as in the cases of men in the other two classes—defeat and sometimes humiliation and disgrace.

No matter which class a man is in he is still a knocker and worthy of the strongest contempt from his fellow creatures.

OYSTER CULTURE

The average citizen may not know that oysters are planted, cultivated and harvested like any other crop, a person who engages in this industry being known as an oyster planter. Thousands of acres of oysters are under cultivation in Hampton Roads, which during the harvesting season is often literally alive with the reaping machines of the oyster men.

When the oysters are from one and a half to two years old they are usually large enough to be sold, and as a rule part of them are sold at this age and the balance in the third or fourth year, after which time the ground is allowed to rest a year before being planted again. Great care must be exercised in the selection of bottoms for oyster planting if the planter would be financially successful.

The largest packer in Hampton opens from 100,000 to 200,000 bushels of oysters in a year. In this house as the men open the oysters they drop the shells on an inclined plane, from which they slide into a trough and are carried along by scrapers attached to an endless chain, called a "shell conveyor," which takes them without further labor to the shell pile in the yard. When a shucker has filled his gallon measure he carries it to the strainer, where the oysters are strained and measured. They are then emptied into large casks kept full of fresh water, by means of which any loose shell or grit is washed out. From these casks the oysters are dipped into a second strainer and when separated from the water are again measured and packed.

The shells are sold for from 1 to 3 cents a bushel and are used extensively by oyster planters for the propagation of oysters. They are placed in small piles on grounds found suitable for the purpose, where the spat or small oyster will attach itself to the shells. They are also used for making shell lime and for building the excellent shell roads found in some parts of the Virginia peninsula.

The money that makes one man go often makes the other man stop.

It's because riches have wings that so many who inherit fortunes become high-flyers.

The smart men of the world are those who put the shoulders of others to the wheel.

PARK CANNON

It may not be generally known that the cannon which occupies such a prominent position on the point of Tecumseh Park was captured from the Russians by the English in the Crimean war. The cannon was sent to Canada and placed by the Government at Point Edward.

The credit of bringing it to Chatham and placing it on the Park is due to Dr. J. P. Rutherford, who wrote to the Government in 1888, when he was mayor of Chatham, and asked permission to move the cannon to Chatham.

The following is a copy of the answer he received:

London, Ont., Jan. 31, 1888.
To His Worship the Mayor of Chatham:

Sir,—I have the honor by direction of the Deputy Adjutant General M. D. No. 1, to inform you in reply to your letter of the 6th inst., that the Honorable the Minister of Militia and Defense, approves of the transfer of the gun at Point Edward to the corporation of Chatham, the municipality of Chatham, to become responsible for the safe keeping of the gun and the expense of its removal from Point Edward.

I have the honor to be, Sir, Your obedient servant,
M. AYLMER,
Lt.-Col.

Shortly afterwards the cannon was brought into the city, placed on the Park, and has remained there ever since.

DRUMMER BOY

Responding to a recent communication in this journal, The Planet is in receipt of the following:

Dear Sir,—In reference to the request in your paper the other day I enclose copy of the Drummer Boy of Waterloo as was used to sing in the lumber camp 35 years ago.

J. H. BROAD.

When battle roused each warrior's band,
And courage louder trumpet blew,
Young Edwin left his native land—
A drummer boy for Waterloo.

His mother, as his lips she pressed,
And bade her noble boy adieu,
With ringing hands and aching breast,
Beheld him march for Waterloo.

So he who knew no infant's fear,
His knapsack o'er his shoulder threw—
He said, "Dear Mother, dry up your tears
Till I return from Waterloo."

He went, but e'er the setting sun
Beheld our arms the Joe subdue,
A bullet from a rebel's gun
Laid Edwin low at Waterloo.

"Oh, comrades, comrades," Edwin cried,
While proudly beamed his eyes so blue,
"Tell my poor mother her Edwin died—
A soldier's death at Waterloo."

We laid his head upon his drum,
And 'neath the mournful moon-light's hue,
When night had stilled the battle's hum,
We laid him low at Waterloo.

A mercerized linen waist in blue, and straps topped with pearl buttons. The guimpe is transparent, of Venetian lace.

MUTE WITNESSES

The soft lamp glids my desk to-night;
My books stand all a-row.
I turn them o'er, and to my sight
They seem to sorrow so.

The ancient rhymes of love and death
That were such comforters
Seem now to know some living breath
That all about them stir.

Story and fable, quaint and good,
They speak so bitterly!
Not as the hand that penned them
Would.

That they should speak to me.
A little comment scribbled fine,
A finger-print, a bit
Of folded paper, at some line
Tell how we talk of it.

Alike the poet and the sage,
Gold-edge and russet-brown—
A penciled word upon a page,
A corner folded down!

The glamour of the verse is flown,
The cut leaves seem to bleed;
In the dim light I read alone
The books she loved to read.

THE DANGERS OF CHILDHOOD

Summer is the most deadly season of the year for little ones. The little life hangs by a mere thread; diarrhoea, infant cholera and other hot weather ailments come quickly, and sometimes, in a few hours, extinguish a bright little life. Every mother should be in a position to guard against, or cure these troubles, and there is no medicine known to medical science will act so surely, so speedily and so safely as Baby's Own Tablets. A box of the Tablets should be kept in every home where there are little ones, and by giving an occasional Tablet hot weather ailments will be prevented, and your little one will be kept well and happy. Won't wait until the trouble comes—that may be too late. Remember that these ailments can be prevented by keeping the stomach and bowels right. Mrs. A. Vanderveer, Port Colborne, Ont., says: "My baby was cross, restless and had diarrhoea. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and they helped her almost at once. I think the Tablets a splendid medicine for children."

The Tablets are untraced to cure all the minor ailments of little ones; they contain no opiate or poisonous drug, and can be given safely to a new born babe. Sold by medicine dealers, or mailed at 52 cents a box by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ELEPHANTS IN BURMA

In Burma the animal generally used in lumbering operations is the elephant. While "my lord the elephant" solves in a unique way the transportation problem—always a vexatious one in lumbering operations—he does more than that. The stolid and slow moving ox can haul a load from one place to another, but the load has to be made ready for him in the first place, and after it has arrived at its destination it has to be unloaded. The elephant takes care of all these operations. Not only he is a draft animal, but in some instances, at a word from his driver, he picks up a timber, carries it to the designated point, and then not only deposits it where it belongs, but does so with precision and comparative ease, accomplishing a result almost impossible by hand labor, and with less expenditure of time than would be required by a steam crane.

In most cases an elephant driver, or mahout, is required for each elephant, but human labor is so cheap as not to be a factor in the expense. The elephant furnishes the labor which is paid for, and the driver is looked upon as a necessary, though not altogether desirable, concomitant, as the native helper is not so much to be relied upon as his big charge. Optimum and the strong brews of native roots work on human frailty, but the elephant has no desire for these. In many big lumbering operations the elephants are seemingly "told" what they are to do in the morning, and in some degree left to carry on the work during the day according to their own devices. Very remarkable are the stories told of their sagacity. One of these stories, vouched for as true, concerns lumbering, and tells of an elephant that was about to pick up a log just as the great gong which signaled the close of the day's work was sounded. To the surprise of the mahout, the log, only a little larger than others which had been carried, proved too heavy for the elephant to lift from the ground. Another elephant was requisitioned, but the two together failed to make any headway with the heavy timber, and the attempt was given up. In the morning the first elephant went immediately to the timber, lifted it with apparent ease, and carried it to the required resting place. Forestry and Irrigation.

The largest stick of Oak lumber we have ever heard of, and probably the largest ever cut in the North American Continent, was manufactured by Messrs. Fowler and Kelsey, of Wakeburg, the present winter. It is white oak, fifty-one feet eleven inches in length and squaring forty-one by forty inches, making nearly six hundred cubic feet. It is now lying on the banks of the Sydenham River. This is a big stick and we doubt if it can be beat in Canada or the United States.

How the Lives of Babies Can Be Saved.

Physicians say that the inability of mothers to feed their babies, or lack of knowledge concerning proper food, accounts for nine-tenths of the deaths that occur in summertime.

A babe must succumb to the common hot weather troubles if the mother's milk is poor in quality. Ordinary cow's milk distributed in large cities and towns is, during the hot weather, a source of danger to the little one.

When mother's milk fails in supply and quality, the proper food is nourishing and easily digested lactated Food. The composition of this food should commend it to every mother. It is a perfect substitute for mother's milk and always agrees with the baby. Lactated Food is the great life savor in hot weather. The babies fed on it are always plump, healthy happy. Try it, dear mother, if your child is not thriving; it will give wonderful results. Ask your druggist for it.

I understand your cook has permitted this month to go by without breaking anything.

Oh, you're mistaken.
But your wife said she hadn't broken a single dish.

Exactly; but because of that fact she broke her record.

—If you feel too tired for work or pleasure, take Hood's Sarsaparilla—it cures that tired feeling.

This is a sad world for those who have no humor to their make-up.

LAUNDRY LINES

Flatirons may be cleaned by rubbing them with powdered bath brick moistened with paraffin.

Iron pillowslips lengthwise instead of crosswise if you wish to iron the wrinkles out instead of in.

Never pin delicate materials on the clothesline without placing a piece of clean paper between the fabric and the clothesline.

To wash a lace collar first sew the lace with long stitches upon a double thickness of white dannel, then plunge into warm soapsuds.

Wash fabrics that are inclined to fade should be soaked and rinsed in very salt water to set the color before washing in the suds.

Glycerin is a capital remover of coffee or milk spots from white goods. Paint the stains with the glycerin; then wash out the glycerin with lukewarm rain water.

HOW DOES IT SEEM TO YOU?

It seems to me I'd like to go
Where bells don't ring, nor whistles blow,
Nor clocks don't strike, nor gongs don't sound,
And I'd have stillness all around.

Not really stillness, but just the trees,
Low whispering, or the hum of bees,
Or brooks faint babbling over stones
In strangely, softly tangled tones.

Or maybe a cricket or katydid,
Or the songs of birds in the hedges hid;
Or just some such sweet sounds as these
To fill a tired heart with ease.

If 'twere't for sight and sound and smell
I'd like a city pretty well,
But when it comes to getting rest
I like the country lots the best.

Sometimes it seems to me I must
Just quit the city's din and dust,
And get out where the sky is blue,
And say, now, how does it seem to you?

TO BE DROPPED?

Ottawa, Ont., July 19.—A rumor is current to-night that the Government have decided to drop the Grand Trunk Pacific Bill. The statement is hardly credited, as such action would be tantamount to the admission that Hon. A. G. Blair was justified in the position that he has taken.

CUT LOOSE

Isaac Mulder, of Harrow, a Dangerous Man—Constables Were Wary.

Harrow, Ont., July 19.—Just as the town was beginning to recover from the excitement caused by the murder of Edmund Matthews by Oliver Richardson, a fresh turmoil has been made by an attempted burglary by Isaac Mulder, a giant Negro, whose past record for deeds of prowess made the local constables wary of tackling him.

A resident of the village missed some possessions, and Constables Swegler and Powell commenced to investigate. They found the missing goods in an outhouse, but while they were preparing to take them away, Mulder appeared on the scene, armed with an axe. The officers had a revolver between them but postponed making the arrest, and sent to Wind-

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Mrs. Thos. Wanless, of Lacroix St., met with quite a serious accident on Saturday evening. The accident resulted from the moving of a house for Wm. Gray & Sons to the property opposite the Queen St. school. The house was moved on Friday and a "runner" was left projecting over the sidewalk and two or three inches above it.

Mrs. Wanless got her feet caught under the runner and had a fall. Her knee and hip were badly hurt, also her shoulder. She was removed to her home and has since been unable to touch her foot to the ground. Dr. T. K. Holmes is in attendance. The runner has since been sawed off.

CIRCUS MAN KILLED.

Melee With the Railway Hands at Ottawa.

Ottawa, July 20.—The arrival of the Pan-American Circus train at the Union Station, Ottawa, Friday night led to a melee among the circus hands and train employees, at the end of which time Herbert Jackson, colored, an employee of the Pan-American Circus, was found dead on top of an elephant car, bespattered with blood, and a severe gash in his right cheek. Two men were wounded by employees of the circus—Engineer John Worrall of the circus train, and Conductor John MacDonald, 63 Ottawa street. Both these men received stunning blows on the head, and were rendered unconscious. When the train came in on its way from Buckingham to Chesterville, the engine ran into an open switch and left the track. Immediately some half hundred of the circus employees, among whom were a number of negroes, made their way to the front of the yard and threatened the engineer, who had dismounted from his engine. In a moment the whole yard was in a panic, revolvers were drawn and several shots fired, but by whom could not be ascertained. Quickly, on the noise of the row being heard through the yard, there was a rush of C. P. R. yardmen and employees to the scene, and their stalwart and hardy looks soon awed the circus men into submission. It was just after this that Watchman Richard Brown, of the circus, a colored man, said he found the body of Jackson on top of the car as he was going through the train to see what damage had been done by the sudden stop when the engine was derailed. The coroner and the city police were summoned at once, and Chief Powell, Sergt. Hutton and half a dozen men were on the scene shortly.

PEACE & GO.

STORMED THE JAIL

And Lynched Two Condemned Murderers.

Butte, Mont., July 20.—A despatch from Red Lodge, Mont., says: Jim Gorman, who killed his brother about a year ago and ran off with his brother's wife, and a man named Walters, who killed a widow named Hoover at the Hot Springs two years ago, because she refused to marry him, were lynched at Basin, Wyo. C. E. Pierce, a deputy Sheriff, was killed during the attack on the jail.

Lawlessness now prevails in northern Wyoming as a result. Sheriff Fenton of Big Horn county has appealed to the Governor for military assistance. Last Wednesday it was reported that a mob was descending on Basin to lynch Gorman and Walters and the Sheriff hid the men in a gully. Gorman escaped but was recaptured yesterday. Yesterday a mob of about fifty men entered Basin, proceeded at once to the county jail and fired a volley into the prison. Deputy Sheriffs Pierce and Meade were guarding the prisoners. One bullet grazed Meade's shoulder and entered Pierce's heart. Members of the mob then tore up the telephone poles and battered the jail door down. They first came to Walters, who was crouched in his cell, begging piteously for mercy. Walters was shot and instantly killed. The mob next found Gorman, whose body was pierced by five bullets. Gorman lived some hours.

A godly heart is better than a golden tongue.

for Detectives Campau and Mahoney, who will probably go to Harrow to-morrow.

Mulder is a dangerous man and gave the police great trouble eight years ago when they arrested him for theft. He is swift of foot and a fighter when cornered. It took six men to capture him the last time he strayed from the straight path. They caged him in a house while a policeman went in to capture him. Suddenly there was a great commotion on the upper floor, and some called, "look out, he's making for the back window." So the policeman at the rear pulled his revolver and made ready for deeds of glory. Suddenly a huge, black tomcat, frightened by the disturbance, crashed through the window and landed on the startled officer. When the Negro found he was surrounded he surrendered.

DIED IN DRESDEN

Word has been received in this city of the death of Mrs. Thornton, beloved wife of Dr. H. R. Thornton, of Petrolia. Deceased has been ill for about two years, and her death has not been entirely unexpected. Deceased was a former Miss Etta Carscallen, of Dresden, where she is well known and very highly esteemed. Besides a bereaved husband she leaves three little children—one boy and two girls, the oldest of whom is 12 years of age—to mourn her loss.

Dr. A. W. Thornton, of this city, is a brother-in-law of deceased. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

MONDAY, JULY 20.

THE PASSING OF THE POPE

"Wasted thy frame. Life blood sustains no more thy shrunken veins. Death casts his fatal dart." As we write, the latest despatch informs us that the life of His Holiness Pope Leo is ebbing fast away. He has been in the valley of the shadow of death for nearly two weeks, and the hourly bulletins regarding his condition have been read by millions of eager eyes. Not only has ready sympathy and interest been manifest in him by the church which looks to him as its honored head, but by Christians wherever they may be found. One touch of nature makes the whole world kin. The prince and the peasant must alike enter the gloomy halls of death. Death is the common lot; and yet it is the sublimest act in the life drama of the greatest man. As the life of a great personage, whether it be a Victoria, a Gladstone or Pope Leo, hovers on the border of the Great Unknown from whose bourne no traveller has returned, the world stands with uncovered head. There is something religiously impressive in the closing of a long and eventful life, which the better class of men have held in veneration.

Pope Leo will be remembered as one of the greatest of popes who has ruled in the hearts of an empire vaster than that swayed by Caesar, or Charlemagne, or that ruled over by King Edward of to-day. His memory will go down in history as a wise statesman, a profound scholar and a humanitarian in the broadest sense.—Windsor Record.

ATTITUDE OF CHURCH.

Mr. Robert Holmes, M. P., has written an open letter to Rev. Dr. Carman, superintendent of the Methodist church, calling attention to the stock-gambling craze which has culminated so disastrously. Mr. Holmes says that "it is an open secret that young men and old have been induced to speculate in stocks simply because certain men, more or less prominent in the Methodist church, were at the head of a stock-broking firm that was apparently getting rich rapidly." He continues: "I have always supposed that the attitude of the Methodist church was extreme hostility to gambling, as the term is generally understood, and I think properly so. It opposes all games of chance, and its members are supposed to abide by its teachings and requirements. But the church seems to have closed its eyes to what has been going on in this direction, and apparently its members have been allowed to gamble in stocks with impunity and without reproach. Men who, I suppose, would not allow an ordinary pack of playing cards in their homes, have taken chances on stock exchanges, without apparently the slightest realization that they were inconsistent, or doing anything wrong, and the press has been the only one to reprove it." Mr. Holmes asks: "Has any leading officer of the Methodist church, or has any pastor thereof, publicly condemned what has been going on for months, and which has meant disaster and possible ruin to many? I have not seen it. Not a word of warning or reproof has been given, so far as I am aware." The Christian Guardian admits it as a fact greatly to be deplored "that in connection with recent occurrences the fair name of the Methodist church has, in the minds of the general public been mixed up with speculation. But the fact that persons, more or less closely identified with the church, have been more or less to blame, either as to methods or results, for the financial loss that has overtaken them and those connected with them, by no means comes from any want of plain teaching on the subject, either from the doctrines of the church or those set to administer them." "No fair-minded person," says the Guardian, "will deny that the whole emphasis of Methodist teaching, and the whole weight of the example of Methodists, are against these things, and always have been. Exceptions are sporadic, and only prove the rule." It is evidently the misfortune of Mr. Holmes that he has not been following the series of special sermons delivered by Rev. Mr. Fallis, of Woodstock, or he would not ask whether any pastor of the Methodist church had condemned "what has been going on for months, and which has meant disaster and possible ruin to many." The discourses of Mr. Fallis leave nothing to be desired in the matter of plain speaking.

A CITY PROFOUNDLY MOVED.

St. John Sun. In this city the retirement of Mr. Blair must cause much anxiety among a certain class of politicians, and among a number of business men who in politics have had personal relation to Mr. Blair. There are Liberals in St. John, and there are Blair men. If Mr. Blair has permanently separated from the premier a number of the friends of both will hardly know where they stand. There will also be a great searching of hearts among a host of men who are supporters of Mr. Blair on business grounds. They would be deeply distressed over any occurrence which would divide their immediate leader from the source of patronage.

Just a year ago Friday the Blenheim lacrosse club was defeated on the Park by a score of 5 to 4. The game much resembled last Friday's game, only Chatham was the winner a year ago. Quite a large number from Blenheim came in to see the game.

While the workmen were excavating for the gas pipe line on the Queen street boulevard they unearthed a number of brick intakes. The intakes were buried out of sight and were about a foot and a half below the surface. Just when they were put in and why was somewhat of a mystery to the workmen. Perhaps some of the old residents can throw some light on the subject.

The arbitrators appointed to decide the trouble over the desire to change school sections No. 9, 13 and 14, Chatham Township, held their preliminary meeting in Harrison Hall Saturday. Judge Bell, Inspector Park and A. M. Mason, of Camden, ex-warrior of the County, are the arbitrators. The union school a mile from Tupperville was burned and the residents of Tupperville want the school rebuilt in the village.

The County Property committee, James Ross, chairman, James Chinnick, S. P. Sturgis, W. C. Sifton, Peter Haggart and George Handy met Saturday. They visited the jail and examined one of the large 16-inch square timbers under the court room. The timber has decayed and will have to be replaced. The committee also are preparing to have the jail kalsomined and they are fitting up the judges' chamber with a library for the Kent Law Association. The need of new boxes in the registry office was investigated.

Friday night's rain caused the excavation for the intake at the corner of Robertson avenue and King street to cave in. Owing to the quicksand and the depth of the sewer the work has been abandoned and the hole filled in. A small sewer will be run to the intake at the corner instead. This will also accommodate the property owners. Owing to the depth of the trunk sewer at this point—i. e. 21 feet—and the quicksand make it almost impossible to make connections.

A MERRY GALE

The yacht Winona left the city Friday for the lighthouse in tow of the City of Chatham. On board the yacht were John W. McWhinney, Toronto; C. E. Beeston, S. B. Arnold and Ald. Thos. Scullard, this city. The deputy sheriff didn't return this morning as expected, and his friends feared lest the wind and rain affected the yacht. The Winona will be left at the lighthouse for the summer.

Ald. Thos. Scullard and deputy sheriff C. E. Beeston arrived in the city Saturday afternoon on the steamer City of Chatham safe and sound. "It was a lovely night at the lighthouse," remarked Mr. Beeston as he came off the boat, "Mr. Scullard and I slept in the boat while Doc Arnold and Mr. McWhinney took to the beach for their. The rain and wind whistled through our coverings the whole night long. It was the fiercest storm yet."

MISS SUSAN B. ANTHONY.

The Great Reformer and Brilliant Champion of Her Sex.

A wonderful old lady is that great reformer and brilliant champion of her sex, Miss Susan Brownell Anthony. Born at South Adams, Mass., in 1820, this girl of Quaker parentage was early taught the importance of courage, self reliance and of thinking and acting for oneself. Indeed courage has always been her strongest characteristic. Miss Anthony's early education was obtained from a school supported by her father for his own children and those of the neighborhood and later at a Quaker boarding school in West Philadelphia. At about this time her family moved to Battenville, N. Y. She began teaching at the early age of fifteen, though this was unnecessary at the time. When she was about eighteen years old, however, her father, a cotton manufacturer of considerable wealth, lost every penny of his fortune. The teaching had to be continued, and it was twelve years later before Miss Anthony gave up this line of work for the one which has made her so well known all over the world. She was teaching away from home when the first woman's rights convention was called at Rochester. Later she became interested in its cause and has ever since been its most ardent supporter. In 1852 she aided in organizing the first State Woman's Temperance society (New York). She became active during the civil war in anti-slavery and woman's rights work and was secretary of the Woman's National Loyal League. During the early discussions on the woman's property right bills Miss Anthony personally circulated hundreds of petitions, both civil and political, traveling through the state in all sorts of weather and in all sorts of vehicles—sometimes even tramping on foot—and often meeting with most discouraging, even insulting, rebuffs. In 1868 she founded a women's rights paper, the Revolution, and managed it for several years.

There is scarcely a state in the Union where Miss Anthony has not worked, and she has lectured widely both in America and England. Since 1869 she has been granted a hearing before committees of every congress. During the thirty-four years of the existence of the National Woman Suffrage association she has held high offices and is now president of that organization. Her contributions to leading magazines have been many. With Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Mrs. Matilda Joselyn Gage she is joint author of a three volume work, "The History of Woman Suffrage."

A Touch of Yellow.

A touch of the golden hue will do more for the decoration of a room than any other color in it. Put the richest blues, reds and greens in a color scheme, and they will not hold together or look quite right until the necessary yellow is there to keep them in place, so to speak. Yellow is the base of all the colors. It is the tuning up color. The general vivifying that a hopelessly "dead" looking room most often wants is just a piece of shining brass or a gilt frame or ornament here and there.

Soft, aesthetic shades and low tones of oriental softness are all right and beautiful, but they cannot stand alone in the thoroughly well furnished apartment. It must have a touch of gold here or there to make it of real value to the eye.

If a room is furnished throughout with the dull shades of brass and drab everywhere, a pair of brass andirons will lighten up the color scheme. They will not only do this, but will seem to add a greater value to the colors themselves. A gold embroidered scarf draped upon the mantel or over a high backed chair might add the necessary touch of golden lightness to a room that needed it.

Even a bow of bright yellow ribbon will transform a room in appearance which otherwise would go unnoticed for lack of just such a useful color brace to make it right.

Children's Terrors.

A celebrated English physician who has made the diseases of children his specialty says that it is a very common thing for children to see visions owing to the instability of their nervous system. Often there come before their eyes apparitions which they think are real. These objects may differ at different times or they may always appear to the child in the same form. To these vivid impressions of which the child himself is only conscious are attributed the unreasonable fears and terrors which occur in some children and which parents find it so difficult to account for. The nervous child is filled with fears, and the ridicule to which he is subjected when he displays these causes him to endure his miseries in silence oftentimes, and thus he is deprived of the comfort and compassion to which he is justly entitled. Not only should his fears and troubles be regarded with a tender and enlightened sympathy in order to give him comfort, but to banish the baneful reaction which they occasion in his brain. The temptation for the weary nurse or mother called out of sleep in the middle of the night by the little dreamer is to speak sharply and crossly and to bring the culprit to a sense of actuality by shaking him soundly. It is very wrong to do so and is an added shock to the nervous system.

GIRL WOMEN.

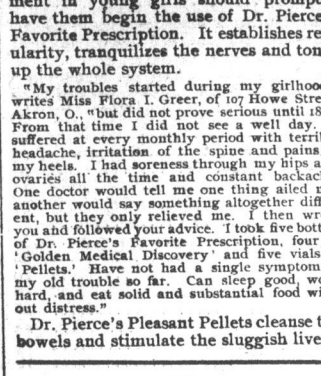

The general standard of measurement for womanhood is "grown-up-ness." When a girl is emancipated from school and arrives at the dignity of trailing skirts and elaborate hair dressing she is looked upon as a young woman.

But nature knows nothing of such standards. When the womanhood is attained according to her standards, and there is need of womanly care and caution. It is girlish ignorance or neglect at this critical time which often results in long years of after misery.

Mothers who perceive the evidences of functional derangement in young girls should promptly have them begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, tranquillizes the nerves and tones up the whole system.

"My troubles started during my girlhood," writes Miss Flora I. Greer, of 107 Howe Street, Akron, O., "but did not prove serious until 1893. From that time I did not see a well day. I suffered at every monthly period with terrible headache, irritation of the spine and pains in my back. I had soreness through my hips and ovaries all the time and constant backache. One doctor would tell me one thing and another would say something altogether different, but they only relieved me. I then wrote up Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and five vials of 'Pellets.' Have not had a single symptom of my old trouble so far. Can sleep good, work hard, and eat solid and substantial food without distress."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

Women as Embalmers.

Not so very long ago the licensed woman embalmer was so rare as to excite remark. Now there are enough women regularly established in the calling to warrant their having an independent association and registered headquarters. The woman embalmer, like the trained nurse, goes on many out of town missions and must be ready to answer a summons whether it comes at midnight or midnight. So the association's headquarters, where her telephone and verbal calls can be received and answered properly, offer an advantage. Several women embalmers have their signs out for general business, but the majority work in co-operation with undertakers, just as the trained nurses depend on physicians to send them cases. The high class undertakers say that women embalmers are now essential to their business.

A Woman's Foresight.

While a number of women were discussing masculinity and masculine habits a clever little creature remarked: "I can't bear a man who carries a purse and keeps his change in it. I had a beau once and was ready to accept the proposal he was about ready to make. On a street car one day I saw him take out a miserable little purse and search its interior for a dime. He had some trouble finding it, while the conductor waited impatiently."

"It set me to thinking, and in my mind I could see him opening that little purse and searching for a dime when I, as his wife, should ask for funds for a new dress or a hat."

Curse DRINK

CURED BY COLONIAL REMEDY

No taste. No odor. Can be given in glass of water, tea or coffee without patient's knowledge. Colonial Remedy will cure or destroy the diseased appetite or alcoholic stimulents, whether the patient is a confirmed inebriate, "tippler," social drinker or drunkard. Impossible for any one to have an appetite for alcoholic liquors after using Colonial Remedy.

Indorsed by Members of W. C. T. U. Mrs. Moore, Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Ventura, Cal., writes:—"I have tested Colonial Remedy on very obstinate drunkards, and the cure has been many. In many cases the remedy was given secretly. I cheerfully recommend and endorse Colonial Remedy. Members of our Union are delighted to find a practical and economical treatment to aid us in our temperance work."

Sold by druggists everywhere and by mail. Price 50 cts. Trial package free by writing or calling on Mrs. M. A. Cowan (for years member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union) 2202 St. Catherine St., Montreal. Sold at DAVIS' DRUG STORE, Garner Block, King St., Chatham.

"I don't think he would not even admit that he might hope."

Duty in Dress.

To suppose that even brains and fame will excuse carelessness of dress is not only to insult our friends; it is rather an evidence of egotism, says the Washington Times. If a man extends an invitation to a woman to accompany him to the theater or any other place of entertainment, he expects her to appear at her best. He wants to feel proud of her himself and to have others share that pride. He would very likely feel insulted if she failed to look as well as he expected. The more prosperous a woman looks the more she will be sought after, and the little accessories of the toilet are the telling adjuncts of a woman's tout ensemble.

The Woman of the World.

The woman of the world in the truest sense is one of the best fitted for successful homemaking. Tact, insight, dignity, grace and ready sympathy characterize her dealings with others, and nowhere are these qualifications of more value than in the home. Women's clubs are woman's opportunity for much that is ennobling to herself and to others. Like many other useful things, the privilege may be abused and degenerate into mere dissipation, but such cases are exceptional.

Sewing on Buttons.

When sewing on buttons with holes through them, lay a pin over the button, so that the thread with which you are sewing will take in the pin. After passing the thread through the button as often as necessary pull out the pin and wind the thread around between the button and the cloth. This will form a neck for the button, making it at once easier to fasten and stronger.

Arranging a Salad.

In arranging a salad consider that it must be a pleasing table decoration as well as a palatable dish. An artistic and delicious salad, like a good soup, may redeem an otherwise hopeless dinner, as it pleases all the senses and leaves an impression that counteracts the effect of badly cooked meats and vegetables.

Bath Temperatures.

Remember that a cold bath is one from 50 to 70 degrees F; tepid, from 85 to 92 degrees; warm, from 92 to 98 degrees; hot, 98 to 100 degrees. In the case of vapor baths the warmest degree under ordinary circumstances is about 130 degrees.

Chairs should be chosen for comfort as well as for appearance. The fragile ones that look as if they would collapse if a person sat on them should find no place in the home.

If washtubs are inverted on the cellar floor and a quart or two of water poured over the bottom, they will not shrink or dry out.

A bride should either thank personally or write notes to all people who send wedding presents.

A well furnished house is one that unites beauty and comfort.

She Could Spell Too.

While waiting in the reception room for their hostess some visitors were entertained by that lady's four-year-old daughter. One of the callers remarked to the other:

"She is not very p-r-e-t-t-y."

"No," instantly replied the child; "I am not very p-r-e-t-t-y, but I am very s-m-a-r-t."

The Publishers' Error.

"The publishers told Arthur that he would have to rewrite a good portion of his book before they could bring it out."

"Humph! I should think they would have had him rewrite some of the bad portions."

Musical Diagnosis.

"What an awful voice that man's got!" said the manager, who was listening to the throaty tenor.

"Call that a voice?" said his friend. "It's a disease!"

A Repeaked Astrologer.

Lilly, the astrologer and alchemist, could not see for himself sufficiently far into that future which he professed to be able to scan so clearly for others to guard him against making a fool of himself by marrying. He caught a vixen, "of the temper of Mars," to use his own words, and the fact that she brought him $500 as dowry did not count for much in the way of compensation seeing that "she and her relations cost him $1,000."

DEATH'S CALL CAME AT LAST

Pope Leo XIII Passed Peace-fully Away at 4.04 This Afternoon.

End was Expected all Day—Cardinal Vannutelli said Prayers for the Dying

Special to The Planet.

Rome, July 20.—His Holiness Pope Leo passed away at 4.04 this afternoon.

Rome, July 20, 2.45 p. m.—The Pope has entered into what the doctors believe to be his last agony. The death rattle is audible to those waiting outside the sick room.

Dr. Mazzoni, on leaving the sick chamber a few moments ago, said the present indications pointed to the Pope's death within two hours.

Rome, July 20, 1.50 p. m.—Dr. Mazzoni has been hastily recalled to the Vatican. It is believed the supreme moment is very near.

At 12.35 p. m. information came from the Vatican that it is feared the Pope's last moment is fast approaching. All the cardinals have been summoned to the Vatican.

After his first visit to the Pope this morning, Dr. Mazzoni went to see Cardinal Rampolla and had a conference with him which lasted a half hour.

The following medical bulletin was issued at 9.35 a. m.:

During the night the Holy Father rested only at short intervals. His general condition remains grave. Pulse, 94; respiration, 32; temperature, 38.2 centigrade.
(Signed)
LAPPONI,
MAZZONI.

While the doctors were examining their patient this morning, believing him to be in a stupor, His Holiness suddenly fixed his eyes, even now bright and by no means lifeless, on them, saying:

"This time, doctors, you will not win in your brave fight with death."
"It is your holiness who is brave," replied Dr. Lapponi, but before the remark was uttered the Pope was again unable to understand what was said.

NEWS IN CHATHAM.

Word was received, via C. P. R. telegraph, in the city to-day at 12.30 of the decease of Pope Leo XIII. at Rome, and it was but a short time before the bells of both Ursuline Academy chapel and St. Joseph's church were pealing forth the sad, but not altogether unexpected, intelligence.

The Academy chapel bell tolled 94 times, the number of years of the life of the late Pope. The corridors and chapel of the Academy have been draped in black and "vespers for the dead" will be held this evening. Tomorrow morning high mass, the requiem, will be held at seven o'clock at St. Joseph's church the bell was tolled, but what the services will be will not be known until advice arrives from Bishop McEvoy, of this London Diocese. There is no doubt but that the special services will be begun to-morrow morning.

"HIS CONQUERING KINGDOM."

Dr. Carman's Address to the Epworth League.

Detroit, July 20.—Deep religious feeling and earnestness of purpose characterized the closing hours of the great international Epworth League convention yesterday. The most interesting and eloquent speakers of the great religious organization had been selected, with the express purpose of creating a vivid and lasting impression upon the minds of the thousands who had gathered in different edifices to hear from the lips of the brightest lights in Methodism the secret of the great truth with which leaguers all over the world are endeavoring to imbue mankind.

Rev. Dr. Alfred Carman of Toronto preached to an immense congregation at the Tabernacle M. E. Church in the morning, and at night spoke on "His Conquering Kingdom," at the Auditorium Church. His closing remarks were in the nature of a eulogy of the work that is being done by the league.

Dr. Carman made an eloquent plea for still greater effort in the line of civic righteousness, drawing a strong picture of the part which the Epworth League is to play in the uplifting of the world and closing with a brilliant peroration which held his auditors spell-bound.

Rev. W. S. Sparling, D.D., of Toronto, delivered a sermon in the morning to a large congregation at the Woodward Avenue Baptist Church. Other Canadians who occupied local pulpits were: Rev. A. E. Laval, B.A., of Waterloo, at Scotten Avenue Baptist Church; Rev. C. O. Johnson, Toronto, at Martha Holmes Memorial M. E. Church; Rev. J. J. Rae, Oshawa, at Tent Ontario; Rev. Geo. J. Bishop, London, at Detroit Opera House; Rev. J. H. Riddell, B. D., of Wesley University, Winnipeg, at Burns Avenue M. E. Church; Rev. J. S. Ross, D.D., Walkerton, at Church of the Covenant; Rev. John McDougall, D.D., Calgary, at Central Presbyterian Church; Rev. J. R. Patterson, Thorold, at Calvary Presbyterian Church; Rev. J. H. Oliver, Listowel, at Eighteenth Street Baptist Church.

Detroit, Mich., July 20.—Among the resolutions adopted at the last meeting of the league were the following: "The gigantic iniquity of the Anglo-Saxon race is a fostering of the monstrous traffic in intoxicants. We believe the complete disenfranchisement of the business will abolish dangers that threaten us and clear up problems that perplex us. We regard the Christian Sabbath as the bulwark of defence for our Sabbath endurances. To desecrate the Sabbath is to endanger everything of importance to the Church of God. We are citizens and patriots as well as Christians. Hence, we record ourselves as upholders of law and order always and everywhere, as against all lawlessness and unlawful violence."

BAD FISH

Anthony Leguille was convicted on Saturday on the charge of selling fish unfit for human food and fined $10 and costs, $13.50 in all. Leguille swore that he had taken the fish which the inspector had condemned home and smoked them and had afterwards sold them. He said that the smoking took away all the taste and flavor of decay. This aroused the court and, when G. G. Martin asked for a small fine, Judge Houston replied that he should make it as heavy as he could since Leguille had deliberately sold the fish he had been ordered to destroy. Leguille wanted time to pay up, but Chief Holmes wasn't doing business on trust. When the man found the Chief obdurate, he produced the necessary coin from his jeans and paid up.

MUCH IMPROVED.

John Ross Walker received a telegram from Dick Fullerton, last evening, saying that Douglas Stevens was very low and not expected to live. Owing to the serious illness of N. H. Stevens the telegram was not sent to the family by Mr. Fullerton. Dr. Rollin Stevens was just preparing to go to Rosser this morning, when a second telegram came from Dick to School Trustee H. S. Clements, stating that Douglas was in the hospital at Winnipeg and was much improved, and was now out of danger. It is the general impression here that Mr. Fullerton just got a little over-anxious.

A WOMAN STRANGLER.

MORE MYSTERY IN THE PORT STANLEY CASE.

The Strangulation May Have Occurred by Water—Inquest Not Finished—No One to Identify the Body Found on Port Stanley Beach.

London, Ont., July 20.—Up till yesterday the young woman whose body was found in Lake Erie at Port Stanley had not been identified. Many residents of London and St. Thomas viewed the remains, but none were able to establish her identity. A jury, presided over by Coroner Grey of St. Thomas, heard evidence on Saturday that the woman's death was due to strangulation. Mystery still envelops the case to a certain degree, not only as to the woman's identity but as to the circumstances surrounding her death. The physicians who performed the post-mortem examination state that it is uncertain whether death occurred before or after the body entered the water. The woman may have been strangled by water or by a person's hand. The inquest will be continued in a few days.

The body is in a good state of preservation. It is that of a woman five feet six and a half inches high, thirty-three inches at the bust, wearing a number four Oxford tie shoe. She had light brown eyes, dark brown hair, full face, heavy neck and rather flattened nose, a mole on the right cheek, was slightly built and weighed about 110 pounds. She wore a black cloth dress with figured skirt waist trimmed with velvet, having basket worked straw hat with velvet trimmings, and green ribbons, lined with muslin. She was about 35 years old.

He was working on one of the wagons, when he was in some way jolted off, and fell a distance of ten feet, striking on the back of his head and breaking one of the large arteries. He died almost instantly.

AN APOLOGY

To Lieut.-Col. Rankin, K. C., Chatham:

Dear Sir,—I sincerely regret the language used by me with reference to the members of the 24th Kent Regiment, at the Drill Shed, and interference with the drill; and I further regret the language used by me on King St., with reference to the Commanding Officer and other Officers, and I hereby make the most ample apology for both, and I promise that hereafter I shall in no way or manner, directly or indirectly, make use of any such language, either towards the Regiment or otherwise.

I further sincerely regret the letter which I caused to be published in The Planet and News in reference to what occurred at the Drill Shed, in which I stated that I was prepared to repeat the language I used there at any time. Col. Rankin might mention.

Dated this 20th July, 1903.

TILBURY

July 20.—The junior baseball club plays at Dresden next Thursday.

Wm. Wellwood had his hand severely injured on a circular saw at Sloan's mill Saturday.

A party of twelve left here Saturday night for a day's outing at Algonome, Mich., taking a steam launch from the lighthouse.

W. Earley and Bruce Richardson spent yesterday at Detroit.

Mrs. P. Shaw and daughter Maude are visiting in Leamington.

Four special trains went through here Saturday. It was the occasion of the M. C. R. employees excursion to Detroit and a number went from here.

A severe rain and hail storm passed over this section last night and it is feared the crops will suffer in consequence.

The baseball club is endeavoring to arrange a game with Highgate here this week. A tour is also being arranged for next month, to include St. Thomas, Ingersoll, Aylmer, London, Lucan, Ailsa Craig and Sarnia.

A DRAFT HORSE'S DEBUT.

How the Auctioneer introduced him to the city market.

How Chieftain, a heavy draft horse, made his debut in New York city is told by Sewell Ford in "Horse Nine" as follows: He had been the boast of Keokuk county for a whole year. "We'll show 'em what we can do in Indiana," the stock master had said. Chieftain, his silver white tail carefully done up in red flannel, was led aboard the cars for shipment east.

They are not unused to ton weight horses in the neighborhood of the Bull's Head, where the great sales stables are. Still, when Chieftain was brought out, his fine dappled coat shining like frosted steel in the sunlight, and his splendid tail, which had been done up in straw crimps over night, rippling and waving behind him, there was a great craning of necks among the buyers of heavy drafts.

"Gentlemen," the red faced auctioneer had shouted, "here's a buster, one of the kind you read about, wide as a wagon, with a leg on each corner. There's a ton of him, a whole ton. Who'll start him at $300? Why, he's as good as money in the bank."

That had been Chieftain's introduction to the metropolis.

The Somali.

A military correspondent gives a good description of the Somali, who as a fighting man is not first class, though he is fond of drill and proud of his uniform. But he is by nature decidedly effeminate; his toilet is a constant source of anxiety to himself, and the pains he will take to curl his crisp black hair by the application of various substances to his head is incredible. He is fond of finery, of luxurious and indolent habits, and keeps up an incessant fire of chatter. He is grasping, and in the matter of food is greedy. Timid in the presence of the European, he is easily excited and quickly loses his head. Dancing is one of his chief pastimes, accompanied by the loud clapping of hands and a continuous and monotonous wall, which no doubt does duty for a song. Somali women never dance, and scarcely even smile; they are completely cowed by the men, who treat them in most cases unkindly, if not actually cruelly. The Somali is most punctilious in the performance of his religious rites; but he seems hypocritical to a degree.—London Express.

Violin Variations.

The violin dealer was talking about the mystery of the old violin varnishes. "The wonderful tone of the old violins," he said, "depended on the varnish a great deal. The secret has been lost. We don't know today how the old varnishes were made. Charles Roede, who was into this subject deeply, claimed that oil with gum in solution and color evaporated in spirit were the bases of the best varnish. But whether he was right or wrong no one knows. A violin consists of from thirty to seventy pieces. We make violins today just as they were made in the past, but we don't varnish them the same. Some varnishes contained ground amber. Recently, to the ruin of a priceless Guarnerius, its varnish was scraped off and analyzed and an abundance of amber powder was found."

Bear Worshipers of Japan.

The queerest and perhaps the oldest people of the earth are the Ainu, the bear idolaters, who are found in the Japanese islands of Koryu, Sakhalin, and chiefly in Yezo or Honnald. They number more than 18,000 souls in all, and they are fast disappearing. They have the broad nose and the oblique eyes which characterize the Chinese and Asiatic races generally, but there the resemblance ends. The Ainu are a large and powerful people, straight as an arrow. All the Ainu declare they sprang from the Great White Dog—the bear—and a princess of the south. The bear is their chief god.

How to See Under Water.

A lens for seeing under water is described as producing an effect which is both astonishing and delightful. It gives distinct vision to objects from twenty to thirty feet below the surface which are usually out of ordinary eye range. The eye's loss of extending vision when under water is owing to the fact that an entirely different focus is required. The spectacles which can adjust this focus are made by putting two watch crystals back to back or with the concavities outward. Try it and be surprised.

The Only Thing They Ever Did.

John Bright's powers of sarcasm were almost unrivaled. Some of his sharpest utterances have been against members of the nobility. When boasts had been made of the antiquity of a prominent family, that their ancestors came over with the Conqueror, his reply was prompt, "I never heard that they did anything else."

Wanted Every Detail.

Pauline, aged six, was listening to the story of the marriage at Cana and the miracle of the water and the wine. After her mother had finished her recital the little girl inquired: "Mother, what did you say was the name of the gentleman who gave the party?"

Not Wholly Idle.

Clara—Does Harry help you with the house cleaning?
Harriet—Well, he hangs the pictures crooked and does the grumbling.

His Proud Boast.

"What is your position in the choir?" asked the new church member.
"Absolutely neutral," replied the mild toner. "I don't side with either faction."

Naval Discipline.

The force of naval discipline is shown in this true story of the captain who, fatally smitten with cholera, was being taken ashore to the hospital. The story is told in "Sport in the Navy." The captain's men were rowing as slowly and gently as possible in order not to disturb him. The dying captain beckoned the midshipman in charge of the boat and whispered these last words:

"Ten days' black list for the crew for not giving way!"

Sleep Methods.

It is said that hours of sleep can be regulated by two simple methods: First, never allow yourself to be awakened, but insist on being undisturbed until you awaken naturally; second, get up the minute you are awake. The hours of sleep will soon become adapted to the requirements of your constitution.

Gory.

"What do you gain by deluging every street of Paris with blood?" declaimed Danton.
"At least I will make a great alloy gory," reasoned Robespierre, glancing down the Rue Royale at the reeking guillotine.

Her First Query.

"My dear," said Mr. Cabbage to his wife, who was dangerously ill, "Mrs. Kicksaw is downstairs and wants to see you."
"What has she got on?" asked the dying woman feebly.

A man is young a great deal longer than he is old, but it doesn't seem so long.—Athens Globe.

The Pain of Silence.

"We women," she was saying again, "suffer in silence."
"I can readily believe that you do suffer in silence," the man replied.
"You take so much pleasure in talk."

A Nice Distinction.

"If you were a woman," said the bachelor girl, who was entertaining a caller, "I'd show you my new frock, but as you are a man I'll show the slippers that go with it."

Burdock Blood Bitters

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM AND ADDED TEN POUNDS IN WEIGHT.

Mr. Ed. J. Harris, Newbridge, Ont., was in poor health, but has now been restored to full health and vigor. Here is what he writes us: "Last spring I was in a very critical condition, my system was all run down. I felt drowsy and miserable, and thought I would surely die if I did not get something to build me up. After reading one of your almanacs I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I had taken two bottles I had gained ten pounds in weight, and am now in perfect health, and I can certainly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters to build up the system."

THE INDIAN OF CANADA.

We Treat Our Red Men in Such Fashion That They Do Not Object to Be Ruled by the Whites.

Canada is making good Indians out of live ones. The Dominion started the right way about it. While the red citizens of the United States were engaged in repelling the advance of civilization, while they were massacring the settler and the settler's family as they pushed their way further and further west, the Canadian Indian was trapping the game of the north for the Hudson's Bay Company, and in this way benefiting mankind.

The fact that in Canada the white man brought the Indian congenial employment, brought the white man's need for the Indian to fill, and for which he was ready to pay, put the attitude of both into their proper relations. Go where you will in western Canada even at this date and the H.B.C. flag of the old company is a safeguard against theft by any Indian. To the Indian that flag stood for their employer's, for a Government that left them their wild free life and their game. But it represented a Government none the less, a Government for the Indian by the white man, but a Government of such a character that the savage did not rebel against it.

There are nearly one-half of the Indians of Canada still under the jurisdiction of the Hudson's Bay Company. They are the natives of the far north and include the typical red men of the forest and the Esquimaux far beyond the Arctic circle. To these the factor at the Hudson's Bay Company post at which they dispose of the trophies of the chase for what they consider the luxuries of life is both lawmaker and lawgiver. His authority is unquestioned, and his order meets with instant obedience. The source of his authority is neither known nor cared; to him chiefs, medicine men and warriors bow a willing knee.

The tourist from Winnipeg west finds Indians at every station. In Winnipeg they come into the city in the winter yime with dog teams and sledges, bringing to the market offered by the fur traders, of whom there are now a number, the skins they have secured during the summer months, and taking back with them the powder and other things for which they exchange their products. During the summer months the really picturesque Indian is unknown in Winnipeg. They reside too far north to make the trip except when the winter's snows offer a method of transportation, but as the tourist travels westward he finds more of them. They are seen at every hand, and it is hard to believe that there are less than 10,000 of them all told in Canada.

Hon. David Laird was once asked: "Where is the best place to see the typical Canadian Indian?"
"It depends entirely on what one classes as typical," he replied.
"What we could class as typical western Canadian Indians are those in the schools, on the farms and the cattle ranges. They are not the picturesque Indians however. If you are looking for paint and feathers there is no better place than around Calgary. There you can see the Indian in all his savage finery, but they are typical of a generation ago, not of to-day."

Canada has successfully educated a large percentage of her Indian population. All over the western provinces and territories are Indian boarding and day schools in which the younger generation of Indians take a great interest, and in which thousands of them are perfecting themselves for lives of civilization and usefulness.

But the old love for the wild life is not entirely dead even among the younger generations. About Calgary may be seen the Crows, the Blackfeet, and a little farther west in the foothills of the mountains the Stony tribe. With them the moccasins, the blanket, the buckskin breeches and shirt constitute the wearing apparel; the squaws still perform the drudgery of the camp, her lord is still a hunter, and to a small extent a cattle ranger. The tepee is the common home, and they are seen by hundreds from Medicine Hat to the Rocky mountains.

A Floating Sawmill.

They are operating a floating sawmill on Lake Champlain with a great deal of success.

It is a two-storied, ark-like affair, but upon a heavy float. The boiler and sawing machinery occupy the entire main deck. The upper story is divided into living rooms for the crew. As soon as the mill has finished with one batch of logs a small tug tows it to the next cove. The mill can be hired by the week or by the job, and in some cases the logs have been cut on shares. The result has been that farmers along the lake have been able to cut their trees and market the lumber with profit.

A high stack rises out of the house at the stern, giving the craft the appearance of an antiquated steamer. In the same end are wide doors, through which the logs are hauled to the sawing block. The lumber is passed out through one port-hole on the side of the barge and the slab through another. The sawdust and scraps are carried to the fireroom, and furnish the fuel.

Dr. Doyle as Sherlock Holmes.

Dr. Conan Doyle tells thus of a bit of aimless Sherlock Holmesing which he did in real life: "I was in a tailor shop when a rather unattractive man was selecting a pair of trousers. He flatly objected to striped goods, and I got the idea that he was an ex-convict. To satisfy myself I visited one or two prisons and, sure enough, found the man's picture in the rogues' gallery. Doubtless he had had enough of striped wearing apparel."

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted, so while it may not be a crime to have it, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itching of the skin, eruptions or blotches, sores in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old" or "cheap" treatment—be wary of mineral poisons—be wary of Quacks and Patents. OUR NEW METHOD OF TREATMENT—We guarantee to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURE GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

The following is one of the many testimonials received for one of our No. 2 2-Furrow Plows. We have just received a carload of the plows, and will put them in the field for trial. They are guaranteed to give the best of satisfaction. Guaranteed to pull as light as a walking plow, to do as good work in all kinds of ground; call and see the New 2-Furrow Perrin Riding Plow before you purchase.

A. H. PATTERSON, Esq., Chatham, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I have thoroughly tested the Perrin No. 2 2-Furrow Riding Plow with the John Deere two furrow plow. I must say that the John Deere Plow is not what is required for all kinds of plowing, and is a dangerous plow to work with, which I know to my sorrow, having broken my collar bone, from plow upsetting.

I kept the Perrin Plow in preference, returning the John Deere Plow. I consider the Perrin a much better plow in every respect.

AN ATLANTIC LINER

HOW PASSENGERS ARE SAFEGUARDED IN CROSSING THE OCEAN.

Ship's Fire and Boat Drills Are Exciting and Picturesque Scenes—The Two Are Entirely Separate and Distinct, But Each Is Interesting—Problem of Feeding the Thousands Who Travel Across the Big Food Yearly.

Now that the summer exodus of Canadians to Europe is at its height, the methods employed by the great Atlantic liners to safeguard the lives of their passengers become a matter of absorbing interest. Visitors in the vicinity of an ocean steamer at the proper hour while she lies in harbor, whether it be in American or British waters, will witness scenes most exciting and picturesque if they chance to see the ship's fire and boat drills which take place during the liner's stay in port. The fire drills of the big liners usually take place on Sunday. The great vessel lies serene, her broad decks deserted except for the presence of the officer who happens to be on watch and a few seamen engaged in desultory tasks.

Suddenly the air is cut by the sharp notes of a clanging gong. "Ding dong" it clangs; then an interval and then again "ding dong." That gong is practically a cry of "Fire!" The two sharp strokes close together mean that the blaze is located amidship. Had it been located forward there would have been a single stroke of the bell; if in the after part of the vessel there would have been three.

The previous placidity of the great liner is transformed in a twinkling to tremendous activity. Men sprang into sight on every part of the deck. There is hurry everywhere, but no confusion and very little noise. That is part of the training—discipline, no disturbance.

Each man on board, from the captain to the youngest deck cadet, moves quickly to the station that has been assigned him. Each knows from training and from frequent instruction what duties are required of him. The crew masters under the bridge; the officers take their positions at the different pumps; the boatswain looks after the hose; the quartermasters take charge of the nozzles and axes, and the carpenter hurries to the chief officer with the axes that will be needed by the men who are to fight their way against the fire in the holds. It all happens in a minute.

But the activity is by no means confined to the deck. Down in the engine rooms, where they know nothing of what is happening save what the warning gong and the rush of hurrying feet above have told them and where the strain is consequently even more intense, there are scenes of similar energy. The second engineer officer takes charge of the hydraulics for lowering the boats. Others look after the steam valves, through which steam can be forced into the various cargo compartments to fight the fire; others assume direction of pumps and hose.

In the passenger quarters, too, there are equally important duties to be performed. The purser's first task is to look after the ship's passengers and the mails. The surgeon quiets the passengers and attends to those who may require his care. The cooks and bakers hurry provisions to the boats. Some of the stewards gather up blankets for possible use. Others attend the hose or prepare to pass buckets, and still others reinforce the crew assembled on the deck.

This is the first alignment of the forces arrayed against the fire. Their further movements must be governed by circumstances and will be determined by the captain. He has his army well in hand now. He knows where every battalion and company is, and he proceeds to advance upon the foe with all possible speed. The hose is quickly coupled, the pumps set to work, and streams from all directions are concentrated on the fire, while the reserve forces are on hand, armed with buckets, to quell any minor blaze that may be started by flying sparks or brands.

The boat drill in practice is a performance entirely separate from the fire drill, although it usually takes place directly after the other. When the call to the boats is sounded each man moves as quickly as possible to a particular station which has been assigned to him. Each member of the crew when he signed his papers received a metal badge bearing a certain number, and this number indicates the position which he is to take at the particular boat to which he is assigned. The crew for each boat is usually about twelve in number, and the boats are numbered consecutively, from 1 to 16 perhaps.

In each of these boats a supply of water and bread is always kept, which is replenished at certain intervals, but if the boats are to leave the ship additional supplies, blankets, and so forth, are brought up by the stewards, cooks and scullions.

The different officers take charge of the boats. The crews man them. They are swung out from the davits and lowered into the water. Everything moves with the clockwork precision of a military review. For the purposes of the drill the boats are lowered to the water and rowed around the ship. This is, of course, sufficient for the training of the men and to test the efficiency of the boats.

Next in importance to precautions for safeguarding life is the problem of feeding the thousands carried across the Atlantic. The amount of food that travelers on any one of the big liners consume during a voyage is enormous. To provide this tremendous supply of eatables requires all the attention of a special department in each of the big steamship companies.

This duty is in charge of a port steward, who has under him an assistant and several clerks. One of the factors to be considered is the possible delay by accident of the ship. So as to avoid possible danger of the passengers going hungry the big liners, which ordinarily make a voyage in less than seven days, carry provisions sufficient to feed its passengers and crew for a month.

When the port steward enters upon the task of deciding the quantity and variety of supplies necessary to equip the ship in hand for her next voyage he first ascertains what is left over from the voyage just ended.

IN THE PANTRY OF AN OCEAN LINER.
This information is furnished by the chief steward of the vessel, who keeps a record of the exact amount of every commodity on board that is consumed from day to day. At the end of the voyage this record is checked up and shows exactly what is left in stock.

The chief steward's sheet is turned over to the port steward who thereupon proceeds, in consultation with the chief steward, to make out the requisition for the ensuing voyage. When it is completed this requisition reads like the commissary orders of an army. Here are some of the items taken from recent voyages of the liners. Fresh beef, mutton and lamb, 33,000 pounds; 750 chickens and ducks, 5,500 pounds of corn and bacon, 10,000 eggs, 3,000 pounds of fresh fish, 200 barrels of flour, 5,000 pounds of butter and 1,600 quarts of ice cream.

These are random items, but they give some idea of the quantity of provisions required to feed a shipload of voyagers from one shore to the other of the Atlantic.

History of a Phrase.

The phrase "robbing Peter to pay Paul" is supposed to have originated in an incident which occurred in London during the sixteenth century. About the year 1540 the Abbey of St. Peter in Westminster was elevated to the dignity of a cathedral, but ten years later was again joined to the diocese of London and its property appropriated to pay the expenses of some necessary repairs to the Cathedral of St. Paul. It was evident that to do honor to St. Paul the estate of Peter had to suffer, and hence the expression which has become proverbial.

A Bad Mix.

A sort of employed at the postoffice was discovered by a friend the other evening in his "diggings" looking very rueful indeed. "I'm in a frightful hole," he said. "I went twice two doctors yesterday and got a medical certificate from each. One was a certificate of health for all insurance company and the other was a certificate of illness to send to the chief with my petition for a week's leave of absence."

"I've often told that myself," said his friend. "That's the matter?" "Matter! Oh, I mixed the certificates in putting them. The insurance company has my certificate of ill health and the chief has my certificate of good health."—London Standard.

HIS TROUBLES NEVER CAME BACK

Ernest Grant took Dodd's Kidney Pills—They Removed the Cause

He Had Backache and Urinary Troubles for Twelve Years Before He Used the Great Kidney Remedy.

Montreal, July 19.—(Special).—Ernest Grant, 287 1-2 Urban street, this city, is among those who never let an opportunity pass to say a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills. He has his reasons for this, and here they are in his own words:

"I had been troubled with Backache and Kidney Disease for twelve years," says Mr. Grant. "My urine was very dark and high colored. I would lose my rest at night on account of having to rise so often to urinate. I could do nothing to help me."

"I tried several remedies, but all failed until I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. When I had taken four boxes I was able to go to bed and take my rest, my Backache left me and I was cured. It has never come back."

When Dodd's Kidney Pills cure, the disease never comes back. They remove the cause.

Manage Your Own Home.

Manage your own house; do not allow your house to manage you. Formulate and adopt your own system or plan of work. No two households can be managed on the same plan any more than any two people think and act exactly alike. Having adopted your plan of work, adhere to it only when in your judgment it seems best. Vary when occasion calls. Your home is not a machine, nor are your husband and children parts of a machine. Apply your plan, common sense to your housekeeping. Do what you do cheerfully and as well as you can, but don't overdo. No matter how well ordered is the house it is not a home if ruled over by one worn, nervous, irritable or indifferent.

AN AERONAUT'S DEED.

THE PARACHUTE REFUSED TO OPEN.

A Young Man Named Trussle Narrowly Escapes a Violent Death at Montreal—Dropped Through a Tree and Received Injuries.

Montreal, July 20.—Unknown at the time to thousands of spectators, a young aeronaut named Trussle, who ascended with a balloon here Saturday afternoon, to advertise a brand of tobacco, had a desperately exciting experience from his own standpoint, and narrowly escaped a horrible death. As it was, he received injuries sufficient to cause his removal to the General Hospital, where he still remains.

The ascent was entirely successful, but the descent was more than the management had promised. Arrangements were in charge of Prof. Wolcott, and when the word to "let go" was given the balloon shot upwards with Trussle dangling from the trapeze. There was a high wind at the time, and soon the man and his aerial carriage were floating away towards the city. The "break away" of the parachute was made at what appeared to be an immense height, about 4,000 feet, according to the management. Trussle explains that when he pulled the parachute loose he began to descend rapidly, as usual, but to his horror the huge umbrella-like attachment did not spread open, and every second the speed of his downward fall increased. He tugged at the ropes and discovered one of them not properly attached. Drawing himself up with all speed he tugged again, and was delighted to see the big ribs beginning to spread. Then the speed slackened somewhat, but the tremendous momentum was too much for the parachute to counteract within the remaining distance between it and the earth. It was so far away, that the spectators looked at it all as a part of the performance, and about the time that Trussle was desperately tugging at the ropes he was passing below the range of vision.

By the time the parachute came to within a hundred feet of the earth its speed had been appreciably reduced, but a second later Trussle struck a tree, through which he fell to the ground. Managing after a short time, to crawl to a nearby house, he sent a message to the General Hospital. The ambulance went out and brought him into the city.

The hospital doctors report that Trussle received a broken shoulder and concussion of the brain.

COMPANY FIGHTING HARD.

Sixty More Scotch Moulders Arrive at the Junction.

Toronto, July 18.—One hundred and twenty Scotch and English mechanics arrived at Toronto Junction on Saturday afternoon in charge of the agents of the Canada Foundry Company. Sixty of the men are moulders and the remainder are machinists, and all came out under contract with the company. The men are almost all middle-aged men, and a large percentage of them are from Glasgow.

Although special pains were taken to keep the new arrivals isolated from the strikers, the ex-employees, who had been expecting the appearance of the old country workmen, found means of communicating with them. The result was that a secret meeting of the sixty moulders was held in St. James' Hall on Dundas street yesterday afternoon, at which half a dozen strikers were present, while the whole matter was discussed. A vote on the question of going to work was taken, with the result that a majority was found to be in favor of taking the strikers' side of the dispute. It is expected that some of the new men will report for work this morning, however.

Special police guarded the new comers and patrolled the company's premises yesterday, but there was no sign of disturbance.

The one hundred and ten machinists will go to work to-day, as the strike does not affect them.

Most of the men are living in tents within the high picket fence which surrounds the company's plant, and yesterday when they were taken out for a walk they attracted a good deal of attention, although no demonstration was made. The 110 mechanics who arrived are nearly all machinists and ironworkers who are not affected by the strike.

A second arrest in connection with the strike was made on Saturday. John H. Barnett, the Recording Secretary of the local Moulders' Union, was informed that the police wanted him and gave himself up. He was charged with intimidation and assault, the complaint being a moulder named E. Verhardt, who is at present in the employ of the company. The offence is said to have taken place at Stanley Park on July 4. Barnett was scarcely five minutes in custody. President Emmett and Financial Secretary Wilkinson of the union accompanied him to the station, and, bail being granted, went on his bond in the sum of $500 each.

The union man will appear in the Police Court this morning.

Owing to the rain Rev. Mr. Collins was unable to hold divine worship at the pavilion. Quite a large number of cottagers were disappointed.

One of the Erieau young ladies was honored by the first ride in Will Tackberry's automobile. All the young ladies are smiling their sweetest at Will.

Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Larkin, of Seaford, and the two charming twins, Misses Beatrice and Marion, returned to Chatham this morning after a visit at the cottage of Mrs. S. M. Glenn.

Trueman Warner and Chas. Taylor left Drumhology Lodge for Raglan a short time before the squall. It was thought they reached their destination before the storm struck the Eau.

Besides a large number of ladies, there were on board the Baden-Powell A. F. Falls, W. R. Phillimore, Archie Park, William Campbell, Sam Glenn, W. W. Scane, Dr. Bray and Will Tackberry.

Bonnie Belle, sailed by Capt. Bert Jones, and Louise, sailed by Capt. Will Rutley, had a brief brush yesterday morning. As the Bonnie had her racing canvas and the Louise her cruising canvas, it was rather one-sided.

A telegram was received at Erieau Saturday night asking if anything had been heard of two young men who left Cleveland Friday night for Erieau in a row-boat. The two men were out in Friday night's gale and it is feared that they are lost.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Moore opened the postoffice in their store to-day and the people at Erieau will no longer have any inconvenience from lack of mail facilities. The Erieau grocery has been very successful this year and is a great favorite with the summer residents.

A barn or house was seen burning beyond the foot of the Eau shortly after the electrical storm struck the bar. It was thought that the lightning had struck a barn. The ruins furnished a bright glow till late in the night.

The yacht Scorpion from Erie, Pa., came into the Eau Saturday morning. She was out in the blow Friday night and, although the staunch craft weathered the gale splendidly, still she suffered some damage to her rigging. The stay sail was carried away and the crew of young fellows report a very rough time. The heavy weather made them step lively all night.

The cottagers had a very enjoyable dance at the pavilion Saturday night. The music was furnished by Dr. Mot Ryan, W. W. Scane and E. B. Northwood. The girls said that the music was elegant. The festivities closed with W. W. Scane's solo, "Song of all nations." The song is Mr. Scane's own composition and is very clever. About 30 were present at the hop.

The visitors of Erieau are having a chance of seeing Chatham's favorite summer resort in all aspects. Friday night they were treated to an all night wind storm that made old staggers grow reminiscent. Sunday at dinner time a drenching rain drove to shelter all who were fortunate. The Baden-Powell, returning from Government Park, got caught in the rain and a party of 20 or more from Centreville had a good drenching.

About 6.30 a heavy squall struck the Eau. Norman Harper and C. D. Keat were out in the Banshee. A crowd of the bar watched them drop anchor and lower sail just as the squall hit them. The boat was cleverly handled. Some parties thought that the craft had capsized. The anchor on the Banshee wouldn't hold, and the boat drifted almost to Capt. Post's Bar. The wind having gone down considerably, Capt. Harper made sail and avoided the bar, but the wind again freshened and he was obliged to lower sail once more. The ladies in the cottages along the shore all indulged in much unnecessary worry. The gallant captain of the Banshee must be very popular with the ladies.

C. B. Moore, proprietor of the Erieau grocery, spent the day in the city.

A flock of 14 cranes flew over Erieau this morning. They were sighted by E. B. Jones.

Norman Harper and C. D. Keat were out sailing in the lake yesterday morning. They dodged two storms and saw about 14 eagles. Capt. Harper says that the Eau point is strewn with driftwood and there is firewood enough to last a lifetime.

"Yes, I was one of the bunch who went to the Government Park and got wet and I felt there would be doings," remarked Walter W. Scane this a.m. "It was a nice bright Sunday morning when we started gayly for Government Park to have a picnic. I knew something was going to happen. Why? Well, we had an Episcopalian superintendent of Sunday school and two Presbyterian church managers aboard. I don't know whether there were any Baptists on board or not, but if there were, their friends in town can rest assured that they got all that was coming to them. Shiver my timbers, but it rained! I had on a blue shirt and the color all run. That was the coldest color I ever ran up against. I looked like a cross between a bird of Paradise and a striped Hyena."

The C. P. R. painters' gang will strike Chatham about Wednesday of this week.
