HUGH CHURCH TO DECIDE ON AWARDS

Hugh Church will decide one of the most important issues of the year. If the dough is available we will have sports and non-athletic awards as well as the AAA Banquet. It is expected that Treasurer Church will reach a favourable decision for such awards as soon as possible. The decision will be based on present finances.

Generally speaking the SRC meeting was one of the most quiet meetings on record.

Returning Officers for the SRC Election on Wednesday were appointed by the chair. They are:

Arts and Science students: Tom Prescott; Forestry Students: Lorne Gardiner; Engineers: Ed Bastedo. Polls will be held at the following places: For Foresters the Forestry Library, for Engineers the lobby of the Civil Engineering Building, for Arts and Science students the S. R. C. Office.

WIVES HOLD BRIDGE

A combined bridge was held at the common room of Alexander College by the student wives of Alexander College.

The bridge prizes of the evening were won by (first) Irma Morgan, (2nd) Doris Brown, (3) Imogene Miller and the booby prize went to Betty Brisbell.

A very enjoyable lunch and tea was served followed by a drawing for two additional lucky prizes won by Mildred Clarke and Anne Mackay.

Fanjoy, Stafford Successful At Maine

U. N. B. Debating Society chalked up another victory on Wednesday night when Ed Fanjoy and Harold Stafford successfully defended the negative of "Resolved, that a Federal World Government should be established" against a University of Maine team of Larry Smith and George Candamin. The debate took place in Orono, Me.

The debate was decided by an audience change-of-opinion ballot favoring U. N. B. 55-49.

The entire debate was recorded for publication in this year's American Debaters' Annual. This was the first occasion on which any Canadian University had participated in such a contest.

PAUL KELEHER

... much to be done Paul, a candidate for President of the SRC graduated from St. Vincent's High School, Saint John, N. B., in 1940. Paul served overseas in England and northwest Europe with the 2nd Canadian Anti-Aircraft Regiment. At present Paul is a Junior Science student. He has played three years Varsity football, one season Varsity track, intramural hockey with the "Geologists" and basketball with the Newman Club.

PLATFORM

Fellow Students:— I know that there has been a great deal of progress made by the present S. R. C., but there is still much to be done. You, of course, realize that this is true, and what I would do as President of the Council would be to carry out your wishes to the best of my ability in this respect.

Not as "Campus Boss" would I enter this office but as a figurehead to represent your opinions. I do not believe in presenting any dictatorial platform at this time, but as the representative of each and every one of you I would energetically present all your views to the Student's Council. I would earnestly advocate the following:—

(1) The development of the athletic program to make sports financially self-supporting. This would relieve the heavy strain on the student levy, which could be used to advantage in other campus activities of a non-athletic nature.

(2) The development of Canadian Football as the game to provide better entertainment for the students and public, and hence lead to a self-supporting Football Budget. I believe that the experience that I have had in accounting and business practice would help me to provide an efficient administration for the S. R. C.

I wish to thank those who have shown confidence in me by nominating me to this important post. They as well as all of you can be assured that if I am elected that I will do my best.

Sincerely,
PAUL KELEHER.

ROD MacLEOD

... efficiency

Rod MacLeod, Junior Artsman, one of the candidates for President of the S. R. C. hails from Saint John. Previous to his entrance to U. N. B. Rod was in the Navy for three years. Noted for his sincerity and capabilities Rod is a member in good standing of the Canadian Legion.

PLATFORM

If elected, I shall make a sincere and energetic effort to carry out the duties which are associated with the office of president. Further, I shall attempt to achieve the fullest degree of cooperation and understanding among the members of the executive in order to ensure that the policies advocated by the student's representatives are carried out in the most efficient manner.

The S. R. C. is the voice of the student body and, in view of this, I feel that closer contact should be established between the student representatives and those whom they represent. It will be part of my policy, if elected, to bring about this desired end. In such a way, the S. R. C. will be kept more fully informed on campus opinion thereby guaranteeing that the best interests of the student body will be served. I also feel that greater resistance must be placed upon student representative attendance at meetings. In this respect, I propose that the constitutional clause, which governs attendance, will be rigidly enforced. This will guarantee that your elected representatives will live up to their responsibilities.

Finally, my policy will be governed by the wishes of the majority of the student body. Because of this, I feel that there is no need for me to put forward any detailed platform, in attractive form, to win support.

ROD MacLEOD.

PLEDGE NOW

With approximately 85% of the veteran students behind the proposed scholarship plan, sure-fire success to raise five or six thousand dollars through the pledge system, is easy to predict. Whole hearted support of the plan was indicated when over 300 student veterans returned the questionnaires concerning the plan. Results were: 86% YES, 4% NO, and 10% UNDECIDED.

Here is your opportunity to make your mark on the campus! For those students who prefer the theory that charity begins at home we say: start plugging now. Details of the plan are outlined in another part of the Brunswickan. Essentially it is a plan to provide scholarships and loans for incoming students. Such a project will fill a needed roll. Too often we have heard outstanding scholars on the campus say they don't think they'll be here next year because they just haven't got the necessary tuition. Many veterans realize that except for the present D. V. A. plan they would not have had the opportunity to acquire a college education. Partly from this realization have they been motivated to provide such a fund for students in future years who need the necessary outlay.

The plan has the complete support of the University Administration of whom Dr. Trueman and the Bursar, Mr. Sears, should be especially thanked for making the facilities available for providing continuity in the plan. Jack Murray, Alumni Secretary, is also very enthusiastic concerning the plan. We can say no more than hope that every student, vet or non-vet, will back this Good Samaritan project, and lend his support and aid to make the final goal possible. Pledge your support now to this worthwhile project!

- IT'S SILLY, BUT -

At the time of writing this editorial the election campaign is just swinging into action. As yet we have noticed no particular action from the candidates for the most important positions on the campus. You might say they are sleeping at the switch. Probably they feel that it is much wiser to ignore poster-plastering processes rather than attempt to purchase those sixteen buck votes by a few choice pieces of wisdom. Probably this is the best attitude to take.

There are many people who get a big kick out of election campaigns. We must admit that we are in that class. And we certainly get a kick out of the baloney being spread knee deep on the campus by candidates for SRC Secretary and AAA Secretary. Probably it's evidence of the return of class spirit. In fact we are fairly certain that these candidates don't mean to be taken seriously in their campaigns. We are quite positive that they fully realize that pushing a pencil and licking stamps are about the height of their secretarial duties. Their propaganda serves only to confuse the voter. It's all very silly, but we enjoy it immensely.

BLOW YOUR HORN, BUB!

The unfortunate part of this poster campaign is, that you, the VOTER, have to decide which one of the candidates for each position merits your support. This is going to be a hard thing to do. All the candidates exhibit high qualities of sincerity, honesty, and ability, which are necessary for the positions to be contested. However, your judgment will be the deciding factor. So — it's up to you to cast your vote!

VACANCIES DO EXIST

You will notice by the bulletin boards that applications are now called to fill several chairmanship and managerial positions now vacant. This year there have been several blunders made by Chairmen and Managers who have not fulfilled their obligations to the student body in an efficient and capable manner. These positions require individuals who have the time to handle the management of different teams and such committees as the I. S. S. and Social. Consider this opportunity to participate in campus activities, the chance to do your share in supporting sports and social activities. Then place your applications in the hands of the S. R. C. Vice-President as soon as possible.

AMERICA'S ODDEST COLLEGE PAPER

The recent feud between THE BRUNSWICKAN and The Dalhousie Gazette has been ignored by the latter party concerned — or shall we say we thought they had ignored our claim. However a recent event leads us to believe that they have quietly accepted or admitted our claim as a statement of fact (which it is). In their March 8th issue they proudly displayed a new "slogan" in their title-head.

Whether the result of a gremlin in the midst of The Gazette staff, or whether the staff fully realizes its duty to its readers to print the truth, the March 8th issue appeared with the following caption: AMERICA'S ODDEST COLLEGE PAPER. Need we say more?

Letters To The Editor must have the signatures attached thereto. Otherwise they will not be printed. The Editor reserves the right to refuse any letter for either length or content. Letters over 300 words will not be accepted unless under special circumstances. Your contributions to this column are appreciated.

Engineers Elect Officers Today

With President Don Fonger in the chair, the Engineering Society held its final meeting of the year on Monday evening March 21st. Called as a final business meeting, the Society was concerned mostly with the nomination for election of the new slate of officers for the coming year. It was decided that the election should take place on Monday, March 28th. The names and particulars of all candidates will shortly be published on Notice Boards and all members are urged to note and vote accordingly.

The question of a representative to the next convention of the Engineering Institute was brought up and it was unanimously moved that the incoming president should be delegated to represent the Society. Don Fonger outlined a request from the ISS asking for a grant to aid their policy of student exchange. After a very short discussion, the request was unanimously turned down. Financial details of the forthcoming trip to Saint John were threshed over, and to ensure its success, the Society granted a sum of money to cover any deficiencies. Following the meeting, the members enjoyed movies and refreshments. Following this, the Seniors went back to their bridges and the Undergrads to their bridge games.

George Scotch Wins Sugar Derby

U. N. B.'s Ski Club ushered old man winter out with a bang last Sunday. The big occasion was the Ski Club's annual "Sugar Derby."

The main and, incidentally, the only event was a gigantic slalom race for the cherished and handy on nights Sugar Derby Trophy. The course started daintily enough at the very top of the hill right inside the ski shack, as a matter of fact. (Next year we should paint that shack so we can call it a Chalet.) The course was so difficult, long, and tedious that refreshments had to be served half way down. The contestants were dressed in everything from pyjamas to cardboard boxes and displayed various ski techniques.

Who won? — why George Scotch did. He blasted his way to an easy victory overcoming all opposition in spite of a gallant bid by last year's winner, Sandy Valentine, and some guy in pajamas.

Labour Gov't of Britain — Wright

"The Labour Government of Britain" was the subject of an address given by Dr. Esther Clark Wright at the Sunday evening meeting of the Student Christian Movement. Dr. Wright began her talk by comparing the ways in which scarce materials had been used in the past few years in United States with their use in Britain. In Britain, scarce building materials have been used in a low-cost housing plan which has been very successful, while a similar scheme in the United States broke down, and many materials were used in road houses, dance halls, etc.

The Health program in Great Britain has also made a very good showing. The children are healthy even in the poorest cities in spite of scarcities of food. These two things have made the people feel that the Government cares about them, which is important.

Dr. Wright briefly mentioned the nationalization of the coal mines, and pointed out that it was a necessary move since the mines had been mined in a very unscientific manner under old inadequate method, the cost of production was high and the rate of absenteeism was high. She noted that at first there was a drop in production, but now after 18 months, the results are encouraging with production going up and absenteeism going down.

Other successful projects of the Labour Government have been the hydro-electric development in Scotland, where it had been opposed by large landed interests; advance in production of sugar beets, and other agricultural improvements.

With reference to proposed nationalization of the steel industry, she pointed out that it was held by monopolies, and the workers were neglected; the plan is to run it for the nation and people as a whole.

Dr. Wright went on to speak of the attitude of Christians to socialism, and pointed out that the socialist government in Britain was really doing the Lord's work in caring for the health and housing of the people.

During the business meeting, the following officers for next year were elected by acclamation: Pres., John Hildebrand; Vice-Pres., Keith McKay; Sec., Joan Schoushoe; Treas., George Rogers. National Council Delegates elected were John Hildebrand and Bob Cadman.

Over One Hundred Attend Forestry Social Evening

Since the next Forestry Association meeting will undoubtedly be concerned with routine business, it may be said that the 1949 executive closed their reign with complete success. The social evening enjoyed in the Alexander common room, March 21 deserved the many plaudits it received.

A gathering of over one hundred Foresters, Faculty members and their wives, sweethearts and guests enjoyed two splendid color films which were introduced by Mr. Bruce Wright. Mr. Wright praised the Carling Conservation Club's "Expedition Moose" as tremendous, unprecedented undertakings which has gained praise and commercial offers from the professional film masters of Hollywood. After seeing the film I'm sure everyone in the audience agreed with Mr. Wright's (and Hollywood's) judgment.

The second feature on western wild fowl, was an excellent production of "Duck's Unlimited". Following the movies, Mrs. Rae Brown spoke to the ladies of the audience on Life in The Backwoods. Having spent several summers in decidedly "off the beaten track" portions of the northland her hints to wives of Foresters (prospective ones, too) had such a ring of experience about them that they won't be forgotten.

The evening concluded with coffee, doughnuts and ice cream and inevitable bridge games. Al Huber presided over the volunteers behind the refreshment counter. Praise is due the executive, the social committee and Dave Youle for his competent handling of the projector, and particularly to Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bartlett for their efforts in obtaining the Carling Co.'s film.

80 p. c. TURNOUT IS PREDICTED

The SRC and AAA elections scheduled for Wednesday are expected to have between an 80% and 90% turnout of electors to decide next year's controllers for six positions. With two acclamations, SRC Treasurer-elect Ron Stevenson, and AAA Vice-President-elect John Currie, there will be thirteen contestants in the running for six executive jobs. It looks as though Preferential Voting will not be needed to decide the winners except in the fight for AAA President where Bim McIntyre, George Noble, and Bernie Biddiscombe will be seeking the one position.

The withdrawal of Joe Bird last Monday morning witnesses the acclamation of John Currie as AAA Vice-President. Currie became AAA Secretary by acclamation last year.

Lacking Forestry and Engineering candidates Paul Keleher and Rod MacLeod, Scienceman and Artsman respectively, will compete for SRC Prexy. The election between these two individuals will be interesting. Artsmen and Scientists are expected to cancel each other fairly well in the balloting leaving the majority of the students, Foresters and Engineers, to be the deciding factor.

As yet there has been no indication of a ticket being formed as was the case last year. In the past tickets have proven very unsuccessful. It is doubtful if any tickets will be formed now.

Fonger Elected Life President, Fanjoy Vaedictorian

Don Fonger, President of the Engineering Society, has become the Life President of the Senior Class. In an election which found well over 200 students marking their ballots honour was also bestowed on Edward Fanjoy, who, as a result of the election, will present the Vaedictory at the Encaenial Exercises in May.

Dick Bulmer was elected Life Secretary. In departing from tradition because of the large number of students in the class, the Seniors elected Harry Bent, Bob Fowmes, and J. V. Anglin to represent the Foresters, Engineers and Arts and Science sections on the executive. It will be the responsibility of these individuals to arrange the Senior Class banquets as well.

Tillotson Speaks On Guided Wave

"First attempts to guide waves in metal tubes were made by J. J. Thomson in 1892" said Professor James G. Lillotson to a meeting of the Scientific Society on Thursday March 17. In discussing "Fundamental Considerations of Guided Electromagnetic Waves", Prof. Tillotson explained the theory of the use of a rectangular metal tube as a wave guide.

As an introduction to the consideration of the use of a metal tube as a wave guide, the speaker discussed first the theory of the parallel transmission line for alternating current. "In this case" the speaker pointed out, "the electrical field extends off into space and does not easily turn when the transmission line changes direction." "Hence a large radius of curvature must be used in transmission lines to avoid losses in radiation or going round a corner." "The rectangular metal wave guide" the speaker continued, "may be regarded as a two dimensional transmission line, except in this case the electromagnetic waves are confined entirely within the tube and must turn corners or else be reflected from the sides of the wall." The speaker showed also that it is the current on the surface of the bounding conductor that prevents the electromagnetic waves within from escaping through the walls of the tube.

The President of the Scientific Society, Dr. G. F. M. Smith announced that an election of officers would be held at the next meeting and the financial report would also be presented then.

FOR A. A. A. SECRETARY

MAXINE HOLDER

Athletics are (besides Science) my chief interest at U. N. B. Since my first arrival on the campus I have supported the athletic programme provided and participated myself wherever it was possible. Ladies' Varsity Basketball and Swimming are my most active interests.

JANETTE WEBB

A graduate of the Fredericton High School, Janette Webb, entered U. N. B. this year as a Freshman Arts student. Taking an active interest in all sports she hopes to fill the position of secretary of the A. A. A. in the coming year. Having started an early athletic career, she continued in high school where she excelled in basketball and coached junior basketball for the Community "Y". During the past two years she has been a junior playground supervisor for the Recreation Commission of this city. This year Janette was a member of the U. N. B. Ladies' Tennis Team and became a first line forward on the Co-ed basketball team. She ardently supports all the teams and takes a deep interest in the athletic phase of college life. Janette has had a great deal of previous executive experience both as Hi-Y president and a representative on the students' council in high school.

U. N. B. Pucksters Whip All-Stars

The University of New Brunswick Senior Varsity Hockey team wound up their play for the season on Wednesday night when they won the second game of their best out of three series with the York County All-Stars. In both games they showed better combination and condition. The All-Stars were handicapped in that they had not played in over three weeks. The series, arranged to help buy jackets for the U. N. B. players was disappointing financially and as a result a third game was arranged for Friday but on going to press the warm weather seemed to be against such an encounter. As an added attraction the red line was eliminated in both games.

On Monday night on a fairly good ice sheet the game was fast with U. N. B. holding a decided edge in play, defeating their rivals 8-5. Lorimer was top scorer for the Red and Black with two goals with Kennedy, Ingersoll, Steel, Pike and Spear notching single goals. MacTavish was top scorer of the night with three goals for the All-Stars while Neill Sewell and Rickard scored the others.

2nd Game

The second game was played on a water covered surface on Wednesday night. Play was slowed up to a standstill in the third. Lorimer, Snow, Bjerklund, Kennedy, Ballantyne and Ingersoll accounted for Varsity's 6 while D. Sewell with two, Menzies, D. Sewell and MacTavish with one each, notched the five scores for the AllStars.

Line-ups:

1st Game

U. N. B.—Goal, Walker; defence, Steele, Wagar, Ballantyne, Sewell; forwards, Lorimer, Price, Bedard, Northrup, Spear, Konkin, Kennedy, Bjerklund, Ingersoll and Snow.

SYD FORBES

... Coordinates efforts

Syd Forbes has been outstanding in many activities. These activities include: Red 'n' Black Revue, the Veteran's Club, the Forestry Association and other organizations. Syd, popular and well-known about the campus, is a veteran of the RCAF overseas.

PLATFORM

In order that the S. R. C. operate efficiently, it is the duty of those elected to office to co-ordinate their efforts in the best interests of the student body. Further, it is the duty of the vice-president to act as an immediate assistant to the president, and also to co-operate with the council. I shall, to the best of my ability, endeavour to fulfill these primary obligations upon successful support of this platform.

As temporary president of the Freshman class, it would be my pleasure to introduce them, with the assistance of the Sophomore class, into their university life; and to insure them of a good healthy injection of both class and college spirit.

Let me again assure you... that I will perform all my duties in a most efficient manner.

S. A. FORBES.

For his Junior year he worked on the Publicity Committee of this organization. Taking an active interest he represents the National Union Party on the S. R. C. Speakers' Committee.

PLATFORM

"Soon the North Atlantic Pact is to be signed and on that momentous occasion I attach great significance. It means that the West is forgetting their political differences and forming a common front against possible aggression. In Canada, it is hardly possible to form such a front because we do not know much about the political parties which are in this country... It is my aim to bring political speakers of the different parties to the campus so that the student will have a knowledge of all the parties and consequently broaden his own viewpoint and possibly eliminate distrust and wrong opinions. It is important to note that the S. R. C. controls the political activities on the campus therefore there is no possibility of any preference being to one party nor any expense involved to the S. R. C.

I have as an opponent a man, whom, in a fashion, I truly admire. But while serving as an executive on one of the campus clubs he only attended two meetings throughout the year and I can hardly believe that he lived up to his executive capacity. Should you examine my attendance during the times which I held office you will observe that I have a 95% attendance while the remainder of the time being out of town.

IN closing, I wish to state that it is the individual's privilege to exercise his vote and not to allow color or creed to enter into the picture.

VIRGINIA BLISS

A grad of FHS, Virginia has been active in many campus activities during her Freshman and Sophomore years. In her Freshman year she was an S. R. C. Rep, Assistant Secretary of the SRC, bench warmer for the girls' basketball team, U-Y Member, participated in Red 'n' Black Revue, Brunswickan reporter, and N.F.C.U.S. executive member.

BERNIE BIDDISCOMBE

... better liason

One of the North Shore boys, a native of Campbellton, Bernie came to U. N. B. as a Civil Engineer after 4 1/2 years with the R. C. A. F. In his Freshman year "Biddis" was chairman of the Alexander Social Committee and Vice-President of the Veterans' Club. In his Sophomore year he was Organizations Editor of the Yearbook. This year Biddis has capably served the Hockey Team as Hockey Manager of Senior Varsity.

PLATFORM

1. A vigorous pro-Canadian Football campaign.
2. Better liason between the Faculty, the S. R. C. and the A. A. A.
3. The formulation of a new A. A. A. policy with regards to letter winners.
4. Greater support of the minor sport groups on the campus is essential, a large student participation in intramural and varsity sports will be a major factor in keeping U. N. B. in the sporting position she has established for herself thus far.
5. A vigorous attempt to obtain a blanket insurance policy for all Athletes.

Allison McIntyre, better known as "Bim", one of three candidates for AAA President, is a third year Civil Engineering student from Saint John. Bim is probably best known for his past performance on the Senior Varsity Hockey Team. Having considerable experience on the executive of the Engineering Society "Bim" has the qualifications that the AAA position requires. In his Sophomore year "Bim" was Vice-President of the Engineering Society. In his Junior year Bim has served on the Engineering Society executive as Secretary-Treasurer.

PLATFORM

I am perfectly satisfied with the way sports have been carried on in the University during the last two years. I am also in accord with the way the money has been spent. I would not like to see any radical changes in the S. R. C. and I believe that if everything is carried out as well next year there will be no need of complaints.

I should like to have young athletes from high schools urged, or should we say invited, in some approved manner, to attend university and thus give the college a good brand of Senior Varsity sports.

She is Secretary-Treasurer of the Swim Club at the present time. Besides taking part in dramatics and U-Y she was particularly notable (or noticeable) for her performance in Ralph's Roughhouse of the Red 'n' Black Revue.

In his first year at U. N. B. he was high point man on the Swim Team, receiving his letter each year. Vice-President of the Swim Club he was a keen participant on the past two Maritime Intercollegiate Championship Teams.

PLATFORM

"A five star plan which I shall attempt to carry out to the best of my ability:

1. Endeavour to further better sport spirit on the campus.
2. Better general co-ordination in sports.
3. Follow up the paper administration as urged in the previous council.

BEREAVEMENT

Peter Smith was desperate. Grim, stark tragedy faced him and to his chagrin, he found himself wholly inadequate to cope with it. But he knew that somehow he must do something to bring comfort to the small, pitiful figure who wept so sorrowfully. Peter wiped his brow and cast about desperately for inspiration.

The two victims in the tragedy which had struck so suddenly were Sally, Peter Smith's small five year old daughter and McWhiskers, a not so small indefinitely aged cat whose lifeless form Peter now eyed balefully. When that evil eyed old reprobate had insinuated himself into the Smith home and little Sally's heart, Peter had known no good would come of it. And no good had. Here was McWhiskers dead on the very edge of Smith's front lawn and here was Sally completely inconsolable in the loss of her loved one. Peter regretted viciously that the old roue had not had the decency to choose some other locale for his tragic meeting with the truck; then Sally would have been spared this ordeal and so would Peter Smith.

Now that was somewhat unfair to poor McWhiskers because from his point of view, he was the real victim of the tragedy and should have been accorded a certain respect under the circumstances, even if his past had not been quite above reproach. And Sally had loved him. Peter suffered a twinge of compunction and he renewed his efforts with Sally.

He tried a new approach. He waxed eloquent in praise of McWhiskers. "Of course, he was the finest cat in this part of the town and we will see to it — you and I — that his last resting place is one of which he can be proud."

He paused for a minute to note the effect, if any, of his words, but the sobbing continued unabated.

"We could bury him down by the cedar trees — if you want to bury him there — and we could fix up a little box to put him in and you could help me with it", he said . . . and waited. No response, but he was sure the sobs were quieter.

He wiped his brow again and prayed for more inspiration. "And we could put his little catnip mouse in the box with him in case he should want it — and his little rubber ball . . ." These two items were sore points with Peter. He had never forgiven McWhiskers for the snicker of derision with which he had greeted the advent of these gifts. Both items had been strictly for Sally's benefit — Peter was only too well aware that McWhiskers' diversions had been of a much more sophisticated nature.

The sobbing had definitely lessened and Peter was quick to follow up his advantage. While he paused a fresh flow began, and he continued quickly.

"And then we can plant a little garden and grow flowers and keep it free from weeds, and perhaps build a little fence and paint it white and put it around the garden and you won't have to forget McWhiskers ever."

Peter was amazed how this sort of thing developed once it was started. He had no idea he was capable of such a flow of suggestion. He only hoped that some more suitable companion would have been found to replace McWhiskers in Sally's affections before execution of these schemes became feasible.

Sally whimpered again and Peter reacted with alacrity: "And McWhiskers will be looking down from the Cat Heaven and he will be pleased that you haven't forgotten him . . ."

He paused to congratulate himself on this effort and to wonder how far he could go without being downright blasphemous. He shuddered to think what Sally's Sunday-school teacher would say and just then a miracle occurred. A veritable miracle! Just in time to save Peter from actual blasphemy, McWhiskers moved! He actually moved!

Peter could hardly believe his eyes. "Sally," he shouted, "Look at McWhiskers. I believe the old son-of-a-gun had a life or two left after all." He was beside himself with joy. Here was his problem completely solved. He picked Sally up and tossed her up to his shoulder.

McWhiskers though far from his disreputable, debonair self was definitely showing signs of life and had raised his head a little and was emitting short, mewling noises. Apparently he had merely been knocked unconscious. Peter had not investigated too carefully — he certainly had looked dead.

Sally's tears had stopped completely as if by magic, and Peter hugged her tightly. Poor little Darling — if only all her troubles could be righted so easily, he thought. He moved to wipe the tear stains from her face and drew back in amazement. On the face of his small, five year old Sally was an expression which he had never seen her wear before, but often enough on McWhiskers. She turned to look at McWhiskers and then back at her father, with gleeful, conspiratorial eagerness. "Let's kill him", she said.

Letters to the Pensions Office

The abstracts below are from genuine letters sent to the Pensions Office.

I cannot get sick pay; I have six children, can you tell me why this is. This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?

I am glad to report that my husband who was reported missing is now dead.

Sir, I am now forwarding my marriage certificate and two children, one of which is a mistake as you will see.

Unless I get my husband's money I shall be forced to lead an immortal life.

I am sending my marriage certificate and two children. I had seven but one died, which was baptized on half a sheet of note paper by the Reverend Thomas.

You have changed my little boy into a girl. Will this make any difference?

In answer to your letter and according to your instructions I have given birth to twins in the enclosed envelope.

In answer to your letter I have given birth to a boy weighing ten pounds. Is this satisfactory?

Please send my money at once as I have fallen into errors with my landlord.

Re your letter regarding dental enquiry; the teeth on the top are all right but the ones in my bottom are hurting terribly.

Jason — The Pride Of Them All

Jason was the pride of the doughnut makers union. A stalwart employee who took pride in the operation of his machine which toasted 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts for the prosperity of Mr. Katzman McSnatch.

All day long Jason would feed the little shrivelled, anemic, and pasty-looking 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts in one end of his massive contrivance to emerge at the other end as proud, golden brown and oozing with goodness 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts.

However, in the offices of Mr. Nofool O'Toole, manufacturers of 'Rimless Beauties' those delightful doughnuts which melt in your mouth and lump in your stomach, and hated rivals of Mr. Katzman McSnatch, things were not so well.

Mr. O'Toole was speaking to his first vice-president: "Things were not so well with our 'Rimless Beauties', Mr. McSnatch's, our hatred rival, who produces 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts, golden brown and oozing with goodness, is running us out of business." First vice-president: "It is Jason, that stalwart employee who puts the golden brown and oozing with goodness into the 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts. If we could get rid of Jason!" Mr. O'Toole: "Yes, we must get rid of Jason, that stalwart employee."

Second vice-president: "Let us hire Sultry Citronella, she will get rid of Jason, that stalwart employee."

Mr. O'Toole and first vice-president: "Yes, let us hire Sultry Citronella."

It was the next day that while Jason, that stalwart employee, was feeding the little shrivelled, anemic and pasty-looking 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts in one end of his massive contrivance to emerge at the other end as proud, golden brown and oozing with goodness 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts, he should look up and see Sultry Citronella. "Sultry Citronella", he gasped. For he had been around. He recognized that Parker 51 figure, those braided eyelashes, that long, lustrous, Toni-waved black hair, which she wore down over the front and reaching almost to the top of her décolleté black negligee, in a fetching little page-boy style.

Sultry Citronella parted the fetching little page-boy style from in front of her mouth, and pausing so that he might smell and absorb the effect of her exotic perfume 'Midnight in Devon', said to Jason in a low sexy voice: "Jason, in a low sexy voice."

"Sultry Citronella", Jason gasped again, as his hand went through the massive contrivance with the rest of the shivelled, anemic, and pasty-looking 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts and emerged at the other end as golden brown and oozing with goodness.

"Jason," she said, "Fly away with me to the West Indies, the mysterious South Sea Islands, to Grand Manan."

Jason fought to answer as he grabbed the small girl who worked beside him and sprinkling sugar over her, thrust her in a box with eleven other golden brown and oozing with goodness 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts. "I cannot, I must support my old ugly and bedraggled mother who is a Co-ed at U. N. B."

"You must choose between she or me," said Sultry Citronella, as she flicked the ash from her foot-long cigar into the cuff of his peg-topped pants.

"I choose you, Sultry Citronella", said Jason, that stalwart employee. "Let Mr. Katzman McSnatch feed his own anemic and pasty-looking 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts in one end of his massive contrivance to emerge at the other end as golden brown and oozing with goodness 'Perfect Circle' doughnuts. We shall fly away together."

So they fled.

And today they can still be seen basking in the heat . . . in a small corner near the furnace in Alex Drill Hall.

Poem

There's a fact I have found
In my looking around,
I'll admit that it struck me as queer.

There's nothing you'll meet,
Like the inborn conceit
That's inherent in each Engineer.
And their trouble in chief
Is this inborn belief
And you'll find it exceedingly odd
That the Engineer's station
Is moving the nation
And the only one greater is God!
So hark to my pleadings
Superior beings . . .
Here's advice that's too precious to sell

Though a pedagogue's brains
Can't find stresses or strains
Remember he's human as well.
An accountant it's true
May look stupid to you,
He may not know a lathe from a lath

But don't look with scorn
On the folks lesser born
You all look the same in the bath.
And now here's a word
To the rest of the herd . . .
Politician, professor and clerk . . .
Don't try to outshout him,
You'd better just humor the jerk.
So hold back your tears
If you're not Engineers,
It is simply a matter of birth.
And keep your respect—
For the great intellect
And they'll go on saving the earth.

Carabins Burn At Dismissal

Montreal, March 6—(CUP)—The dismissal of the managing board of the University of Montreal's Le Quartier Latin last fall has led to complications. Since the first board were dismissed another has been appointed; however the supporters of the former board are taking up a petition around the campus asking that the former board be reinstated.

Board number one faced a public trial at a meeting of the AGEUM (Association Generale des Etudiants de l'Universite de Montreal). Feeling is so strong on the campus that a Montreal lawyer, Charles Lussier, was recently approached by supporters of the first board and is now studying the case with a view to taking it to court.

Dissatisfaction at the "snobbish intellectual policy" of the managing board at the beginning of the academic year brought about the trial last October, when the students overwhelmingly voted confidence in the managing board.

Charges then made were that the policies of the paper were too snobbishly intellectual that it had devoted too much space to features material and artistic news from outside and too little space to campus happenings.

Canadian Universities

A C. U. P. FEATURE
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

The most striking feature about Varsity, is perhaps, the great number of students in attendance. At noon-hour there is an unending stream of unfamiliar faces heading for the various campus cafeterias and off-campus restaurants. The atmosphere created by these students is extremely cosmopolitan. There is even the odd sari to be seen sauntering by the library, or up Philosopher's Walk.

The four affiliated Arts Colleges and the various faculties cover an area stretching about 3/4 of a mile in one direction and about 1/4 mile in the other. More than one student "keeps in shape" by necessary long walks between lecture rooms, and it is said that if you start out from the History department's Baldwin House with two rabbits in your pocket, you'll have a family of them by the time you reach Victoria College at the other extreme of the campus.

The overall appearance of the campus is rather confused. Within sight of Convocation Hall, in the Queen Anne mode, there are the ultra-modern new Science buildings and old University College, a sprawling building of uncertain architectural tendencies.

The great enrolment at Varsity is undoubtedly the "raison d'etre" for the large number of groups and clubs on the campus. After all, one has to get to know people somehow. No matter what you are interested in, you can find a group of people doing just that. There is even a local pub, famed in song and story, for those interested in the exercise of the elbow. Because of these many clubs and the many colleges and faculties, social affairs are incessant. It is easily possible not to spend one night at home during the school term.

Previously a rather sober place, Varsity has, this past year, taken on somewhat jazzy overtones, as witness the pep rallies held in conjunction with home football games, a "Homecoming Week-end", held on the occasion of the game with Western, and an "All-Varsity Revue" produced at last, after two years of talking about it. The lack of Varsity spirit and the prevalence of college and faculty spirit (especially that generated by the rampart engineers) has been cause for moaning for many years, but the aforementioned developments should improve the situation.

The most unique feature about the University of Toronto is, perhaps, Hart House, a building containing libraries, reading rooms, a dining hall and tuck shop, a music and debates room, and excellent athletic facilities — for the use of men only. A constant affront to the Toronto co-ed who may eventually be satisfied by the proposed Women's Building and Co-ed Union.

The swollen enrolment following the war, necessitated the use of every available cranny for lecture and living accommodation. It is hoped that the enrolment will level off at about ten thousand, which should permit a considerable improvement in academic and living conditions. For the individual student, Varsity's best days are yet to come.

CARLETON COLLEGE

The 146 students who are scheduled to receive degrees in commerce, arts, science and journalism at the spring convocation at Carleton College this year have missed the glamor of ivy-colored walls, spacious lawns and dormitory life which are usually held to be synonymous with college life. Instead, they have taken part in the growth of a University.

Previous to September, 1946, lectures were held wherever space could be found; and the class of '49 remember vividly the hectic days when they might listen to the history of England related in the basement of a church in downtown Ottawa, then board a street car for a fifteen minute ride to hear the philosophy of Kant propounded in a high school room.

Today, however, the inconveniences of scattered classrooms, part-time instructors and complete lack of social life of 1942, have given way to the 1949 version of Carleton College. Its own four-story building has ample facilities for extra-curricular activities. The faculty, recruited from high school service posts, top American and European universities, would make many of this country's older universities green with envy; and a 40 acre campus lies ready to take care of future expansion. A three storey student union building, acquired last summer, provides space for the college's more than 20 clubs and societies. Chief of these are the political clubs which hold regular model parliament sessions, an amateur radio club, a camera club and a drama society.

The red, black and white of Carleton College are worn by intermediate football and hockey teams, two basketball teams, a ski team, a golf team and both men's and women's swim teams. The "non-professionals" let off their steam in a well-organized series of interfaculty leagues. Only two of its teams now hold championship trophies, but as Carleton College's amazing growth continues, the names of its teams will be carved many times over on championship cups as will the names of its graduates be carved in the annals of Canada.

Carleton College has developed surely and steadily; everyone associated with Canada's youngest college feels this steady growth and feels also that some day, Carleton will rank among the largest and most progressive institutions of higher learning in Canada.

THE SHADOW KNOWS

Who's that little man with the mustache sitting behind the desk in the "other office" down at the gym with the smug satisfied look on his face, you ask? Why that's none other than the one and only Ambrose Legere, known to some as "Ambrose of the furry lip" but reverently referred to by members of the swimming and boxing teams as "Coach Amby." Why does he look so satisfied? What's he got to be proud of. Say! Where've you been at, Buster? In the last few weeks Amby and his boys (a fine group of sporting gentlemen they are, too) have brought home a very large slice of bacon in the form of two Maritime Intercollegiate Championships.

VARSITY TADPOLES

On Friday evening of March 4, the U. N. B. mermen went into competition with Acadia and Dalhousie Universities at the Stadacona Pool in Halifax and managed to garner 56 points while dog paddling their way to the championship. They outdistanced Acadia, their nearest competitor by 35 points and in doing so, saw their way clear to equal three records and put some new entries in the books by breaking three more. Ross Reade, Ted Cadenhead and Laurie Hunter equalled records while, Reade, George Noble and Don Bell set new marks for the aqua lanes. The girl's swim team was edged by Dal 38 to 32 points but gave a good account of themselves capturing three firsts and a similar number of seconds.

WHAT ROUND IS IT?

The Red and Black leather slingers had a more difficult job on their hands retaining their Maritime Title in Halifax on Saturday, March 19 when they scored 13 points to win over St. F. X. with 10, Dal with 6, and N. S. Tech with 3. At the conclusion of the meet U. N. B. ringmen held three titles. Dick Gorham took the light-heavyweight crown, Alan Neill was the middleweight champ and Keith Fletcher the winner of the lightweight class. All the other boys who lost put up good scraps and although Alan Hale lost his fight on a close decision the match is said to have been one of the best of the meet.

When questioned for details, Coach Amby played the part of the diplomat and was very non-committal. He did say though that the competition this year was much tougher than in previous meets and that he is very proud of his boys. We're mighty proud of them, too, Amby!

UNBELIEVEABLE, ISN'T IT!

A few weeks ago we mentioned in this column that the Faculty and Senior Civils, defending champs, were favored to enter the Intramural Basketball finals this term. We also mentioned at the time that we were looking for a few upsets. The Jr. Arts & Science team, a group very dear to this humble scribe, has brought us in off that limb and made our prediction a reality.

The first upset took place when they defeated the Faculty, who by the way were undefeated this year until that game, in the semi-finals. In the opening game of the finals they were completely outclassed by a fighting Senior Civil aggregation who trounced the Jr. Arts & Sc. 38-29, handing them their first defeat of the term. In the second game the Civils were well on their way to the term championship when the Arts & Science boys unleashed a blistering last half attack to trim them 40-29 and take the round by two points.

This week will see the last games of the league with the Jr. Arts & Science meeting the Faculty, last term's champs for the Intramural Championship of the year. How to go, gang!

LIFE IN THE SWAMP

A short time ago we received a copy of the Argosy, the Mt. A. college paper. Taking our magnifying glass in hand (it's so small, that's the only way one can read it) we paused a moment and began to peruse this minute scandal sheet when much to our surprise we found reprinted therein a portion of one of these columns titled "Poor Mt. A." Yours truly is dubious whether it is an honor or not, although there are some that have informed him he is now famous and should affix the title of syndicated columns after his name. Thank you, mom and dad!

WHATA YEAR!

Well, sports are just about over for another year and looking back we find that it has been a great one for the University of New Brunswick. We hold the Maritime titles in Track, Swimming, Boxing and Skiing, are co-holders of the Tennis crown with Dal and were runners up in basketball and hockey, losing both by a very slim margin. The girls were also runners-up in skiing and swimming. All teams conducted themselves in an admirable manner, especially against our traditional rivals, those "Sons of Chloe" down in Mt. A.

In closing, we extend a heartfelt thanks to all, for a wonderful year in sports and a fervent prayer for an encore of the same in '50.

Nurse: "No, yester-dye."

JR. ARTS AND SCIENCE TRIM SENIOR CIVILS BY TWO POINTS

By FRED BUTLAND

With a nine point deficit hanging over their heads, a sad but determined Jr. Arts and Science team took the floor against the strong Senior Civils hoop squad, defending champs, last Wednesday night and turned what looked like sure defeat into a startling and thrilling 40-29 victory. By virtue of this victory they have been proclaimed winners of the Intramural Basketball League for the spring term. They will now meet the Faculty, last term's champs for the year's championship.

Tight First Half

The game got away to a fast, furious start with the favored Civils putting on the pressure and early baskets by Hammer Hanson, their star, predicted dire happenings for the Arts and Science. The score at the end of the first quarter stood at 11-5 for the Civils, giving them a 15 point lead on the round. The Arts and Science outscored them 11-8 in the second quarter and at half time the score stood at 19-16 with the Civils up 12 points on the round.

Last Quarter Tells Tale

In the third quarter, the Arts and Science crew gained three more points to tie the game at 23 all but were still 9 points down on the round. It was in the last quarter that they unleashed a terrific attack led by Joe Church and Bob Miller and scored 17 points to the Civils 6 points. The final score stood at 40-29 and final score of the round was 69-67. Joe Church dropped in 13 points in the second half and was without a doubt the star of the game. Bob Miller, a consistent scorer and great defensive strength played an outstanding game, garnering 12 points in the cause. Charley Seeley played one of his best games to date and used his height to full advantage in controlling rebounds and breaking up passing plays. For the Civils, "Hammer" Hanson, Bill Donald and Ron Smith were outstanding and carried the bulk of the Seniors scoring punch.

Jr. Arts and Science: John Gibson, 1; Church, 13; Manson, 2; Benson, Miller, 12; Butland, Blackmer, 3; Seeley, 4; John King, 5.
Senior Civils: Ron Smith, 7; Leighton, G. S. G. Smith, Donald, 8; Clarkeon, Hanson, 10; Kempster, 2; Boby, G. L. Smith, Spinney.

Frosh Science Win Consolation Round
The Frosh Science lived up to predictions Wednesday night when they beat the Eastern Townships 58-34 to take the Consolation Championship easily. The Eastern Townships put up a good battle in the first frame and at half time were leading 23-21. The last half attack by the Frosh Science spelled their doom and they went down fighting. John Little and Will Cockburn led the Frosh team with 20 and 19 points respectively while Perkins with 9, Pharo with 8 and Montgomery with 7 were the big guns for the Townships.

Frosh Science: Littie, 20; McNeish, 7; Cockburn, 19; Lecouvie, 4; Harvey 8; Edwards, Dewey.
