god on our front verandah be- friend of my children who had o visit us. He looked out across untry and said to me, "Mary, I ever seen a more beautiful view his anywhere. I've seen wilder rander country but nothing more iful, and I envy you for having ne in this spot."

had just returned from a trip gh Italy and France (peaceful and I must confess that I felt if he had seen nothing more beau- than what was spread out before e had idled away a lot of money ery little purpose. Fortunately d not tell him so. I had spent tically all my life in the country had little patience with farm ry and orations about the joys of try life. I always had a secret ing to live in town; life there ap- ed to be so easy and with so many resting and beautiful things to y.

ie following spring I was not well far from happy. Spring is a busy on the farm and for a while I sed to go away; but I could do work and finally consented to l with my husband's sister, Em- who had a business tour to make. rst we visited a mining village, about twenty miles away from e, but as different as could be and interesting. Emma's position ed many doors to us. We went gh the big breaker, we explored ark mines, saw coal in its natural , and something of the mining ss. We were shown acres and of the big "stripping" (some- like a great stone quarry), and high walls of solid coal we saw bands of peacock colors glowing sun.

ctually envied the woman in home we were staying; she enjoy this most interesting place day! I was full of questions hat evening as we sat on the lah I asked her many questions: the coal stamped or ground in reaker? How deep was the where the men were let down in e? How thick was a vein of t woman could not answer one on! "I don't know," was her reply and her manner added, "don't care!" Emma joined us talked and asked about the ful fossils that the woman's d had collected: ferns, leaves, nd animal foot prints. Her s were the same. The one sub- liked to talk about was her ss, her lack of opportunity, dislike for this "dirty," coal- town, filled with foreigners. nted the theatre and flower nd big stores, and crowds. vere more fortunate when we e jolly little school teacher. bbled over with interest in ing around her. She told us he free class in English for ers that she and the young apher had conducted all win- e lessons in French that one engineers had given them in of the Italian she was learn- n her school boys. She told olk songs and the beautiful e foreign women had taught h, it is a wonderful place!"

What did the men mean by damp," "outcrop," "gangway"? was some coal "stripped" and "mined"?

Then I began to look toward home and as the days went by I was really longing for the farm.

I would not have believed that I could ever be so glad to be at home. I could understand now what a friend of mine meant when she said that the best part of a trip was the home-coming; I felt like running to every chair and table and saying, "How do you do!"

That evening, while packing wait- ed, I stole out to the front verandah and, as I sat before the familiar pic- tures I began to know what my old friend meant when he spoke of our beautiful view.

Then and there I took time to "look and look and look" at the green fields, the dark woods, the freshly plowed earth, the misty veils that marked the brooks, the distant mountains, and the wonderful sky over all and I began to feel the beauty and to receive a mes- sage of peace and security that I had never allowed them to bring me be- fore.

Improving the Surroundings.

Everything around me was not all beauty and I knew it, but I resolved to bring out the best, and keep the unsightly in its proper place. It was our own fault that the cow yard, the pig pen, the ash pile, and an open drain were in plain sight from the kitchen.

I began to work. There was no hurry. In time a change was manifest. A row of sumachs, beautiful all sum- mer and wonderful in the fall, hides the pig pen; a screen of evergreens, brought from the woods, shuts off the cow yard and shelters it from the north wind; the drain is closed over; the ashes are put into a covered bar- rel and regularly carted into the mud holes in the lower lane. I keep the garbage pail, the washing machine, even the scrub bucket and the dish pan "out of sight and out of mind" when not in use; and keep, where I can see them often, a blooming plant, a pitcher of wild flowers, or some pret- ty china.

I have learned how to take time to look into the heart of a flower until I feel some of its beauty; when a song sparrow perches on the spring-house roof and nearly bursts his little throat singing to me I stop to listen, and it takes the drudgery out of my scrub- bing. When my little daughter asks me to come with her to watch the sunset, I enjoy it with her if I pos- sibly can. I have made friends and very interesting ones, of every dog and horse on the place; I am even be- ginning to like the little pigs, but I confess I have found nothing in the big ones to admire except the dainty way in which they lift and plant their front feet—and even that is some- thing.

My small daughter and I have bought a few simple bird books, a flower book and a pair of field glasses, and I am more and more amazed to find so many and such beautiful wild things in our woods. When Emily discovered that it takes two of the little "twin flowers" to produce one berry she was as happy as if she were the very first one to know it.

We must set our sails for the way we wish to go. There is no need to drift. The wind that blows toward discontent and failure will blow toward bliss and success—if you will only will to have it so and set your sails that way.

"So many gods, so many creeds,
So many ways that wind and wind,
The old, sad world needs
The art of being kind."

"WET VOTE" IN BRITISH COLUMBIA A BLOW TO "BONE-DRY" WASHINGTON

Importers Take Steps to Prevent Rum-Running — Fifty Auto Roads From Wet British Columbia Regarded as Menace by State of Washington.

A despatch from Montreal says:—At a meeting held between the wholesale liquor importers, of whom there are ten in the Province, and D. R. Murphy, K.C., General Administrator of the Quebec Prohibition Law, an arrangement was made whereby the wholesalers agree to ship outside the Province only by steamer, railway, express, or through a transportation company.

This means the end of shipments by automobile, one of the most serious means of abuse of the liquor law, and of rum-running either to other provinces or to the United States.

A despatch from Seattle, Wash., says:—Action of British Columbia voters on Wednesday in repudiating the Provincial prohibition statute opens "a great and limitless reservoir" and liquor will flow into the State of Washington in "an endless stream" unless drastic action is taken to forestall it, the Federal Prohibition Officer for Washington declared on Thursday.

Fifty automobile roads lead to Washington from the Canadian province, Mr. McDonald said, and he declared he had little more than a "corporal's guard" of agents to stem the tide.

The "wet vote" in British Columbia, Mr. McDonald said, was a knock-out blow to his hopes for "bone-dry" prohibition in Washington.

B.C. VOTES 75,964 FOR MODERATION

Western Province Wants Government Control of Liquor.

A despatch from Vancouver says:—Approximate totals show that 125,189 votes were polled in British Columbia yesterday—easily a record. The latest returns show 75,964 for moderation and 49,225 for prohibition, giving a net moderation majority of 26,739.

Although there are many districts yet to be heard from, the vote in the cities and towns is conclusive and decisive so far as the fate of the Prohibition Act is concerned. Petition and Nelson alone among the cities gave meagre majorities for prohibition. All the others went for Government control by substantial majorities, in many cases there being two votes to one in favor.

The city of Vancouver, which at the former referendum was strongly in favor of prohibition, gave a majority of 10,000 against the present act.

Both sides at the outset expressed their fullest confidence, the prohibitionists relying very heavily on the vote of the newly-enfranchised women.

The poll all over the province was a heavy one.

Breathing Pure Oxygen Cure for Gassed Soldiers

A despatch from London says:—An attempt is being made to cure men who have been gassed in the war by pure oxygen breathing. At Guys Hospital an airtight chamber of glass 20 feet square and 7½ feet high has been made.

Men who have been gassed and suffer difficulty of breathing will be put in the chamber for five days or more and will breathe oxygen continuously.

The treatment was devised by Professor Joseph Barcroft, of Cambridge University, and Dr. G. H. Hunt, of Guys Hospital.

A Red Cross Bridge.

The development of the dairy industry of Canada during the past two decades has been surprisingly rapid. Quick to realize the profits to be derived from milk production and the great value of dairying in conserving the fertility of the soil, the Canadian farmer has not hesitated to increase his investments in dairy cattle. The industry expanded during the five years of world war. Canada, being distant from the theatres of war, although handicapped by the enlistment into military service of half a million of her most vigorous manhood, was able to continue the development of many of her important industries, particularly agriculture.

It was not so in Europe. There the fiery blast of war, which left profits in some parts of the world, almost extinguished not only industry but national life itself in others. The drain upon manhood was so great that now in hundreds of thousands of families no adult males remain. Europe, moreover, is filled with orphan children whose prospect of life is marred by the lack of all that is necessary to bodily and mental growth. In most cases the earning power and consequently the purchasing power of their families is utterly destroyed.

Turning again to Canada we find there a surplus production of the commodities that are so badly needed in Europe. Condensed milk, for instance, is a commodity that is a prime necessity for the children of the poor communities of Europe, but the nations to which they belong have no means of purchasing it for them. The Canadian Red Cross is going to endeavor to supply part of their needs by means of a general appeal for contributions to be made during Armistice Week on behalf of the British Empire Fund, which is to be used in the humane task of relieving the sufferings of millions who are stricken by famine and disease. Part of the fund will be used for purchasing in Canada suitable supplies, and thus the Red Cross will furnish the bridge across which some of our surplus milk will reach the emaciated children in war-stricken areas. Those who assist will not only have the satisfaction of having contributed to relieve the sufferings of others less fortunate but by helping others will thereby indirectly help themselves.

Questions Arising Out of Miners' Strike

A despatch from London says:—Two grave questions are exercising the political and industrial world:

First, to what extent the Labor leaders are losing control of the workers;

Second, whether a political crisis and an appeal to the country will develop out of the miners' dispute.

It is stated that James Henry Thomas, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, has exerted the greatest efforts to get the action taken by the railwaymen to aid the miners postponed for a few days, but that his influence was overcome.

Herbert Hoover Still Helps Troubled Europe

Former Director-General of Relief in Europe for the Allies after the Armistice, who is visiting Canada on behalf of the British Empire War Relief Fund. He spoke at the Canadian Red Cross dinner at Toronto recently.

British Columbia Selling $1,000,000 Worth of Bonds

A despatch from Victoria, B.C., says:—To provide funds for loans to returned soldiers and industries under the Industrial Act, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, is calling for tenders for $1,000,000 for British Columbia six per cent. bonds. The bonds will run for three years and are identical with the $1,000,000 of Pacific Great Eastern bonds put out three weeks ago, for which bond houses all over the United States and Canada scrambled and the price of which they bid up above par in their anxiety to get them.

Batum Will be Leased by British Government

A despatch from London says:—A wireless despatch received from Moscow reports that Great Britain has requested the Georgian Government to grant a lease of Batum to Great Britain for a long term of years.

The despatch adds that the British fleet has left the Baltic Sea, as peace between Poland and Russia removes the need of a naval blockade.

Doctor Charges $60,000 to Attend Greek King

A despatch from Athens says:—Prof. Viddal, the French authority brought here for consultation on the illness of King Alexander, left after being decorated and thanked by the King, who is ignorant of the seriousness of his condition. The Government paid Viddal $60,000.

Miners' Strike Cause of Much Unemployment

A despatch from London says:—Complete figures for the whole country are not yet available, but it is estimated that at least 100,000 people have been discharged as the direct result of the miners' strike.

HEARS EVIDENCE OF DEEPENING OF ST. LAWRENCE

The International Deep Waterways Commission has opened its session in Toronto for the purpose of taking evidence on the proposed deepening of the St. Lawrence River and the opening of Toronto as an ocean port. The picture shows the Commission in session in the Council Chambers. From left to right: H. A. Powell, K.C., Sir John's, N.B.; Senator O. Gardner, Rockland, Maine, Chairman of the American section of the Commission; Sir William Hearst, Toronto; C. A. McGrath, Ottawa, Chairman of the Canadian section; and Senator C. D. Clark, Evartson, Wyo.

Red Gunboats in the Black Sea

A despatch from Constantinople says:—Three Bolshevik gunboats, the Elena, Zikit and Kozorna, are operating in the Black Sea, with their base at Novorossisk. They are conveying small coasters to territory beyond the latter area. It is also known that two Red submarines are in the vicinity of Nicolaiv. British destroyers are on the lookout for all these craft.

Mussulman Women Defend Sacred City

A despatch from Madrid says:—Many women participated in the defence of Sheshuan, the sacred Mohammedan city of Morocco, and some were wounded. A bull was sacrificed as a sign of submission when General Berenguer entered.

"How are we to meet the high cost of living?" "You don't have to meet it," answered the irritating person. "It overtakes you."

Canada From Coast to Coast

Vancouver, B.C.—A great amalgamation of British land interests in British Columbia is forecasted. A few years ago a Canadian organized into one company the land holdings of certain English holders, and the result of his efforts has been successful in development and sales. The present project is larger in extent, covering many thousands of acres of mines, timber and agricultural lands.

The sockeye salmon catch on the Fraser River has been the best in four years, according to the packers. About half a million dollars worth of the fish was caught in the stream this year by the Canadian canners.

Edmonton, Alta.—At Fort McMurray boring for salt has been successful, a good sample being brought up from a depth of 523 feet. The drilling is being done under the auspices of Alberta provincial government, which is endeavoring to develop the resources along the lines of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway.

A total of $600,000 will be spent by the MacKenzie River Fisheries on the maintenance of a fishing fleet and other kindred operations. A cannery equipped with modern machinery and employing more than one hundred helpers has been established on Athabasca Lake.

Calgary, Alta.—An unprecedented business has been done in binders in Southern Alberta by implement dealers owing to the heavy crops. There is also a very heavy demand for farm wagons, plows, tractors, and machinery for fall work.

Lumber merchants predict great building activities throughout the province this fall, chiefly in grain storage facilities and farm buildings. All the country lumber yards are stocked up, and this month will witness the commencement of the fall erections.

The population of the city is now returned at 79,500. During the last ten years the population has increased by 30,000.

The influx of foreign capital into the west at the present time is unprecedented, and British, American, and Continental European interests have had many representatives over the land this summer. Much investigation has been undertaken, surveying projected, and other work accomplished which will show results in the succeeding years.

Regina, Sask.—It is confidently expected that the 1920 output of creamery butter for Saskatchewan will be 7,000,000 lbs., as against 6,622,000 lbs. in 1919. Six new creameries have been opened in the province this season, making a total of 47 operating in Saskatchewan.

There are now 4,500 schools in the province of Saskatchewan in all of which only the English language is employed. Five years ago great difficulty was experienced in securing an adequate supply of teachers, but whereas the shortage at that time was 1,200, it is, at the present time, only about 200.

A new creamery has been opened by the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries, Ltd., at Ivermay. This makes the third branch to be opened up by the company this year and brings the total number of factories operated by it up to 23. Three other branch plants are at present under construction.

DECLINE OF RED POWER IS IN SIGHT

Bolshevism Near End of Tether, Says U.S. Secretary of State.

A despatch from Washington says:—Bolshevism in Russia is on its last legs, according to Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State, or, to use the more elegant expression of Mr. Colby, it is in its latent stages. It was in a state of growing weakness and there was every indication of a breakdown.

The Secretary of State made these assertions orally to newspapermen on Thursday. Peasants generally were abandoning Bolshevik rule and forming local communities independent of the Moscow Soviet Government and of themselves. Mr. Colby's statement, he said, was based on advice from Russia.

Just what will succeed Bolshevism, he stated, is the question giving most concern now. The propensities of the Russians for a local communistic mode of self-government, in his opinion, will result in the assumption of authority for the maintenance of local bodies. From this qualified equilibrium, he thought, a scheme could be evolved out of which would come a national governing entity.

Asked if there was a just comparison between the Soviet regime in Russia and the French Revolution, Mr. Colby replied that the French Revolution was directed by and with reason; it searched out the intellectuals and placed them in power, while in Russia the Bolsheviks are seeking to destroy the intellectuals.

He declared he took an optimistic view of the possibilities in Russia, which was that a democratic Government would rise from the local governing units that are expected to take over political authority upon the downfall of the Soviets. At the present time, he stated, a most rigorous control is exercised over the Press in Russia.

Melbourne Supports Government

A despatch from London says:—Messages from Melbourne, Australia, state that the elections give Labor slight gains, but resulted in Government victory.

Early city returns from Victoria on the local option poll, indicate that the vote will go for a continuance of local option.

Canada Sends Full Contingent to League

A despatch from London says:—Canada alone among the Dominions is providing a full contingent of three delegates to the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva in November. Australia is sending one and New Zealand one.

Out-of-Work Britishers May Come to Canada

A despatch from London says:—A big increase in emigration to Canada may be one result of the strike of British coal miners. Reports received from Morris-town, near Swansea, Wales, state that many of the steel workers there who have been made idle by the strike have decided to emigrate to Canada at an early date.

If you have done something that is good, forget it—and do something better!

Pert Paragraphs

Out where you have no real way to fight a fire and where a fire usually means a total loss, take no unnecessary chances.

Permission has been secured from the Dominion Government for the bringing of several hundred Ukrainian war orphans to Canada. Plans are for the adoption of them into Canadian homes.

The steel rink at Brussels has been sold by Mr. Trench to the Amusement Co., of Hanover, who will move it to Hanover this fall. Hanover will have a regulation size rink now, and expects to have a real live hockey team this season.

Paisley taxpayers will have to shell out to the tax collector this year. The Council have struck the rate at over 44 mills on the dollar. They have been doing things that required to be done, and as the work all costs more money than ever did before, there is nothing else for it than to cheerfully meet the bills, each citizen paying his share according to the levy made upon his property.

The sugar beet crop in Western Ontario this year is the most wonderful on record, according to statements made by prominent growers. Although the average yield is from ten to twelve tons per acre, reports have come in that some crops are averaging as much as eighteen tons per acre. A shortage of labor will make the harvesting of the crop much later this year in some sections.

An exchange says:—A late fall and mild weather is predicted by numbers of amateur observers of celestial phenomena that have never yet made a mistake in their calculations. They assert, almost to a man, that the fall and winter season of 1920-1921 will be one of the mildest ever recorded. Incidentally, weather observers state the coming mild weather will put a severe dent in the price of coal.

Another Mystery Man

We have another wild-man sensation this fall. The Baird family, a few miles west of town, were a good deal disturbed last week by the visits of a man, apparently demented, who paid a number of calls to their barn-yard—on one occasion almost setting the place on fire. During one of his visits he carried away a whip, and the breaking of the timepiece of the automobile, in an effort to remove it, is thought to have been his work. He was seen three times about the barn, and on one occasion was barefooted. None of the men were about, Grace Baird being the only one to see the wanderer. Each time he made off towards the woods. About forty men searched the neighborhood one afternoon but no trace of the man could be found.

It will be remembered that a year ago a man, apparently demented, made his headquarters in the vicinity of Dickie's Hill, until the cold weather forced him to find better shelter. It was never learned where this man came from nor where he went to.—Lucknow Sentinel.

Recent disclosures tend to show that professional baseball, like horse racing, has fallen a prey to the professional gambler. It has been shown that baseball pitchers have been baited by gamblers, the same as racehorse drivers at circuit races, so that the crafty betting man may the more easily fleece its victims. Any sport which allows the gambling element to get control, has lost its usefulness and should be promptly banned.

The North Bay Star reports a heavy fine imposed by Magistrate Moore, who taxed an offender $103 for shooting partridge out of season. Captain Irwin of the Game and Fisheries Department laid the complaint. This is a warning to persons shooting game out of season. The season commences on the 5th of November and ends on the 20th.

New Law For Dogs.

The act respecting dog tax and sheep protection, which comes into force on April 1st next, makes it compulsory for all owners of dogs to procure numbered tags, to be supplied by the council, and for killing dogs without tags. The minimum penalty for not procuring a tag is $10. County councils are authorized to pass by-laws requiring all dog tax and license fees collected after 1920 to be paid to the county treasurer and form a sheep protection fund, all claims to be paid by the county, for which purpose valuers are to be appointed. Sheep are certainly of more value to any community than dogs and ought to be protected.

EDISON'S NEW DIAMOND AMBEROLA

The World's Greatest Phonograph Value

THINK of the vast difference between Edison's Amberola and ordinary phonographs or "talking machines". The Amberola is the product of matchless inventive genius—of inspiration. Other phonographs are plain, factory-made machines, devoid of inspiration.

Thomas A. Edison's master mind conceived the Amberola to entertain mankind. Commercial phonographs are put together with just one object in view—to sell at so much profit.

No wonder the Amberola has demonstrated its superiority time and again in public comparative tests with "talking machines" and commercial phonographs.

The marvelous tone of the Amberola—the permanent, genuine Diamond Point Reproducer (no needles to change)—the practically unbreakable, everlasting Amberol Records—all reveal the genius of Edison. And the surprising, low cost of the Amberola puts high-priced "talking machines" and commercial phonographs to shame.

Let us show you how easy it is for anyone to own an Amberola. Call at our store or write to us in the next few days. Even if you are convinced you cannot afford an Amberola, put it up to us to make it possible. So remember—call or write—soon.

Selling Skill

"When a man sells anything that he farms he sells a three-fold commodity—material, labor, skill, and the strength of the old sun.

"I know a man who in 1888 had 32 bushels to the acre, weighing 66 pounds, whereas his neighbor had 19 on better land, and this vast difference is traceable to the fact that his neighbor did not put skill into the soil. When a man sells hogs that weigh 250 pounds at 12 months of age, he is not putting skill into the business. The hogs have boarded on him too long. If a man keeps a wrong kind of a hog whose main occupation is to move around the front yard and furnish music for the family at dinner time, he is not selling skill that way; he is trying to sell equal, and equal is unmarketable.

"It is very much harder to sell skill than to sell material, but only the thing that are hard to do are worth doing, so every man in dairy farming who sells skill through these avenues will not only benefit his land and enrich his pocket, but he will make himself a more skillful man, and the man who sells that thru dairying will have the highest reward." Dr. J. W. Robertson.

It is estimated that from sixty to seventy-five thousand men are idle in Detroit, and Mayer Couzens issued an open letter to the Board of Commerce and all employers of labor urging on them a rationing of work wherever possible, with the purpose of keeping in Detroit its great body of skilled workmen, many of whom are now unemployed. This rationing is necessary if the city and its industries are to be prepared to enter full production again as soon as the present period of re-adjustment is over.

While the Sarnia Customs authorities were waiting word from Ottawa as to what they are to do in regard to sugar entering Canada, Sarnia housewives on Thursday brought hundreds of dollars' worth of sugar over the St. Clair river from Port Huron, entering the home port unmolested by the powers that be, and all the while sugar was selling at 11 cents a pound across the river, while in Sarnia the price ranged from 22c per pound upward.

A case of unprecedented foulness occurred at Point Edward near Sarnia, on Saturday night, Oct. 16th, when Dorothy, the ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Buchanan was strangled to death after being maltreated in a most horrible manner by an unknown assailant at Bayview Park. She was seated in the bridge waiting for her "Daddy," an anxious and expectant little figure, as he had promised to bring her a new pair of shoes. Her body was found in the marshy waters of the bay about two hours after she was last seen. There was every evidence of a dastardly assault having been committed.

No Coal at Shelburne

A despatch from Shelburne throws some discouragement on the alleged coal discoveries there. The despatch does not give any authority for the statement. Here is what it says:—

The great Shelburne coal discovery turns out to be a mistake on the part of too sanguine coal prospectors. The black rock which was taken to be coal is now stated to be fluospar and hornblende. It looks like coal but lacks one essential quality, it won't burn. The rock formation on one farm upon which "discories" were made shows samples of both deposits, but it is a formation which precludes any possibility of coal. Investigations were made by Government officials and by Mr. H. A. Harrington, Ontario Fuel Controller and these gentlemen are satisfied that there is no coal in the vicinity. A report has been made to the Government.

Burglars Operating in Durham

Durham is not without its petty burglars and of late they have been operating with a very small measure of success. On Thursday last McFarlane's Drug Store was entered by a rear window leading to the upstairs, admittance having been gained by the removal of a pane of glass. A few cigars and other articles were taken. On Saturday night again, another attempt was made, and a few other articles taken away. They were evidently after booze, and carried away a full gin bottle. To their chagrin however, there was only water in the bottle, the same water that was there some time ago when Mr. McFarlane got it from the railroad. In transportation here it had been emptied and refilled with water. Only three or four six-ounce prescriptions were on the premises at the time, and the find was not very satisfying to the thirsty midnight artists. On Saturday night, also, the Grand Trunk station was entered and a leg of beer stolen. More may be heard of this later, but in the meantime we shall say nothing.—Chronicle.

Miss Pollock Gets Suspended Sentence

Following the decision of the Court at Toronto which confirmed the judgement of Judge Dickson convicting Miss Maggie Pollock on the charge of practising an occult science, Miss Pollock appeared before the Judge on Tuesday for sentence. His Honor admonished her that the practice must cease and bound her over in bonds of $200 from herself and from her brother to refrain from pretensions of occult power and from practising the occult science. She may go as far as stating that it is her opinion that an article may be found in a certain place, but this must be the limit. She must not pretend that she has any supernatural power which gives her knowledge of the location of such articles. Should she be found guilty of practising again she may be sentenced both for the new offence and for the old, but in the meantime sentence is suspended.

The case is one that has attracted a wide attention. Miss Pollock, whose home is in the neighborhood of Blyth, believes that she is possessed of supernatural powers, and that her "God-given gift" should be exercised for the good of humanity. Some wonderful instances have been quoted of her uncanny faculty of locating missing articles without having any fore-knowledge of the circumstances. It was her effort to locate some articles believed to have been stolen which led to her being brought before the county judge. Miss Pollock says she has had since childhood the power of seeing "spirits" and for some time she did not know that the power was at all peculiar to herself, thinking it was a perfectly natural thing, common to all people. Later she discovered that she was different from other people in this respect, and for years she quietly employed her strange faculty, at the request of her neighbors or others who came to her to solve their difficulties.

Miss Pollock believes she should exercise her power for the good of humanity, and she set forth her views on the matter in a beautifully worded and written letter to His Honor Judge Dickson, some time ago.

"The Bloomin' Old Rag Overhead"

A SMALL Union Jack rippled amid the tree tops. There seemed something quaint about it, a grey, won't-be-downhearted spirit, when you heard its history. A doctor at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives was talking. "The sad thing is, it's a young people, eager, hard-working boys and girls, T.B. attacks usually—those who make the best Canadians, because they're ambitious. See that flag? The fellows in that pavilion were determined to have a flag. Each contributed the little he could. They got the flag, but, poor chaps, they're disappointed—it's so tiny." Yes, tiny up among the towering pines, but defiantly proclaiming "What we have we'll hold." And in the cots beneath, lads, weak and ill, but battling for health, lads whose precious pennies bought "the rag overhead," are echoing its dauntless spirit. "What life we have we'll hold." Lads worth saving surely! Contributions may be sent to Sir William Gage, 24 Spadina Avenue, Toronto, or to Geo. A. Reid, Treasurer, 223 College Street, Toronto.

United States Attorney D. J. Gallagher, who is investigating alleged profiteering by hotel and restaurant keepers, said that he had been informed that one hotel in Boston, Mass., was charging $1.70 for "two whole tomatoes with skins removed."

Women of Canada Who Testify

Tillsonburg, Ont.—"Ever since I can remember, Dr. Pierce's medicines were used in our family at home and they never failed to give good results. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' was used as a tonic and blood purifier and for bronchial trouble, and it proved excellent. I have personally taken 'Golden Medical Discovery' for bronchial trouble, and the 'Favorite Prescription' to build me up when I was run-down and they both were very beneficial. Mother always used Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed for pain; it also was very good. I feel safe in recommending all of Dr. Pierce's medicines knowing them to be good."—MRS. CLIFFORD MITCHELL.

Central Butte, Sask.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery for a number of years and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal, as I used it for my boy for tuberculosis of the knee joint. My neighbors and friends were surprised with the results; in fact, I do not think he would be alive today had it not been for the 'Medical Discovery'. I also keep it on hand for coughs as it differs so from other cough medicines, instead of upsetting the stomach as most cough syrups do it is good for the stomach. I only wish I had known about Dr. Pierce's medicines sooner."—MRS. PERCY WOOD.

When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the earth. Still more, you get a temperance medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that his remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines.

The Making of 'Val' Pierce

By CONRAD RICHTER.

IV. "It's your mountain as well as mine," assured Val, smiling inanely with relief.

The boy approached with a simplicity that Val instantly liked. "I generally come over here from the path evenings," he explained shyly. "I like to look at North mountain. That's her up there." His basket indicated the towering wedge-shaped mass. "They say from the top you can see Williamsport. I'm going to Williamsport some day." His eyes were fixed on the mountain as if reflected in its crest he could see his city of dreams. "Listen!" he said suddenly. "Hear that?"

Val listened intently and made out the faint baying of a hound in the valley below.

"That's George!" said the boy proudly. "The best rabbit dog in any of these valleys. He can chase fox or coon just as easy. I wouldn't be scared to take him along for squirrel or turkey. I'm going to miss him a lot when I go to college."

Val glanced at the boy with renewed respect. "Good idea, college. Going to be a doctor or a lawyer?"

"Business college," explained Davey proudly. "I'm going to get a job in some good business, and then work till I own it myself, so I can get nice things for Ma and Mol."

Val said nothing. He felt instinctively the contrast between himself and this likable youth, who with steady faith was setting his face toward a city job that could not hold a fraction of the promise of the one that he had spurned.

"Mister," he heard the boy say shyly. "I'll have to be going now. I was wondering if you'd like to come down for the night at my place. Ma's not going to have anything special for supper, just fried rabbit, potatoes and huckleberry preserves. But Mr. Jones said you used to run an automobile in one of the big cities. I thought maybe you wouldn't mind to tell us about it. We've never been any place much but Rockville."

The wistful invitation touched Val uncommonly. He felt drawn toward this lonely valley home with its fire-side and mother. His mouth watered at the thought of a family tablecloth laden with home-cooked food.

"You're sure it'll be all right?" he questioned doubtfully.

"Ma said I was to try to bring you, long ago," answered the boy, "but I didn't get an excuse to ask before."

Together they went down the gradual north side of Sunset mountain, following a deep ravine wooded with dense hemlocks and carpeted with moss and fern, a primeval wilderness of dim recesses, brown rotting logs, huge wet boulders and thick copes of painted bramble. Twice grouses started Val with their abrupt roaring flight, and once a young buck, with velvet horns barely showing, stood aquivering in the path ahead as they came around the bend, only to leap the next moment like a jackknife into a thicket of birch and witch hazel.

As they broke out into the welcome light of the cleared land George came bounding to meet them, a mixed fox-hound and a beagle, white, black and tan, loosening his tongue in surprisingly mellow music.

"Ma calls him my supper bell," said Davey, bending to fondle the long silk ears.

As they approached the log house, painstakingly whitewashed, its porch covered with flame-colored Virginia creeper, a figure appeared, then suddenly popped inside.

"That was Mol," said Davey, grinning. "Bet she was excited when she saw somebody was with me."

Val felt the simple pride of the boy in bringing him to his remote dwelling, and it ineffably warmed him. Davey held the home-made screen door open for him to enter. A gray-haired woman in a faded dark dress rose guiltily from the floor beside the stove.

"Don't bother with that, Ma," said Davey. "This is Mr. Jim Barth. He won't mind a little dirt aside the wood box."

"Mr. James, David," reproved his mother, bowing to Val with the same shyness that was characteristic of Davey.

"Where's Mol?" demanded the latter exuberantly. Then at his mother's reply, "She's fixing up, I bet. That's what she is! Wait till she comes down!"

"Davey!" protested his mother gently. A door opened and a slight feminine form entered. The twilight was too thin for final judgment, but Val was immediately interested.

"Let's have some light," jeered the boy, "and see how you dressed up!"

"Davey!" The girlish voice was exasperated. "If you light the lamp I'll make you wish you hadn't, after—"

"Guess I hadn't better," grinned the boy, then to Val proudly, "This is Mol I told you about."

"Molly, David," corrected his mother.

"Molly, then," agreed the boy. His eyes danced at Val. "You got to watch out what you say to her. She can fight like a catamount. She picked over 200 quart of huckleberries this summer and sold them through the gap over in Smoke valley. She can even lick me."

"That isn't very much," said his sister, both disdainful and blushing. She offered her hand to Val in a shy uncertain gesture hardly to be expected of a mountain berry-picking Amazon. Her form was slim, but sturdy and well knit. In the dusk her eyes seemed alive with light and the features fair. Later, when the paper-shaded oil lamp was lighted, Val looked across the platter of browned rabbit, the pyramid of steaming fried potatoes and the sliced pile of flaky home-made bread and saw an evenly tanned skin, a glimpse of soft dark hair and a face which, except for a scarcity of freckles, resembled Davey's own.

That evening they popped corn on a blue hickory fire. Later, as they plucked the white crisps, buttered, sugared and salted, in hungry handfuls from a deep yellow bowl, Val answered questions about the city, its trolley cars and automobiles, its apartment houses and bathrooms, its department stores, its office buildings and elevators, its water, food, prices and smoke, and its millionaires. That night he lay down beside Davey under the sloping redolent roof. Husked corn and blue mountain tea hung overhead from the rafters. Through the open window came the scent of apples on the ground and yellowing forest leaves.

He lay quiet without sleep for a long time. He felt now like a leopard in a shepherd's cottage. His body seemed to burn the mark of Cain into the blankets and pillow wherever he touched them. Only toward morning was he mercifully permitted to fall asleep.

Next morning the trio of Davey, Mol and George showed him the log barn, the boy's beloved collection of rusty-jawed traps, the extent of the cleared land, the iron spring and finally the half mile of their mother's swamp land.

"This is great!" Val exclaimed, lookin up in genuine admiration at the virgin timber, deep-girted, lofty-limbed, forming massive columns, roof and rafters of an incomparable cathedral.

"Daddy place for coons, I tell you!" said Davey.

"With this," declared Val, "you and Miss Molly both ought to go to college."

The girl's face lighted up with startled eagerness, but Davey shook his head.

"Saule and Saule, of Rockville, offered Ma forty dollars." "Forty dollars!" repeated Val in anger.

"They know we can't sell it to anybody else on account of the mountains," said Davey simply. "They own most of the timber around here. They're going to put a narrow gauge in from White Springs some day." (Continued in next issue.)

Buying Food Wisely

High prices for food still hang like a bank of clouds over the housekeeper, but rifts in the clouds are beginning to appear. The first improvement in the situation is the fact that some articles of food—potatoes, for example—are less expensive than they were last year at this time. The second rift is a very small one: the average family expenditure for food has decreased in many places, although in some it has increased.

The third rift, and the real silver lining to the clouds, is the fact that many women have become eager to learn more about foods, since the advantages of buying wisely have made it worth while. To feed her family as well as she fed them in the past, without spending much more, means that the housekeeper must know what she is doing. One who understands what foods are worth in nutritive value can often substitute something cheaper for something more expensive. Even seven per cent. more knowledge will counterbalance seven per cent. of increased cost.

If the shopping list of foods is arranged in the form of food groups, and the quantity that is needed of each group is taken as a general guide, a good beginning will have been made toward adjusting the family table to changed food costs. So long as each group is represented every day by the right amount, and so long as there is a reasonable variety, it makes little difference what members of the group are chosen.

Food Groups

1. Vegetables and Fruits—Vegetables and fruits differ somewhat among themselves. Some contain more iron, some more lime, some are more laxative than others, and so it is well to have a variety; but in general they are interchangeable in the diet and may be chosen according to cost. Some of the leafy vegetables, such as spinach or other greens, cabbage and lettuce, should be included two or three times a week. So far as possible fresh fruits and vegetables should be used, but canned fruits and vegetables are far better than none. Dried fruit can be used in place of part of the fresh fruit. One pound of dried fruit should be reckoned as equal to six pounds of fresh fruit.

The average adult needs about two and one-half pounds of vegetables or fruit a day, but he can use much more with safety and usually with benefit.

2. The Milk and Meat Group—"Let no family buy meat until it has bought for five persons three quarts of milk a day," is the saying of a wise man. Of course it must be interpreted according to the respective ages of the family, but even the adult should use from one quart to one-third of a quart of milk a day.

There is no substitute for milk. Meat, fish, eggs, cheese, dried beans and peas, and peanuts, the other chief members of this group, like the vegetables and fruits, are more or less interchangeable. A certain number of eggs are needed to insure enough iron; indeed, eggs are sometimes classed with milk and leafy vegetables as protective foods, because if one uses all three of them freely there is little danger that any necessary element will be lacking in the food. Cheese is especially valuable for its lime salts.

There is little difference in the food value of the different meats, except in the amount of fat they contain, and for the healthy adult one may be used as well as another; or fish may be used instead. Indeed, meat is not necessary at all. Milk, cheese, eggs, beans and nuts will supply everything needed from this group, so far as health is concerned; but meat adds flavor, and every housekeeper knows that if some of it is used it is easier to provide an acceptable menu.

Too much of the family money usually goes for the foods of this group, because the quantities that are bought are too large. Besides milk, five-eighths of a pound a day is enough for an adult, and for every additional cup of milk one-eighth of a pound less of others of the group can be used.

3. The Cereal Group includes the grains and their products—wheat, bread, macaroni; corn meal and hominy; oatmeal, rice, barley, rye. Here, again, each one of the members differs a little from the others, some containing a little more starch, some a little more fat, some a little more protein; but there is so little difference that one can be substituted for another, especially if there is variety from time to time. The whole grains should be used when for any reason there is not an abundance of vegetables, fruits and milk.

Cereals are the least expensive of our foods. The more cereal food the meals contain the cheaper they will be, although too much makes an unattractive diet. Ten ounces a day is a fair amount. As little as six ounces may be used, or as much as sixteen. That means dry cereal; one pound of bread counts as three-quarters of a pound.

4. The Sugar Group, besides sugar, candy, molasses, syrups and honey, includes cakes, cookies and sweet dried fruits, such as raisins and dates. All the sugar that the body really needs could probably be obtained from fruits and vegetables; but because we use it for flavor, sugar has become a necessary to most people. From this group a quarter of a pound a day or less is enough for one person.

5. Fats—In this group belong bacon, salt pork, chocolate and the more oily nuts, as well as butter, cream, the margarines, the vegetable oils and lard. Butter has certain advantages over the margarines besides that of flavor; but if enough whole milk is used, the cheaper fats can be substituted. Three ounces of butter or its equivalent a day is enough for one person.

A sixth group may be made of tea, coffee, spices, flavoring extracts, baking powder and the other food adjuncts that have no nutritive value, but that are used to make foods more palatable. Tradition and prejudice frequently lead housekeepers to buy the more expensive qualities of articles in this group when the cheaper qualities would do just as well.

The woman who plans her meals and does her buying with the aid of such a list, arranged according to groups, can check up prices and, noticing when any foods fall in price, can buy them in place of more expensive things in the same group without being afraid that she is making a serious mistake. That is not, of course, the whole secret of careful buying; for a housekeeper may have bought so unwisely in the past that it will be cheaper for her to-day to buy some food the price of which is rising than to continue to buy those varieties that even at a low price give a small return for the money.

For the Business Girl

Let me give you a few suggestions which I have learned from my own experience and from my observation of others. Write the gist of them in the cover of your note-book, or anywhere you'll be sure to see them every day, and learn to apply them. For in the daily practice of these suggestions lies the secret of pleasing and satisfying your employer—and of winning that increase in pay.

First, make yourself attractive—both in appearance and personality. First impressions are bound to greatly influence your employer's opinion of you, and the girl who is simply and attractively dressed, and whose hair is neatly arranged, has scored an important point at the start. I have heard men say, "She doesn't look as if she had rubbed her hair for a week." Remember, too, that your hands and nails should be absolutely clean, but don't polish your nails too highly. Somehow, if a girl's appearance shows care and neatness, the thought follows that her work will display these traits, too.

If the first impression is created by your appearance, the next is created by your personality. That's a broad word and includes a good many things, every one of which is very important. For instance, no matter how attractive a girl may be in appearance, what would your impression be if she gave you the tips of two or three very limp fingers as you tried to shake hands with her, if she spoke so indistinctly you couldn't understand her, and giggled nervously throughout the interview? You wouldn't care about working with her day after day—would you? And it is a fact that, in spite of the importance of technical skill in shorthand and typewriting, the expression of a pleasing personality is of even greater importance. I have often heard business men say something like this, "I need an assistant who has horse sense—who knows how to use her brains—who can see what needs to be done and can do it without being told."

Washing Dainty Lace

When washing tatted, baste it on a Turkish towel, wash and leave until dry. Lace may be wound around a glass jar or bottle filled with hot water and left to dry. Crocheted edges always look better if pulled into shape instead of ironed. If the pattern is an intricate one with pointed edges, it may be stretched and pinned to the cover of the board or to a towel.

Washable lace yokes on unwashable dress may be easily cleaned by placing a folded towel under the yoke and applying a thick lather of white soap, using a soft brush and scrubbing gently, then rinsing in several waters applied with a cloth.

Wise Men Say

That luck and work are twins. That a hot temper will make others cool towards you. That the way to carry a stiff load is to have a stiff upper lip. That wisdom is the adaptation of what you have to what you need. That there are no means of escape from the cells of a guilty conscience. That initiative consists in doing the right thing without being told. That a sour disposition doesn't make for either good digestion or success. That the man worth while is the man who can smile when everything goes wrong. That poverty is the best foundation on which to start to build a successful career.

Proper Place For It

Tommy's parents were very strict. The walls of the nursery were covered with framed mottoes and the cane was kept behind the one reading "Love One Another."

One day everything went wrong and Tommy was whipped no less than six times. "Papa," he said, between his sobs, "d-don't you think it's t-time to take the c-cane from behind 'Love One Another' and put it back of 'I Need Thee Every Hour'?"

Sickly Streams

"Rivers," said the American, "why your rivers are nothing to ours. Compared with our Hudson and Mississippi your Mersey, Severn and Thames are sleepy, sickly streams."

"Oh, come!" protested the Englishman. "I think your rivers are just as sickly as ours."

"How do you make that out?" "Well, they are all confined to their beds," replied the visitor.

Lantic Sugar

Last call for fall fruits Do not miss your chance to pre-serve these last sun-ripened gifts of summertime. How your folks will enjoy them, and how pleased you will be to serve them when canned goods made with top-priced sugar are out of reach. The time for preserving foresight is when the fruit is still in season.

Lantic is your best friend in retaining the rare bouquet of luscious plums and peaches, of delicately-flavoured pears. Its tiny, snow-white crystals of purest cane dissolve so quickly into syrup of concentrated sweetness, that you can smile at the old-time caution "Let it simmer until the sugar is all dissolved"—because it's FINE.

Fruit will retain its natural form and colour because over-cooking is unnecessary. Lantic WILL go further, and so costs less.

RHEUMATIC PEOPLE

Can Only Find Relief by Enriching the Blood.

Rheumatism is a disorder of the blood. It attacks people when the blood is overcharged with acid and impurities, thus setting up inflammation in the muscles and joints. Wet weather or cold weather may start the tortures of rheumatism, but is not the cause. The cause is in the blood and the blood only. Victims of this malady have every reason to fear the first dull ache in the limbs and joints, followed by sharp pains through the flesh and muscles; these are the symptoms of poison in the blood which will shortly leave the victim racked and helpless.

There is only one way to cure rheumatism, and that is through the blood. Liniments, hot applications, and rubbing may give temporary ease, but cannot possibly root the trouble out of the system. That can only be done by the rich, red blood which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make. This new blood drives out the poisonous acids and impurities, and the rheumatism disappears. If you are a sufferer from this painful malady begin the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see how soon the pains and stiffness of the joints fade away, leaving behind new energy and new health.

Stealing the Judge's Watch.

A gentleman once fell asleep on a train from Bournemouth to London. When he arrived at Vauxhall he found that his watch and chain were gone. The complications that followed make an interesting story, which Montagu Williams tells in his book, Leaves of a Life. The gentleman's sole companion in the carriage was busily engaged reading a newspaper.

"Has anyone entered this compartment while I have been asleep?" asked the gentleman, turning to him.
"No," was the answer.
"Then, sir, I must request you to tell me what you have done with my watch."
The other traveller protested his innocence and said he had seen no watch and that he knew nothing about the matter. When the train arrived at its destination the suspected man was taken to the police court, where a charge was laid against him before Sir James Ingham. He was remanded until the next day.

Greatest Amber Mine in the World

The only important amber mine in the world is at Palmnicken, in East Prussia. Out of it is dug a bluish earth, which is mixed with flowing water to separate out the chunks of amber plentifully distributed through it.
Ages ago the plains in that part of the world were covered with forests of a kind of pine, now long extinct. The trees were rich producers of a gum which ran down their trunks, solidified in masses and remained imperishable while the trees themselves decayed and turned to dust.
This gum, now fossil, is what we call amber. Much of it is carried by rivers, with the soil containing it, into the Baltic Sea, the bottom of which today is so thickly strewn with the stuff that steamers go after it with dredges and divers make a business of collecting it. Quantities of it are thrown up on the seashore by every big storm.
In the Middle Ages amber was more highly valued than gold, and the one-pronged forks used by princes and church dignitaries were commonly of mistakes, I may mention, as an extraordinary coincidence, that I myself have only this morning been guilty of precisely the same oversight as the one in question. I was under the impression when I left my house at Kensington that I put my watch into my pocket, but on arriving at this court I found that I must have left it at home by mistake.

When the business of the court was over, Sir James Ingham wended his way home. On entering his drawing room, he met one of his daughters, who exclaimed, "I suppose you got your watch all right?"
"Well, my dear," replied the chief magistrate, "as a matter of fact, I went out this morning without it."
"Yes, I know, papa," his daughter replied, "but I gave it to the man from Bow Street who called for it."
There had been an old thief at the back of the room who heard Sir James giving his experience. He had slipped out, taken a hansom and driven to Sir James Ingham's residence, and, representing himself to be a bona fide messenger, obtained the valuable watch, which was never heard of again.

Launch and Beach Lifeboat With Aid of Tractor.

Not content with its many achievements ashore, the gasoline tractor, of agricultural fame, now has entered the marine field. At Hunstanton, England, a machine of the endless-tread type is being used to great advantage for running a lifeboat into and out of the sea. Instead of a cable, a 40-ft. spar is used as a coupling between the tractor and the wheeled cradle that carries the boat, so that pushing is as effective as pulling.

GUARD THE CHILDREN FROM AUTUMN COLDS

The Fall is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day is warm, the next cold and wet and unless the mother is on her guard, the little ones are seized with colds that may hang on all winter. Baby's Own Tablets are mothers' best friend in preventing or banishing colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach free and sweet. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent colds, or if it does come on suddenly their prompt use will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Causes Run in Parallel Lines.

The great cause of fire, and the great cause of disease is the same. Care and cleanliness are the antidote for fire, as well as the antidote for disease.

The world helps people along in the direction in which they are tending. When a man begins to go downhill everybody is ready to give him a kick; but when a man is pushing his way up everybody is ready to give him a boost. The Giant.

By Charles Mackay
(Charles Mackay (1814-1889) was a famous Scottish poet and journalist. He was New York correspondent of the London Times during the Civil War. He was the author of a number of poems that will have an eternal place in English literature.)

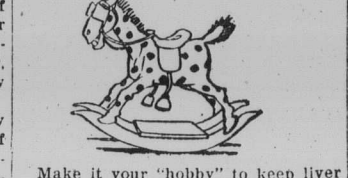

There came a Giant to my door—
A Giant, fierce and strong;
His step was heavy on the floor.
His arms were ten yards long.
He scowled and frowned; he shook
the ground;
I trembled through and through;
At length I looked him in the face
And cried, "Who cares for you?"
The mighty Giant, as I spoke,
Grew pale and thin and small,
And through his body, as 'twere
skies,
I saw the sunshine fall.
His blood-red eyes turned blue as slakes;
"Is this," I cried with growing pride,
"Is this the mighty foe?"
He sank before my earnest face,
He vanished quite away,
And left no shadow in his place
Between me and the day.
Such Giants come to strike us dumb,
But, weak in every part,
They melt before the strong man's eyes
And fly the true of heart.

Battery, Bell, and Button Combined in One Case.

Arguing that the dry battery of a household doorbell system dies finally of chemical action, and not exhaustion, really supplying very little current, an American concern now has brought out a bell using tiny flashlight batteries. One of these, in two or three-cell size, is contained in the round metal base of the bell itself, making a compact set of ornamental appearance. A button on the base makes the set self-contained for desk use, while as a door-bell, the regular button is connected to posts on the base, no other wiring being necessary.

CASCARETS

"They Work while you Sleep"

The Secret of Success.

The distinguishing trait of every great soul is his ability to get on his feet every time he falls, to stand erect and face the foe under the fiercest fire. Strong men who do big things for civilization, who help the world go forward, are always trampling upon obstacles, accomplishing "impossibilities"—doing things that everyone said couldn't be done.

The men who have blessed mankind by their great discoveries and inventions have had to labor incessantly against all sorts of obstacles; to begin all over again and again after failure in order to perfect their work. And in the past their inventions had to fight their way to recognition, often against the opposition of the most progressive men of their time.
Even in our own times, with the aid of all modern facilities, not one has yet discovered a royal road to success. While the world is more hospitable to new ideas than in the past, it is only by continued effort, by refusing to surrender to obstacles, by beginning again and again after every defeat and pressing on with renewed vigor that we can hope to reach our goal.

Golf at Sea.

The Cunard liner Aquitania owns a golf-course on board, and recently a number of well-known players competed thereon for the "Championship of the Atlantic."
The game was in progress while the vessel ploughed her way through mid-ocean, and drives were made out to sea. Unfortunately for the competitors, owing to water-splash, the judges were unable definitely to determine the length of the players' respective shots.

It only remains, therefore, for someone to devise a really practicable way for golfing enthusiasts to pursue their favorite pastime on board ship to tempt them for ever from the land.
A sister ship of the Aquitania, the Imperator, has also provided a new peace-time innovation for the interest and pleasure of guests. She is the first vessel to carry a conservatory that may vie with many at Kew Gardens for honors in horticulture.
A ship's purpose of tending this conservatory, and fresh-cut flowers will be on sale to passengers during the voyage. The palms and other plants aboard will also receive attention from this expert.
His opinion is that, of all flowers or plants, hydrangeas are the best sailors and resist variations in sea temperature better than most other blossoms.

Value of First Impressions.

A salesman calling to see a woman regarding an important deal, kicked a dog as it came up to him when he approached the house. The salesman could not account for the coldness with which the woman received him until it dawned on him that, possibly, she might have seen him kick the dog; so he tried to explain away the unfortunate affair by telling her that her dog tried to bite him when he came in.
"Mr. Blank," she replied, "my dog never bites at anyone." Notwithstanding that he tried all sorts of arguments and inducements to close the deal, the salesman was unsuccessful. He had made a bad first impression on the woman that he could not overcome. To win people's favor we must reach their hearts, and we can't accomplish this by doing anything which makes a bad impression on them.

Frederick was sitting on the curb, crying, when Billy came along and asked him what was the matter.
"Oh, I feel so bad 'cause Major's dead—my nice old collier!" sobbed Frederick.
"Shucks!" said Billy. "My grandmother's been dead a week, and you don't catch me crying."
Frederick gave his eyes and nose a swipe with his hand and, looking up at Billy, sobbed, despairingly:
"Yes, but you didn't raise your grandmother from a pup."

WALKERTON

LIVE STOCK MARKETS
TORONTO.

With around 5000 cattle on sale Monday at the Union Yards trade generally was very dull, and the quality mostly inferior, tho some good loads were sold, as the prices will indicate. The market generally was no higher than last week, and some of the buyers were of the opinion that the better class of butchers were from 15 to 25c stronger.

There was a fair inquiry for good and choice butcher cattle and breezy feeding cattle to go back to the country. Other classes were generally slow and lower. Choice butcher cows sold well, as there was a fair to good demand for this class of cattle.

Sheep and lambs—The lamb market made a quick come-back from last week, when the general price was 11 1/2c, and Monday sold a dollar higher, the bulk of the lambs selling at 12 1/2c a lb. They did not all bring that, but the bulk of the sales were made at that price.

The sheep market was up a dollar too, selling at $8 for some of the handpicked lots, but there was a wide range on the sheep, according to quality, say from 6 1/2 to 7 1/2c a lb, with the top at 8c. Heavy sheep sold from 5 1/2 to 6c.

Hog Prices—The hog prices of course held steady with last week, but the outlook is for lower quotations for the balance of the week, the packer buyers quoting 17c to the farmer, 17c f.o.b., and 18c fed and watered.

MOLTKE.

Mr. Adam Lantz who has spent a few weeks in Saskatchewan returned home. Edwin Lantz who accompanied him is staying with his brother, Eugene during the winter.

Mr. John Bieman, who was operated last week for eye trouble, is able to be up again.

Mrs. Louis H. Schaus, who was operated on at the Walkerton hospital, is recovering nicely.

Mr. August Lantz has purchased his father's farm here. Mr. Henry Lantz will hold an auction sale in the near future.

Miss Laura Kroeller is spending a week with John Ruhl's.

Mr. A. Weigel and family spent Sunday in Clifford.

Mrs. George Filsinger returned to her home here, after spending the past three weeks in New York. Mrs. William Filsinger sr., who has been residing in New York for the past few years, accompanied her and will spend the winter with her sons here.

HUNTINGFIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Renwick and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Renwick of Lucknow, attended the big plowing match at Hamilton last week. Mr. Albert Haskins came up from Hamilton with them, and is visiting his father, who is still very ill.

Mr. N. McNeil, the Belmore blacksmith, has been seriously ill with pleurisy for some time, but is now reported to be recovering.

Our enterprising neighbor, Mr. James Kemp, has purchased a Fordson tractor from the Mildmay agents, and will make good use of it on his farms here.
