NEW-YORK TRIBUNE, 1873.

—00—

Now, as heretofore, "The Tribune" strives to be first of all and preëminently a news paper.

France a Republic—England and Germany gradually permeated with Republican ideas—Spain swaying in the nerveless grasp of a ruler too good for a King and too weak for a Republican, who is unable to govern the great island that blocks the entrance to our Gulf of Mexico, and equally unable to give it up—the German-speaking peoples agitated by a new Protestantism, separating from the See of Rome on the dogma of Papal Infallibility and assuming to recognize the "Old Catholics"—the whole Continent pervaded by the intellectual ferment that comes of the conflict between old ideas, philosophical, theological, material, and the advances of Physical Science—Russia and Great Britain running a race for the final gains that shall determine Asiatic supremacy—China seeming ready to abandon her advances and reclose her half-opened gates—Japan abolishing feudalism and inviting Western civilization to irradiate Western commerce to enrich her long hidden empire—such are phases of the news from abroad which the mails over all Continents and the wire under all Seas are daily bearing to us. With able and trusted Correspondents in the leading capitals, and wherever great changes are in progress, "The Tribune," aims, at whatever cost, to lay before its readers the most prompt, complete, and popular presentment of these diverse and conflicting movements,—through all of which, as it fondly trusts, the toiling masses are every-where struggling up toward larger recognition and a brighter future.

At home the struggle for Freedom seems over. The last slave has long been a citizen; the last opposition to emancipation, enfranchisement, equal civil rights, has been formally abandoned. No party, North or South, longer disputes the result of the War for the Union; all declare that these results must never be undone; and, with a whole people thus united on the grand platform of All Rights for All, whereto our bloody struggle, and the prolonged civil contests that followed, have led us, the Republic closes the records of the bitter, hateful Past, and turns peacefully, hopefully, to the less alarming because less vital problems of the Future. To whatever may elucidate the general discussion or action on these, "The Tribune" gives amplest space and most impartial record. Whatever parties may propose, whatever political leaders may say, whatever officers may do, is fairly set down in its columns, whether this news helps or hinders its own views. Its readers have the right to an honest statement of the facts; and this they always get.

But as to its own political principles "The Tribune" is of course, hereafter as heretofore, the champion of Equal Rights, irrespective of Race, Nativity, or Color. It stands inflexibly by the Amendments for the permanent security of those Rights, which have been solemnly incorporated by the People, in the Constitution of the United States. Independent of all political parties, it endeavors to treat them all with judicial fairness. It labors to purify the administration of Government, National, State, and Municipal, and whenever those in authority, whether in National, State, or Municipal affairs, take the lead in this work, it will therein give them its cordial support. But it can never be the servitor of any political party; nor will it surrender or even waive its right to criticize and condemn what is wrong, and commend what is right in the action of any parties or of any public men.

Now, as always, "The Tribune" labors with all its heart for the promotion of the great material interests of the country. The progress of Invention and of Labor-Saving, the development of our resources, the preservation of our Land for the Landless and its rapid subjugation to human wants, the utilization of our vast underlying Ores, the extension of the facilities for bringing Producer and Consumer nearer together,—whatever tends to swell the ranks, increase the knowledge and better the condition of those devoted to Productive Industry finds mention and encouragement in our columns.

"The Weekly Tribune," now more than thirty years old, has endeavored to keep up with the progress of the age in improvement and in enterprise. It devotes a large share of its columns to Agriculture as the most essential and general of human pursuits. It employs the ablest and most successful cultivators to set forth in brief, clear essays their practical views of the Farmer's work. It reports public discussions which elucidate that work; gathers from every source agricultural news, the reports of the latest experiment, the stories of the latest successes and failures, and whatever may tend at once to better Agriculture, and to commend it as the first and most important of progressive Arts, based on natural science.

There are hundreds of thousands engaged in diverse pursuits who own or rent a "place," and give some portion of their time to its culture and improvement. "The Weekly Tribune" shows them how to make the most of their roods and their hours, both by direction and example. No information equal in quality or quantity can be elsewhere obtained for the price of this journal.

"The Weekly Tribune" appeals also to Teachers, Students, and persons of inquiring minds, by the character of its Literary contents, which include reviews of all the works proceeding from the master minds of the Old or of the New World, with liberal extracts from those of especial interest. Imaginative Literature also claims attention, but in a subordinate degree. "Home Interests" are discussed weekly by a lady specially qualified to instruct and interest her own sex, and the younger portion of the other. No column is more eagerly sought or perused with greater average profit than hers. The News of the Day, elucidated by brief comments, is so condensed that no reader can deem it diffuse, while given sufficiently in detail to satisfy the wants of the average reader. Selections are regularly made from the extensive Correspondence of "The Daily Tribune" from every country, and its editorials of more permanent value are here reproduced. In short, "The Weekly Tribune" commends itself to Millions by ministering to their intellectual wants more fully than they are met by any other journal, while its regular reports of the Cattle, Country Produce, and other Markets, will of themselves save the farmer who regularly notes them far more than his journal's price.

For the family circle of the educated farmer or artisan, "The Weekly Tribune" has no superior, as is proved by the hundreds of thousands who, having read it from childhood, still cherish and enjoy it in the prime and on the down hill of life. We respectfully urge those who know its worth to commend "The Weekly Tribune" to their friends and neighbors, and we proffer it to clubs at prices which barely pay the cost of paper and press-work.
