NOTICE

A mistake has occurred in the number of the last issue of the Northwest. Those who keep the paper on request to note that the paper appeared on Nov. 5, the number Nov. 12 should have been 5 and but the mistake having occurred, remedy it only by repeating number. There will thus be two numbers, No. 6, to be differentiated by the No. 6, Nov. 12, and No. 6, Nov. 19.

W. E. Blake, the well-known publisher and furnisher of church supplies, 602 Queen Street west, Toronto, writes us a manly and satisfactory explanation of the extraordinary French circulars, which we held up to ridicule in our issue on the 22nd ult. It appears that he was deceived by the pretensions of a young man recently taken into his employ. This plausible fellow pretended that he knew French quite well, and as Mr. Blake was at that very time ordered away by his doctor for necessary rest from business cares, he could not verify the pretensions of the new clerk, under whose directions those unfortunate circulars were printed. This mistake of misplaced confidence is a matter of keen regret to Mr. Blake, and he is now having a proper translation of the circulars printed. He thinks we have done him "almost irreparable harm," but this we consider a very natural exaggeration of his painful distress at so humiliating a discovery. In publishing extracts from those circulars we yielded to the repeated requests of several prominent French-speaking priests of this diocese, who, having received these circulars, were indignant at what seemed to them a shameful indifference to the claims of their beautiful language and a ridiculous travesty thereof.

"The Catholic World" for this month, reviewing Father Tournebiz's "From Doubt to Faith," says: "Father Tournebiz's suggestion that there was also a lurking immorality hidden among Renan's motives, contains a most unfortunate charge. It is too bad also that our author indulges in the unseemly gratification of calling Renan a peacock." Severe criticism of the Church's most orthodox defenders, and praise of her most popular enemies, that double aspect of Liberal Catholicism or "Americanism," is easily discernible in the foregoing quotation. That Renan was profoundly immoral many of his own writings testify. When a man in his old age boasts of having abolished sin, extols the holy rights of the flesh and publishes under his own name so lascivious a book as "L'Abbesse de Jouarre," his critics are perfectly justified in suggesting that a "lurking immorality" was one of the dominant motives of his literary life. To call him a peacock is simply a terse portraiture of the egotism, vanity and colossal pride which form the warp and woof of all his so-called philosophical works. Brunetiere, Eugene Tavernier, and quite recently (Etudes, Oct. 20, 1904) Georges Longhaye, give ample quotations from Renan, showing him up as a learned trifler, who despises the common herd, sneers at everything holy and true, makes out that truth is a combination of contradictions and that God is in process of evolution by the development of such men as Ernest Renan. His supposed learning is flouted by those German pundits before whom he kotowed in vain. His only merit is his graceful style, but even there, the best critics say he is at fault in that he has foisted upon plain French words a double meaning which is the inevitable reflex of his natural duplicity. They stamp his method as "a hypocritical style." In fact, ironical hypocrisy is the groundwork of his character.

From another book review in the same number of the "Catholic World" we gather that M. Julien de Narfou's "Pie X" must be a very unreliable biography of the present Pope. The reviewer is far from saying so. He calls it "as fascinating a composition as has come to this magazine for a long time." But the patronizing tone which dilates on the Holy Father's kindness and ignores his astonishing intrepidity, and the praise of

M. Julien de Narfou's assertion that "Americanism" was simply a myth, which is a distinct slur on the sagacity of Leo XIII., betray the animus of the reviewer and the reviewed.

We may apply to "Americanism" what Father Searle, the Superior General of the Paulists says of a certain other dangerous entity, in an excellent article on spiritism in the same issue of the "Catholic World." "St. Peter tells us," he writes, "in the words selected by the Church for the beginning of Complin, that 'the devil, as a roaring lion, goeth about, seeking whom he may devour.' But he does not mean that a lion is always roaring. If he did, there would not be much difficulty in avoiding him. When the lion is waiting for his prey, he takes good care not to roar." He lies very quiet, and hides himself. So does the devil. He wishes to pass himself off for something merely natural, and quite harmless." The same idea was expressed some fifty years ago by a French writer, who said that the masterpiece of Satan's policy in the nineteenth century was to persuade men that he did not exist, so as the more successfully lure them into his kingdom of everlasting horror. This was the favorite defence of Jansenism, posing as primitive Christianity. Luther himself continued to proclaim his devotion to Catholic principles long after he had nailed to the door of the Wittenberg church his 95 propositions. Every error denies its own erroneousness.

With keen good sense does Father Searle expose the credulity of believers in spiritism. "Strangely enough, it never seems to occur to spiritists that the phenomena, which they quite reasonably ascribe to spiritual intervention from the unseen world, may be due to other beings than those in whose names they are produced. They seem to labor under the strange delusion that no bodiless spirit could ever, by any possibility, tell a lie. If you grant that the phenomena are really produced by spirits, you seem to them to grant their whole religion. But we know, or ought to know, that the devil is the father of lies, and that the mere proof, however conclusive it might be, that a revelation comes from a purely spiritual source, is no guarantee whatever of its truth; and the possibility, at least of serious error in such a revelation, ought, one would think, to be evident even to them. They may, indeed, claim that many things told them are true; but again, it does not seem to occur to them that evil spirits may have great knowledge, and that they can tell the truth when it suits their purpose; which they do, of course, in order that we may believe their lies as well." This is one of the clearest refutations we know of the "strange delusion" underlying all faith in the appearance of spirits not tried by the Church's standards. St. Theresa used to say that not one in a hundred so-called apparitions is true, or, if true, not one in a hundred is from a good spirit.

Clerical News.

His Grace the Archbishop of St. Boniface left on Monday to spend the week at St. Rose du Lac.

Rev. Father Tourangeau, O.M.I., late parish priest of St. Sauveur, Quebec, has been appointed Provincial of the Oblates for Eastern Canada.

On the First Friday in November, in the octave of the feast of All Saints and All Souls, the venerable convert-priest, Rev. Dr. Benjamin F. De Costa, died in St. Vincent's Hospital, New York. He was born in Charlestown, Mass., in 1831, graduated from Boston University, was for thirty-eight years the pastor of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church in New York, became a Catholic in 1899, and was ordained a priest last year. It is estimated that he had written more than thirty religious and historical works. Late in life, his active and enquiring mind found happiness and peace in the one fold of the Catholic Church. After the death of his wife a few years ago, he also asked and obtained admission to the ranks of the sacred priesthood, and was able to offer up, before his death, the holy sacrifice of the Mass. May he rest in peace!—Sacred Heart Review.

By the death of Archbishop Elder, the Nestor of the American Hierarchy, Archbishop Moeller, who was coadjutor "cum jure successionis," becomes Metropolitan of the Cincinnati province.

The Most Rev. Dr. Redwood, New Zealand's Archbishop, who has been for some time touring in Ireland, is accompanied in all his travels by a rare companion for an Archbishop—a violin. A very expensive musical instrument it is, and Dr. Redwood has charmed many a select audience of ecclesiastics with his playing, which is said to be delightful.

Rev. Father Drummond, S.J., will lecture before St. John's Literary Society on Monday evening next. Subject: How to acquire a good style in writing and speaking. He will also lecture on Tuesday next in St. Mary's School on "Reminiscences of Travel."

Rev. Father Bouchard, of the St. Albert diocese, was a guest of the Oblates of St. Mary's this week.

Rev. Father Rosseau, of Laurier, visited the Jesuit Fathers of St. Boniface College early this week.

The Very Rev. Dr. M. F. Fallon, rector of Holy Angels' Church, of Buffalo, N.Y., has been appointed to the important office of the Provincial of the Order of the Oblate Fathers for the Province of United States. Dr. Fallon received the official information of his appointment from the Superior-General of the Order of Mary Immaculate, the Rev. Father Augier, now located in Belgium. The Provincial House of the Order is, by the Edict of the Superior-General, transferred from Lowell, Mass., to Buffalo. The Very Rev. Dr. Fallon is but 37 years old, and is the youngest priest who has ever been chosen as Provincial of the Oblate Fathers in America.

By the death of Archbishop Elder, of Cincinnati, Most Rev. John J. Williams, Archbishop of Boston, becomes the dean of the hierarchy of the Catholic Church in the United States. He is in his 83rd year, having been born in April 27, 1822. Archbishop Williams still retains a remarkable degree of strength, despite his many years. With the passing of years he does not change one iota from his methods. He rises early each day, celebrates Mass in his private Chapel at 7, and after breakfast begins the duties of the day. He retires about 9.30 each night the year through. His claim to the deanship of the hierarchy is by more than a dozen years. His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, is the next oldest of the hierarchy, being slightly more than 70 years old, having been born July 23rd, 1834.

Persons and Facts

Since the 8th inst., the weather has been delightfully mild. Occasionally the nights were frosty, but the days were often as warm as in the late spring.

A letter has appeared from Mr. John Redmond, M.P., to Mr. Patrick Ford warning Irish Americans against Sir Horace Plunkett's "endeavour to undermine the Irish National Movement under the guise of aiding Irish industries."

In relation to the sad death of the youthful Princess of the Asturias, the Infanta Maria de las Mercedes, it is interesting, writes Mrs. C. E. Jeffery, to read the following particulars: "After having been embalmed, the body of the Princess was attired in the Carmelite habit by the hands of her mother, assisted by the ladies of honour; after which the members of the royal family kept watch all night in the chappelle ardente." The sympathy of all those who love Spain, and who revere the Queen mother for the example of fervent piety and devotion to the Catholic Faith which she has always set, will go out to her in her great sorrow. "Catholic Times."

The John Welch Mathematical Bursary at the University of Edinburgh has been won by Francis Muir, of Stonyhurst College.

In the College Hall, St. Francis Xavier's Liverpool, on Wednesday, Oct. 26, Dr.

Kuno Meyer delivered, under the auspices of the Gaelic League, a deeply interesting lecture on "The Future of the Irish Language," Mr. T. Burke presiding. He traced the growth of the Hungarian language and literature in the last century, and earnestly pleaded for the establishment of an Irish National Academy in Dublin such as the Academy at Buda Pesth, which was founded in 1825, and rapidly brought success to the Hungarian language movement. The Irish nation or wealthy Irishmen at home or in America might provide the funds.

The London "Times," which pretends to be the foremost champion of the union between Great Britain and Ireland coolly advocates the reduction of the Irish Parliamentary representation without even mentioning that this would be a breach of the union compact.

Rev. Sir David Hunter-Blair, a Scotch baronet who succeeded to the title since he became a Benedictine, is the head of a Catholic Hall in Oxford. This hall, which was opened a few years ago by the Benedictines of Ampleforth Abbey, has been recently transferred to a more central position, within a stone's throw of the old Benedictine College now known as Worcester.

The Catholic Association of England is organizing a pilgrimage to Rome in connection with the celebration of the Immaculate Conception jubilee. The pilgrims will start on Dec. 5, and may remain in Rome till Christmas Day.

The Czar, on Friday, Oct. 27, had a long audience at St. Petersburg with Monsignor Schembeck, Catholic Metropolitan.

SILVER JUBILEE BANQUET TO THE BROTHERS OF MARY.

MEMORABLE SPEECHES—ADMIRABLE LOYALTY TO HIGH TEACHING.

The jubilee banquet in St. Mary's new school on the 9th inst. marks an epoch in the educational history of Winnipeg. Seldom if ever has any banquet in this city witnessed such a feast of reason joined to so cordial a flow of soul. We regret that our space forbids a verbatim report of all the speeches, for all were fully worthy of a lasting record. With the spirit of school-day fellowship, the alumni of old St. Mary's gathered about the festive board and honored right royally the Rev. Brothers of Mary, the twenty-fifth anniversary of whose arrival in the parish was the occasion of the celebration. Every detail was most auspicious; it was most fitting as Father Cahill remarked, that the first public function in the new school should be such a splendid reunion of the boys of the old school.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

About 130 covers were laid for the banquet, which was served in the handsome and capacious convocation hall of the school. It was shortly after 8.30 o'clock when the speakers, led by Archbishop Langevin, were escorted by the reception committee to the head of the tables, very tastefully decorated with lighted candelabra and red poppies. On the right of the president of the alumni, Rep. Father Joseph Trudel, Ph.D., sat His Grace, Chief Justice Dubuc, and F. W. Russell, president of the Catholic club; on the other side were seated Mayor Sharpe, Rev. Father Drummond, S.J., and Rev. Father Cahill, O.M.I., pastor of St. Mary's.

After a most satisfying menu had been enjoyed, Rev. Joseph Trudel, Ph.D., president of the alumni, with a few well chosen remarks, introduced the list of toasts. With the toast of "Our Church and Country," Dr. Trudel first coupled the name of His Grace, the Archbishop. Mgr. Langevin responded chiefly to the toast of "the Church." The Church is not a superb organization, the creation of wise philosophers; it is a divine institution it is an institution, that discriminates against no nationality, no color; it embraces all mankind. As such the church is the great instrument in the upbuilding of this new nation of the Canadian Northwest. True Christianity guarantees the truest loyalty and patriotism to one's country. In improving himself the individual improves society. Why then should not the alumni of old St. Mary's be a permanent organization? Its benefits will be mutual; while developing the strength to be found only in union, it will, by the intercourse of its members, improve one another. His Grace pushed the point most effectively. Before concluding the Archbishop paid a graceful tribute to Mayor Sharpe as the chief magistrate of the city government, which had just recently granted an exemption of the local Catholic schools from taxation.

was welcomed with great applause as he rose to his feet. He was glad to say that he was a native of Connaught, and, though not a Catholic, had always associated with Catholic boys in his school days in Ireland. He spoke of his pleasure and pride in being among such a representative body of young men, and remarked upon the magnificence of this new St. Mary's school, one of the finest in the Northwest. Then he told some capital stories of Irish wit which convulsed the audience with laughter. He sat down the Orchestra struck up "He's a jolly good fellow," which the guests sang with a mighty will, ending up with three cheers for His Worship the Mayor.

CENTRAL CANADA

Rev. Father Drummond, S.J., in replying to the toast, addressed himself mainly to "Our Country." This great country frequently known as the Canadian West should be more properly termed "Central Canada."

It is commonly admitted that Winnipeg is not only the geographical centre of the continent, but the hub of the Dominion.

Central Canada might embrace that rich territory extending from, perhaps, Medicine Hat in the Territories to the Lake of the Woods in Western Ontario—the central region of that Canada of ours which Sir Wilfrid Laurier has said is to be the country of the twentieth century. All this boasting of the country amounts to nothing, however, unless its citizens act and do for it. They can do this by doing for themselves. It is, after all, the virtues of the individual that make the nation strong. Let the old boys of St. Mary's remember the precepts of their reverend teachers, whom they honor tonight; all these teachings, these guidances may be focussed in the two words "sincerity and justice". It is not so much a matter of having others act justly; if every man does his Christian duty, he will be just towards all others.

Remember what a cosmopolitan Church we are. About one half of the Catholics in this diocese are of Slavonic tongue. Thirty years hence this element will be filling important positions. Let us give them a helping hand in no narrow spirit of exclusiveness but in the broad fairplay of our truly Catholic training.

The toast "God Save the King" was drunk standing, together with the singing of the national anthem.

W. R. Bawlf in a few terse remarks proposed the toast to "Our Schools," coupling with it the name of F. W. Russell. The response was a very thoughtful essay on the value of Christian Catholic education; its advantages as reflected in the characters and capabilities of St. Mary's boys in commercial and financial circles of the city, and a history of the arduous labors through which St. Mary's school has attained to its present happy epoch.

SPLENDID ADDRESS

"Our Teachers" was proposed by Horace Chevrier, M.P.P., and to it was coupled the name of the Rev. Bro. Edward, director of St. Mary's boys' school. Mr. Chevrier, with well chosen words, paid a tribute to the effective and character-building teaching of the Brothers of St. Mary's as he had experienced it, wherein their boys had succeeded it was due to the example and precept of their reverend teachers, wherein they had failed they had digressed from their counsels. The reply of Rev. Bro. Edward was an admirably lucid statement of most interesting facts delivered in a grave and manly way to which the Rev. Brother's deep mellow voice gives a special charm. We print it entire.

A FINE OBJECT LESSON

We copy from "The Wolseley News" a portion of a report of the Central Assiniboia Teachers' Association in which the following appears:

Oct. 21st. 2 p.m. Miss V. M. Rheame, Lebrét, gave a most interesting and instructive lesson on "The Angelus" by Millet. Pupils were allowed to get all they could out of the picture first. Then they were drawn out and their interest aroused by a few apt questions as to "surface," "time" and the "human element" conditions in the picture. She endeavored to get the class to interpret as far as possible the idea involved. Then she gave the name and secured its application. Re-examination of the picture now enabled the class to see the deeper meaning. Finally she ended with a sketch of the author's life, showing the pathetic circumstances under which Millet produced this work. The pupils' sympathies were aroused as shown by their desires to learn further.

Miss Rheame is a well and favorably known teacher in Manitoba, and the Review joins her many friends here in congratulating her on her success in explaining to a Protestant class before a Protestant audience, a Catholic picture from a Catholic standpoint.

A MUSICAL CURIOSITY

Mme. Rose d'Erina, the famous Irish prima donna, who is giving a series of successful recitals in the Northwest, recently sang in the town of Moosejaw, N. W. T.

On the morning after her recital she was asked to visit the new Catholic Church of St. Joseph and was surprised and delighted to find there a small pipe organ. This organ is a remarkable curiosity. It was built by a Polish member of the congregation, Joseph Dreutschky, a farmer living in the vicinity of Moosejaw. His only tools were a hammer and a jackknife. The organ contains five full sets of pipes, two being of wood and the other three of metal. It is of five and one-half octaves compass. The black keys were carved from the horns of cattle found on the prairie and the white keys from the ribs and shinbones of a Moose. The metal pipes were made from the metal used in making bullets by the North-West Mounted Police, the wood pipes and case of the organ from the wood from old packing cases. The bellows were made from the hide of an animal killed by the builder. The organ has a rich, mellow tone and is simply a marvel. The Anglican church at Moosejaw offered $1,000 for the instrument and Mme. Rose d'Erina herself offered that amount.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.

THE King having appointed Dr. Bertram Coghill Alan Windle, Dean of the Medical Faculty and Professor of Anatomy and Anthropology at the University of Birmingham, to be President of the Queen's College, Cork, in the place of Sir Rowland Blennerhassett, Bart., resigned. "The Tablet" is very pleased to announce "that that excellent Catholic and high educational authority has accepted the position," and finds the adverse comments thereon of the Dublin "Freeman's Journal" "bewildering." This great defender of Irish interests has evidently been rather hasty in its attack. It says among other things that this is a reward for political services, that "no Irishmen had a chance in competition with a Professor of Anatomy whose home is Birmingham," and hints that he is lacking in general scholarship. This last charge is disproved by "The Tablet's" sketch of his career, which shows him to be a many-sided man as well as a specialist in medicine. As to the two other charges, the Liverpool "Catholic Times" refutes them in this way:

It is twenty-two years since Professor Windle, the new President of Queen's College, Cork, became a convert, and since then he has taken a practical interest in every Catholic movement. When the Education Committee was formed in Birmingham under the new Act, he was placed upon it as the Catholic representative. A paper of his was read at the last annual meeting of the Catholic Truth Society which was held in that city. Until he came to England to take an appointment, he lived all his life, from the age of two, in Ireland. He has always described himself as an Irishman, and is not a little proud of the fact that in Sir Jonah Barrington's list of members of the last Irish Parliament, his grandfather, Lord Chief Justice Bushe, is described as "incorruptible."

When Irish Catholics are practically debarred from any appointment to any official position of importance in Ireland, it is not surprising that the "Freeman's Journal" should protest with indignation against the boycotting policy. But in its criticism on the appointment of Professor Windle to the presidency of Queen's College, Cork, in succession to Sir Rowland Blennerhassett, Bart., resigned, it has made a serious mistake. The selection of Professor Windle for the position is not a "satire upon the professed desire of the Government to appoint Irishmen to such posts," for Professor Windle is Irish and strongly Irish. He is a great grandson of one of the most eloquent of Ireland's sons, Lord Chief Justice Bushe; his mother's family is entirely Irish; and he himself was brought up in Ireland. No man has a more genuine sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people, and the suggestion that "the appointment is the reward of political services" is far, far wide of the mark. Whilst fully agreeing in a general way with the attitude which the "Freeman" has found itself forced to take up owing to the official policy of exclusiveness, we rejoice in the choice that has been made of Professor Windle as a sign that the boycotting of Irishmen and Catholics is breaking down. Professor Windle is not only Irish, but also a Catholic, and since his conversion he has with the earnestness of a man of conviction and with the self-sacrifice of one who looks for a reward the world cannot give rendered admirable service to the Catholic cause. It is quite true, as the "Freeman" says, that little or nothing has been done in recent times by the Government to develop the Queen's College into a real University College, but Professor Windle is a scientist and an author of distinction, and may be relied upon to make the most of the materials at his command.

Pius X. is very fond of children. Here in the latest instance of that love which was his Master's characteristic. A boy of some ten years, the son of Francesco Laviosa, Technical Inspector of Navigation in Lago di Garda, conceived the idea of writing to the Pope, without the knowledge of his father, a request for an audience. The boy's father is due course received a letter from the Holy Father. It was couched in general terms. His Holiness stated that he was delighted with the boy's letter, that he blessed the writer with all his heart, that the blessing was to extend to all the family, and that he would be happy to receive them in audience. When they presented themselves his Holiness chatted with them for half an hour, questioning the boy as to his education, tendering to him a splendid medal, and imparting the Apostolic Benediction to him and all his relatives. The father was then shown through the principal apartments of the Vatican. When he returned home he assured all whom he met that "nobody ever met such a kind man as Pope Pius X."

MAY RETURN VIA STATES Northern Pacific Will Carry Western Farm Laborers Back for $18

The Canadian railways are doing a big business returning farm laborers to the east and in order to get a share of this business the Northern Pacific in connection with the other American lines have made an arrangement whereby farm laborers who hold properly certified certificates will be carried back to their starting point in Ontario or Quebec Montreal and west, at the $18 rate. This is the first occasion on which the American roads have exhibited any great anxiety to secure a share of this traffic. From information compiled by the railways it is shown that 60 per cent. of the farm laborers remain in the Canadian West, and as it is estimated that 12,000 came from the east this year, about 4,800 of these will return, making a very profitable business for the different lines handling them. In order to take advantage of the rate they must all return before Nov. 30, as the low round trip Christmas excursions commence on Dec. 1. This is not an attempt on the part of the American lines to create a rate war, but simply to participate in a profitable end of the Canadian excursion business and as all returning laborers have to present bona fide farm laborer's certificates obtained when tickets were purchased in the east, the different roads are fully protected.

The sudden death at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., on Oct. 28, of Cornelius Shields, general manager of the Sault industries, cast a gloom over the whole town but especially over the Catholics of the Sault, who looked up to Mr. Shields as one of the pillars of the Church.

St. Pie Letellier Notes.

The Reverend Father Drummond S.J., came to assist our parish priest with the religious offices for All Saints and All Souls. On Monday evening and the morning of the feast there were a great many confessions, as almost all the parishioners make it a duty to approach the Holy Sacraments at this time every year.

The Reverend Father preached at Mass and Vespers, it is superfluous to say, that the sermons were eloquent and eagerly listened to. Father Drummond being so well known that every one knows what a sermon by him means, and as I cannot adequately report them I will simply indicate the subjects.

At Mass on All Sain s' befitting the day, the subject was "The Saints and the means they employed to gain Eternal Bliss." As an example of the highest degree of perfection, humiliation with Christ crucified from pure love of God, the Father related how St. Alexis in the 5th century lived in a cupboard under the stairs in his father's house for seventeen years, unknown to all, until his death, and tormented by his father's many retainers and domestics, but that when he died all the church bells began to ring and Angels' voices were heard in sweet harmony.

This example was interesting even to young children who were also able to understand a great deal of the sermon. Before preaching in French, Father Drummond said a word or two on the subject and complimented the congregation, on the Catholic way in which the day was being observed at St Pie Letellier. With the exception of the elevators everything were a Sunday aspect and the Catholic threshers, who have not yet quite finished this year's work, closed down for the day.

The evening sermon was on Death, and next morning on Purgatory.

We are sorry to say that Mr. S. Brule who was undergoing treatment at Boniface Hospital succumbed to the pneumonia from which he was suffering last week. His remains were brought home to St. Joseph last Saturday, and he was interred in St. Joseph's cemetery the following Monday.

The deceased was only 23 years of age. R. I. P.

Mrs. and Miss Auger, of St. Boniface, and Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil from Ste. Agathe were visiting at Dr. D. Eschambault's last week, helping Miss Josephine at St. Joseph's bazaar.

A very successful bazaar was held there, on which we congratulate Father Martin and his helpers.

Two young ladies, Miss D'Eschambault and Miss Gauthier, took upon themselves the arduous duties of a campaign in which votes consisted of cash. Miss D'Eschambault had the honor of winning the election with about $640.00, but Miss Gauthier did very well also, having over $590.00. The young ladies each received a gold watch and prayer book as souvenirs of the bazaar.

Some years ago the church at St. Joseph was enlarged and improved, thus imposing a heavy debt on the parish. No doubt, had the parish increased or even remained stationary the congregation would have been able to meet this, but contrary to Letellier and most other places in Manitoba, many farmers have left (some for our own parish), disposing of their property at St. Joseph to Mennonites for a handsome sum and establishing themselves in less exposed locations.

It was a novel sight last week to see C. Perron feeding a bonfire from his "blower" and thus turning night into day around his threshing machine.

Most of the threshing is over and with a few fine days all the machies will be in winter quarters. The yield is not so heavy or such a good grade as it would have been if there had been no rust. A good deal of wheat shipped from Letellier will go 3 Northern however, and as prices are good, it will not be too bad a year all round.

Mrs. T. Proulx, now of Crookston, but a former old and esteemed resident of St. Pie, is visiting her many friends. Our baker and family have left Letellier, we are sorry as Mr. Poulain gave good satisfaction.

We always expect the Northwest Review to know everything and pin our faith to it.

Beautiful weather prevails to the regret of none, for the Autumn has been damp and chill and a slight fall of snow some time ago made ust think of winter.

This is perhaps a trivial question, but why does a French Canadian say a Gloria after the Creed and no Pater when he says the rosary, while an Englishman says a Pater.

She writes us as follows:—
"Gentlemen,—I feel it my duty to express to you the benefit I have derived from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. A year ago last spring I began to have heart failure. At first I would have to stop working, and lie down for a while. I then got so bad that I had to give up altogether and go to bed. I had several doctors to attend me, but they did me no good. I got no relief until urged by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I sent to the store for a box, and by the time I had taken three-quarters of it I began to get relief, and by the time I had taken three boxes I was completely cured. I feel very grateful to your medicine for what it has done for me.—Miss L. L. HANSON, Waterside, N.B."

FIRST BI-ANNUAL CONCERT AT ST. BONIFACE COLLEGE.

Never before in the history of St. Boniface College was there gathered in the hall such a throng as on Monday, 14 inst. to hear the First Bi-annual concert given by the boys.

Its unprecedented success fully repaid the unstinted efforts of the performers, under the masterly guidance of Father de Mangleleere, S. J.

In the absence of his Grace, the Archbishop, Chief Justice Dubuc took the chair. The 14th happening to be the anniversary of his appointment to the bench, A. Beaupre, in a cleverly written address, congratulated him on having travelled so successfully for twenty-five years through the mazes of law.

He then voiced the sentiments of the audience in thanking him for his services to church and state.

PROLOGUE.

1. Marche du Couronnement, orchestra.
2. Nuit D'Azur, soprano and violin, E. Keroack, J. B. Temblay;
3. Theme et variations, clarinette, P. Georges Robichaud, S. J.;
4. Chanson de Chasse, choeur.
5. The Shipwreck, Ch. Becher.
6. 13e Concerto de violon, P. Bleau.
7. Estudiantina, orchestra.
8. Rock in the Cradle of the Deep, solo, J. Walsh.

INTERMEDE.

Les Quatre Prunes, Operette, E. Dufresne, L. Landry. 9. Fragment "D'Althalie" orchestra. 10. The Toilers' Glee, double quartette. 11. 6e concerto de violon, C. Couture. 12. Berceuse, Tenor et flute, A. Beaupre, P. Georges Robichaud, S. J. 13. Le Sous-Prefet-aux champs, A. Lambert. 14. Hunky-Dory, orchestra. 15. Priere du soir, choeur, God Save the King.

The orchestra was composed as follows:

COLLEGE ORCHESTRA.

Violins: Mr. C. Couture, laureat du conservatoire de Liege, Belgique, professeur de violon au college. J. B. Tremblay, P. Toutant, A. Jeannotte, A. Beaupre, J. B. Beaupre; 2ds violins, P. Bleau, R. Prince, J. B. Sauve, W. Charrette; flutes, E. Belanger, N. Laplume; clarinettes, RR. P. J. Garais, S. J. Georges Robichaud, S. J., P. Methe, F. McConnell; cornets, L. Landry, O. Parenteau, E. Comeault; trombone, J. Dupont; bariton, J. Saint-Germain; batterie, P. Noel; pianists, accompagnateurs, A. Chenier, J. Chabot.

But few of the many interesting features of the soiree can here be dwelt upon. The harmonic unity and power in the playing of the orchestra were remarkable. Mr. C. Couture, the well known laureate of the Conservatory of Liege, Belgium, kept his audience spell-bound by his rapturous rendering of the 6th Violin Concerto of de Beriot. Only years of practice coupled with an intensely artistic soul could account for such deftness on the violin. P. Bleau showed himself a worthy disciple of such a master, and bids fair to become his rival one day on the same soul-stirring instrument.

Father George Robichaud, S. J., is a man of many instruments; he confined himself to solos on the clarinet and flute—so limpid and melodious that they called for enthusiastic encores.

Master Beecher and Lambert's declamations were marked by deep pathos on the one hand, and by grace and endless variety of intonations on the other.

At the end, his honor Chief Justice Dubuc arose and heartily thanked the performers for the delightful evening they had made him spend. If all could not fully appreciate the divine art of music, all were moved by their harmonious strains. Then, referring to the address, he expressed his deepest gratitude for its kind appreciation of him, though he attributed to God all the success of his long career. He then spoke in most eulogistic terms of Jesuit education, and ended by giving his youthful hearers a word of advice. If they wish to succeed in after life, let them not confine themselves to the strict and perfunctory accomplishment of their every day duty; they must be more noble-minded, they must go a step further on and strive manfully to do their very best in every path of life. Thus will they achieve success and win an honored name in the struggle for life.

Fruit is Nature's Laxative.

Fruit contains certain principles which act like a charm on the liver—and keep the whole system well and strong. But these principles in the fruit juices are too weak to have any marked effect on the internal organs. The value of lies in the secret process by which they are made. The fruit juices are so combined that they have an entirely different effect from fresh fruit. Their action is the action of fruit greatly intensified. They have a marked effect on the liver—toning it up—making it active. "Fruit-atives" are, without doubt, the only complete cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney Troubles.

or Fruit Liver Tablets

FRUITATIVES, Limited, OTTAWA.

Perfect Protection against Northwest Winters

Ordinary underwear is made for ordinary climates. Most makers can't appreciate the intense cold of the Northwest. Their garments are all right for freezing weather, but entirely too light for 30 to 50 below zero.

Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear

is knitted in special weights, especially for the severe winters of this section. It's planned by men who know the climate and the people—know exactly what they want—know how to knit it thick enough for warmth, yet not too heavy for comfort.

Best of all—Stanfield's is guaranteed absolutely unshrinkable. All sizes to perfectly fit every figure. Leading dealers throughout the west sell Stanfield's.

Cherrier and his dear mother our deepest sympathy in the loss they have sustained in the death of a dear father and loving husband. Many Women Suffer Untold Agony From Kidney Trouble.

Very often they think it is from so-called "female disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backache, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to female disease? With healthy kidneys, few women will ever have "female disorders." The kidneys are so closely connected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if women would only take at stated intervals. Miss Nellie Clark, Lambeth, Ont., tells of her cure in the following words:—"I suffered for about two years with kidney trouble. I ached all over, especially in the small of my back; not being able to sleep well, no appetite, menstruation irregular, nervous irritability, and brick-dust deposit in urine, were some of my symptoms. I took Doan's Kidney Pills. The pain in my back gradually left me, my appetite returned, I sleep well, and am effectually cured. I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney trouble."
