CATHOLIC CHRONICLE.

VOL. XXX.—NO. 52.

MONTREAL, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 11, 1880.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

THE "REV. FATHER" QUINN,

What the P.E. Islanders Think of Him,

AN INCONVENIENT MEMORY

OTHER INTERESTING TRIFLES CONCERNING HIM.

(From the Charleston New Era.)

The Presbyterian in its issue of July 19th boldly stated that we could readily obtain any information we desired concerning Mr. Quinn as to his location, or by whom ordained from the Rev. Gentleman himself, who would be "to happy" to give the information required. Now let the candid public mark that this was published subsequently to our remarks under the head of "The Latest Imposter," and yet the same Presbyterian in its issue of the 25th of July backs down in a paltry and unmanly manner by saying "If the New Era man had behaved to Father Quinn like a gentleman he would have received the certificates and information for which he professes to be so anxious." When the person passing himself off as Father Quinn called at the New Era office, the editor of this paper treated him with the utmost courtesy that could be given to him, under the circumstances, and this the gentleman who were present can testify. Mr. Quinn asked us to retract the statement published by us concerning him, and on complaining that it was calculated to do him a serious injury we told him it would afford us great satisfaction to remedy any wrong we might have done him; and we suggested that he should show us his credentials. They were in his carpet bag, at Summerside, he said, and if we went with him, he would show them. Inasmuch as this was on the eve of publication, we declined to do so, but if he would give us the name of the Bishop of the Diocese in which he had been ordained we would telegraph at our own expense, and publish the despatch, and if the reply were to the effect that he had been a regularly ordained priest of the Roman Catholic Church we would not only retract what he had said of him, but heartily apologize. In reply to this he said the Bishop would likely telegraph a lie, as all priests and bishops would lie in the interests of the Church. We then asked him to give us the name of any Protestant clergyman, or business man, in any town or village who knew him, and who could vouch as to his genuineness as having, at any time or place, officiated as a Catholic priest. This he would not or could not do; and in our mind we began to think that he was considerably of a wriggler. We became confirmed in this view of the matter when, in reply to a question towards the close of the interview, he said the Bishop who ordained him was dead! To his threat of commencing a libel suit against us immediately we replied that he could commence as quickly as he liked, but we had an easier way to give him satisfaction and that was to submit the matter of his credentials to any Protestant Clergyman in Charlottown, in our presence, and we would abide by the issue. "This he would not do; and we are not surprised; because we have since learned that the Committee of the Presbyterian General Assembly, at Montreal, appointed to examine his credentials, were not at all satisfied that he was the real Simon Purr," and he got the cold shoulder from the Assembly in their official character. The cold-blooded Presbyterian editor, Sullivan's right hand man, says: "It would have been much more rational for the New Era to have answered Father Quinn's arguments than to have insulted the intelligence of the Presbyterian Church of the Dominion by the insane supposition that Father Quinn is a bad man, and that the highest Court of the venerable body was 'duped.' In our opinion the friends of the writer of the above had better look after his sanity; and as to the Highest Court of the Presbyterian Church, we are pleased to find that they were too shrewd to be imposed upon by the plausible genius who wished 'to do' the Maritime Provinces during the summer months, for the purpose of relieving the 'blue noses' of their hard cash. The Presbyterian editor is not 'the intelligence' of the Presbyterians of this Province, as 'Father Quinn' has probably found out; and as the doors of several of the Presbyterian Churches have been already closed against him, he will probably find that though he came for wool he will go home shorn. The entry of the Presbyterian asking us to reply to 'Father Quinn's' arguments is amazing! That task, when we met him personally, we found to be the easiest task we ever tried. If we desired a proof that he was badly whipped we could not desire a better one, than the fact that he had to fall back on the sordid vocabulary, by calling his opponent 'a liar.' The fact that we merely said 'thank you sir,' and politely bowed him out of our office, should be proof enough that we treated him very much better than a person of his vulgarity and impertinence deserved. So far as we are concerned, it matters not whether he shows his credentials or not. It matters much, however, to himself and to those who are taking hold of him. We have done our duty, we believe, in cautioning the public against a tramp, an imposter, and a low Yankee disturber of the public peace of a British Province. The Presbyterian newspaper that hounds him on against the Catholics of this Province, and that endorses the atrocious libels that they are all liars and willing to murder, is a paper which it is almost impossible to find words strong enough to censure or condemn, and a Government that subsidizes and encourages such an organ is not much better.

"Father Quinn," finds it necessary to publish the following card, which shows the unenviable character of a man who wantonly makes wholesale accusations against those he would have it believed were his former co-religionists:—
"To the Public.
I hereby contradict the false statements made against me in two of the papers of this city, viz: the New Era and Herald, intimating that I am an imposter, and that I never was a Roman Catholic priest. I do hereby affirm to the fact that I was a priest in the Roman Catholic Church over ten years. My identity as a Roman Catholic priest was determined by several most intelligent and respectable gentlemen before I decided to come to lecture on this island. I, therefore, do not consider myself under any obligation whatever to be continually satisfying the stupid questions of Roman Catholics, who hate and deny the truth—consequently maliciously opposed to me.

THIS IS ABOUT THE COOLEST PIECE OF EVIDENCE that has ever been offered to a discerning public. If the ex-priests of the Independent Catholic Church of New York imposed, for a while, on Dr. Fiehlert and other most intelligent gentlemen, it is just as likely that the genius who postures as "Father Quinn" has imposed on the intelligent and respectable gentlemen who "determined" upon his "identity as a Roman Catholic Priest" before he decided to come to lecture on this island. The above letter, it appears to us, in a pretty thin disguise of insincerity, if not of downright fraud. The number of "Father Quinns" in the world is quite large. There are two Father Quinns, for instance, in the Diocese of New Brunswick. Why did he not give his christian name? Why did he not give his "address" as to his "identity," he gives neither his local habitation nor his name. Would it not be a pretty piece of evidence to offer in a British court of justice? If offered there he would be laughed out of court; and yet he expects it will do for the greenhorns of Prince Edward Island. Try again, "Father Quinn," your first card "to the public" contains a fraud on its face. "Father Quinn," after the manner of the quack medicine vendors, who always refer you to a distant place for certificates of the wonderful effects of their nostrums, referred us to "Neil McKay," of Summerside. Mr. Neil McKay, we observe, publishes a letter in the Patriot, wherein he states that the Board appointed a committee of which the Rev. Mr. Warden, the "Secretary, was one, to examine and report upon Mr. Quinn's papers. The committee reported favorably, and Mr. Quinn's lectures in Stanley street Church, Montreal, were attended by very many of the delegates to the Assembly. The Board having no continued employment ready for Mr. Quinn in Montreal recommended that he should visit some of the more remote sections of the Church, and some of the P. E. I. delegates to the Assembly, I, myself, among others, invited him to visit our field. This is very unsatisfactory. Observe the word "favorably." The italics are Mr. Neil McKay's. The signification of the word so italicized is that the committee were not satisfied with his credentials and thus bears out what we have learned on good authority, that the committee referred to were not satisfied with the proof of his identity as a Roman Catholic priest. If Mr. McKay stands sponsor for him the sequel will show that he has assumed an amount of responsibility that he will not bring him much credit. His bigotry has, very probably, added him to the long list of victims of misplaced confidence. Mr. McKay says that "F. Q." justly refused to "give to the Charlottown editor his reference." We would advise Mr. McKay to shake the advice of Polonius to his son in Shakespeare's Hamlet. He will see that in such cases as "Father Quinn's" he owes it to himself, and not to "the city editor," to give his references. If he has been really a Roman Catholic priest what can be easier than to give the name of the diocese in which he has been ordained, or if he is not as great a scoundrel as he accuses thousands of better men of being, what interest or motive can he have in concealing it.
The statement that Mr. Quinn's lectures in Montreal were attended by the many delegates to the Assembly in that city is no proof that he is neither a tramp nor an imposter. Any mountebank may draw a crowd and impose upon them too. Let his credentials be submitted to an impartial committee of citizens or Rev. Mr. McKay must bear the consequence of assisting an adventurer to fleece the people of this Province out of their money by false pretences.
The Tichborne claimant (says "A Ticket-of-Leave Man" in "Convict Life") got admitted to the Church choir in Dartmouth Convict Prison for two reasons—he obtained a more comfortable seat, and he was exposed labour on Saturday mornings that he might attend practice. The organist assured me that he had no notion of staging, and the noise he made was something between the chirp of a crow and the croak of a raven. It was generally admitted by the more intelligent prisoners who came in contact with him that his habits and manners were vulgar. He was doing his best, by the aid of French school-books furnished him by the priest, to master the French language, and he made all sorts of promises to a prisoner who was in the next cell to him, and who could speak French, if he would aid him; but this man told me that he was very stupid at it, and that his progress was very slow. The big man was very unpopular with some of his neighbors, who say that he was a bad sleeper, and used to puff and blow and grunt and groan all through the small hours. He was unpopular with the warders, because it was with the greatest difficulty he could be got to scrub his cell or keep his cell furniture clean.

MICHAEL PATRICK RYAN, M. P.

We take the following graphic sketch of the popular member for Montreal Centre from the last issue of the Harper, by permission of its proprietor. The Harper is intent on publishing biographical sketches of prominent Irish Canadians with their portraits, and although we have copied two of the sketches, we think it but fair in future to leave to the proprietor the full benefit of his enterprise:
The stranger who drops into the Speaker's gallery, in the House of Commons at Ottawa, and casts a sweeping glance at the deliberative chamber, having satisfied his natural curiosity in the study of the marked features of the prominent leaders of both political parties, and both political nations, is attracted for a moment, by the handsome manly open countenance, the bald unfringed brow, and pre-eminently venerable head of the present member for Montreal Centre, seated a few rows back on the right hand of the Speaker and evidently following up the proceedings of the House with the air of a man bent on attending to his business.

To represent Montreal Centre in the House of Commons of Canada is, perhaps, the proudest ambition of the Irish Canadian in the Province of Quebec. Any higher he can scarcely expect to attain politically, a halcyon of the political seas, and a member of the Lower Canadian representation in the Dominion Cabinet, and "No Irish need apply" is the rule with both political parties in the Dominion. The aspirant combined the genius and talent requisite to place Canada at the head of the parade. That one-trail rule of the Dominion, which has been self from official life and the day that dawned on Canadian Confederation, as effectively wiped out the Irish Canadian from the race for position in the Cabinet Council of the Dominion, as they were debarred from all offices of honor and emolument under the laws of England. Time, that cures all evils, or more likely political complications, may remove this serious impediment, but for the time being there seems to be no prospect of relief. The Irish Catholic in the Province of Quebec stands in that respect in a position of inferiority to those of his own origin and creed, the sister provinces throughout the Dominion. In this fair city of Montreal, where in former times religious and political animosities were so rampant, have gradually toned down amongst its inhabitants to the condition of a happy family. Amongst other things the question of parliamentary reform, which has long been a subject of standing debate, has been settled. A great cosmopolitan abode, embracing men of all origins and creeds, the three important sections of the Dominion, the Irish, the English, and the French, are preserved of an Irish Catholic. That the maintenance of this equitable arrangement has been due, in a great measure, to the self-sacrificing spirit of the Irish Canadian, and his devotion to the cause of his fellow-countrymen, is a fact which is not to be forgotten. The career of Mr. Ryan, from his early days, owes to no special smiles of Dame Fortune, but to his indelible perseverance, high sentiment of honor, and unwavering fidelity to the principles he has adopted in his private and public life. Born at Falls, Donohill, Mr. Ryan is a degenerate son of the bold, frank and fiery race that claims gallant Tipperary as its home. From an early age he was distinguished by himself, the education that was furnished in the academy, where the youths marched proudly to their school, and he was distinguished by a buoyant heart, and the City of Montreal with its bustling activity soon attracted Mr. Ryan. Here he opened business in the well-known establishment of Messrs. Galt, and in 1855, he managed successfully from 1849 until 1858. Shortly after his arrival in the city he married Miss Margaret Brennan, one of the pioneer Irishmen of the City of Montreal, well-known and respected throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion. Mr. Ryan's private life was not an ordinary mental powers, and to her great tact, genial disposition, and manifold but unostentatious charities her husband is indebted for a contented and happy married life. In 1852, at the earnest solicitation of his friends, Mr. Ryan allowed himself to be placed in nomination for the representation of St. James' Ward in the City Council. He was elected by a considerable majority over Mr. William Roddon, one of the most popular representatives of the City of Montreal, and he was elected to the Council of the City of Montreal, and ranked amongst the merchant princes of the great Canadian metropolis. In 1858, Canada led the noblest of the Irish Catholic representation in the Dominion. The election that preceded that statesman's last return to Parliament had been conducted with a bitterness and unpopularity that had never before been witnessed in the history of the Dominion. The passion of the multitude had not subsided when the tragic event occurred that sent poor Meade to an unimpaired and unpopularity that had never before been witnessed in the history of the Dominion. Mr. Ryan, who had a great vantage, had registered a vow that no Irish Catholic should be his successor. Political wire-pullers were not content with the fact that they had secured the nomination of Mr. Ryan, but they endeavored to excite the people against the representation of the Irish Catholic community. The moment was a trying one; but the tacit understanding as to the representation of Montreal in the House of Parliament had been broken through it is impossible to say what might have been the result politically, but in any case it must have proved disastrous to the interest of the Irish Catholics. Meeting after meeting was held to bring forward a candidate; the names of many prominent citizens were mentioned, Canada, led the noblest of the Irish Catholic representation in the Dominion. ### END OF THE LONG FAST.

Dr. Tanner Triumphant—Supplied with Water Melon and Hibbitts—His Contempt for the Doctors.

New York, August 7.—A number of singers called to give a concert for the fasting man's amusement, but Dr. Tanner had then retired to the anteroom, and would not come out to hear them. At twenty minutes of 12, Dr. Wilson, one of the eclectic watchers, asked all the spectators to be seated, so far as they were able to get chairs, and announced that Dr. Tanner would soon be out. At this time there was a dense crowd of men and women assembled around the enclosure, and Dr. Tanner's appearance was awaited with much excitement. The tables within the enclosure bore, besides the huge water-melons, several bouquets placed in water jugs and bottles, an immense loaf of bread, decorated with colored ribbons, several bottles of cordials, boxes of various kinds of tonics, tin cases of prepared food, and a variety of other articles forwarded to Dr. Tanner by friends or by business firms. Many of the spectators assembled in the south gallery, from which they obtained a good view of the scene below. No one was admitted within the low-railed enclosure, except physicians and the representatives of the press. A few minutes before 12 o'clock, Dr. Wark brought in a bottle of fresh, Orange county milk, of which Dr. Tanner, he said, intended to drink a glassful. Two tables were put together, and an easy chair was then placed upon them, so that Dr. Tanner could have a place where he might sit in full view of the gathering. As the whistles sounded

A cheer went up from a crowd which had gathered before the hall in Thirteenth street. Dr. Tanner, in the anteroom, made an emphatic gesture and exclaimed, "It's over, and I'm glad of it!" He then reached for a peach, and before his watchers could interpose, began to eat it. He finished the fruit and then walked into the large hall, where he was greeted with loud cheers. At the same time a lively air was played upon the piano. Entering the enclosure, Dr. Tanner seated himself on the elevated chair and took from Dr. Wark a large beer glass filled with milk. He swallowed its contents at two draughts, and remarked with great emphasis, "That's good!" The crowd again applauded loudly, and renewed the applause when some one called out "Three cheers for the plucky doctor!" Dr. Tanner then said:

THE COMPENSATION FOR DISTURBANCE BILL.

LONDON, August 4.—The vote by which the Compensation for Disturbance in Ireland bill was defeated in the House of Lords was not reached until half-past one this morning. The galleries were densely crowded, as they were on Monday night also. The announcement of the immense majority against the bill—282 to 51—was greeted with loud cheers. Earl Cairns, Conservative, spoke nearly three hours against the bill. The Times says he practically disposed of every argument adduced by the supporters of the bill, and a more thoroughly destructive speech has not often been delivered in Parliament. The Times says the defeat of the bill has brought a long and embittered controversy to a close. Its rejection by so large a majority was fully anticipated. The speeches in its favor partook of the gloom and languor of overshadowing defeat.

LONDON, August 4.—The Times, commenting on the rejection of the Compensation Bill, says—We do not see how the House of Lords, entertaining the opinion expressed not only by the Conservatives but by a large section of the Liberals, could have refrained from throwing out a measure of such a character and presented to them in such a way. We hope that the common sense of Irishmen, even though some of them may feel disappointed at the result, will teach them to point out that no other issue was possible. Agitators may strive to twist the situation to their own purposes, but they would have done this in any event, and probably with as much or as little effect.

The News says:—The defeat of the Bill puts weapons into the hands of the agitators, whose movements both sides equally deprecate and dislike.
The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian says:—The rejection of the Bill places the extreme members of the Irish party in some difficulty, as it brings them into active sympathy with the Government, and the popularity of the Government is likely to be fatal to disaffection.
The Pall Mall Gazette says:—We shall not have to wait long before the House of Lords will have reason to consider whether the disadvantages of passing the Bill are not outweighed a hundred fold by the dangers of rejecting it.
In the House of Commons, Mr. Parnell will ask Mr. Forster whether in view of the rejection of the Compensation Bill he proposes to employ the constabulary and military forces of the Queen for the purpose of assisting in evicting tenants who can be proved unable to pay their rents owing to the recent distress in Ireland.

A Dublin correspondent says that the Irish papers are not greatly disappointed at the defeat of the Compensation Bill, because it was thoroughly expected.
A circular addressed to the Home Rule members requests them to attend meeting on Friday to consider the line of action to be taken in view of the rejection of the Compensation Bill. It is anticipated that Parnell will, at this meeting, pronounce in favor of a plan of agitation throughout the English boroughs and counties in favor of land reform. Several Radicals have promised to cooperate.

THE SHIP LABORERS OF QUEBEC.

Their Last Move Approved of.

The Norwegian Consul sends this letter to the Quebec Chronicle: Sir,—At the quarterly meeting of the Board of Trade yesterday, it appears from a reference to the proceedings entered in this day's issue of your paper that the attention of the meeting was drawn to the late, as reported, resolution of the Ship Laborers' Society, practically knocking off British sailors from working at the loading of the vessels which is feared to have the effect of drawing the trade away from the port. Having as the representative of the countries which apparently suffered most under the old rule discriminating against foreign ships, I, during some years, had my attention drawn to this subject, I think I may, upon very good grounds, reassure the trade and the country at large that such will not be the case, and that far from being injurious, the late resolutions of the Ship Laborers' Society will have just the contrary effect, and it is to the best interests of the port. Taking all things into consideration, ships can perhaps at no port on this side of the Atlantic be loaded cheaper than at this port, with the labor furnished by the Ship Laborers' Society, and under its present rules. It is a well established fact that when under the old rules Swedish and Norwegian vessels have been able successfully to compete with British ships last season, showing a greater proportion of tonnage than at any earlier time, and I think it should be apparent to everyone that it is to a great extent due to their influence upon the market that freights have been regulated as of late years. The new regulation does not in any way alter their position as regards loading expenses, and I fail to see why they should not hereafter be enabled to carry away the exports of Quebec at the same figure as before. I may safely say that left alone and given fair play, they will be able to do even more and further reduce the rate of freight. The effect of the new rule of the Ship Laborers' Society is simply this, to throw the trade of Quebec open to ships of all nations on equal terms, giving justice and fair play to every one, and removing a premium during a number of years paid by the port of Quebec and the country at large to a few British ship owners for honoring their port with a call. If British ships cannot compete without this premium it would appear it cannot be in the interest of the community of Quebec and Canada to uphold such a system. The argument held forth at the meeting that the Quebec laborers feared to be killed by Norwegian sailors if they were allowed to work with them, would seem to be to such an extent shallow and factitious as to be impossible to enter the belief of any sensible man not blinded by his own particular interests.

Yours truly,
W. A. SCHWARTZ.

AN OLD NURSE FOR CHILDREN.

Don't fail to procure MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for children teething. No mother who has ever tried it will consent to let her child pass through this critical period without the aid of this invaluable preparation. Gives rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child. Cures wind-colic, and regulates the bowels. 51-42m.

ONE OF THE MOST RELIABLE MEDICINES FOR HEADACHE IS DR. HAYRY'S ANTI-BILIOUS AND PUNGENT PILLS.

FOR COUGHS AND THROAT DISORDERS use "Brown's Bronchial Troches," having proved their efficiency by a test of many years. 51-21m.

FOOT RELIEF FROM THE ACHING OF A TOOTH.

Nothing is better than a few drops of BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA and Family Liniment poured on a piece of lint or cotton and applied. It soothes the pain, which has no equal. Some people suffer for years from toothache, whenever they catch cold. Why suffer? Use this. 51-4m.

Worm Draughts are generally so noxious that children fight their little best to avoid them. But BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMBIS or Worm Lozenges are palatable, and will be easily eaten to the entire destruction of any colonies of worms which may have taken lodgings in the child's stomach. 51-7m.

SOME MORE WATERMELON.

and ate another piece as large as a man's fist, swallowing the pulp. He next lay down on the bed, taking off his slippers, but not undressing. In about a minute he heaved to have the shutters opened, in order that he might obtain more air, and then dozed for about five minutes. When he awoke the following despatch from Bellefontaine, Ohio, was handed to him:

"When fast ends, use friction brush with dry mustard. Diet, teaspoonful fresh milk, with ice size of pea, every fifteen minutes. Mustard draughts to the ankles."

LUBY'S FOR THE HAIR

There are persons who, having made use of various preparations without obtaining any satisfactory results, will be inclined to condemn the use of LUBY'S PARSIAN HAIR RESTORER.

To them we can, in all confidence, state that "not a single" instance do we know of where LUBY'S preparation has been employed but that it has been a perfect success, and no further testimony of its merits need be offered them than the approval it has met with from hundreds of our citizens who are now daily using it.

Used as an ordinary dressing for the hair, its valuable properties are to restore gray hair to its natural color, which it certainly does, and without any injurious effect whatever; cures irritation and itching of the scalp, and leaves the hair clean, cool and free from dandruff. One thing is certain, that its balsamic properties are such that it strengthens weak hair and checks its falling out.

LUBY'S does not soil the pillow-slips. Those who have used LUBY'S speak well of it; those who condemn it know nothing of it. Sold by all Chemists and Perfumers, in large-sized bottles, at 50 cents each.

Wholesale by Lyman Sons & Co.; Kerry Watson & Co.; H. Sugden Evans & Co.; H. Haswell & Co.
