Exodus.

CHAPTER xi. verse 19 .-.... And Moses took Joseph's bones with him." Did Moses act wrong in taking with him, and keeping with honour, the sacred remains (what Catholics would call the relics) of the Patriarch Joseph? If not: why are Catholics blamed by our pretended Biblicists, for keeping with honour during their spiritual pilgrimage through the desart of this world, the precious remains of their illustrious saints ? Did not the first Christians so keep the very "handkorchiofs and aprons that had but touched the body of Saint Paul ?" And did they not, with these, "cure all diseases and cast out devils ?" Acrs xix. 12. Did not the Prophet Elisha divide the waters of the Jordan with the mastle of Elias? 4 KINGS ii. 10. And did not the lones of Elisha by their touch, raise a dead man to life, S.c. ib. xin. 21.-This shows from Scriptural authority, to be truly apostolical the Catholic doctrine on relics.

Verse 21.-" And the Lord west before them, to show the way, by day in a pillar of cloud; and by night in a pillar of fire ; that he might be the guide of their journey at both times. There never failed the pillar of cloud by day; nor the pillar of fire by night before the people." "The cloud by day," is the cmblem of the whole revealed mystery or of revelation. It is during the day, that is, during this life, an impenetrable cloud to the human intellect, the eye of the soul ; but it shews itself from God ; and serves to guide us on our journey to- ing down Manna from heaven, a greater wonder in itwards the land of promise. At night or the end of that self, then the raising up bread and so many other proday, given us to work our salvation ; Joux ix. 4, it is suddenly changed into brightness. " The pillar of cloud by day becomes a pillar of fire by night." In times of persecution too, when the people of God are hard pressed by their enemies ; the cloud throws itself between ; darkening and confounding the camp of the adversary; but shewing a bright side, towards those, who march under God's direction ; and shedding light on the ways of all, who follow their proper guides by him appointed

Chapter 14 .- The Iraclites, hemmed in between the Red Sea and the whole host of Pharach, see no possible way to escape destruction. Yet, they had no cause to despair, as they were under the guidance of God himself the Omnipotent: who, to shew us how we are to rely upon him in all our difficulties, in the discharge of his own lawfully appointed pastors ; whom he commands our duty however insurmountable they may at first appear, delivered the Israelites in the moment of their us the whole merit of believing without seeing; for spiritual food; and all drink the same spiritual drink; despair; and destroyed the Egyptians, already oxulting in the sure and anticipated capture of the fugitives.

Chapter xv. verse 25 .- "The Lord showed to Moses were turned into sweetness. The bitter waters of Mara, which the Israelites could not drink, represented the bitter potion of sufferings and sorrows, which is offered to all in this mortal pilgrimage. These waters are unpalatable and disgusting, till seasoned with the wood of the cross. This is the tree shewn by God, which turns THE VERY REVEREND WILLIAM P. MACDONALD, V. G. those waters of bitterness into sweets; stops all the murmurings of the multitude; and makes them be more relished by the sojourners in the wilderness than the choicest streams of pleasure so coveted before. Of the waters of Mara we are all doomed to drink, but nothing can sweeten, and render them palatable but the cross of Christ, and the consideration of his sufferings. It was this that made so many in the Catholic Church, lay down their earthly crowns; divest themselves of all their worldly dignities; . scatter their treasures among the poor, or employ them in permanently useful benefactions to the community : and renouncing all the vain enjoyments of this short passing life, embrace a course of penitestial suffering and privation .- It was this that made Saint Paul exclaim, " God forbid that I should glory save in the Cross of Jesus Christ ; by whom the world is crucified to me and I to the world !" GAL.vi.14.

Chapter xvi vorse 2 .- " And all the congregation of the children of Israel murmurred against Moses and Aaron."

We are astonished at the preneness of the Jews to murmur in all their wants, dangers and difficulties; when, in the stupendous wonders wrought in their behalf, they had all along such unquestionable proofs that they were under the immediate care and special guidance of the Almighty. But this only shews us that even the greatest miracles would lose their effect upon the human mind were they to become common and ordinary. We may judge of the truth of this by our daily experience. For de we not daily witness in God's administration of the universe, wonders as great as any wrought in favour of the Israelites ? The only difference between them is, that what we behold happens according to the usual course of nature, and the established order of things.; whereas, what they beheld, and what is called miraculous, happened in a new and unusual manner such is therefore ant to strike and amaze us the more, by its wonderous singularity. But, is for instance, the rainductions from the bosom of the earth ? Is the restoration of life to the dead, even equal to the giving of it to those who never were among the living ? Which is that portion of nature, which does not proclaim to us an all-wise infinitely good and Omnipotent Providence ? And yet we are nothing moved at the sight of all these wonders. And why? Because they are constantly in our view; because they are daily recurring; because they are common and ordinary, For the same reason did the many prodigies witnessed by the Jews, make so slight and transient an impression upon them. Wherefore, God, who wastes no wonder, having once sufficiently proved his Revelation in an extraordinary manner by have believed ;" JOHN XX. 29, and reserving it to him- rock is Christ; ib. verse 2, 3, 4.

Verse 14 .- When the Israelites saw the manna, in the morning, "like a dew lying round their camp; appearing (mall, and as if beaten with a pestle, and like the hoar frost on the ground ; they said one to the other MANHU! which significth what is this : For they know not what it was. And Moses said to them, this is the bread, which the Lord has given you to eat."

The mysterious and inexplicable nature of the thing, signified by the manna, is here well pourtrayed by the enquiring exclamation of the Jew; What is this? Nor could more be told them concerning it, then what Moses, God's interpretor said, "This) is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat."

Verse 17.-After being commanded to gather of it "for every man according to the number of souls, the measure of a Gomor, one gathered more ; another less." But when they came to measure it afterwards, "neither had he more, who gathered more; nor he less who had gathered less." In this again is discerned another precious resemblance to the thing signified, the Blessed Eucharist; for in it also, he who receives more of the species has no more, than he, who receives less; for both receive, under the external forms, Him entire, who declares himself to be "the living and life giving bread :" Jonx vi. S6, 51; the Saviour himself, who cannot be divided.

Verse 31 .- "And the house of Israel called thereof the name MANNA. They gave it the mystical name, WHAT IS IT ? For who can explain it, till the power of God, and his wonderful works are manifested to us in Eternity? Till then, it forms the inexplicable puzzle of our proud presuming reason; and the most trying test of our reliance on God's word revealed.

Verse 34.-The Manna was kept by the command of God, in the Jewish Tebernacle; as a figure of the reality," new kept by his command in the Christian Tabernacle.

Verse 35.-" With this meat were the children of Israel fed until they reached the borders of the land of Canaan." With the real Manna the true bread from Heaven ;" Joux vi. 32 ; are the Christians fed, until, at the hour of death, they reach the borders of a happy eternity.

Chapter 17, verse 6 .- " Behold I will stand there before they upon the rock Horeb ; and thou shalt strike the rock; and water shall come out of it that the people may drink."

The rock was Christ, says Saint Paul; 1 Con. x. 4; the divine rock, on which his Church is founded; and, as the figurative rock when struck with the rod of Moses, poured forth refreshing streams of water; so the prefigured rock, when struck with the spear, sent forth from its side the water of life, the ablusive and refreshing stream, which in baptism gives life to his chasto spouse the Church; and opens in the sacrament all its soul refreshing springs of grace to her children, the prefigured Israelites; dying else for thirst in the wilderness. "Now those things were done," continues the same miracles ; leaves his people to the ordinary guidance of Apostle, in a figure of us ; ib. verse 6. We too, in the spiritual sense, like those " in Moses are all baptized in us to hear, as we would himself : LUKE x, 16. The Eucharist, which this figure particularly represents, under the liquod, as the Manna did under the solid species, is the severest test and trial of our faith ;and therefore proves to all, not taught of God-John vi. 4, 5-the main temptation and obstacle to their belief. It makes them, like the Israclites. chide and tempt the Lord, saying-" Is the Lord amongst us or not ?" although he had assured them that "where two or three are gathered together in his name, there do is in the midst of them."-Matt. xviii. 20.

OF "A Protestant," who flourishes in the last Canada Inquire, shall be answered through the medium of The Catholic next week.

We have shown in our last number from well known facts, he dangers to the community from secret sworn Lodges of every description. No one can tell what public, unsuspected michief, may some day suddenly burst forth from them, as from the deeply covered worlings, and boilings, and sudden eruption of some widely spread desolating and destructive volcano Such was that of the Jacobinical French Revolution in 1791, known to have originated in the Freemason conspiracy of Wishop's Ledge in Germany; and which aimed at nothing less than the overturning of the Altar and the Throne ; of Religion and Monarchy. Alas! how many millions of the human race have thus been hurried into eternity before their time, during the longest war ever recorded in history, which this infidel and disorganizing conspiracy had created !

Now, the surest preventative of such future evils is, that all well-meaning Christians, of every denomination. should set wholesale murder; the dwellings of our their faces against every description of forefathers were committed to the flames, societies acting under the obligation of secret oaths; for, if their intentions are faned, our monasteries plundered and polgood, why conceal them from the eye of luted, our priests banished, and such of the have some smattering of Ecclesiastical the public? F Who is the worthy who writes for the Orangeman of the Gazette? for it is not the Editor, we are sure. He seems to knowledge. We should not say knowledge ; but, we suppose, of some tract-matmost egregious inaccuracies as to the history of the Fathers and the Church; for, according to him, every Bishop was a Pope within his own jurisdiction, who could then and there teach whatever he pleased-no one having any right to call tility manifested by Great Britain towards him to order. This indeed was a Protestthe successor of St. Peter? He alone, and afterwards those of his vain and fickle nation, withdrew themselves from his jurisdiction. Was there ever a general coun-

Then surely the supplications of such, joined with ours, are better and more efficatious than those of the Ea 'nr's parson iil our behalf. The proud Pharisco in the Gospel dared to address God directly; but the humble Publican durst not look up to Heaven ; but, beating his breast, exclaimed, God be merciful to me a sinner ! Which of the two were justified ?

Who over doubted that the proud Photius was the first to deny the supreme jurisdiction of the Bishop of Rome. But he was the first, and this was the occasion of the Greek schism. What is the use of precedence without power? mere etiquette. Pope Stephen's decision was finally acknowledged by the African Bishops, as it had been, and is to this day, by the universal Church.

The argument of the Greeks for making Constantinople the rival of Rome, was never acceded to by the rest of the church. It was a political one, the residence of only a temporal prince, which, except in the Anglican sect, can have no such paramount weight in the Church of Christ.

at Cheltenham.

We have received a letter from Mr. Berington (containing some interesting particulars as to the spiritual condition of this town), from which we make the following extracts :---

"Of Mr. Close, in conjunction with BI'Neil, Stowell, and O'Beirne, you have doubtless heard much. For several years past Le has lost no opportunity, either in the pulpit or on the platform, of misrepresenting and villifying our holy religion, and his constant endeavour has been to make his classes believe that Catholicism and infidelity are synonymous. Under his patronage M'Neil thundered away at the Assembly Rooms, the apostate Crotty bullied at St. Mary's, and at his invitation O'Beirne delivered his stock of lies and indecencies (so indecent were the pretended disclosures he made, that none but married men were allowed by his patron to be present at the recital of them). At Bible and missionary meetings which hero are neither few nor far between, he never fails to have a collection, to enable him, as he says, ' to make inroads on the stronghold of popery,' and not content with all this polemical warfare and religious contention, he has, for the last three years, fixed upon 'Cecil's Holiday' as the most fitting one for 'brawling and stirring up strife.' On the 5th of November, 1839, he held up the Catholics as murderers and idolaters, and concluded by calling on his hearers to support Tory candidates as the grand means by which Popery must be annibilated.

" In 1840, he lamented the increase of Catholicism, talked about 'nulling the ears of the Popish privy councillors,' and 'blowing up the Papists;' entreating his congregation ' to contributo largely, and outvie in zeal the deluded Papists, who he saw with sorrow, in every part of the kingdom, were raising stately edifices for the worship of Satan and error.' But the bubble has at last well nigh burst, and the 5th of November 1841, saw him mount the pulpit to deliver his 'gunpowder plot' discoursing to an auditory which had 'grown small by degrees, and beautifully less.' But on that occasion no denunciation of 'Popery' was heard from his charitable lips. No; he had been crying 'wolf when there was no wolf; and now that the wolf had effected an entrance, there was none to head him ! Mr. Close declared that it could no longer be concealed, that there was an enemy much more formidable than Popery now to contend with, in her twin sister Tractarian ism, which had already eaten into the very core of Protestantism!" After la menting over 'the apostacy of the Rev Mr. Sibthorp, whom he was once in treaty with to serve St. Paul's church in this town, but whom he would have soon turned out, for his chapel at Ryde had been for some time desecrated with Popish or namonts and traditionary rubbish,' he declaimed against Pusevism and its followors, and concluded by giving the Catholics the gratifying intelligence that ' the minisreturn to Rome, had not taken possession of their mind !' Here then, we have the admission of this detormined opponent of in danger; that 'the house is divided against itself :' that none of its guides know what to believe; and that the portion of enriched are fearful; that the majority of their brethren are about to return to the one Holy and Apostolic Church,' and doprive them of the spoil. So that in spite of all the rev. gentleman's assertions, and the labours of Stowell, M'Neil, &c., Catholicism is likely to become again universal in this country, after two centuries of persecution, defamation, and calumny. The affairs of 'his household' now require attention, and the 5th of November will in futuro pass by unheeded and destitute of the eloquence of a Close !" Mr. Berington then introduces us to another kind of Clergyman, "the Rev. A. Watson, M. A., formerly of Leeds, and now minister of St. John's Cheltenham, a gentleman, to whom, in ecclesiastical knowledge, argumentative powers, and simple eloquence, Mr. Close must be content to give the palm, for, indeed, "comparisons are odious." Mr. Watson has for some time been set down as a Puseyite, and having announced that it was his intention to deliver ' a lecture on the errors of Romanism," on the evening of the 5th inst., I felt great anxiety to hear him, and accordingly attended.

"The rev. gentleman commenced by condemning 'political parsons' and 'platform orators,' and those of his brethren who endeavor to make the transaction commemorated that day a pretext for denunciation and uncharitableness. He declaimed against those who thought themselves qualified to interpret Scripture and defend religion without being appointed to do so, contending that such a doctrino was erroneous, and that the pastors of the church alone had that authority, and were specially empowered to do so. He said, he had no sympathy with those of his clerical brethren who abused a portion of the clergy for going as far towards Rome as they themselves had towards Geneva." piety and learning of Calvin, whom he styled 'the great doctor of Geneva,' and in fact, he is little else than a Calvinist, comgood works.' Mr. Watson said, 'he agreed with Dean Field, who said the Church of Rome was 'very ecclesia, sed non vera scclesia,' and Archbishop Laud who declared she was 'vera ecclesia, sed non recta ecclesia;' and he also believed 'she was a branch of the true church.' The rev. cles; and though my limits will not allow mo to follow him through his discourse, I conscientiously declare, in common with many others who heard him, that his sermon throughout was rather a vindication of the doctrines of the Catholic Church than a denunciation of them.

"On the following Sunday he delivered

THE PUSEVITES.

The University of Oxford is quite in a ferment on the subject of the late conversions of clergymen of the Established church to the religion of Rome. Many of the students, it oppears, are shortly expected to declare themselves Catholics ;while not a few of the professors are suspected of having recently reconciled themselves to the Papal Sec. To every well clergymen ordained according to the Proregulated mind nurtured in the principles testant formula. Auricular confession, it of the Reformation, such a state of things in an English University must be a source of sincere sorrow. The conflict through which he must have passed must have rendered him altogether indifferent to what the world thinks or says upon the subject. #### PUSEVISM IN ENGLAND.

An article, which appears in another column of the Sun, indicates the feeling. with which the revolution silentiy but not the less progressively and triumphanily, working in Eugland in favour of the ancient faith, is regarded by a portion of the English people. The conversion of the Rev. Mr. Sibthorpe has been followed by many other ministers of the Establishment. The Catholic colleges in Lancashire, Cheshire and Staffordshire contain, at this moment, many postulants undergoing probation previous to their reception into the bosom of the Catholic church, and the greater number of those postulants are appears, has been introduced into Oxford -and the distinctions that separate the communion of Anglicism from Rome, are daily dwindling, to the amazement of some and the horror of others. But why this revolution, in this onward march, be stayed? Is it anything more than a return to the old to any creed, if he be a good man, must and venerable ways, in which peace and charity, and the most exalted sentiment of nounce the religion of his fathers, of his pure philanthropy and unadulterated religion were found? The students at Oxford had every inducement to remind them of worshipped-before he can bring himself formation. Original. MAN CONFORMABLE TO THE IMAGE OF CHRIST.

God made man to his own image and likeness. The eternal Son, by his Incarnation, made himself to man's image and likeness, in order to repair, in that image and likeness, what had been disfigured by sin. Now, if man even here in his imperfect state is made, and again restored by the sanctifying grace of the Saviour to the image and likeness of God-how much more perfect in him must the image and likeness of his Maker be, when he is at last admitted into heaven. Above all. when, at the last day, his soul shall be reunited with his glorified body, now become immortal and impassible; and his whole being be thus made, according to St. Paul, conformable to the image of his Son .--Rom. viii. 29. The whole man shall then put a immortality, and be endowed with the qualities of a spirit. No obstacle can then bar his flight; nor will he require time (for time is no more) to reach the utmost bounds of creation, and admire the wondrous works of the Omnipotent.

The Saviour's humanity, in its mortal state, found access to his Apostles, though closeted up for fear of the Jews. "And, when they were troubled and frightened, supposing that they saw a spirit, he said to them-why are you troubled....see my hands and feet, that it is I myself : handle and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones as you see me to have .---And when he had said this, he shewed them his hands and his feet."-LULE xxiv. 37, &c. Nay, to convince them that he was not a spirit, he eat beford them " a piece of broiled fish and a honey comb.and gave to them the remains."-Ibid. v. 43.

Now, as we in our glorified state are to be made conformable to his image, similar powers will be granted to our glorified humanity, though in a subordinate degree. Anticipating in thought the enjoyment of this spiritual, unimpeded, and instantaneous self-transporting power, the royal prophet exclaims: "I shall behold thy heavens, the works of thy fingers; the moon and the stars, which thou hast founded." Ps. viii. 4. What a source of enjoyment will not this prove for eternity to the rational and glorified beings, in which the reprobated portion of our race can never participate!

Nor need this instantaneous self-transporting power, imparted to a spiritual being, surprise us, when we consider the inconceiveable velocity of light, a material body, traversing, as is ascertained, in seven minutes, the immense distance between us and the sun. Nor in considering that, whatever distance we are removed from places where we have been, our minds, when we choose, are instantaneously there. Now, our minds are our souls; and when we put on immortality, our bodies, like the Saviour's, will be spiritualized, and fitted to be wherever the soul is, as soul and body, finally united, are forever inseparable.

What then must we think of the Protestants' unphilosophical, as well as unchristian denial, in the very teeth of the Saviour's most explicit and repeated declaration, that his humanity, inseparably united with his divinity, can be present at the same time, however he pleases, and wherever he pleases?—The earthly worm will call impossible the evident revelations of God, and set bounds to the power of Omnipotence !!! FAREWELL TO SCOTLAND. On board the Bark CLYDE, off the coast of Scotland ... Awout 30th. 1841.

Ye hills in magic beauty piled !

Ye mountains of my native land ! While the loud blast is howling wild, And shiv'ring on the deck I stand, I raise my moistened eye o'er ocean's swell, And strive to bless you ere I say Farewelk.

How lovely o'er the deep they rise, With wildness grand-with beauty gay!

Around their summite light ning flies, While round their base the lambkins play And sweetly in the lowly vales between

The wood bine twines-the ivy mantles green.

How sweet in yonder flowery vale, To sit and hear the linnet sing !

Or sky.lark's notes—the morn to hail— Come floating on the breeze's wing; While morning's rosy beam comes thro' the bower Exhaling dew drops from each tree and flower.

How brightly gleams the summer. sky ! How rich and fair th' autumnal eve ! When Tay's broad stream is stealing by ; Where rapt in bliss, the heart will grieve

To wander from a scene, so calmly fair-

And light steps roam thro' yonder bowers ! And music swells thro' yonder hall ! And sweetly smiling summer flowers Are clamb'ring o'er the garden wall !

While o'er the scene the fading sun-beam strays And Boatland's charms, Tay's mirrored stream displays.

How sweet the hour ! when evening steals O'er sweeping Dee's refulgent wave !

When scarce the twilight gloom reveals The varied banks its billows lave; When dreamy stillness o'er the forest creaps, And nature, clothed in charms, in beauty sleeps

How throbs my beating bosom yet, When oft my frequent prayer ascende,

To bless that spot I'll ne'er forget; Where purity with beauty blends [n one fair form; while mem'ry of the past

Sends forth-e'en new-my sighs upon the blast.

Not this my theme-away-away-To other scenes my muse retire, Let other strains beguile to-day,

Let other numbers swell my lyre.

See, where Edina's smiling tarrets gleam ! See, where the Forth slow winds his mazy stream !

There often, Scotia's warrier lords

Have seen proud Denmark's hordes retire : And oft beneath their dreadful swords Rome's Legion's, in the strife, expire !

There too they've taught proud England's hosts. to feel

Th' awakoned vengeance of the Scottish steel.

But now no more the war cloud lowers, And all the lovely landscape smiles; Save, where from Stirling's aged towers

The pibroch's martial strain beguiles ;

And Bannock's brawling brook, still bounding nigh,

Yet wakes th' memory of days gone by.

Yes : dearly do I love to stray

O'er scenes that tell of ages gone, Where patriot chiefs—in firm array— For freedom fought, and glory won !

Their spirit still, perhaps, pervades the scene. And I inhale it, though their graves be green!

But oh ! than these than all more dear, Romantic Morar's cliffs arise !

Her silvery Lake is crystal clear,

Her steepy mountains scale the skies, E'en now, above the deep their summit hang, The same as when the bard of Selme sang. Though wildly thus the mountains loom, And heave to heaven their giant forms ; Yet sweet below the vallies bloom.

While high above them roll the storms; And shepherds and their flocks, secure from ill-Wind thro' the vale, or clamber o'er the hill.

There o'er the lake, or thro' the wildwood, Or o'er the mountain's grander scene;

I have roamed in joyous childhood, Ere distance threw a veil between ;

But years have gone-and years will roll amain, Ere (as of old) I wander there again.

Yet there, shaft winged fancy rove When many a fleeting year hath passed ; No change of clime shall change my love, What had the first shall have the last ;

And there, when death's cold hour hath closed my eye,

My spirit on the pinioned gale shall fly !

And, borne above the whelming tide, O'er forests—earth—and sea—and sky above, Bear back my spirit to the land I love!

TOUCHSTONE OF THE NEW RELIGION;

WM. McD. D.

Or, SIXTY ASSERTIONS OF PROTESTANTS tried by their own Rule of Scripture alone, and condemned by clear and express Texts of their own Bible.

To which is added,

A Roman Catholic's Reasons Why he cannot conform to the Protestant

Religion.

I.—Protestants, in order to justify their new religion, affirm, that before their pretended Reformation, laity and clergy, learned and unlearned, all ages, sects, and degrees of men, women, and children, of whole Christendom, were at once drowned in abominable idolatry; and that for eight hundred years and more. Homily of Peril and Idolatry, approved by the 35th of the 39 articles, part 3; and consequently they must hold, that for all that space of time, the gates of Hell prevailed against the church of Christ.

Their own Bible, in plain and express terms, declares the contrary. St. MATT. xvi. 18. Upon this rock will I build my church, and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it.

II.—Protestants maintain, that for many hundred years before Luther, there was no church upon earth, with which a christian might lawfully join in communion; that all were notoriously gone astray from the purity of the gospel; and consequently, that Christ, who is the way, the truth, and the life, St. JOHN xiv, 6, was not with any church, before their Reformation, because they were all gone astray from the way, the truth, and the life.

Their own Bible expressly assures us, that this could never be.—St. MATT. xxviii, 19, 20. Go, teach all nations: and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world.

III.—Protestants teach, that the spirit of Truth was not promised to the church of Christ, to be with her teachers forever, and to guide them into all truth.

Their own Bible, in clear and plain terms, contradicts this their assertion.--St. JOHN XIV, 16. 17, I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comfoster, that he may abide with you forever, even the Spirit of Truth. And St. JOHN XVI, 13-When the Spirit of Truth is come, he will guide you into all truth.

IV.—Protestants assert, that the church of the living God is not the pillar and ground of truth; but may, and often does, uphold damnable errors.

Their own Bible expressly declarcs, 1 TIM. iii, 15, that the church of the living God is the pillar and ground of the truth; and consequently cannot uphold damnable errors.

V.—Protestants maintain, that God has not made any promise to his church, that his spirit should never depart from her; and that his words, which he at first put in her mouth [that is, the faith and doctrine at first delivered to the Saints] should never depart from her mouth, through all generations.

Their own Bible, in plain terms, delivers this promise, Isa. lix. 20, 21—The Redeemer shall come to Zion, &c.— This is my covenant with them, saith the Lord; my spirit which is upon thee, and my words which I have put in thy mouthshall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy seed, nor out of the mouth of thy seed's seed, saith the Lord, from henceforth and forever.

VI.—Protestants, to justify Luther, (who, when he first began to set up the Protestant religion, stood alone against all the Bishops and clergy upon earth) deny that there is any command in Scripture to hear the church, or submit to her, decision; or that such as, like Luther, stand out against the established doctrine of the whole church, are thereby condemnable before God.

Their own Bible, in plain words, teachers them another lesson: St. MATT. xviii, 17—If he neglect to hear the church, let him be to thee as an heathen and a publican.

VII.—Protestants will not allow that there is any need of adhering to the pastors and teachers of the church, in order to be maintained in unity and truth; and preserved from being carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the slight of heretics.

Their Bible expressly declares, EPHES iv, 11, 12, &c., that Christ has not only given apostles, and prophets, and evangelists; but also pastors and teachers, for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ, till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of a stature of the fulness of Christ. That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about by every wind of doctrine, by the slight of men; but speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head. even Christ. And St. LUXE x, 16-He that heareth you (the pastors of the church) heareth me : and he that despiseth you, despiseth me; and he that despiseth me, despiseth him that sent me. And HEB. xiii.7,&c.Remember them which have the you the word of God, whose faith follow great mountain filling the whole earth, be saved. -Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, and DAN. ii. 35. to a city set on a hill which to-day, and forever. Bo not carried a- cannot be hid, St. MATT. v. 14. bout with diverse and strange doctrines, gion would never have had a being.

Their Bible, in plain terms, contradicts both parts of this their assertion, EZEK. xxxvii. 26. where God Almighty, after nation. having promised by his prophet the coming of Christ, and the establishment of his kingdom, that is, of his church, tells us, Moreover I will make a covenant of peace with them. It shall be an everlasting covenant with them : And I will place them, and multiply them, and will set my sanctuary in the midst of them for evermore.

X1 .- Protestants deny that Christ's church upon earth is always visible ; because they will have it that for many ages before their religion came in, there was no true visible church upon carth.

Their Bible, in many places, expressly assures us, that Christ's church is always visible ; comparing it to a mountain upon epistle. XX.--Protestants take for their rule of faith the Scripture, as interpreted by their own private judgment.

Their Bible prescribes a different rule. 1 JOHN iv; 6-He that knoweth God heareth us : [the pastors of the church] spirit of error.

Their Bible tells them, 2 PET. i; 20 That no prophecy of the scripture is of private interpretation.

XXI.-Protestants maintain that the Scripture is clear, and plain to be understood; and that the unlearned run no risk in reading and interpreting it.

Their Bible assures them, 2 Par. ili 16-That in the Scripture are so ne things hard to be understood, which they that own catechism "xpressly teaches them. are unlearned and unstable wrest to their that ' the body and blood of Christ are

XXII.-Most Protestants are of opinion, that children may be saved without Baplism : and that persons grown up may be saved, though they neither are baptized, nor desire to be baptized; but even refuse it, as Quakers.

Their Bible tells them in plain terms, JOHN iii; 5-'Except a man be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God.<sup>1</sup>

XXIII .-- Protestants deny that the grace of the Holy Ghost is given by the imposition of the Bishop's hands in confirmation.

Their Bible teaches that it is .-- Acres viii,15,17, where Peter and John confirmed the Samaritans. 'They prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Ghost .- Then laid their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost.

XXIV .- Protestants deny that the blessed sacrament, which Christ gave at his last supper, was the body and blood of Christ.

Their Bible affirms it, in Christ's own express words; MATT, XXV; 26, 28-This is my body -This is my blood of the New Testament, which is shed for xxii; 19, 20-. This is my body which is XXV.-Protestants deny, that the bread which Christ gave was his flesh, the same which he gave for the life of the world.

Their Bible affirms it, JOHN vi; 51-The bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world."

XXVI .- Protestants are apt to say with the unbelieving Laws, Jonn vi: 52 -'How can this man give us his flesh to cat ?' and verse 60, 'This is a hard say-

Christ in their own Bible assures them, JOHN vi; 53,54,56-Verily, verily I say unto you, except ye cat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you. Whose cateth my flesh and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life, and I will raiso him up at the last day-He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him."

XXVII.-Protestants deny that Christ's flesh is meat indeed, and his blood is drink indeed

Their Bible expressly affirms it, JOHN, vi. 55. My flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.

XXVIII .- Protestants deny, that the cup of blessing which we bless, is the communion of the blood of Christ ; or that the bread which we break in the blessed Sacrament is the communion of the body of Christ.

Their Bible expressly affirms it, 1 Cor. x. 16. The cup of blessing, which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ ? The bread which we break. is it not the communion of the body of Christ?' And what makes them more inexcusable in denying it is, that their verily and indeed taken and received by the faithful in the Lord's supper.'

XXIX -Protestants teach, that to the unworthy communicant the Sacrament is no more than bare bread and wine, and by no means the body and blood of Christ.

Their Bible assures them of the contrary, when it tells them, 1 Con. xi. 27. 29, ' that the unwoithy communicant is guilty of the body and blood of our Lord ; and that he receives damnation to himself, not discerning the body of our Lord," For how should he be guilty of the body and blood of our Lord, if what he took were no more than bread and wine ?---And how hard a case would it be that he should be damned for not d scerning the bcdy of our Lord, which, in the opinion of these gen lemen, is not at all there ?

XXX .- Protestants, to excuse their unbelief of the real presence of the body and blood of Christ in the blessed Sacrament, pretend that it is impossible his body and blood should be in so small a space; or in more places than one at the same time.

Their Bible assures them, that with God all things are possible, MAT, xix. 26. even for a camel to go through the eye many for the remission of sins.' Luke of a needle, verse 24. With men this is impossible, says our Saviour, but not the top of mountains, exposed to the view falsify the Scripture, by forging a text, given for you-This is the New Testa- with God; for with God all things are of all nations flowing unto it. Nor is it harder two places, than for two bodies to be in one place, as when our Saviour came in to his disciples, the doors being shut, JOHN XX. 19, 26.

XXXI.-Protestants maintain that there is a necessity of receiving the Sacrament in both kinds in order to life everlasting.

Their own Bible expressly promises eternal life to them that receive in one kind only, JOHN vi. 58. He that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

XXXII -Protestants deny that there is any true and proper sacrifice in the church of Christ, to be offered in all places to the name of God.

Their Bible affirms it, MAL. i. 10, 11. where rejecting the Jewish sacrifices, God declares his acceptance of that sacrifice, or pure offering, which should be made to him in every place among the Gentiles. I have no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of Hosts, neither will I accept an offering at your hand. For from the rising of the sun even unto the going down of the same, my name shall be great among the Gentiles, and in every place incense shall be offered unto my name and a pure offering. Which cannot be understood of the sacrifice of the Cross, which was offered but once, and in one place, and that among the Jews and not among the Gentiles.

First we read the title with a kind of incredulous wonder; then we turned over the leaves with a disposition to contempt, gradually growing into a struggle to resist bursting into immoderate laughter. But this gave way to a feeling of humbling shame, that in the nineteenth contury, in such a country as this the Premier Fael of humbling shame, that in the insteenth contury, in such a country as this, the Premier Earl of England should put forth such a production as this. But the Earl is a lineal descendant of the Tálbot of William the Conqueror, and the family motto is Prest d'accomplir—ready to perform: and he who went to the mountains of the Tyrol to kindle his faith by the sight of two young women, and who has written a letter to sustain the corn laws, may follow up his adventures by patronising Bernard Cavanagh, the fasting man, as a nattern both of faith and practice to a stary. as a pattern both of faith and practice to a starv. ing nation.

We are not discritication on a suboing to inflict on them a dissertation on of Berlin, in his account of his spectral illusions, tells us that his imagination attained to a great facility in picturing. When he set about imagin-ing, for example, the incidents of a novel, the dif-ferent imaginary characters would "present them-selves to me in the most lively and distinct manner; their figure, their features, their manner, manner; their ngure, their reactives, their mather, their complexion, were all visible to my fancy."— Now, without entering into a learned disquisition on oracles, ascetics, and quietists, carry out this instance into the history of all "pious frauda" whatever. Now, of a truth, we do not mean to assert that Thomas Paine would have written anything so positively stupid as this; but we may venture to express an opinion that if that shrewd blasphemer had lived in our times-had been tamed down to the decency of our manner of speech-and had consented to lay aside for a moment, his own pungent racy idiomatic English, he would have written against Christianity, its author and its believers, the substance of what we have just quoted. In fact every word would, mutatis mu tandis, apply just as well to the narratives of Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Paul and Moses, as to the two poor ladies against whom this genius of the Stock Exchange has discharged what powers of ridicule the Lord hath vouchsafed to give him.-On the subject of miracles there is extant, in the present day, a so-called philosophy-the dribblings and dregs of the cups of a by-gone generation of Atheists, and which really ought to be left to the shallow withings and downright blockheads for whose calibre of intellect it seems expressly formed—a philosophy which consists in aking revenge for the unwilling assent its proessors are compulied to express, if not to feel for Just imagine Moses doomed to "breathe the same atmosphere" as the penny.a-liner of the Morning Chronicle, and to have his revelations miticised by the same practised scribe. Imagine the great lawgiver of I-rael-if it were possible living in the ninetcenth century ; or suppose that the sage of the strand had been born in Egypt in the year A. M. 2433, and had subsequently flourshed as a "Coptic scribe" to the Pharaohs of that era. Or bring down the auspicious moment of his birth to the year one of our present calendar, and fancy the lip of contempt, the "humbling shame" with which our philanthropic Sadducee would have turned over the little pamphlet which narrates the Gospel of that day when it first issued (with or without "blue cover" and pictures) from the shop of the Bond.street bibliopole of Jerusalem. Fancy him sitting down to write for the benefit of posterity an account of the events of his own time. He begins almost in the very words of the Chronicle :-

'From time to time we must occasionally be reminded that human nature is human nature still. Even our enlightened age is not proof against the revival of antiquated absurdities. Such are the reflections excited in us by a sight of a new pamphlet just issued, it is said, by a man who calls himself John, under the title of . Good Tidings' or Gospel. Our rea ders, no doubt, stare at this title : and their astonishment will be not at all diminished by learning that, instead of relating to some new district for growing grain, or some new discovery in the mode of catching and pickling fish, it relates to a man called Christ, who led an obscure life, and was put to a shameful death about forty years ago, and to certain followers of his, some of whom were frequently casting out their nets, and some perpetually trying to cast out devils.

'Let us not be mistaken. The religious faith and feelings [the cant, as in the above extract], old notions and gratuitous absurdities, abhorrent to common sense and common decency. • • Well, then, the ' Good Tidings' of John (and they are marvellous good tidings) relate to a man [as above]. It is a pamphlet written on a yellowish parchment, and contains one or two pictures in the margin. First, we read the title with a kind of incredulous wonder ; then we turned over the skin with a disposition to contempt, gradual'y growing into a struggle to resist bursting into immoderate laugh ter. But this gave way to a feeling of humbling shame, that in the fortieth cop tury, in such a country as Judæa, an educated man, as this John evidently is, should put forth such a producti in as this.

'But before entering on the pamphle<sup>t</sup> of this John, let us give our readers some idea of the matter to which it relates. We are not going to inflict on them * dissertation on a subject familiar 'to the commonest understandings. THE HORSE .- The horse knoweth his owner, and he knows much more. I vorily believe he knows more than many of the two-logged animals who ride on horse back, and I am quite sure there is more of the spirit of Christianity in his practice than is to be found in many of the blpeds aforesaid; for the horse, especially the carman's, rests on the Sabbath, whereas his ridor often works harder for the devil on that day than ho dues for food to keep his soul and body togethet on any day in the week. I sdes the horse will caross the hand that feeds him; but thousands of his riders thank not God, in whom they live, and move, and have their being. To illustrate my position let me give a few uncodotes of this beautiful and friendly animal. Of a two horse team belonging to the Earl of--, near Oxford, cue the stall next to the gentle horse, stood one that was blind. In the morning, when the horses, about twenty of them were turned out to pasture this good tempered creature constantly took his blind friend under his protection. When he strayed from his companions, his kind friend would run neighing after and smell around him, and when recognised they would walk aldo by side, until the blind friend was led to the best grass in the field.

God, speaking to Job, asks him : " Hast thou given the horse strength ? - Hast thou cluthed his neck with thunder ? He mocketh at fear and is neck with thunder ? The Captain being rich and a man of feeling, was loth to see these noble fellows turned into butcher, haker, or beer-house drigs, after helping to drive the French from Spain. He therefore bought the whole lot and set them loss in one of his fine graze parks to wear away their old age in peace. One warm summer evening, when it was just dark enough to render light visible, a vivid flash was followed by a lout report of thandor. At this noment the horees were grazing leizurely, but seeing the blaze and heating the roport, they thought a battle had begun. In a minute they were in the centre of the field, all drawn up in line, their beautiful ears quit-oring with anxiety like the leaf of the poplar trem-bling in the breeze, listening for the word of the rider to lead them to the charge. My informant, who was an eys witness of this wondarful scene, told me he had often seen these hurses.

LEASES OF LIVES RENEWABLE FOR EV-ER .- The Court of Exchequer have pronounced a very important decision, involving the rights of landlords and tenants, in respect to this peculiar tenure .-The Bill was filed by a Mr. Boyle, of the County of Derry, against the Rev. R Olpherts, to compel the execution of a renewal on the fall of life. The original lease, of 1731, contained a reservation of bog, but with liberty to the lessee to use it for fuel, and the tenants had ever since gone on encroaching, and converting it into arable land. In this manner they had reclaimed between one and two hundred acres, and on replying for a renewal, in 1840, the landlord insisted on excepting from the grant all the reclaimed land. This was resisted, and a bill having been filed, the case came on before the court of Exchequer of Thursday. The Court decreed, that the bog having been excepted in the original grant, with a right of fuel to the tenants, that the sub-soil belonged to the landlord, and that all the reclaimed land was the estate of Mr. Olpherts. They therefore decided that he was entitled to except it out of his renewal. This decision is a most important one. -[Ulster Times.

TO THE READERS OF THE CATHOLIC.

The Catholic.

WE take this opportunity to express our grateful thanks to our Rev.and dear brethren for their zealous endeavours to promote the circulation of our paper among their people. Some, to be sure, have not been so successful as others; but all, we doubt not have done what they could, to keep our Catholic afloat, the first, the only English periodical ever edited in the Canadas in defence of our holy religion; nay, the only one ever edited in this country in any language for so necessary a purpose, except that excellent paper in French, the "Melanges | Religieux," lately published in Montreal. PRIDE OF ADVERTISENTETTS. Our outlay however is great, not less in the year than some thousand dollars. Any thing above the sum required will be at our own disposal; and will be exclusively applied towards liquidating the debt contracted in finishing our Church here ; in the purchase of two lots; and the erection of our Presbytery upon them; so as to leave our people here, in this im-portant place, in the full and free enjoy. ment for ever of the conveniences of their wards. religion. We should hope therefore that no true Catholic will begrudge lending o what support he can towards so meritorious a purpose. Should it happen otherwise, and that we are left in the lurch, as we have been on a former occasion; what an everlasting reproach it would be to our people iu all the Canadas, that they would not support one single weekly periodical, engaged in refuting the calumnies and misrepresentations of the religious Protestant press; and of shewing the purity of our doctrines to the prejudiced and mis-directed multitude. If so, we need not wonder and complain that we are ooked upon as monsters by those who for more than three centuries have been taught to consider us as such ; or that, as the Apostles says, "the way of truth should be evil spoken of :" 2 PET. ii. 2.
