Council Decide on Pennant Contest

After edging out Fred Clark in a closely contested election, incoming S.R.C. President, Bill Ray, Wednesday evening, was given his first opportunity to demonstrate his ability as chairman.

The meeting was called to order by retiring President Gordie McAllister, who after thanking the council for their good work done for him, turned the meeting over to Mr. Ray. New members of the council were introduced and the fact that the name of absent fresh rep. Andy Long had been omitted in a recent list published in the Brunswickan was noted.

Inspired by a request for a U.N.B. pennant from the University of Alberta the council decided to hold a pennant contest. Designs for an official U.N.B. pennant are to be submitted to Ron Pearsall, chairman of the application's committee of the S.R.C. on or before Friday, November 15th, 1957.

Entrants must be U.N.B. students and all entries must be in full colour on 18"x27" paper. A cash prize of $10 will be awarded the winning entry.

The considerable damage sustained by the Forestry building during "Paul Bunyan raids" is to be paid for by the students, either by a flat fine levied on all students or by contributions by those involved.

Efforts to secure the gym for the purpose of a Sock dance Saturday evening having met with no success, the dance will be held in Mem. Hall, it was reported.

It was decided that Mount A. students would pay 60c for tickets admitting them to the football game and dance.

A motion by Mr. Pearsall that the St. John Ambulance Society be given a donation by the S.R.C. on the occasion of their annual drive to be determined on a basis of 10c per student, resulted in concern being expressed lest an undesirable precedent be set.

NFCUS Insurance

Mr. Frank W. Howell, Maritime Manager of the Canadian Premier Life Insurance Company, will be on the campus November 6 and 7. The purpose of his visit will be to consult any student who wishes to learn anything about the NFCUS Life Insurance plan, and its new development, the NFCUS Life plan for first year students.

Any student wishing further information on this subject before the arrival of Mr. Howell, may contact Herbert Shepherd or Bob Sutherland at the Lady Beaverbrook Residence.

BOMBERS TO MEET MOUNTIES SATURDAY

Tomorrow the University of New Brunswick Red Bombers will meet the high-flying Mount Allison University Mounties in what promises to be THE home-game of the current season. A capacity crowd is expected to be on hand at Fredericton's College Field to witness a renewal of that rivalry between the two schools which originated with the old English Rugby contests and has been carried on with the entrance of Mount Allison into the NBCFU last year. Kickoff time for this regular league game is 2.00 p.m.

Upwards of 200 Mount A students will arrive in the city by train around 12.30 p.m. on Saturday. A parade will form up at the station and will consist of students of both universities, university bands and cheer leaders.

The parade will proceed from the station down York Street to King Street, King to Regent Street, up Regent Street to the Student Centre.

For the afternoon game special space will be allotted in the bleachers to the visiting students. At half-time the city girls will demonstrate their gridiron skill against the Maggie Jean football squad.

On Saturday night a dance for students of both universities will be held in the Memorial hall beginning at 9 or 9.30 p.m. Admission will be 35c per person. Music will be furnished by the Collegians. The train is expected to leave around midnight.

Letter from President

I would like to express my thanks to the students of UNB for the faith they have shown me in the recent Presidential Election. Also to several students who gave of their time to help before the election, I am grateful.

As president, I shall do my best to lead your council in a manner which will do honor both to you, the student body, and to the University community.

William Ray, President.

UNB Students Go To The Polls

Bill Ray was elected new S.R.C. President on Wednesday, as U.N.B. students went to the polls to select S.R.C. officers for the new year.

Running in the presidential race were Bill Ray, who won with a margin of eleven votes defeating his only opponent Fred Clark 323 to 312 votes. Counting two spoiled ballots 637 votes were cast representing 67.1% of the student body.

Miss Pat Crozier was elected to the post of Secretary-Treasurer of the Senior class with 85% of the class voting. Freddie Critchley becomes new sophomore representative and William Lewis was elected President of the Freshman class. Mike O'Connor acted as returning officer.

BLOOMERS RECRUITING

Monday, November 4, at seven o'clock the co-eds of UNB have a date in the gymnasium. What's going on? Why it's the first practice session of the Red Bloomers. Who, or what, are the Red Bloomers? To those of us who have been on the campus in previous years this name is old, but to the new members of our university the term may be a bit mystifying. Red Bloomers is the name of the co-ed basketball team "up the hill". (The name had its origin when one member of the team substituted red for the conventional black bloomers worn with the uniforms and it has stuck ever since.)

In the past the team has competed against Mount Allison, Acadia and Dalhousie Universities in the Maritime intercollegiate schedule and against city teams from Saint John and Fredericton in exhibition games. Three years ago the team was Maritime co-champions with Dalhousie University; the next year they lost the championship after a hard struggle to Dal but took the Golden Ball championship and last year they copped the title for Maritime supremacy in five straight games. High hopes are held for this year's team, especially with the presence of many physical education co-eds on the campus.

All co-eds who have ever played, or who may wish to play, basketball are asked to give their support by turning out for the first practice session of the year. It is being held in the Lady Beaverbrook gymnasium on Monday, November 4, at seven o'clock sharp. So come and bring your shorts and sneakers. Besides getting used to the feel of the basketball again you'll get a chance to meet the coaches and the managers.

The coaches for this year are Iris Bliss and Sally Scovil. Both girls are graduates from last year's championship team and have a wealth of experience which they will be passing on to this year's team. Iris is a forward and is noted for her uncanny ability to score from any point on the floor. Sally's specialty is guarding and she won her athletic distinction in this sport, as did Iris.

In addition to the Senior team there is also a Junior team. The Junior team came into existence at UNB last year after the numbers of co-eds on the campus began to increase. This means that there are twenty-four positions available.

The Junior Varsity team will be managed by Anne Grant who can be contacted at the Maggie Jean or by phoning 5-9002. Norma Wiley will be managing the Senior Varsity team and can also be reached at the Maggie Jean by phoning 5-9091.

See you at the gym!

By the "Jones Boys"

Oh! the Jones boys,
What a bitter pill
As they look up the hill
They think it's all wrong and think it's damn poor
That Foresters triumph yet Bunyan's no more.

Early Monday morning as we sleepily peered out of our wooden clock-tower we were rudely shocked into wakefulness by a Picasso-type monstrosity gazing unerringly back at us from a rival wooden abode. We assumed that Engineering Week had begun. But we're smarter up top than you think. We saw the branches around him and we can now reveal that it is Forestry Week this week. Thus it was that the Jones Boys stopped gazing north at the trains and turned their attention south to the trees. Have you ever thought on the trees of the campus? (Well, don't, it's too cold at this time of year). But seriously have you ever considered the aesthetic beauty of the trees? Quite frankly neither have we. But the practical aspect of trees does appeal to us. Where would squirrels be without trees? What would dogs do? Where would election posters go? What would happen to those anomalous characters who sweep up leaves and tear off the election posters? And without any of Auntie Wordsworth's daffodils where would Poets' Corners be placed?

In fact so important are trees that new trees have been planted outside the Student Centre. Now don't be deceived into thinking that these are to improve the campus. These, as much as any, were planted for practical purposes; New Brunswick, as you know, is sadly deficient in trees; run-away cars must have something to run over; and, of course, once the Trans-Canada Highway is in operation. Canterbury Club Hears Speaker

Miss Florence Lamb of Toronto was the special speaker at last Sunday evening's meeting of the Canterbury Club. Miss Lamb, the Dominion Supervisor for Women's Work in the Anglican Church, is presently in New Brunswick speaking to many groups throughout the province and the Canterbury Club felt they were indeed fortunate that she was able to take time out from her busy schedule to be with them.

Her topic was "What is the True Function of the Parish?" This she felt was an important question and one which is particularly important for young adults, who, although they might be out of their own parish at the present time, will within a few years be called upon to take an active part in parish life.

After a few introductory remarks, Miss Lamb broke the members up into five "buzz" groups for the discussion of some of the details of the function of the parish. These proved very successful, and everyone benefited from the exchange of ideas and viewpoints.

At the end of the meeting Barbara Douglas, the president, thanked Miss Lamb and reminded the members of the Canterbury Club Social on Friday evening at 8.30 p.m. in the Cathedral Hall on Church Street.

Scholarship Is Awarded

It has been announced that Miss Joanie Young is the recipient of this year's Alumnae Scholarship. This scholarship is offered to Co-eds entering their third years of university.

An active participant in student affairs "Up the Hill", Joanie has given her services to various activities: Chairman of the Social Committee 56-57, 57-58; Chairman of the Winter Carnival Social Committee '57 and Editor of the Co-ed Brunswickan '57. She is a Junior representative in the SRC and Ladies' Society and previously she served in the Model Parliament, NFCUS and the UNB Cheerleaders.

MILLICENT and MAGOO

Hello da ding dong—here we are with not too much to say. It is Forestry week and we have got a new president, so congratulations are in order. The foresters did a marvellous job fighting off the engineers plus cohorts on Tuesday night, but the damage seems to have been a little too much for the appreciation of the university administration. Too bad.

Didn't you think the Bryan Priestman lectures by Dr. Pauling were interesting? Made us wonder and rather scared too, but we imagine that was part of their purpose.

By the way, the Saturday night dances at the Centre have begun again. From last Saturday night's one we'd say that they're going to be just as good as last year's, if only more people would come!

We are going to be shrieking our heads off like two decapitated chickens tomorrow at the football field. If you were not planning on going you better change your plans and come to cheer for your U. Most likely be a good game, win or lose.

Engineers beware—Paul B. appears to be here to stay. What with water, sand and brawn the woodsmen are holding their own—as we go to press. Seems that Paul's forester brethren only forsake him for feminine charm. Perhaps this is the Achilles Heel of the indestructible Forester. A salute to those who make up only 14% of the student enrollment, but who play a so much greater part in campus life and spirit.

Here's to Foresters, they're true and blue,

Whether from the cold, the wind or home brew

They are but few, but they are strong,

Here let us end our eulogic song.

Hoot Mon—Its Hoot!

The Brunswickan hat-tip to Dr. Miles "Hoot" Gibson on being given an honorary doctorate at U of Toronto. A member of the UNB forestry faculty for many years, Dr. Gibson has contributed much to its growth. For years, one of the most widely known faculty schools on the continent, UNB has achieved international recognition. Not little credit goes to Dr. Gibson, who has guided the school through many of the formative years.

We Hope . . .

Tomorrow the Bombers meet the Mounties in the second tilt of the season. Somewhat puzzled by UNB's erratic record this year, we nevertheless offer whole-hearted encouragement to the boys in Red. We hope you beat the pants off them!

It's Here Again

Forestry week is with us again. Most of us are never too sure when this event is supposed to be held. But the Forester usually brings it to our attention. A lively period, Forestry week has featured such things as athletic competition, wood-technique contests, dances and parties and good healthy horse-play. Its a cheering time and the Foresters carry it off well!

We Want An Answer

We notice the library stacks are still verboten to the common undergrad at night. We wonder how its working out. Dean Bailey assured us after our article on the closing that he did not use the word "theft" in conversation. We apologize for suggesting it. But lets be practical. If not for thefts was the library closed at night, then why? We don't know. Other Canadian colleges are adopting a scheme which they advertise widely as being new—open stacks. We who have had open stacks for years are reverting to ancient practices. We think the students deserve an answer. The student's council wants to suggest a compromise, whereupon senior's would enter at nights with stack-passes. Why not restore open stacks completely?

All Over The Place

The girls' residence now includes Foster Hall, former home of Mrs. Burton Foster. Our co-eds have been growing in numbers so fast there is scarcely room for them all. This is certainly a welcome change from only four years ago, when barely half the present number was considered tremendous.

Shame!

Once before this year we've reminded the authorities about the dangerous traffic situation on our campus roads. It seems we must do it again. Even a jay-walker in Montreal would get prematurely white watching the antics of cars at the Albert street intersection. Before an accident happens which shames us into action, lets do something.

Film Society Presents "Torment" on Nov. 3

One of the most remarkable films ever produced in Sweden will be screened this Sunday evening by the UNB Film Society. "Torment", directed by Alf Sjöberg, deals with the mental suffering of an adolescent boy. His problems, both in school and in amorous affairs, lead to neurosis and eventual breakdown. Fortunately he is able to return to life and face some of his problems. The adult treatment of a difficult subject makes this film outstanding.

The film was awarded the Grand Prix du Cinema at the Cannes International Film Festival. Among the many quotes from reviews of the film are the following: "A prize film—moving and suspenseful", "Powerfully directed and brilliantly played. One of the year's best", "... sensitively photographed and delicately told story of sadism and adolescent despair."

The film will be presented Sunday evening at 8.30 p.m. in the Theatre of the new Chemistry Building.

Following is a list of the films booked for the year. The list should be kept as some changes in showing dates have been made.

- November 3: Torment
- November 24: Salt of the Earth (not confirmed)
- December 8: Umberto D
- January 26: Citizen Kane
- February 16: Les Vacances de M. Hulot
- March 2: Ivan the Terrible
- March 9: Monsieur Alibi
(Fall of the House of Usher—Short)
- March 23: All the Kings Men.

Is the Arts Course A Throwback?

To all students in their last year comes the vital question: "What will I do after graduation?"

Having an important bearing upon your happiness, success and personal well-being, your job decision now is critical. True, should your first position not prove satisfactory, circumstances may lead to another job. But should this process be carried out too often, frequent job shifts become an established pattern and adversely effect your whole life.

For the engineer, forester and scientist, whose careers have become established along distinct industrial or governmental lines, choice of a job may hinge on nothing more than preference for locality or company. Stiff competition among firms for graduates necessarily dictates widespread conformity in salaries.

The arts student is in a vastly different position. Receiving no direct career training during his four years of college, the artsman may well wonder to what financially rewarding task he can put his knowledge. First look at employment brochures is not re-assuring.

A survey of industry will reveal that with few exceptions, jobs open to artsmen are those which are also open to any other type of graduate. Very often, companies purposely employ engineers, or other technocrats, to fill positions, the nature of which clearly becomes an artsman more than anyone. Under pressure they will take an artsman, but only with discomfort. Anxious to rise in the world, such an artsman will spend valuable hours attending night school to scrape together enough credits to justify his superior "taking a chance" on him. Whatever the merits of such a policy, this remains fairly widespread practise in Canada today.

Does the liberal arts curriculum, as it has evolved today, equip a man to make his way in the world? Springing from the three hundred year-old tradition of modern classical education, does it contain guts enough for twentieth century man? On the somewhat materialists basis we have chosen, it would seem not.

Is there any other basis? The addled maxim about the artsman being taught to think seems to fit here. The texture of arts courses must equip a man to at least think. They must form a background of knowledge to which he can apply modern experiences. If this is not true, then there is very little justification for their existence!

Teachings in English, history, philosophy, languages, economics and political science, financially unrewarding as they are, are a distinct benefit to anyone. To the artsman, who takes very little else, they must not only benefit, they must support.

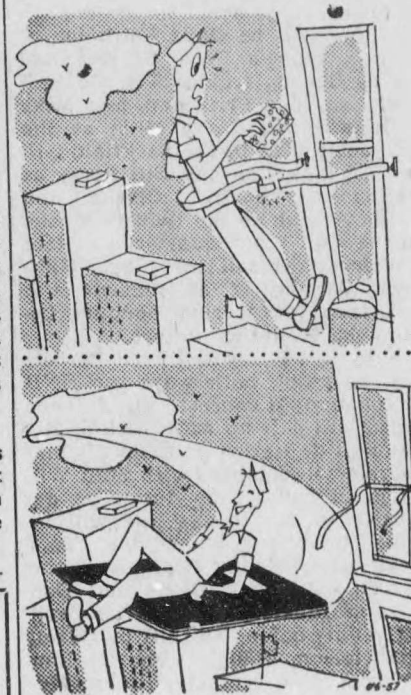

Now, of course, we have left out a very important consideration. Most artsmen take jobs for which they have no preparation and working against the tide, achieve high reward. But the arts degree is not valued for itself, but rather, as an indication that the graduate has spent four years at college, soaking up knowledge which gives him little more than an idle competence in pseudo-intellectual social chatter.

Perhaps there is some, as yet undiscovered, ingredient which will re-vitalize the arts curriculum. But, like Diogenes looking for an honest man, it may take an eternity to find. That being the case, perhaps we all should become engineers, foresters, chemists, physicists and biologists and leave the arts for the more leisure moments of old age.

 eration the American tourists will expect Fredericton, as the "City of Stately Elms", to be authentic.

Let's face it. All the faculties have been apathetic about trees—from our vantage point we have seen but 4% of the University watering their trees this year. Come on UNB, you mere Red and Black blobs, this is not good enough. Remember, if there were no trees there would be no Foresters, and if there were no Foresters there would be no point in having Engineers. And then you would all be apathetic Artsmen . . .
