The price from then on will be the same as formerly $3.75. The World and Gazette readers should take advantage of this liberal offer.

We received this week a letter from Mr. George Brohmann, of Gull Lake, Sask., and in renewing his subscription George says that the crops in that section are splendid, although a heavy hail storm had done considerable damage to the south of them. George intends spending a month's vacation at Banff, and camping in the Rocky Mountains.

A number of our farmer friends have been wondering why the Stock Markets have not been published of late. This was owing to the fact that through some mistake we have not been receiving the reports on Wednesdays as usual. However, we have had the matter looked into and will in future be able to give reports every week.

Mr. W. H. Holtzmann of Neudorf, Sask., writes:—"Crops in this district are looking splendid and everything points to a bumper crop. Have had all kinds of rain during the past month, and it has now cleared up, and we are having wonderful growing weather, so if frosts keep off there will be a record crop in this section this year."

The workman employed on the new R. C. church motored to Formosa last Sunday afternoon and paid a visit to the R. C. church of that town. They very much admired the architectural beauties of this church and expressed surprise that such a splendid church could be erected in so small a town.

The contractor has commenced work on the immense water tank to be placed on the corner opposite the new R. C. Church. This will supply a long felt want, as the upper end of the town has been without adequate fire protection for some time. Also it will considerably improve the appearance of that section of the town as this unsightly hole has long offended the eye.

Messrs. John A. Johnston and Ezra Reuber took two auto-loads of Mildmayites to Brussels on Monday evening to witness the Football match for the semi-final championship between Brussels and Owen Sound. The game resulted in 2 to 0 in Brussels favor at full time and as Owen Sound had defeated this club by the same score in a previous game the teams were tied for the district. Ten minutes each way was played overtime and both teams scored. Brussels in the first half and Owen Sound towards the close of the second, leaving the tie still standing—3 all. The little town of Wroxeter, we noticed in passing through the other night, seems to have a splendid street lighting system for so small a town. It's too bad that we cannot have a similar system, which would be a credit to a town of our population.

There is a probability of Mildmay entering into the sport of baseball in the near future, as they have been challenged by the Formosa nine and will undoubtedly arrange a game some time soon. There is fair material here, which, with practice could be developed into a good local nine.

We wish to make particular mention of the honors won by Mrs. George Lambert and Miss Madeline Schuett in vocal and instrumental examinations. Miss Schuett took honors in instrumental, while Mrs. Lambert won first honor in junior vocal, under the instruction of Prof. Leeson, Walkerton.

The young residents of the town found considerable amusement in the efforts of some unknown boob, who had conceived the idea that he was a vaudeville performer, and endeavored to give an exhibition of the art of step-dancing on the main street Tuesday noon. The only thing, however, he made an exhibition of, was himself, for which there was no charge. In addition to being a poor dancer, he had a voice like the cracked bell on a lumber tug, the very first bum note of which would make a Chinese war-god rear up in protest.

Successful Candidates.

Important Lecture Coming.

We are glad to announce that the Advance Agent of the National Sanatorium Association has been in town this week arranging for a lecture to be repeated by Mr. J. B. Watson, Field Secretary and Lecturer of the Association, on Tuberculosis and The Work of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. The Lectures will be delivered on the 20th day of August in the Town Hall. Those who have been privileged to hear the Lecture will be glad to have this opportunity of hearing it again. We strongly recommend those who have not heard it to make a point of doing so. Entertainment, Interest and Education are its three very outstanding features.

Walkerton in Darkness.

The $80,000 power dam at Walkerton, which required two years to erect and complete, was partly wrecked on Tuesday night, about fifty feet of embankment being washed away between the race and the river near the power house. As a result the whole town is in darkness, there being no lights in either houses or streets, and the power company is in a quandary what arrangements to make. The consumers are now without a power supply from any other source, and this leaves the town industries, which have been operating with electric power at a standstill. The citizens of Walkerton have barely got through celebrating the event of the installation of an efficient lighting system, and although the damage will no doubt be repaired as soon as possible, it will leave the town without lights for a few days. This particular item has been a cause of constant worry to the Walkerton people as considerable difficulty has been experienced with this dam at various times. It was thought however, that this new and certainly expensive dam would do the seemingly impossible thing of holding back the waters of the Saugeen.

Y. P. A. Social Evening.

The Y. P. A. of the Mildmay Evangelical Church held a pleasant social gathering on Monday evening of this week at the home of Mr. Frederick Eifert, Balacava, to honor the following of its former members, who are leaving town in the near future:—Misses Lucinda Eifert, Pearl Wittich, Clara Schwalbe, Lily Seiling, Emma Diebel, Matilda and Sarah Smith, and Mary Schwalm. A party, consisting of forty-eight, and themselves until darkness drew on, with various games on the lawn, after which all were cordially invited into the house, where the remainder of the evening was most enjoyably spent in games and music. At the close, a very excellent luncheon was served to the happy gathering. Ice cream, cake, fruit, lemonade, and home-made candy were served to the assembled guests, and although last, the refreshments were not the least important of the evening's enjoyment. Auld Lang Syne was very prettily sung just before the breaking up of the happy party, and the return journey was commenced. Miss Eifert left on Tuesday morning for Buffalo, and Miss Pearl Wittich to Arnprior. The remainder of this party of popular young ladies are leaving on various dates in the near future.

One on Belmore.

Mildmay is decidedly a football town. This was again clearly demonstrated on Wednesday of last week when our newest recruits to the ranks of football, ranging in years from seven to twelve did battle with the benedicts of Belmore. Like unto David, in the battle of old with Goliath, did the little gaffers walk over these ancient would-be ball-players. As in this battle of which the bible tells us, where cunning was mated with strength, the cunning ones came off without a scratch, while the giant Belmore gladiators literally had their heads chopped off. At least we heard that some of them lost their heads during the game. The match, as may be imagined, caused considerable excitement in and about the Peaceful City, and our stout-hearted warriors, although this skirmish with their granddads was a tie, were glad to get back to the safety of mother's knee and their trundle beds. Since this was the first match the infants have attempted away from home, they returned highly elated and the war-whoops emanating from their youthful throats as their chariot brought them back to their native land, were well calculated to make a real dyed-in-the-wool Indian sit up and take notice. Thus do the Mildmayites always stick it over their adversaries.

A Spiteful Act.

A Teeswater autoist, together with his party, had a narrow escape from being killed one day this week on the road between Formosa and Teeswater. The autoist was taking a party of friends to Formosa and back in his car and accidentally ran over and killed a sheep belonging to a farmer on this road. The owner of the animal, indignant over his loss, placed a log directly across the road in the path of the automobile with the intention of wrecking the machine on its return trip. It was a deliberate act with criminal intent as the log was so large that it must have required at least two men to lift it, and had the car struck it while going at a fair rate of speed, injury and in all probability death would have resulted. Luckily the log was noticed and the car stopped in time to avoid the collision. It was a very risky thing for this farmer to do, as had an accident occurred the perpetrator of this bit of spitefulness would most surely have been held accountable for his rash act. The loss of a sheep in itself is small and certainly does not entitle a man to take the law into his own hands and attempt the life of a man in return for the loss of an almost valueless sheep. But taken in the first place sheep are not even permitted on the roads and are only allowed at the owner's personal risk in case of loss. The autoist is not quite certain who the perpetrator of this mean act is or we would have it newsworthy in police court. Had the farmer demanded a settlement for the loss of his sheep, he would in all probability have received at least some recompense for his loss. As it is, about all he receives, is the censorship of the whole community and a stiff fine if his identity is discovered.

Causing Dissatisfaction.

A few of our West end citizens dropped into the Gazette office this week and gave us their opinion on the manner in which the new cement sidewalk is being erected in their locality. This sidewalk is now under the course of construction and it seems that only one particular spot is the cause of this dissatisfaction. This seems to be the gully between the properties of Mr. Gustave Schurr and Mrs. Nicholas Alt on Absalom Street. It seems that instead of building a wall and running the walk straight through, as has been done in two or three similar cases in town, the sidewalk is being curved outward around the gully, in this way the expenditure of erecting said sidewalk seems to be unnecessary in order to prevent the walk from caving in. Citizens of the West end of Absalom Street, who have been building a wall under similar conditions, would of course, would involve an expenditure of a considerable amount of money, but as one of these gentlemen remarked isn't this money the property of the people? The ratepayers would much rather spend a few extra dollars in a case like this, and then have something substantial to show for it. So it seems the old maxim of "What's worth doing at all is worth doing well," would be singularly appropriate here. The cement has not been laid yet, so if entire satisfaction is to be given, there is still time to rectify this error—for it is an error, one of the leading men in town, who has more than a little to say in council matters, having expressed this same opinion. So if the good-will of the people is to be at all considered, this must be changed while there is yet time, as Mildmay citizens would like to see their money spent on something useful that will also add rather than detract from the beauty of the town.

Growing in Favor.

The Canada Temperance Act is manifestly growing in public favor. Conventions of representatives temperance workers have decided to circulate petitions praying for its submission in the Northern Districts of Algoma, Sudbury, Muskoka and Parry Sound, in the counties of Huron, Peel and Welland, and in the city of Niagara Falls. In the Northern Provincial Judicial Districts it is the only Local Option method available in as much Local Option under the Ontario License Act can only be secured through a municipal by-law. In the counties named it is advocated as a means of bringing into line with municipalities which have already adopted Local Option by-laws some other municipalities in which it is not practical to secure the three-fifths vote necessary under the Provincial Legislation.

Electric Cooking.

In the warm weather the housewife likes to reduce to a minimum the heat generated in cooking. The gas stove has won its way into favour because it partly meets this requirement. The flame can be turned off and on at will; to be used when, and only when, cooking is going on.

Gas, however, has the disadvantage of an odour, and consumes the oxygen of the atmosphere. Electricity overcomes these defects, and, further, a larger percentage of the heat generated is used, so that less escapes to raise the temperature of the room. As to expense, recent tests show that, at 5c per kilowatt hour, the cost varies, roughly from 3 to 10 cents per person per day. The cost of cooking some typical meals was:—breakfast: oatmeal and coffee, 23c; lunch: potatoes, finnan haddie, tea, 33c; dinner: beef stew, carrots, potatoes, prunes, 12c. These rates would seem to be prohibitive, and nothing cleaner or more convenient than an electric cooker can be found.

Alberta Crop Outlook Great, Says Mr. Sifton.

Hon. Arthur Sifton, premier of Alberta, was in Toronto yesterday on his return from England, and went West on the Vancouver express last night.

He has been in London arranging the opening of offices in Trafalgar Square where intending immigrants and investors may obtain information about Alberta. The offices are located opposite the premises occupied by the Dominion Government agent in London.

Mr. Sifton said that he received word from Alberta yesterday to the effect that this year's crop of wheat is in the best of shape, better than it has been as early as this in any previous season.

"Will there be much difficulty in getting men to harvest the crop?" asked The World.

"Not as much as last year," was Premier Sifton's reply. "In many parts of Canada and the United States work is not so plentiful as last year, and there will be more inducements on that account

WALKERTON

Mr. Frank Reich, who cut his hand severely two weeks ago with an axe, is now suffering with a severe case of blood poisoning, the injured member being swollen in an alarming manner.

While cranking his auto at the Orange celebration in Hanover on Saturday last, Mr. Walter Lines, liveryman there, formerly of the South Line, Brant, had the misfortune to break his arm below the elbow, the crank of the auto rebounding suddenly back and snapping off the bone like a biscuit.

Mr. Jos. Kaz, Walkerton's junk dealer, has sold his business here, which he has been conducting for the past two years, to Mr. Jos. Abell, who will continue on the business. Mr. Kaz and family left this week for Fort William, where they expect to locate.

Mr. Ambrose Zettel of Formosa, who married a lady formerly known in Walkerton as Mrs. Ault, was operated on for rupture in the Bruce County Hospital last week, the officiating surgeon being Dr. Kennedy of Wingham, assisted by Dr. McCue of Formosa. At last reports the patient was on the mend.

Mr. Anthony Anstett, the first teacher of Formosa Public School, and uncle of Messrs. George and Felix Ernewein of Walkerton, died at Spokane, Wash., the other day, aged 78 years. The deceased after resigning the Formosa school, conducted a general store there. About thirty years ago he left for the American West, where he continued to reside until his death. A wife and grown up family survive.

Singing Jimmie Hunter of Lucknow, who was recently released from the Walkerton jail where he was pardoned after serving a portion of a three month's sentence for selling liquor in local option Lucknow, was mulcted with a fine of $20.00 and costs on Monday for another violation of the local option by-law in Lucknow. Constable R. J. Cameron, whom Jimmie refused to allow to accompany him to Walkerton on his last jail-bound expedition here, laid the charge, that resulted in Jimmie's pocket book being lightened on Monday.

In a hard-fought game at the exhibition grounds here on Friday evening last, Paisley defeated Walkerton in lacrosse by a score of 8 to 4. The locals started out in a brisk manner and bagged the visitors' nets twice with the rubber, but this being their first game, the pace set was too strenuous and Paisley eventually pulled ahead of the field by notching 8 to Walkerton's 4. The exhibition proved, however, that Walkerton has some promising lacrosse material, and with a little practice some victories in the national game could be pulled off here.

The Live Stock Show.

It may be difficult at first to convince the people of Guelph, that in launching a Live Stock Exhibition to be held at the National Exhibition Association grounds in Toronto from November 27th to the 22nd the promoters are not seeking to supplant the very successful Winter Fair held annually in Guelph. No such motive, however, is behind the present movement. The initiative has come not from citizens anxious to aggrandize Toronto, but from prominent live stock men who feel that while there is need for the Guelph Show, there is need also for a general fall exhibition of live stock in this Province on a scale that cannot be provided for in Guelph. Toronto, with an exhibition plant that has cost over two million dollars, and is used for but two weeks in the year, and with all the necessary accommodation for thousands of visitors, is undoubtedly the place for the Canadian National Live Stock Show if it is ever to become a worthy rival of the great Chicago Exhibition.

It is believed by the promoters that the increased interest resulting from such as that contemplated will stimulate exhibits at Guelph rather than detract from the display there. The Toronto date is too early for the exhibition of fat stock finished for the Christmas market, and in that department it is entirely probable that Guelph will have no serious rivalry.

to draw men West for the harvest months."

Asked as to the status of Alberta credit, he stated that English financiers did not seem to be discriminating between the provinces in the matter of placing money.

"Of course, there is considerable tightness apparent just now," he said. "Money is harder to get than it has been, but that applies equally to the securities of all the provinces."

The Gurney-Oxford is prompt

No matter what comes or goes—meals we must have. The preparation of meals comes round three times a day.

Every housewife wants to know that she can depend on her stove absolutely; she wants to know that there is no element of chance or likelihood of mishap in her cooking arrangements; that meals will be ready promptly on time.

The Gurney Economizer is an assurance against accident and mishap in cooking. It is a simple device and found only on the Gurney-Oxford. One lever controls everything. The fire can be slowed down for hours and revived in a few minutes. An arrangement of flues makes the Gurney-Oxford Oven always uniformly heated—the Gurney-Oxford Oven is never to blame! It will make a good cook a better cook; it does more than its share towards making every meal a success and a pleasure.

Rural Notes.

Mr. J. K. Pritchard of Harriston has been made one of the Dominion Fruit Inspectors. Mr. Pritchard is in every way qualified for the position, having for years been an extensive grower, packer and exporter of apples.

In 1912 a total of 17,212 acres in the Province of Ontario was surveyed for tile drains and 2,212 acres in the Province of Ontario was surveyed for tile drains and 2,278 miles of drain-laid, while 70 demonstrations were held under the auspices of the department to show the possibilities of drainage.

About two hundred departmental agricultural judges from Western Ontario were at Guelph attending a brief test in judging at the Ontario Agricultural College. The tests comprised lectures and actual demonstrations in the judging of horses, cattle, swine, sheep, poultry and standing crops. They were under the supervision of the heads of the various departments of the college. The course in the judging of horses and cattle was given this year for the first time.

Mr. R. B. Cooley, a graduate in 1910 from Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, has accepted the position of professor of animal husbandry at Rhode Island State College of Agriculture. For two years Mr. Cooley occupied a similar position at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, and later was live stock inspector for the Canadian Pacific Railway for the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

During his visit to the Royal Agricultural Show at Bristol recently, the King went through the Canadian farm. "Very good, most interesting," he remarked to his guide. His Majesty spent quite a long time at this exhibition.

Following out a comprehensive plan for the improvement and maintenance of the various Provincial institutions, the Ontario Government is arranging to establish canneries at two of the Provincial asylums—Hamilton and London—where fruits and vegetables sufficient to supply all the institutions will be "put up."

After spending a fortnight in the orchards of Summerland and Kelowna, British Columbia, Mr. W. H. Lynn, assistant fruit inspector, reports that the peach, apricot, apple and pear crops will be fair this year. The recent reductions in express rates on fruit to the coast by over 30 per cent., says Mr. Lynn, have placed the fruit-growers on more equal terms with the southern producer.

The total immigration to Canada during April and May, 1913, was 146,060, made up of 56,940 British, 33,507 American, and 55,613 from all other countries. During April and May, 1912, the total was 129,453, composed of 49,279 British, 39,585 American and 40,279 from other countries. The increase is 13 per cent.

The Loafer.

Here the summer loafer stands; in his pockets are his hands; and the boss of all the grangers comes and cries: "I am needing toilers now, men to reap and men to plow, and I'll feed them full of porthouse and pies. Ample wages will I pay, by the month or by the day, if you'll only wield a pitchfork or a spade, and you'll draw your pay in cash, and you'll have the best of hash, and a schooner every hour of lemonade." Says the idle corner shirk: "I would surely like to work, but my dying granny made me take a vow, that I'd never, never toil, with the nerve destroying soil, that I'd never risk my life behind a plow. For her uncle's brother Jules walked behind a pair of mules plowing up the fertile meadow by the sea; and the mules reached out behind with their heels and knocked him blind, and my granny feared a kindred fate for me." Said the granger. "Oh, the deuce! You have always an excuse, you big loafers who are rotting in the sun! And the honest men who work must support the moldy shirk when summer with its harvesting done. Which is why I often think that the country's on the blink; if our government were worth a pint of pitch, every loafer fowl and stale would be breaking rock in jail, while the sheriff flected his midriff with a switch.—Walt Mason.

Not Dependent.

It is a remarkable circumstance that the people of Canada are taking only a mild interest in United States tariff legislation. The time has been when the proceedings of Congress would be followed in this country with intense concern. The Wilson Bill, the McKinley Bill and the Dingley Bill were treated as important incidents in the political and economic history of Canada. Not one of these measures dealt more radically with Canadian products than the bill now before the Senate. The Underwood tariff may give Canadian products as a whole about the same advantage as they would have had under reciprocity. But Canada does not appear in the least excited over it.

In some respects Canadians learn more and achieved more during the last six years than in the previous forty years of the history of the Dominion. It is now clearly understood that this country does not need to look to Washington for prosperity. The United States is one of our markets, but not our best market, or an absolutely necessary market. At least the trade between the two countries is no less necessary to the United States than it is to Canada. We sell to that country only one-third as much as we buy there from. After Great Britain, Canada is the market of the United States, since no other country buys United States products as this Dominion. United States exports to Canada exceed in value those sent to all the rest of the continents of North and South America. The preservation of the market is of more advantage to the United States than the market of that country can possibly be to us.

We do not undervalue our customers to the South. Their custom is important and will be always highly valued. But no part of it is indispensable, and no possible tariff changes that may interfere with this trade will create a Canadian panic. If the Canadian market in the United States should be broadened by new legislation we shall understand that the changes are made in the interests of the United States consumer.

WIT AND HUMOR

"Miss Edith," asked a young man, "may I ask you, please, not to call me Mr. Durand?"

"But," said Miss Edith, with great coyness, "our acquaintance is so short you know. Why should I not call you that?"

"Well," said the young man, "chiefly because my name is Dupont."

The best known employee of a firm of tailors is the colored porter, Jerry. In order to conserve all of the good-will and bad book accounts, the firm has incorporated under a name that covers several panes of glass, and following this abridged city directory is the abbreviation "Inc." A customer, while being measured, remarked to Jerry:

"You seem to be the only man in the shop whose name does not appear on the window. What's the trouble?"

"Oh, I see dar, boss, all right," replied Jerry. "I see de ink."

A Bostonian was showing a British visitor the sights of the Hub. They were driving past Bunker Hill Monument. Not wishing to make any pointed reference to the fact that at one time we had been fighting with our cousins, the Boston gentleman merely indicated the monument with his thumb and said: "Bunker Hill."

The Englishman looked at the hill intently, and asked: "Who was Mr. Bunker and what did he do to the hill?"

"You don't understand," said the Bostonian. "This is where Warren fell."

The Englishman screwed his monocles into his eye, leaned back, and looking at the top of the towering shaft, remarked enquiringly: "Killed him, of course?"

"Please, mum," said the tramp, "would you be so kind as to let me have a needle and thread?"

"Well, y-e-s," said the housewife at the door. "I can let you have that."

"Thankee mum. Now you'd oblige me very much if you'd let me have a bit of cloth for a patch."

"Yes, here is some."

"Thankee very much, mum. It's a little different color from my suit, I see. Perhaps, mum, you could spare me some of your husband's old clothes that this patch will match."

"Well I declare! You're clever, my man, and I'll give you an old suit. Here is one."

"Thankee greatly, mum. I see it's a little large, mum, but if you'll kindly furnish me with a square meal mebbly I can fill it out."

Good Roads Problem.

The improvement and maintenance of good roads in the rural districts is a vital problem in all parts of Canada. Inevitably, perhaps, the phenomenal development of railway and waterway navigation has largely overshadowed the necessity that exists for properly built wagon roads. However, it is steadily being more fully realized that the absence of such roads causes an economic loss of great importance to every citizen, and especially those of the rural districts.

It is very gratifying to find that scientific progress is being made in many parts of Canada. The government of Ontario is spending large sums on roads in New Ontario. New Brunswick is enacting

'good roads' legislation; and Saskatchewan, where railway development during the past few years has been phenomenal, is carrying out a comprehensive 'good roads' policy.

Saskatchewan has appropriated $1,200,000 for highway improvement work during 1913. This is merely a continuation of the work commenced in 1905, and each year the government has expended from $200,000 to $700,000 on roads and bridges. The work has been carried out under the supervision of a board of highway commissioners, and assistance is granted through them to municipalities under certain carefully defined conditions. This assistance is confined to the building of bridges and trunk roads. The old statute labour system is discouraged as being uneconomical and inefficient.

In view of the scarcity of gravel and stone in many parts of Saskatchewan extensive experiments have been carried out at provincial expense to ascertain the best means of constructing clay roads. It has been found that Saskatchewan clays burned at comparatively low temperatures produce an excellent surfacing material for graded roads. Owing to the reddish colour of this burned clay these roads are known as "the red roads of Saskatchewan." Their cost, where underdrainage is not necessary has been found to be from $2,000 to $2,500 a mile. This includes the cost of burning the surface clay. Where tile drainage of the grade is essential, the cost is increased by from $1,000 to $1,500 a mile. It is claimed that these roads stand up well under prairie conditions.

A mushroom six inches in diameter, that grew under a press in one of the Toronto printing offices, was discovered last week.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in filthy ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (oxide) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles, in anemic people may have been caused by lack of good fresh air breathed into lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer intense pain over the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by indigestion. Whatever the cause, there's just one remedy that you can turn to—knowing that it has given satisfaction for over 40 years.

is a blood cleanser and alterative that starts the liver and stomach into vigorous action. It thus assists the body to manufacture rich red blood which feeds the heart—nerves—brain and organs of the body. The organs work smoothly like machinery running in oil. Nowadays you can obtain Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Tablets, as well as the liquid form from all medicine dealers, or tablets by mail, prepaid in $1 or 50c size. Address R. V. Pierce, M. Selected Recipes.

Green Corn Balls.—Beat a whipped egg, two teaspoons melted butter and one of white sugar and salt into two cups green corn cut from the cob and put with mixture enough over to enable you to handle it and form it into balls. Roll these in raw egg and then in flour and fry in deep fat.

Salmon Bisque.—An attractive and palatable soup is made by adding three pints of milk to two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour. This makes a white sauce. Season it with salt and pepper, and add a can of the best salmon, which has been rubbed through a sieve to free it from bones and bits of skin. Serve with croutons.

Small Peas.—Pour one ounce of butter over one quart of small peas. Add a head of lettuce, an onion, a little parsley, and salt or sugar according to taste. Cover the pan and cook over a moderate fire until the peas are tender. Then remove the onion, parsley, and lettuce. Mix well together the yolks of four eggs, and three teaspoonfuls of cream, and pour the mixture on the peas. Serve immediately.

Scalloped Egg Plant.—Peel off the skin, cut the egg plant into dice and parboil for twenty minutes. Drain well, put into a buttered bake dish with alternate layers of fine crumbs, dotting bits of butter upon each layer, sprinkling with salt and pepper and finely minced green peppers if you can get them. The dish is good even without this addition. When the dish is full moisten the contents with milk or cream, put a layer of crumbs, butter, pepper and salt on top, cover and bake for half an hour, uncover and brown.

Baked Young Onions.—Peel the onions, cook for ten minutes in boiling salted water, drain and place in a buttered pudding dish. Sprinkle with pepper and salt and pour over them a white sauce made as directed in recipe for creamed carrots. Stray fine crumbs over the top and bake covered for twenty minutes. Uncover and brown and serve in the dish in which onions were cooked.

Custard Onions.—Cook the young onions after peeling them. When tender, lay in a pudding dish, and pour over them a white sauce to which you have added one or two well-beaten eggs. Season with pepper and salt before turning on the onions, and bake until the custard sauce is set.

Savory Onions.—After you have boiled peeled young onions until tender, drain them and pour over them a cupful of good stock and simmer in this for ten minutes. Take out the onions with a slotted spoon and keep them hot while you thicken the gravy with a tablespoon of browned flour rubbed to a paste with the same amount of butter. Stir until smooth and thick, add a teaspoon kitchen bouquet and one of good catsup, with salt and pepper to taste and pour over the onions.

Scalloped Squash.—Wash and pare two large or three small summer squashes, cut them into slices about an inch square, put over a fire in a saucepan of boiling water and cook for twenty-five minutes. Drain in a colander, pressing out all the water, and mash free from lumps. Whip into the squash two beaten eggs, a small cup of milk, and a tablespoon of butter; season with salt and pepper and turn into a greased pudding dish. Stray crumbs, bits of butter, salt and pepper over the top and bake.

Parsnip Croquettes.—Boil one pound of parsnips and press them through a fine sieve, or mash with a fork until they are smooth. Pour one-half of a cupful of boiling milk over one-half of a pound of bread-crumbs; add the parsnip puree, an ounce of butter, a teaspoonful of grated cheese, the yolks of two eggs, and a few drops of lemon-juice. Mix the mass thoroughly, and form it into balls. Roll each ball into the whites of the eggs, slightly beaten; then roll it in bread-crumbs, plunge into boiling oil, and fry to a light brown. Drain, and serve on a folded napkin. The croquettes are excellent with gravy and roast pork.

Scalloped Asparagus.—Carefully wash two small bunches of asparagus, and stand them upright in a kettle of water, allowing the tips to be above the water. As the water boils, it steams the soft tips, while the thick stalks are boiled. Drain the asparagus, and cut it into pieces, discarding the toughest portions. To each two cupfuls of asparagus use an equal amount of bread-crumbs, one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and a little pepper. Butter a baking-dish, and put the bread-crumbs and asparagus in alternate layers, the last layer being one of crumbs.

Pour the milk over it, and bake about twenty minutes.

A New Rule For Raspberry Shortcake.—The ordinary raspberry shortcake principally because raspberries do not give enough juice, even if a great many are used. To overcome this difficulty, make the shortcake in the usual way, and for the filling use a box of raspberries and a box of currants. Put the currants through a sieve with a cup of sugar, and add the juice thus obtained to the raspberries, and another cup of sugar, mashing the berries very slightly. The filling may be used either plain or with a little whipped cream added; cover the top of the cake with whipped cream decorated with raspberries. The flavor of the raspberries is so much stronger than that of the currants that you do not taste the latter at all.

Useful Hints.

Keep a few pieces of charcoal in the refrigerator. They will absorb the odors of food.

If a cloth is dampened with strong tea, it will serve as an excellent cleanser of varnished paint.

A bit of left-over fish, especially salmon or halibut, will make a delicious forcemeat for stuffing peppers or tomatoes.

Silver that had been stained with egg is quickly cleaned by rubbing with damp salt or with a cloth dampened with ammonia.

It is well to wash an embroidered pongee in gasoline. While the water might not injure the pongee, it might the embroidery.

Occasionally iodine stains get on bedding or linen. If the spots are covered with ammonia or alcohol and washed the stain will disappear.

Should grease be spilled on matting apply at once a thin paste of fuller's earth. As soon as it dries, cover with a paper and do not remove for two or three days.

A splendid way of washing Chinese crepe is to make a strong lather of boiling water and white soap; when it is nearly cold, wash the crepe quickly and rinse in a strong solution of salt and water. Hang to dry in the open air.

Grass stains may be removed by soaking them in alcohol, kerosene or molasses.

Do not throw away any cheese, no matter how small may be the piece. Grate it or run it through the food chopper and use it for seasoning the French dressing served with a vegetable salad.

It is well to keep an open box of unslackened lime in the cellar. This will absorb much of the dampness in the cellar and so be a factor in keeping this part of the house sweet and dry. The lime will have to be renewed from time to time.

When putting down new matting, do not cut it to fit corners, but wet it thoroughly with a soft brush or cloth dipped in a pail of hot water, to which add a cupful of salt. When the water has thoroughly soaked the matting becomes as pliable as rubber and can be turned under without breaking, making a neater finish than cutting. When you shift the matting later you find this is very convenient.

Some women have what their friends call "luck" with plants, but, as a matter of fact, it is generally because they treat their plants with some thought and care and study their needs. A woman who is quite famous for the lovely ferns she always has about her home said recently that she took great care of them, because it gave her pleasure to see them flourish and wax strong and vigorous. One little thing she does is rather a new idea to most of us, yet one can see how it would affect the good shape of a fern very much. As each new sprout appears she turns it toward the light until it is well up and begins to bend in the right direction. By the time one is bending properly it is another's turn to be trained in the same way, and the result is a beautiful round plant.

LICORICE ROOT.

The Bulk of It Comes From Syria—Its Uses.

Very few people have any idea where the familiar licorice root comes from. As a matter of fact, the bulk of it hails from Syria. Here it is gathered and piled into great stacks, where it remains until it is thoroughly dry. It is then taken to the factory to undergo certain processes. The finished product is used for flavoring confectionery and beer, as well as entering into the make-up of many brands of tobacco. Some idea of the industry may be gathered when it is stated that on an average 8,000 tons of dry licorice root is shipped from Aleppo annually, while Bagdad yields another 6,000 tons. With the exception of the Damascus output, the whole trade is in the hands of a single firm.

Either take things as they come or turn your back and let them go.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, JULY 27.

Lesson IV. Moses's Request Refused. Exod. 4. 29 to 6. 1. Golden Text, Matt. 5. 4.

Having determined to obey the command of Jehovah and return to Egypt, Moses is further instructed as to how he shall proceed in dealing with Pharaoh in order to secure his consent to the departure of the Hebrews from Egypt. While Moses is still on his way his brother Aaron is divinely commanded to leave Goshen and proceed into the wilderness to meet Moses, and to assist him in his momentous undertaking. Somewhere in the desert east of Egypt the brothers meet and return together into Egypt, where, first of all, they summon the elders of Israel to a conference and show them the signs by which Jehovah had set his seal of indorsement upon their errand.

Verses 1. Afterward.—Following the meeting of Moses and Aaron with the elders of Israel, they proceeded immediately to present their request to Pharaoh in person, making it very plain to the king that they have come in the name of Jehovah, the God of Israel.

Let my people . . . hold a feast unto me in the wilderness.—They do not immediately present their demand for the entire liberation of the Israelites from bondage, but proceed to test the king's temper and attitude toward the Israelites by a much more modest request—that for permission to make a short religious pilgrimage and offer sacrifices to Jehovah just beyond the borders of Egypt.

2. Who is Jehovah?—Pharaoh feigns ignorance concerning any other gods than his own, and asks, not for information, but in utter contempt, concerning the God in whose name they venture to ask a favor of him.

3. The God of the Hebrews.—Even the Hebrews themselves had not yet risen to the exalted conception of Jehovah as the one and only true God over all nations and peoples. His claims upon his own people are here set over against the claims which other gods might have upon other peoples.

4. Wherefore do ye . . . loose the people from their works?—The king dismisses their petition without even an answer and abruptly changes the subject by accusing Moses and Aaron of meddlesome interference with the daily tasks of the people.

Get you unto your burdens.—The command is to Moses and Aaron as representatives of the people.

5. Many.—In the estimation of Pharaoh there were already far too many Hebrews in the land. To lessen their burden and grant them leisure for religious feasts and ceremonies would tend only to increase their strength and make them so much the greater menace to the land which held them in slavery.

6. The taskmasters are the Egyptian overseers and slave-drivers, while the officers are Hebrew scribes or clerks, whose duty it was to keep an account of the number of the bricks made and the other tasks performed by each individual.

7. Straw to make brick.—The Egyptian bricks were made of mud from the Nile mixed with straw. It was customary to stamp the name of the reigning king upon the separate bricks, and modern excavations in Egypt have brought to light a number of these bricks bearing the name of Rameses II., father of the Pharaoh referred to in our lesson passage.

Gather straw for themselves.—They would not be able to secure good straw, but would be compelled to find a substitute in the field rubbish of every kind, including twigs, stems, roots, and withered leaves. To prepare this for use in brick-making required that it should be sorted and chopped, this process entailing double labor on the part of the Israelites.

8. Lay upon them.—Require of them.

9. Let them not regard lying words.—Such as Moses and Aaron had in the thought of Pharaoh been guilty of in encouraging the people to believe that they might hope for a favorable reply to their request.

10. Throughout all the land of Egypt.—Not to be taken literally, but meaning rather "far and wide."

11. Stubble for straw.—Compare verse 7 above.

12. Officers . . . were beaten.—The Hebrew scribes and time-keepers suffered with the delinquent workmen themselves.

The remaining verses of our lesson (5. 15 to 6. 1) give the complaint of the oppressed people to Moses and Aaron because of their increased burdens, and the assurance given by Jehovah to Moses that he, Jehovah, would so deal with Pharaoh that the stubborn king would yield and virtually drive the Hebrews out of the land.

MR. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

Canada's New Solicitor-General Is Earnest and Strenuous.

Arthur Meighen, the new Solicitor-General, was one of the few earnest young men on the Government side who had a chance to distinguish themselves at the last strenuous Parliamentary session. Born in 1876, the new Solicitor-General is only 37 years old. In appearance he looks almost absurdly young when pitting his legal knowledge and power of argument against the veterans of Parliament. But he has a power of clear thinking and forceful expression that wins him respect and attention, and it must be confessed that in the closure debate his knowledge of the subject, his citations of precedents and of English Parliamentary practice, and his general array of facts was very convincing.

Mr. Meighen is a barrister, and his legal training has developed a naturally keen, analytical mind. He reads history and precedent with a marvellous industry, retaining the points he needs in debate and marshalling them without hesitation or the slightest delay. In the House sometimes his desk, his seat, and the desk of his neighbors on each side would be piled high with volumes of authorities, each one with paper marks inserted. When the time came to read a quotation, the legal-minded young member for Portage la Prairie put his finger on the place at once. It reminded one of the power and dexterity of an organ player develops in handling his notes and stops. What would in other hands inevitably prove a dry, laborious speech is, in the hands of Arthur Meighen, a quick-fired, persistent, keenly-aimed, and precisely quoted argument, delivered with spirit and with life. And his arguments are not sophistical. He gets at the facts and uses them with great effect. In his passages with the wily Dr. Pugsley and other veterans of debate, Arthur Meighen didn't come off second best. The young lawyer has a brilliant way of going indignantly at the specious argument and boring a hole through it with the forefinger of one hand, the other keeping the place in his book of reference the meanwhile. His voice is a little harsh and argumentative in tone rather than musical or oratorical, but for logical uses of legal argument across the floor of the House it is a very suitable and effective organ, the words having clearness despite their swift articulation, and the voice itself a carrying power very satisfactory to those who, sitting at a distance, wish nevertheless to hear.

Arthur Meighen was born in 1876 in Perth County, Ontario. He graduated from Toronto University in 1896. He married in 1904, and has two boys. Mrs. Meighen is one of the prettiest wives of the younger Parliamentary set at Ottawa. She was a constant and popular visitor to the Speaker's Gallery during the debates last session, and no listener betrayed a greater interest in her clever young husband's brilliant speeches than she did.

IDEAL OF THE MORAL LIFE

Its Very Essence Is Love, Which Is the Most Positive Force In All the World

"Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none. Cut it down; why doth it cumber the ground?"—Luke xiii., 7.

Here is the conclusion of one of the most significant of the parables of Jesus. According to the story, "a certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard," and year after year "he came seeking fruit thereon." Each year, however, he had the same disappointing experience of finding none, and at last, disgusted with the tree, he ordered his vine dressers to "cut it down." "Why," he asked, "doth it cumber the ground?"

Now, it is to be noticed that there is nothing said in this parable about the fig tree not being a perfectly good tree. It was not poisonous or noxious. It was not withered, or gnarled, or undersized. Indeed, if we are to trust the story, it was so excellent a specimen, so far as its attributes as a tree were concerned, that each year its owner expected to see its branches laden with figs. There was nothing at all that was actually bad about the tree. The trouble was that there was nothing that was Positively Good.

It failed in its one specific mission of bringing forth fruit. Its room was more valuable than its presence.

Now, here do we have a striking illustration of one of the most original characteristics of the teaching of Jesus—namely, its emphasis upon the positive character of goodness. All too frequently is goodness interpreted in purely negative terms, as the act of avoiding certain things which the world has agreed to regard as evil. The good man is the man who does not steal, lie, kill, commit adultery, covet, and so on through all the melancholy catalogue of "Thou shalt nots." To avoid these sins, we have been told, is to attain to the ideal of the moral life. Hence is the world crowded with men and women who regard themselves as wholly good simply because they have never done anything that was bad. Like the rich young man, they can boast that they have kept all the commandments from their youth up, and therefore they think themselves

Entitled to Eternal Life.

Not so, however, if we are to trust the teaching of the Nazarene. Jesus' standard is positive, and not negative at all. To His mind it is not enough that a man should merely keep the commandments directed against moral offences of one kind and another. Beyond the "Thou shalt not" in the greater commandment, "Thou shalt."

Goodness, therefore, is a positive thing. In telling the story of the vineyard Jesus was only illustrating His familiar statement in the Sermon on the Mount—"Every good tree bringeth forth good fruit. . . . Every tree that beareth not good fruit is hewn down and cast into the fire."—Rev. John Haynes Holmes.

Young Folks

Butterfly Blue.

On the rim of a flower cup Butterfly Blue tilted gently. She folded and unfolded her wings as if she were a fan. You could hardly believe that she was not a flower herself.

"Move aside, please," said a voice close by, and the blossom dipped down suddenly. "I have business inside that will not wait."

It was Golden Bee, who was humming in a hurried and impatient way. Butterfly Blue slid off at once, and poised lightly in the air an inch or two away, while the newcomer bustled into the flower. He stayed there for several seconds, and then flew out in the same hurry.

"Wait!" said Blue, settling herself again. "Talk to me a little; I am lonely."

"I have no time to talk, or to be lonely, either," was the reply. "Do you suppose I came into this garden to swing on a bush?"

"You seem so pleased with yourself, and so contented!" she kept on.

"I am pleased with myself," he said. "I am working hard—that's why I am contented. You were not made for a honey-gatherer."

"What was I made for, then? To rock on flowers all the time? I want to be of use!"

"I will tell you something," Golden Bee said. "There was a time, although you cannot remember it, when you worked very hard. You were a silk-spinner, and spun wondrously. One day you laid down in your spinnings and went to sleep. When you woke, you began to fly and flutter and swing on flower blooms. You are very fair," he went on. "And although it will never be possible for you to spin again, still there is plenty for you to do."

"Where?" cried Butterfly Blue. "Go out into the world and look, and keep a sharp watch in this very garden, too," Golden Bee replied. "And now good day."

Toward evening they met again suddenly in a big, cool, lavender air lane.

"Well, are you happy yet?" cried Golden Bee, cheerily.

"Yes, I am happy," said Butterfly Blue. "I have worked hard today. When you left me this morning, I flew up and down and in and out, looking for work. A tiny child here in the garden saw me, and I let it chase me through the winding walks. It ran and ran, and waved its hands in joy. Then I darted out and away, and into an open window. Round and round the white walls of a room I circled, and the child in the bed opened her eyes to watch me, and smiled. I left there at last, and travelled until I came to a lame boy in his chair. I was a little afraid, but his face looked pitiful, and I lit on his knee. I opened and shut my wings. He did not touch me, but cried, 'Oh, beautiful!' and laughed aloud. I have not been idle since you saw me, Golden Bee. I am very happy."

"Of course you are," remarked Golden Bee, as he began to thrum again.—Youth's Companion.

CHILD-LIFE IN GERMANY.

Minimum of Clothes and Plenty of Fruit to Eat.

In her book entitled "Scenes and Memories," Walburga Lady Paget has this to say of her early life in Germany: "We ran about without shoes or stockings in the grass; we wore a minimum of clothes; in summer we were plunged into the river, a wide and rushing mountain stream; in winter we had to break the ice in our tubs and our nurses dashed basins of icy water over our backs. I can still feel the thin bits of ice mixed with the water slithering down over me. A fire in our bedrooms was never thought of, and the schoolroom was never more than 9 degrees Reaumur (53 Fahrenheit). I was 14 or 15 before I knew what it was to have something to drink at breakfast, as I did not like milk. Bread, with a little butter, was all I ever had. An egg for a child, if it was not ill, was considered quite absurd. Between meals we were given an abundance of fruit."

Did you ever get nervous prostration from trying to make others happy? No!

The surest way of losing one's own health is to be always drinking the health of others, says a wise wit.

FAMOUS NAMES ON VESSELS

HISTORY, MUSIC, LITERATURE
—SAINTS AND SINNERS.

Choice of Appellations Varied and Versatile—Desire for Happiness and Virtue.

The Canadian shipping list reads like an atlas or a journal of exploration. The sailor's general geographical interest is shown in the names of many distant countries, such as Arabia and Armenia, and especially on the Pacific coast, in Japanese appellations, such as Shinyei Maru, Herschel, recalling as it does the great English astronomer, indicates an interest in celestial phenomena, which is confirmed by Orion, Gemini, Uranus, and names of other constellations, besides a host of Stars and Stellas. That there are still difficulties in spite of these twinkling aids to navigation seems to be the lesson of the ships White Squall, Ioe Surge and Rocket. But the fact that the sailor does not fear to call his ship after the elements which are his enemies shows that he is not superstitious. On this principle German names would by no means be words of ill omen for Canadian cruisers.

Literary Efforts Few.

The paucity of literary ships seems to hint that the sailor is not a great reader. The shipping list does not resemble a college curriculum or a bookseller's advertisement. Of novelists we find Hugo, whose "Toilers of the Deep" no doubt recommended him. Sir Walter Scott is remembered by a namesake ship, and a score of Ladies of the Lake. There is no evidence of a nautical interest in popular fiction. There is nothing later than Uncle Tom, Topsy and Ben-Hur. The sailor whose favorite muses are those of history and heroic poetry naturally disdains the best sellers. The poetry the sailor reads is likewise old-fashioned. Shakespeare, strange to relate, has no ship to himself, but Ophelia and Romeo are remembered. The ships Zuleika and Mazepa recall Byron, and Minnehaha suggests Longfellow. No doubt 15-inch guns and armored turrets will demand names of greater explosiveness and velocity, something perhaps from Kipling or Robert Service.

A Poor Speller.

In spite, however, of these evidences of erudition we have to tax the sailor with a neglected education. The fault may be due to bilingualism, but at any rate ship names abound in mis-spellings. Goliath does duty for Goliath. Lia for Leah, and Lidie for the diminutive of Lydia. But the worst is the "Germinnia," a ship owned by a Frenchman on the Lower St. Lawrence, who learned his English, as many other French-Canadians have done—under a Cockney instructor.

Music in Evidence.

The lack of a Terpsichore is atoned for by many musical ships, such as Andante, Crescendo and Eri King. On the whole the sailor's musical fancy seems to turn to musical comedy with light opera. Gilbert, the playwright, has a flagship of his own escorted by the Mikado and the Iolanthe; but H. M. S. Pinafore is strangely missing, and Sullivan, his musical collaborator, is completely unknown. But it may be that the growth of Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Ltd.

Windsor, Ontario.

Canada's shipping trade will provide room for this and other names which have been so far omitted, in newspaper parlance, solely for lack of space. The fascination of some of the heroines of the foot-lights has not been unrecorded. There are ships called Edna May, the Jersey Lily, and Julia Opp—after the wife of Mr. Faversham, Maud Allan and Mazurka keep time together. Quick Step bridges the gulf between the classical dancers and the dashing College Widow, which is George Ad's contribution to the Canadian marine. The ships Alhambra and Tivoli betray a knowledge of London Music Halls; so that, all told, the sailor, it must be admitted, knows Who's Who in dramatic circles.

The Feminine in Evidence.

His feminine names are not, however, taken from the ballet, but from the domestic sphere. Fully forty per cent. of Canadian ship titles are feminine Christian names. The Canadian sailor certainly loves a lass, and above all a lass named Mary or Marie or some kindred form. There float upon our waves more than two hundred sea nymphs of the family of Mary. In fact the Marys have it as easily as the Johns among the male names. There are over sixty Johns, including John Bull and John L., but not John D., and among the Jacks there is, of course, Jack Canuck.

Staggering Imagination.

But the masculine names are nothing compared with the feminine. In fact the sailor's devotion to feminine names almost staggers the imagination. There are over one hundred varieties which range metaphorically from Dan to Beersheba, literally from Ann to Zoe. There are aristocratic ones such as Euphemia and Millicent and all the home favorites such as Lizzie and Libbie and Addie and Carrie—but never a Carrie Nation. Among the Jennies there is a Jeanne d'Arc, and among the Annies an Annie Laurie. Some famous names are, however, neglected. There is no Maud Muller in the flotilla of Mauds; no Little Mabel among the Mabels; no Ida M. Tarbell amongst the Idas.

Matrimony Excepted.

There are plenty of endearing terms such as Gazelle, and promises of fidelity such as True Love, but very little hint of matrimony, except in the Village Bride. And there is no reference to babies nearer than Winslow, the famous soothing syrup. The evidence of the shipping list seems to confirm the sailor's reputation as a winking light of love. Only one ship, Veuve, backs up W. W. Jacobs' theory that bargemen and other mariners have a penchant for widows. Delilah and Vampire seem to indicate that at times the course of love does not run smooth for the sailor, but no ship is as vituperative as The Serpent's Tongue of William Watson.

Many Evils.

Ship names such as Four Idlers, Loafer and Becalmed attest that the sailor occasionally has time on his hands. And that Satan finds mischief for idle hands is revealed in ships which we cannot possibly call good, such as Gambler, Monaco, Nap and Lucky Jim. That there are crooks in every profession seems to be the lesson of Slippery Joe, though, of course, the name might merely indicate that this particular vessel can outswim any of its rivals. Double interpretations are possible with regard to other names. Geneva, for instance, may refer to Calvin and not to gin; Usher to Poe's Fall of the House of Usher and not to Scotch whiskey. Magnum, however, looks as if it referred unmistakably to champagne, but, after all, there is very little evidence of intemperance on board ship. If the names of our future battleships preserve a discreet silence on the subject of grog and rum punch it will perhaps be only a just tribute to naval sobriety.

Devoted to Saints.

Any faults that the sailor may have are more than outweighed by an enthusiastic devotion to saints. There are more than two hundred Saints' names on the shipping register. St. George is the most popular for steam craft, but St. Joseph heads the poll for the sailing vessels. Probably no boat bears a more unique name than the good ship St. Joseph Three Salmon. Possibly the Western grain growers might forego their opposition to a navy if the battleships were called by such names as Manitoba No. 1 Hard or Alberta Alfalfa.

Ships like Grit and try show a nautical interest in p. ies; and Dan Patch and Shrub reveal a fondness for the track and the cinder path. One ship is also called after a golf course, namely Lambton, the appropriateness probably consisting in their common possession of bunkers.

Canadian History.

It would not be well to conclude without mention of the great number of Shamrocks and Thistles and the even more numerous Maple Leafs. The shipping register is as it were a log book of Canadian history. It shows that English, Scotish, Irish and French elements have united to form a Canadian marine. The Britannias and British Lions sail or steam amicably beside the Canadas and Beavers. It is a little difficult to tell from these ships' names whether our sailors advocate cash contribution or whether they are in favor of naval autonomy. They seem at any rate to practise some kind of Imperial co-operation.

A Happy Family.

On the whole the names he has given to his ships seem to show that the sailor's lot is as happy as his tastes and character are varied and versatile. He looks on the bright side of things. He calls no vessel The Wreck. The comradeship of friends and brethren is recorded by such ships as the Two Friends and The Four Brothers. The steamer Golden Rule, Good Intent and Happy Homes clearly indicate that the sailor's main desire is for happiness and virtue. There should be no difficulty in persuading Canadian youths to serve on ships like these. It may be that the problem of naval recruiting will be best solved by the judicious selection of attractive ship names.

One on Mr. Foy.

The Attorney-General for Ontario, the Hon. J. J. Foy, is fond of a good joke, and his enjoyment is not lessened by the fact that the joke is on himself. Quite recently he was hurrying to the Niagara Navigation wharf in Toronto, carrying his lawyer's bag, which was well filled with documents. A newsboy proffered his wares, but Mr. Foy shook his head, however, on second thought said, "If you want to earn a nickel you can carry this bag to the dock." The boy agreed, and they set out. On reaching the wharf Mr. Foy started to the private gate, which is used by directors and other officials, but his companion shouted, "Hi, you can't go in there." "Why not?" said Mr. Foy. "Cause that's private, just for de big guns," was the answer. "Well, that's all right. Do you know I own this wharf?" returned the Attorney-General. "Now ye don't," said the urchin. "What makes you think I don't?" "Well, if you owned dis wharf you'd give me more'n a nickel to carry your bag."

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any one of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Nice Old Lady.

She was a charitable old lady, of a somewhat inquisitive turn of mind, and she was paying a visit to a naval hospital. Presently she came up to the bedside of a poor fellow who was one of the victims of a gun explosion. "My poor fellow," she said, depositing a bunch of grapes within his reach, "Your sensations and sufferings at the time of the accident must have been terrible. Can you—will you describe them to me?" "Well, mum," he said stolidly, "I don't know as I can; but I can tell you I was on deck attending to my duty with the gun, when all of a sudden there was a most infernal row—and then the nurse says, 'Sit up and take this.'"

"Mt. Elgin, Ind. Institute, Muncy, Ontario.—I suffered from skin trouble for two months before taking Cuticura Remedies. The trouble started from itchiness on the back of the hands. When irritated, this itchiness turned to pimples. These pimples soon began to spread up the arms, from the arms to my whole body. They also came up on the face. Having spread over my body they became irritated by my clothing. They began to ooze water-like matter. Then began an almost killing torture of itchiness. When I scratched I seemed to scalp the pimples and make them extremely sore. They festered and enlarged, then they opened and left sore spots. These spots became scabbed and sore beyond expression.

"I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I received quicker than I expected. I was much relieved at the first application. I continued applying the Cuticura Remedies for two straight weeks, then I was completely cured, thanks to Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) John Jamieson, Mar. 6, 1912. APES OF GIBRALTAR.

History of Their Retention on the Rock.

Travellers to Gibraltar are always on the lookout for the famous apes of the rock, the only wild monkeys in Europe, and will be interested to learn that their threatened extinction has been averted.

Until about twenty-five years ago these monkeys held undisputed possession of the upper part of the rock and were seldom seen; but when the fortification on the summit was begun the animals spread to the lower levels and were one of the sights of the place. One locality Bruce's Farm, they avoided for years. The story is that long ago they became very troublesome to the owner by raiding his fruit garden. After various expedients to get rid of them had failed, some one caught a young monkey and tying it to a tree left it to starve to death. This cruelty was resented by the band, which, it is said, carried away the dead body and never afterward approached the place.

Ten years ago there were fifty or sixty apes on the rock, but many were shot or trapped, and three years ago only three old females were left to represent the stock. When this came to the knowledge of the commandment he issued orders for their protection, and imported from Morocco a male and four females; but the three old females attacked and soon killed the newcomers. A second experiment was equally unsuccessful, but in 1911 a third male was obtained, who fought his way into the good graces of the old females and became the sire of several young monkeys that will now, it is expected, replenish the stock.

Unfortunately this sire became so dangerous, viciously attacking the people who would befriend him, that he was lately condemned to be shot. The sentence, however, was commuted to imprisonment for life in the London Zoo, whither he was transported on a battleship and where he now dwells in an admired captivity in Regent Park.

The Gibraltar ape, which is not a true ape, but a macaque, is especially interesting to zoologists because of the isolation of its species in the northwest corner of Africa, for it is restricted to the mountain fastnesses of the Barbary States. All the other members of the genus Macacus are Asiatic, its nearest ally being the rhesus or sacred monkey of India. The monkey the Japanese depict so constantly in drawings and carvings is another near relative.

"Now," asked the teacher, "who can tell me what an oyster is?" Silence for a moment, while small brows were knit in strained effort at remembrance. Then little Tommy's facial muscles relaxed, and eagerly he raised his hand. "I know!" he triumphantly announced. "An oyster is a fish built like a nut."

A young preacher picked up Bishop Pierce's hat and put it on his own head and it was exactly a fit. "Why, Bishop," said he, "your head and mine are exactly the same size." "Yes," replied the Bishop, "on the outside."

Moving pictures have just been made at the rate of one hundred thousand a second in contrast with the rate of fifteen or twenty a second, which is enough when reproduced on a screen to give the eye the impression of a continuous picture. The only thing that moves fast enough to make such tremendous speed worth using is a bullet, and some extraordinary pictures of bullets have been taken at this rate, seventy-two pictures being taken of a revolver bullet as it moved ten inches from the muzzle.

Pictures of a bullet passing through a stick of wood showed a queer condition. The bullet passed completely through the thin stick and was well on its way beyond before the wood gave any sign of distress. Then some tiny splinters started out, following the bullet; the stick began to split; and after the bullet had proceeded some distance the stick suddenly fell to pieces. No camera shutters are fast enough to take pictures at anything like this speed; so no shutter was used.

Instead, a series of electric sparks was flashed, the sparks following one another at the rate of one hundred thousand a second, each spark making a picture. The film was mounted on a wheel about three feet in circumference, and the wheel was revolved at the rate of nine thousand revolutions a minute. When all was ready the bullet was shot, the sparks flashed and the wheel revolved, the actual exposure being limited to a fraction of a second so as not to pile up pictures one over the other.

Pins Not So Easily Lost.

In the 14th century pins were not carelessly lost as they are now. The law permitted that they should be sold on the first two days of January each year, in order that they might not become too common. It therefore became the custom for ladies of all classes to buy their year's stock of pins on these days, and the money given them for this purpose by their husbands or fathers was known as "pin money," a phrase that has survived to the present day.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS TORONTO.

At 9 a.m. Tuesday morning there were 192 cars, 3860 cattle, 824 hogs, 1051 sheep and lambs, 303 calves and 2 horses, reported on the market, but before the noon hour there were over two hundred cars and 4000 cattle on sale.

Considering the large number of cattle on sale there was a good trade, as there were less than 800 unsold at the close of the market; the bulk of these had come in during the day, many of which were not offered for sale.

There were several outside buyers, viz., Messrs. Cook and Levinoff of Montreal and J. H. Dingle and J. H. Baker of Hamilton, who bought liberally, as well as Swift & Co. of Chicago, who took 400 of the export cattle. All of the local butchers and abattoirs also took large numbers of cattle, all combining to make a fairly active market throughout, but notwithstanding all this, prices declined 10c in all classes of good to choice cattle and in some instances 15c, but common and inferior eastern cattle went off 15c to 25c per cwt.

Hogs were again higher. Sheep were again steady to firm, but lambs were on an average 25c per cwt lower, and calves were a little easier.

Exporters—Wm. Howard bought 200 export steers for London, 1365 lbs. each, at $6 80 to $7 05, and 200 steers for Liverpool market, weighing 1300 lbs. at $6 75 to $6 90.

Butchers—Choice butchers' steers, $6 45 to $6 90; good at $6 35 to $6 60; medium $6 10 to $6 30; common $5 00 to $5 00; inferior, $4 50 to $4 75; good to choice cows $5 to $5 50; medium cows, $4 25 to $4 75; canners and cutters $2 to $3 60; bulls, $5 to $5 50 for good and $3 75 to $4 75 for common to medium bulls.

Feeders and stockers—Feeders, 800 to 900 lbs., $5 25 to $5 75; stockers, 600 to 700 lbs., $4 75 to $5 25; light eastern stockers $3 75 to $4 00.

Milkers and Springers—Receipts of milkers and springers were liberal, which caused an easier market for all but a few of choice quality. The bulk of the cows sold from $45 to $65, but $70 and $75 was paid though we only heard of one bringing the latter price.

Veal Calves—Choice veal calves sold at $8 50 to $9 50, but got many at latter price; good calves, $7 50 to $8 25; medium calves $6 25 to $7 25; common $5 25 to $5 75; inferior rough calves at $4 25 to $4 75.

Sheep and Lambs—Sheep were firm at $4 50 to $5 for light ewes; heavy ewes and rams sold at $3 50 to $3 75 and culls at $3.

Hogs—Selects fed and watered sold at $10 15 to $10 25 and $9 75 to $9 90 f.o.b. cars at country points.

HUNTINGFIELD.

Haying is the order of the day now. Very light crops are reported, some only getting two loads off seven acres, and one man only got seven loads off five acres. About one half a crop is all that most of them are getting.

Wes. Haskins was the first to cut his wheat in this section, having commenced on his crop on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harris Sundayed with friends in Turnberry.

Mr. John Renwick, who received a kick from a horse last week is reported to be recovering nicely. His many friends hope to see him about again soon.

Wat. Renwick and George Johnston delivered some fine cattle at Clifford on Monday.

Quite a heavy hail and rain storm passed over this section last Sunday afternoon. The farmers on the 2nd Concession do not have to do any threshing this year as the hail is said to have done this pretty well for them.

Mr. George Harkness presented himself with a nice new buggy. Now is the time when George and his buggy are in great demand, and my, but won't the ladies turn their heads when George and his nice red buggy go past. Bet some of them would like to ride in it too if George would only ask them.

MILLINERY,
READY-TO-WEAR

Peace To His Ashes.

The grave grass is growing over Luther McCarty, whose shining career was the talk of the land; a bill on the neck from a Pelkysome party extinguished the light of this pugilist grand. He stood in the ring in the pride of his muscle, unconquered, triumphant, his surname was Rex; and after one minute of action and tussle, the doctors were saying: "He's cashed in his checks." Now where are his dreams of the opulent purses, his visions of triumphs, admirers around? All gone—they are gone where the sable plumed hearse are bearing dead men to their homes in the ground. Oh, ye who are mighty and brawny and hearty, who hope in the ring to accomplish a fame, consider the passing of Luther McCarty, the bolt that destroyed him, and side-step the game! Stay home on the farm, far away from the riot, and toil with the pitchfork, an excellent tool, for there you may dwell in contentment and quiet, till some day you're kicked through a fence by a mule. Stay home in your village, intelligent voter, and gather the henfruit and play with the dog, until you're run down by a plutocrat's motor, and carried away on a door to the morgue. Let visions of ringcraft and swats be rejected—just think of McCarty, all silent and dead! And maybe some day, when it's most unexpected, a shotgun unloaded will blow off your head.
