The Charivari.

When Joseph James Kerplunk was married, the village cut-ups all broke loose, and all the junk in town they carried to his abode, and raised the deuce. They shot off guns and banged tin boilers until the bridegroom, sore distressed, appeared and begged those bughouse toilers to chase themselves and let him rest. And then, to still their foolish ravings, and get some peace for self and bride, he had to blow his hard carned savings for beer, and other things beside. Next day he said: "Though 1 should tarry for ages in this world of men, you bet your life I'll never marry a female woman e'er again. A bride groom's treated like a sinner by all these sporty village guys, whereas he should be called a winner, the centre of admiring eyes. And men will shy at matrimony, old maids will haunt this dreary land, until these sports of conduct phoney are rounded up by law and canned. Both men and maids are sad and lonely, they haven't got the nerve to wed; they'd marry twice a year if only the noisy cut-ups all were dead."

Fill the outer boiler with hot water, and cook until the berries are soft and broken to pieces. Now stir in sugar to taste; cook for a minute—no longer -and turn out into a bowl.

An Economical Stew .- Cut one pound and a half of gravy beef into small pieces as for a pie, dip each into flour, pepper, and salt, and put into a stewing-pan. Fill up with chopped vegetables, the greater variety the better, but no water. Add, if liked, a little powdered allspice. Put on the cover, tie it over with buttered paper, and set the jar in a moderate oven for about six hours. Serve very hot.

Doctor's Soup.-Pick over and wash three ounces of rice and place it in a saucepan with one quart of water. Let this cook till the water is reduced to one pint, add a quart of mile, a little chopped onion and celery, a pinch of salt, and a suspicion of mace. Place the saucepan on the side of the stove, and simmer the soup till the vegetables are thoroughly cooked. Before serving add a lump of butter, rubbed into half an ounce of flour, and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley.

Pumpkin Pudding-To a full pint of stewed pumpkin that has been put through the colander, add the beaten yolks of four eggs and a cupful of sugar. Stir into this a quart of milk, a teaspoonful of ground einnamon, mace and nutmeg, and If you like, a little ginger. Lastly stir in the whites of two eggs whipped stiff. HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Garnish boiled mutton with beetroot cut in slices and a little chopped parsley on each slice.

The flavor of salad dressing is greatly improved by the addition of a very little chopped capers or pickles.

Grease on a floor can be removed by scrubbing with a solution of unslacked lime, soda and water.
When peeling lemons for cooking purposes, be sure never to cut any of the white skin, as it has a bitter flavor.

When cleaning furniture wipe it over with tepid, soapy water, and dry it before polishing it with beeswax and turpentine.

If the oven does not brown, sprinkle a good handful of sugar on the bottom of the oven. It will then brown anything.
Turpentine is an excellent cleanser for many things. It will remove the marks of black lead from a marble mantelpiece, amongst other things. Eggshells should always be care an earthenware pan with a wooden cover. Wash the pan out every week, and dry thoroughly before replacing the loaves.

Tough meat should be laid in vinegar a few minutes before cook-This is a particularly useful hint for summer, when meat cannot be hung till tender, as in winter.

Clothes should never hang longe in the kitchen than is necessary for airing them, for unpleasant odors of cooking will get into them, and cannot be got rid of without wash-

Young housekeepers will find it a good plan to keep an account book and enter, with regularity, all housekeeping expenses, adding up accounts every evening and making weekly summary. Good Polish for Oilcloth or Lino leum.—Save all ends of candles and melt in the oven. Mix with it suf ficient turpentine to make a soft paste. This is really an excellent preparation.

How to Mend Gloves-If you wish to mend your gloves neatly, turn them inside out and sew them over and over with fine cotton thread-Silk seems to cut the fabric. If there is a tear, set a piece of kid under it and secure it with a few stitches; if you have not the kid of the right color, use a bit of the ribbon or silk. Save the best part of the old pair to mend the new. Court plaster will mend a break nicely, but always stiffens the kid.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON. DECEMBER 3.

Lesson X .- Nehemiah rebuilds the wall of Jerusalem, Neh. 4 Golden Text, I. Cor. 16. 13.

Verse 1. Sanballat—He is the first mentioned of the malignant ene-mies whom Nehemiah encountered (compare Neh. 2. 10). It was not so long since all the Syrian colonists in Palestine had joined hands to obtain from Artaxerxes an order for the stoppage of the work of restoration in Jerusalem. There was great jealousy of Jerusalem throughout Samaria, and the heathen in general were angry at Ezra's severe strictures on intermarriage But now that Nehemiah fully saved, for they are useful for clearing soup and jelly, and, if crushed and mixed with salt. for of cunningly devised intrigue. The of cunningly devised intrigue. The leader of all this renewed opposition was Sanballat, called "the Horonite" from his dwelling in Bethhoron, a town on the borders of Ephraim. He was a moving spirit in the city of Samaria, possibly governor.

Mocked-At first, we are told, Sanballat and his fellows were deeply grieved over the coming of Nehemiah (Neh. 2. 10). But this soon gave way to wrath and indignation when they saw that the peo-ple actually responded to the young governor's appeal to rise and build the wall. In their rage they resorted to the weak weapon of raillery.

2. Will they sacrifice ?-This taunt amounts to a question as to whether these Jews expect simply to propitiate their God with burnt offerings and their work will be ac-complished. Surely they cannot think to make both a beginning and burned and they could not revive country was prayer in action. Ten rubbish! The governor, with characteristic generosity, disclaims any credit which may be due him. At this point, all the wall had been completed, without gaps anywhere, to half its height. The ancient wall reached a height of two hundred

7. The Arabians-These are the third class of foes mentioned in chapter 2. To those already cited, there are now added the Ashdo dites, who were dwellers in a strong city near the sea. When these heard of the repairing of the walls (the figure being that of the healing up of a wound, as seen in the closing up of the breaches), they were more worth than at first.

8. They conspired—They quit their ineffective taunts, and got down to active business. Their plan was, first, to carry on an actual fighting campaign. Besides this, they hoped to cause confusion in the city, by winning over those disaf-fected therein, and by drawing the builders away from their work.

9. We made our prayer—Nehe-miah sets at the forefront of his defensive measures the force of prayer. Up to this time we have mention only of his own private prayers. But now the infection of habit seems to have spread. United prayer is a mighty engine in the work of the kingdom. But it is necessary for the workers to keep their eyes ceaselessly on the watch against the intrigues of the enemy. Prayer is meant to inspire duty, not an end in the short space of one to replace it. Nehemiah's posting day? For one thing the stones were of sentinels in the surrounding them. And think of the heaps of plots of the enemy were reported to him, and every one was foiled.

box that stood at the bottom of the cupboard. We lifted the lid, and the heavy perfume rose like incense. It was full of clothes. We lifted up the first. It was a petticoat heavy with jeweled embroidery. Among gorgeous silkon flowers quaint peacocks and pheasants strutted. It must have taken years to work, and the thick white silk was stiff with the embroidery, while the weight of the whole was enormous. We laid it whole was enormous. We laid it tenderly away as we picked up the next garment. It was a man's cloak. A deep wine color outside; simple and plain. But the lining was literally a piece of golden cloth. The flowers of the precious metal covered nearly the whole of the white silk on which they were either woven or worked. Perhaps it was such a coat Raleigh had laid under the feet of his queen.

Hester, my cousin, shook out the heavy folds and made as if to throw the cloak over her shoulders. As she did so a gash in the lining showed up grimly. The dark stains around the edge showed that the wearer had been stabbed in the back. With a shudder we hastily folded up the cloak and laid it aside, wondering what tragedy had left its marks on that fair cloth of gold lining.

We took out the treasured garments that formed the store in the box. Evidently they had illustrated some life story, for among the clothing of grown men and women were gainty half-worn shoes and baby robes. Just the things a wife and mother might hoard as relics of the tragedies and events of perfumed of the tragedies and events of a saddened life—relics of baby feet that had trodden life's thorny way too short a time to have felt the pricks. THE SHADOW OF POOR HEALTH

Dispelled Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When the shadow of poor health salls on your life, when hope begins to fade and friends look serious, then is the time you should remember that thousands just as hopeless have been cured and restored to the sunshine of health by Dr. Williams Pink Pills: These pills actually make new, rich blood which brings a glow of health to anaemic cheeks, sures indigestion, headaches and backaches, drives out the stinging pains of rheumatism and neuralgia, strengthens the nerves and relieves as no other medicine can do the aches and pains which only women folk suffer from. In any emergency of poor health give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and they will not disappoint you. Here is a case that will bring hope to many a weary sufferer. Mrs. F. K. Sanders, St. Thomas, Ont., says: "About four years ago I took a severe cold which I neglected, thinking that I would soon be all right again. STRANGE BURIALS.

Male Members of Chinese Family Dig the Grave.

The many curious customs of the Chinese have been a constant source of wonder and amusement to the foreign tourist in China. By far the oddest but most impressive of thier ceremonies it the burial rites of their dead. The Chinese Two of them taken before going to hold their dead in high esteem and shower honors upon their memories by burning incense and candles daily. They also honor their relatives who have died many years before.

As soon as a Chineman dies the male members of the family are busy digging the grave, while the women folk, assisted by the professional mourners, do the wailing.

The grave is half under and half above the ground and is enclosed a crescent-shaped wall about two feet high. Another thing to be prepared for the dead is a miniature house, which is provided with miniature furniture. Buck Lake, Ont., Nov. (Special).—How (Special).—How quickly Dodd's Kidney Pills' relieve pain in the back when taken in time is evidenced by Mr. James Thomas, the wellknown and highly respected post-

"I wish to inform you that I always find relief for pain in the back by taking Dodd's Kidney Pills," says Postmaster Thomas. "Sometimes in the mornings I cannot straighten up for hours, but if I take two Dodd's Kidney Pills before going to bed the pain all disappears and I have no trouble in morning.

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the Kidneys. Where pain in the back is caused by slight Kidney disorders the pain is relieved at once. Where the complaint is of longer where the complaint is of longer standing and the Kidneys are diseased the cure takes longer, but Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail. Thousands of Canadians tell of the cure of Kidney Disease of all forms, from pain in the back to Bright's Disease, by Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is not on record a single case of Kidney Disease or of diseases resulting from diseased Kidneys, as Rheumatism or Dropsy, which Dodd's Kidney Pills have failed to cure if taken regularly and according to directions.

To buy feed for dairy cows is to add to the fertility of the soil. Fertilizer purchased in the form of concentrated feeding stuff is the cheapest way in which we can purchase it. We not only get returns for our money from the infertilizer that if purchased in commercial form would be worth in some cases

Did we stop to consider that in buying a ton of bran costing at present twenty-four dollars, we are getting thirteen dollars and forty-eight cents worth of fertilizer, valuing nitrogen at fifteen probable lightning and thunder on and cents, potash at four and one-half cents, and phosphoric acid at several cents, we would not be so fearful of investing our money in commercial feeds for dairy cows. The fertilizing value of a ton of oilcake is twenty-one dollars and fourteen cents; of cottonseed meal, twentyfive dollars and ninety-six cents; of gluten meal, sixteen dollars, and of corn meal, five dollars and eighty cents.

All of the fertilizing value of these feeds does not find its way to the soil Some of it will be shipped away in the finished products, such as cheese or milk. More still will be lost by fermentation of the manure. Where, however, we give attention to the proper conservation of the manure, spreading it daily in the fields, we can safely calculate on being able to use for the production of crops fifty per. cent of the fertilizing in-

WALKERTON.

Mr. J. J. Donnelly, M. P. for South whip, appointed Mr. Donnelly to succeed this position, the latter having handed in his resignation as a party whip owing evidence showed the defendant was, to pressure of business elsewhere.

Mr. James A. Wilson, one of the pioneers of Brant Tp., died in New Westminster, B. C., on Tuesday of last week, aged 83 years. Besides being prominently indentified with the early history of the township, the deceased with others from this section helped to construct the Goderich harbor in 1873. He is survived by four sons and one daughter, all in the west. Messrs. David and Harry Wilson and Jas. A. Lamb of Brant are nephews of the deceased.

Messrs. Reuben Miehlhausen and Peter Dippel have returned from Swift Current, Sask., where they were employed during the harvest by Mr. Chas. Lines, formerly of the South Line, Brant. Mr. Lines now controls 3000 acres near Swift Current, and besides the usual agricultural machinery, has a steam plow capable of breaking 40 acres per day, together with a large threshing He harvested this year 12,000 bushels of wheat and 1000 bushels of oates. A new branch of C. P. R. has een built through his farm and the modern station of Cantour has been has been erected a mile from his home. Mr. Lines may truly be rated as one of the farming magnates of the West.

Rudolph Misch, the man who mysterously disappeared from his home here, and for whose capture $50 reward was paid, was taken from the Walkerton jail last week and conveyed to the London Asylum, where he will undergo treatment for insanity. The unfortunate man was considerably emaciated by the long exposure he endured in the swamps, previous to his discovery and capture. As his disappearing tendencies caused more alarm to his friends than jeopardy to the neighborhood, he is construed as being a harmless rather than a dangerous subject. There is consequently good reason to believe that with proper care and treatment he may be restored to the full possession of his mental powers again.

The framework of he building is of pipes, which are filled with steam and automatically keep the house at an even temperature while an alarm clock in a room over the hennery releases a lever at feeding time and and said he entirely concurred in the allows sufficient grain for one feeding finding.—Dufferin Post. releases a lever at feeding time and to descend through a pipe into the feeding basins. In the bottom of each nest is an opening with a trapdoor through which the eggs, as they are laid drop into a pipe leading into Moore's home. As they pass down this pipe they are automatically stamped with the date. At breakfast time each morning steam is turned into the pipe and the eggs are cooked as they pass from the hennery into the house.

Thomas Wallace, a witness for the plaintiff, told of the slanderous statements made to him by the defendant concerning the lady plaintiff, and that the further shocking allegation had been made against the brother and sister, plaintiffs in the action in which the grossest immorality was charged. The defendant went into the box and denied that the wrongful meaning suggested could be imputed to his words. He had been willing before action to sign abject apology and give a bond not to slander the plaintiffs again, signed by his father, but he would not pay a modest bill amounting to $20 for papers drawn by the plaintiff,s solicitor, Mr. A. G. Campbell of Harriston. In cross examination Mr. Nichol Jeffray, of Guelph, literally excoriated the witness, and the crowded court room could hardly conceal the contempt the craven defendant inspired. Mr. Anson Spotton, of Harriston, for the defendant, attempted to draw an innocent inference from his client, whom the Judge afterwards characterized as illiterate and ignorant. The address of Mr. Jeffray was a brilliant effort, and the defendant winced under the bitter invectives and fierce eloquence of the plaintiff's coun-

MUNICIPALS HAVE NO GREAT PROS PECT OF APP. SIATION, BUT ARE READILY CONVERTIBLE INTO CASH.

The "Vield" Basis on Which Bonds are Usually Sold Eliminate a Great Part of Prospective Appreciation-Stable in Price Owing to Fact That They are Unaffected by General Conditions -

The articles contributed by "Investor" ara for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and, if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-oat" interprises. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve the connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

(By Investor.)

When one buys an investment, strictly speaking, one looks merely at the rate of Prospect of appreciation, when present to a high degree, usually indicates danger, perhaps remote-in the extent of realization not measuring up to anticipation-of severe loss from a drop in An investment should be free from any such danger. As a rule, really take into consideration prospect of appreciation, and, of course, as the better class of municipal bonds are strict "gilt-edged" investments, the question appreciation is one very remote from the thoughts of the average investor who buys this class of security. To be sure, they are by no means as rigid in value as real estate mortgages, but they are not likely to any extent to appreciate in market price. In the first place, they are usually sold on the basic of their

the price is worked out afterwards. As was pointed out in an early article in this series, "yield" represents the taking into consideration, in the return on the investments, the gain-where the bonds are sold below par or the loss where a price greater than par is paid-resulting from the purchase at 95, say, and the ultimate redemption of the bonds at par. At the risk of being tiresome, it may be inted out shortly that when purchasing a bond due a year hence at 99, the purchaser receives 100 at the end of the year. He thus makes 1 per cent on his purchase. If the bond pays 4 per cent. on the investment is not 4.00 divided by 99 or 4.04 per cent., as in the criment obligations as well-are a very case of a stock which is never redeemed. desirable form of investment for estates but 400 divided by 59 + 1, or 5.04 per cent. and trustees, and particularly for women So that the prospect of appreciation in whose sole source of income demption at par is duly taken care of in livelihood may depend on the safety of the 'yield." Furthermore, practically all bond dealers are glad to repurchase municipal bonds at about half a point below their market value, and so the marketability of this class of investment is very high. The only question left, then, is that of stability of market price.

This point is easily determined. These bonds do not depend for their security on general business conditions, as do those of most industrial companies, and are, as a rule, affected only by the loaning in Canada it has little influence on these bonds. Then, too, except for a few large issues sold in Loudon, there is no open are being bought and sold daily by dealers trained in estimating their values and so, although there are no quoted prices for these scourities, there are no fluctuations in their prices as there are often in the case of unlisted shares at different times. As a rule, therefore, those bonds do not alter materially in value, and certainly are not subject to violent fluctuations. Just at the present time an investor could probably sell mu nicipal bonds bought earlier in the year for a better price than he paid, owing to the great scarcity of this class of security when compared to the domand. The Man Who Shows That He Knows.

No business man wants a clerk or employe about the office who doesn't appear to listen when instructions are being given.

It isn't enough that the subordinate should hear what is said. He must do more-he must show that he understands what is wanted. No matter how trustworthy a young man is, there is another thing necessary, and that is that he convince others that he knows just exactly what he's about. The dreamy eye, the lifeless fishey glance and the stupid looking face would condemn the most reliable man in Canada if it were possible for him to have such characteristics.

It has been said of the great French orator, Mirabeau, that he was so ugly as to excite sharp criticism from one of the beautiful ladies of the court, but that when the two were introduced and en gaged in conversation, the lady fell immediately in love with him for when ne spoke his eyes sparkled and his whole face brightened up with interest and and enthusiasm. He had the rare gift of being able to make all to whom he spoke believe that he was for the time more interested in them than in any other person or thing in the world.

That is the secret of many a success to-day—the faculty of showing those to whom one speaks that the attention is completely on the question under discussion. Men leave the presence of such a person fully convinced that he understands what he is about, and that his knowledge is evidence enough of his

William McGaw of Kincardine died on Sunday, shortly after learning that his family were heirs to a fortune of fourteen millions. The money was left by an uncle who died at Buenos Ayres. William McGaw and his brother John, who died some time ago, had often heard from him, and it was currently reported that he was immensely rich. The first word they had of his death was when an advertisement appeared asking for the relatives, to whom had been left $14,000,000. The McGaw families at once wrote to those in charge of the estate and are anxiously awaiting further news. A number of other brothers and sisters, if the news is correct, will share in the fortune.
