May Play Games Here.
The Moltke Baseball club, which was re-organized this week, is negotiating for the use of the Mildmay Park for their league games this season. They have entered the North Wellington Baseball League, and will be grouped with Hanover, Neustadt and Clifford. Mildmay will be pleased to have our neighbors play their games here.

Choice Bunch of Cattle.
Messrs. John and William Vollick brought out a bunch of twenty-one cattle last Saturday for shipment to Toronto, that for quality and finish excelled anything seen here for years. Vollick Bros. are splendid feeders, and this year's output was better than usual. Mr. John Vollick went to Toronto with the cattle and looked after their sale, and although they sold at the top prices, they were not great money-makers, as they were bought last year when the prices were much higher. The 21 cattle averaged 1360 lbs.

FORMOSA.

Married at Gull Lake, Sask., on April 5th, Miss Eulalia Kuhry, daughter of the late Peter Kuhry, of Formosa, to Mr. Eugene Beingsner, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Beingsner of Formosa. The young couple will reside in Calgary, Alta.

A runaway occurred to Emil Meyer mail courier over Mildmay No. 1, last Saturday. Mr. Meyer was serving his mail route between Formosa and Greenock post offices, when near John J. Waechter's place, the horse suddenly bolted and made a dash for his stable in Formosa. No injury or damage was done.

The townline north of here was graded last week. Instead of having horses to supply power, Mr. Ed. Tiede had his tractor on the job, and the experiment proved a decided success.

Married in Formosa, on April 12th, Miss Louisa Halk to Mr. Oscar Reinhart of Waterloo. The young couple will reside on the groom's farm near Waterloo.

A number of our west end citizens are having their properties improved by erecting ornamental lawn fences in front of their residences.

The cold weather for the last four days was a set back for the early gardeners in our burg.

Mrs. Martin Meyer of Mildmay is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Fedy.

Mr. Greg. G. Beninger has bought a truck for use in his plumbing business.

The Welfare of the Home

Don't Say, "Stop That!" Without Saying "You May Do This."

By DOROTHY CANFIELD FISHER.

The grandmother who had brought up seven children to vigorous, happy and well-poised maturity dropped in to see her young daughter-in-law. She was greeted by the sound of sobs and howls from behind the closed door. The young mother explained, her face set hard, "Elsie has been naughty. She is being punished."

The grandmother sank into a chair, praying for wisdom. "I never punished one of mine in any such way in all my life," she advanced mildly, "and they never disobeyed me, either."

"Why, Mother Burton!" cried the young mother incredulously. "That's just impossible. What did you do when they didn't mind, when they acted as Elsie did just now? She was so naughty. You see that lovely set of Stevenson? I told her three separate times not to touch it, but she persisted in handling the backs of the books with her sticky little fingers. What else could anybody do but punish her?"

"Well," said the grandmother, "Let's consider this case. I always tried to put myself in the children's place and tried to imagine why it was they wanted to do what seemed naughty, what there was in it that attracted them. Let's look at that Stevenson set. Yes, isn't it a beauty, all red leather and gold lettering? Why I believe it's the bright coloring that fascinated Elsie. There's nothing wicked in liking pretty, bright things. She'd be a little dunce if she didn't. Why, if that had happened to me, I believe I'd have tried giving her something bright and shiny that she could play with."

"No, you don't understand Elsie," said the young mother, "that wouldn't work with her. It's stubbornness. You ought to have seen how angry she looked."

"Well, perhaps you got her 'mad' up," suggested the grandmother, gently.

The young mother gave a sceptical, impatient gesture, "You can try it and see for yourself."

The grandmother went quickly into the kitchen while the mother was unlocking the closet door, and by the time the sobbing, excited child had come out, she was back with an egg-beater and a bowl of soapy water.

Elsie looked blackly at her mother and marched straight toward the forbidden books. "You see," breathed the mother triumphantly.

"Elsie," called the grandmother brightly, "just see here what I've got. Mother says we may play with it, you and I. See, when you whirl the water beater around, how it makes the water all froth up. It's as good as beating eggs. Come over and try it."

The egg-beater's shiny blades shone clearly as they whirled about through the glistening, foaming suds. Elsie was too little to contain more than one idea at a time especially when one of the ideas was such a beautiful one. She ran to the bowl and began to try to turn the beater.

At first Granny had to hold the bowl steady, but in a moment the deft little fingers caught the trick, and whisk! how the suds foamed up! She beamed as she beat, absorbed, radiant, the little eyes blurred with tears brightening, the little, sullen, angry face softening to a smile. "It's lovely," she pronounced solemnly.

Granny and Mother began to talk about the weather and a new recipe for cookies. The crisis was past.

When Granny stood up to go, half an hour later, she remarked casually to Elsie, "Oh, say, dear, Mother just loves those pretty red and gold books down there. And we are afraid that if you touch them, you'll get them dirty. You'll try to remember about that, won't you? You wouldn't like Mother to spoil your things."

Elsie's small mind had gone a long distance since that episode of the books. To her it seemed as though a long time had passed. And she certainly cared nothing about them, now. She nodded peacefully, her eyes on the shining water. "Oh, I don't care anything about the books," she said, "when I've got this."

pounds of unbleached wood ashes to every thirty square feet. Rake this in to a depth of two inches when the seedbed is being prepared.

Distances apart of seeds in the row depend on the kind of crop. If they grow bushy, they need more room. Radish, leaf-lettuce, spinach and onion seeds should be drilled in, one-fourth to one-half inch deep; on-

...ice, boiled in sweet milk, a little salt, and in wet or cold weather a little cayenne pepper.

The young must not be raised on ground that was formerly occupied by chickens infested with gape-worms. Young turkeys seem to be ready subjects to vermin, especially head lice. If the hens are quiet, catch and treat them thoroughly while sitting. If the youngsters seem weak and listless two weeks old, the reason is usually gape. Anoint head, throat and vent with carbolated vaseline, and rub it in.

One-Third Acre of Strawberries.

Keep one-third of my one-acre garden in strawberries. Most growers get a new bed every other year for results; that is, harvest two crops then plow under the old bed. I use up my old bed with cultivator and hoe, fertilize with four spreaders of barnyard manure and prepare a third crop. I keep my patch in rows, mulching with two or three inches of straw when winter sets in. After freezing is over in spring I take off part of the straw and place between the rows. The plants readily come through an inch or an inch and one-half of straw. The straw makes clean berries and a clean path to follow while picking.

A year ago last summer I picked 100 quarts, scripture measure. These were at twenty-five cents a quart, and brought $575. Besides, we had what berries we needed for home use. That is better than any previous year. I plant both early and late varieties, such as Brandywine, which is a good early sort, and Williams and Glen Perry, which are later. This gives me a long season for picking.

It is wise economy to plant shelter-belts of evergreens, arbor-vitae, Norway spruce, and balsam fir, a portion of each with a sprinkling of other varieties to make a pleasant contrast.

Care of Seed Potatoes and Preparation for Planting.

Selection—In arranging for the seed supply of tubers for one's crop, the first steps should be taken during the growing season to get the seed from healthy, vigorous, large-yielding hills. When harvesting time comes these hills should be gathered separately from the rest of the crop. The tubers should be sun dried and all showing cuts, bruises or disease of any kind, thrown out. Such supply can then be kept for a seed area for the following season.

Where the main crop is destined for this seed trade, equally good care should be taken in the harvesting and sorting before going into winter storage. If the weather is bad at digging time, and the tubers have to be taken wet from the field, they should be spread out to dry on a barn floor or other airy place and be re-sorted before going into storage.

Storage—The best storage for maintaining vitality of seed tubers has not, so far as the writer is aware, been absolutely determined. Seed from a dry cellar with temperature running from 40 to 50 degrees has been equally vigorous with that from a moist cellar at a temperature of 34 to 38 degrees, though, of course, there would be great loss of bulk and weight in the former case. Potatoes kept in pits with excess of moisture and minimum of ventilation have also given vigorous plants.

When potatoes are first stored there should be free ventilation to carry off all latent heat and moisture and to reduce temperature to below 40 deg. If the floor of storage is very damp the bin had better be raised by a wooden floor. If it is dry there is nothing gained by the floor. If bins are very deep (over six feet) they had better be broken up by hollow partitions placed not more than ten feet apart; though the writer has seen potatoes keeping well in very large, deep bins.

The storage should be so constructed as to keep cool in the Spring. It should be possible to keep it below 40 degrees, to prevent sprouting until such time as the tubers are wanted.

Forced Sprouting—For an early crop, it is a common practice to take the seed tubers to a light room of about 60 degrees temperature by the 20th March, to give them four to six weeks to warm up and sprout. A thick green sprout not more than a half inch long is wanted. The exact gain in growth from this treatment has not been determined. In one trial at the Experimental Station, Fredericton, the difference in growth as between seed so treated and seed taken immediately from the cellar, was very slight. Plants from the sprouted seed were only from two to three days ahead of the others.

Disinfection—To kill any spores of common scab and, to some extent, Rhizoctonia, the potatoes should be treated with a disinfectant. The safest to use is formalin, at the rate of a pint to 30 gallons of water. The tubers are best bagged and then immersed for two hours.

Investigators are now trying out methods of disinfection whereby the use of heat and greater strength of solution will materially hasten the process of disinfection.

Cutting the Sets—Experiments have proven quite clearly that the most economical way to use seed is to cut to sets weighing not less than one ounce and not more than two ounces, with from two to three eyes to the set. Cutting by a machine or a cutting board may be economical in large commercial operations, but as when using these the size of sets and number of eyes cannot be well regulated nor elimination of internal disease carried out, the advantage of speed may not be good economy.

To make sure that no sets infected with Black Leg, Fusarium Wilt, Late Blight and other possible troubles are planted, the best procedure is, first to throw out all cut and bruised tubers, cut a thin slice off the stem end and then discard any tubers showing discoloration. Two knives should be used, one kept standing in a can of formalin solution; immediately a discolored potato is cut, the knife used should be put in the disinfectant and the other knife taken.

As the sets dry out quickly when cut and will heat if left in piles or barrels, they should be coated with dust. Gypsum, or land plaster, is one of the best materials to use, and if from two to four quarts is spread through the barrel of seed the sets will keep cool and firm without deterioration for days and even weeks. Air-slaked lime is frequently used and sometimes road dust and sulphur. Lime, if not thoroughly slaked, may injure the eyes and makes the set unpleasant to handle.

There is no dearth of kindness in this world of ours; only in our blindness we gather thorns for flowers.—Gerald Massey.

CONFERENCE OF GOVERNMENT AND STRIKERS HOLDS HOPE OF SETTLEMENT

British Coal Situation May be Alleviated if Government Proposals Are Accepted—Triple Alliance of Miners, Transport and Dock Workers May be Joined by Other Sections of Labor.

A despatch from London says:—"It is better to fight than surrender." This was the view expressed by high officials of the British Government on Thursday evening when they were asked whether any possibility remained of a compromise with the striking coal miners.

That seems to represent the attitude of the Government after the bootless conference on Thursday between Premier Lloyd George and the representatives of the Miners' Federation. The miners insisted that the Government and owners must agree to the establishment of a national wages board and the pooling of profits before the question of rates of wages could be taken up. They also took the position that they would not hinder the mines from flooding while negotiations were going on, holding such a proceeding would amount to helping the owners to fight the miners. This attitude was taken as practically a demand for surrender, not only by the owners but by the Government.

The Premier's mediation move with the object of reopening negotiations between the miners and the mine owners failed early in the day. He announced in the House of Commons Thursday night, however, the willingness of the Government to participate in a conference to discuss the question of pumping before other matters were considered.

Both the railroad and transport delegates have now formally decided to strike but the order has not yet been issued.

The mediation by the Government has disclosed the bitter, uncompromising spirit of the men's leaders and the equal determination of the Cabinet not to concede the demand of the miners that they have their pay kept up out of taxation, which the delegates now insist is an essential condition of the settlement. Textile workers, electricians and other important sections of labor are beginning to take up a position of solidarity with the miners.

National Debt is $2,311,294,443 Net

A despatch from Ottawa says:—During the fiscal year which ended on March 31 ordinary revenue of the Dominion exceeded ordinary expenditure by nearly ninety-four millions of dollars. Despite the decline in Customs and excise revenues, noticeable in the last few months, revenue for the twelve months period was $451,366,029.00, as compared with $380,832,507.00 in 1919-20. Ordinary expenditures in 1920-21 was $387,515,278 in comparison with an ordinary expenditure of $340,880,668 in 1919-20. In the month of March alone ordinary revenue was $32,449,819 in comparison with $53,100,204 in March, 1920. Ordinary expenditure was: March, 1921, $23,975,765; March, 1920, $31,219,097.

The net national debt (no credit being taken for non-active assets) now stands at $2,311,294,443.

O.A.C. Has First Woman Farmer Graduate

A despatch from Guelph says:—The first woman to be graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College will be Miss S. J. Chaso of Greenwich, N. S., who completes her course this year. This year's class is one of the largest ever graduated from the college, and includes a large percentage of returned soldiers. It is expected that 75 students will be graduated.

Offers of positions for fourth-year students are coming in gradually, and a number have been accepted. Salaries are good, although not so high as last year.

The students in the graduating class represent nearly every Province in the Dominion, as well as Scotland and South Africa.

CANADA'S CROPS INCLUDE OLIVES

Vancouver Island Also Produces Tea, Figs and Bamboo.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—That there are now being successfully grown in Vancouver Island, and for the first time in Canada, both tea and olives was the information given here at a meeting of local horticulturists by Hon. Dr. Tolmie, Federal Minister of Agriculture.

This year, too, on Vancouver Island there will be a good fig crop. Filbert and almond trees are in full bloom, and the bamboo crop is large enough to harvest for baskets and fishing poles.

"This is an astonishing statement to those without our borders who are prone to think of Canada as a land of snowbanks and wild country," he said.

Dr. Tolmie also thought it would be only a matter of time until Canada is able to buy its roses from Pacific coast growers and cities within her borders, rather than import stock trees from Great Britain, Ireland, and other countries.

Troublesome Ex-Kings.

They are trying to find a nice, quiet little place on the Spanish Peninsula for the revving Charles, who used to be emperor of Austria. Since his recent picturesque and colorful excursion into his old haunts, it appears that Switzerland is too near the Austrian border for the ambitious Charles. It is conceivable that he might be the spark that would set the smoldering Balkans aflame again.

While Europe has pretty well colonized the ex-royalties in two countries, Switzerland and Holland, they are causing much trouble. It is a dull day when some monarchist rumor fails to sweep over the Old World that a king or an emperor somewhere is going back to his people. The wood-chopper at Doorn looks eastward. Charles sneaked back across the frontier. Monarchist parties are formed and sometimes come into power, as in Greece. The return of Constantine was fuel on the fires of hope for many another exile.

These refugee royalties may appear humorous objects to the New World, but the Old World finds them otherwise. They are possibilities of trouble, potential leaders of causes. They must be guarded, fed and considered. No statesman or nation wants to make a martyr of one of them. They will be dangerous as long as they may live, and even unto the second and the third generations.

Canada's claim for reparation against Germany is $1,371,000,000, the chief items being: Cost of war and demobilization, $1,715,000,000; separation allowances, $85,000,000; Halifax losses, $30,000,000; army of occupation, $8,000,000; illegal warfare, $31,500,000.

KING EDWARD MEMORIAL ARCH
This beautiful arch was unveiled recently in Calcutta, India, in memory of the late King Edward VII. It was donated by King George V., and unveiled by the Duke of Connaught.

SWISS ALLOW THE RETURN OF CHARLES

After Unsuccessful Attempt to Regain Throne of Hungary.

A despatch from Lucerne, Switzerland, says:—Former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, domiciled here after his unsuccessful trip to Hungary in an effort to reclaim the Hungarian throne, is occupying with former Empress Zita, the same hotel suite that King Constantine and Queen Sophie of Greece lived in when they were in exile here. This suite is known locally as "The King's and Queen's Refuge."

The Swiss Government permitted the ex-ruler to return to Switzerland only on condition that he take part in no intrigues or propaganda measures. He is prohibited from giving interviews.

Charles strongly desires to remain in Switzerland, as does the ex-Empress, because of its healthfulness and the facilities it affords for the education of their children. Therefore, it is declared, there is no question as yet of their going to Spain.

India's Viceroy.

The Earl of Reading, now on his way to India to resume the responsibilities of the viceroyalty, takes up a white man's burden of the first magnitude; and it is fortunate for India that he does not regard it as the white man's burden alone.

The Government of India Act, passed in 1919, has not completely effected a "transition from a bureaucratic to a self-government system"; but it is a departure in that direction, and it cuts the ground from under native agitators, who prey upon the illiterate. This Act delegates to provincial governments large powers hitherto belonging to the central government. It gives to provincial councils the control of their own budgets. The franchise is granted to males with a certain modest qualification as property owners and taxpayers. This means that India has a voting list of about 5,000,000. That is not a large number out of a population of 315,000,000, but it is a good beginning.

The Duke of Connaught in February visited Delhi and inaugurated the new parliamentary regime. Lord Reading, as viceroy to succeed Chelmsford, is now to confirm and carry into effect the promises made by the duke and accepted by the ruling princes and by the legislators in behalf of the people of India. An impressive ceremony was that of the laying of the cornerstone of an Arch of Triumph to commemorate the sacrifice of 65,000 Indians who gave their lives and hundreds of thousands who were wounded in the war for the cause of the Allies.

Followers of Gandhi, the non-cooperationist leader, have been doing their best to arouse the workers against the British. The doctrine Gandhi teaches is supposed to mean passive resistance; but there is daily evidence that the fruit thereof is bloody violence. Said Lord Ronaldshay, Bengal's governor, on a recent tour of his province: "The object is, in fact, no less than the complete eradication from this country of western government."

The legislation for India, to which Lord Reading is now to give effect, is as complex and elaborate as the necessities of so wide and so various a jurisdiction require; but the essential purpose to maintain the peace and to play fair by the dependent races any honest man can understand and explain. With all the disorder that prevails, there are many enlightened natives in India, high and low, standing solidly with the administration to stem the tide of disloyalty. To all classes and factions the new viceroy goes not as a soldier with an iron hand, but as a jurist who has risen to the highest attainable post in his profession and who will apply in the Government House at Delhi the same clear wisdom, tact, and openmindedness that have distinguished him at home.

French Census Shows Decline of Population

A despatch from Paris says:—France has lost approximately five and seven-tenths per cent. of her population since the 1911 census, according to the early returns of the 1921 census. In a fourth of the population area, including the city of Paris and eighteen departments, three departments showed a total gain of 40,000, while fifteen departments lost 617,000. Paris, which was believed to have greatly increased, was found to be almost stationary.

Irish-Americans Send Arms to Ireland

A despatch from London says:—Methods by which the Sinn Feiners are receiving arms and ammunition have been disclosed by the discovery of an underground dump in Dublin, says the Evening Standard. Ammunition boxes found there, it declares, bear the stamp of a powder works in Massachusetts. The boxes, the newspaper asserts, were shipped by Irish-American sympathizers who had established wireless communication between "gunrunners" on the west coast of Ireland and in the U. S.

$5,000 BOX RADIUM LOST IN CHICAGO

Constant Menace to Finder, Say Physicians.

A despatch from Chicago says:—Fifty milligrams of radium, valued at $5,000, and the joint property of a group of physicians, is lost somewhere in the city, a constant menace to its finder. It was contained in a golden capsule. Miss Lillian Brown, the custodian of the treasure, had been sent to a hospital to get it for use elsewhere, and placed the precious box on a window sill of an elevated train car. There was some confusion in the car and when she alighted she forgot the radium for a moment.

The train was searched later, but the box had disappeared. This capsule represents practically all the radium owned in Chicago.

Physicians have issued warnings to the finder that he is dealing with a living death, and that even in the hands of an expert radium is a dangerous element. The effects are lasting and may be quickly fatal.

Women Administer Kansas Town Affairs

A despatch from Ayer, Kan., says:—Two widowed grandmothers, three housewives and a woman telephone operator will administer the affairs of this town of 400 population for next year. An entire woman's ticket, campaigning without platform, was swept into power in Monday's election by a majority of four to one. Members of the new administration include: Mayor, Mrs. A. H. Forest, widow, three children and eight grandchildren; Police Judge, Mrs. Hattie Brewster, widow, four children and four grandchildren.

Rheims Objects to Germans Rebuilding Town

A despatch from Paris says:—The former inhabitants of Rheims, 70,000 of whom have returned to the ruins of that city, object to any plan of having German laborers rebuild the town and have announced that they want to do the work themselves.

M. Loucher, Minister of Devastated Regions, who recently visited Rheims, was told by the mayor of that place that it has suffered damages from war to the extent of 74,000,000 pounds.

Sir Thomas White Former Minister of Finance, who has resigned his seat in the Dominion House.

University Attendance.

On the face of things it may seem unjust that the City of Toronto with only between twenty and twenty-five per cent. of the population of the Province should have thirty-five per cent. of the enrolment of the Provincial University. There are, however, two considerations which, if the facts were available, would materially affect these percentages. One is that the families of many students move to the city while they are attending the University, and the other that there is a considerable number of undergraduates who have no homes and who on their registration forms give only their boarding house addresses in the city.

Even as the figures stand the proportion is not out of place. It is but natural that a university situated in the largest centre of population should have from that centre a larger proportion of students than from other places. If the Provincial University were situated in some small city or town the only appreciable difference in the enrolment would be that there would be fewer students from Toronto. The enrolment from the Province outside of Toronto would not be materially affected. To have the Provincial University placed where it is within easy reach of the largest number is surely the democratic way.

The deal put through by Hon. F.
C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works, by which a contract for $117,000 for road machinery was given to Parkin,
a garage man in his constituency, without tender, has got before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature. Reynolds, who was in the employ of Parkin, swore that Biggs' share of the deal was to be $3,000.
This, Parkin, in an interview with the Globe denies. The investigation goes on this week. Biggs claims that machinery was going up in price as the reason for awarding the contract without tenders. The amount Parkin got on the deal was $13,800, which wasn't a bad week's work.
Reynolds, who left the employ of Parkin in March claims 3 1/2 per cent.
on the sale as his share of the profit.
Parkin's profit was nearly 12 per cent
Howard Ferguson is trying hard to put Biggs' hide on the fence before the session is over. Biggs has been awfully spendthrift with highways' funds but for the good name of Ontario we hope the investigation will not disclose that he has been crooked too. The exchange alone on that road machinery which was bought in Milwaukee would be about $15,000.

ister of Education. "But we will be reasonable and enforce it gradually," intimated Mr. Grant. "Children who are 15 yrs of age and who have been working for a year will not be forced back to the school. We expect the people of the Province will co-operate.

MOTOR CAR INDUSTRY.

A preliminary survey of the automobile industry for the calendar year of 1919 has been completed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Three different sections cover automobiles accessories and repairs, respectively.
The capital invested in the industry
totals $57,000,000, of which Ontario accounts for more than $48,000,000 with a total of 640 out of the 1,236 plants throughout the Dominion. The total number of employees is 13,084 with a payroll of over $15,000,000. In 1919 there were 61,257 touring cars manufactured in Canada, with a value of over $52,000,000 Trucks numbered 7,527, with an aggregate value of $4,850,000.

MOTHERS' PENSIONS.

There have been 38 applications by widows and mothers in poor circumstances to the Mothers' Allowance
Board of Bruce County as follows
Kincardine 7, Southampton 6, Port
Elgin 4, Chesley and Lucknow 3 each Teeswater, Ripley, Warton and North Bruce 2 each, Arnow, Allenford Walkerton, Mildmay, Glamis and Chepstowe 1 each. There was not a single application from Paisley which speaks well for the financial conditions of widows with young families in that village. Some of the cases were quite distressing. One applicant has seven children under 14, one has six, four have five, eight have 4, twelve have three and all the others have two each. In three instances the husbands were insane, five were incapacitated, one was a case of desertion and in all the other applications it was stated that the husbands were dead. The members of the Mothers' Allowance Board are doing a good work and all they get is their expenses for each meeting. All the applicants they recommend do not receive an allowance. They must be accepted by the Govt. Board in Toronto before they can draw their monthly allowance.

A Friend of the Family

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in Pennsylvania and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. R. V. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores in the United States and Canada, so that the public could easily obtain this remarkable tonic, corrective, and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks without alcohol—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Introduce pure red blood into the system, and health is assured. When you feel run-down, out of sorts, blue and despondent try the energizing influence of this reliable tonic. You can obtain Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form at all drug stores, or send 10c for a trial package to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y.

David Marshall, of Stratford, on returning home the other evening suspected that someone was in his house, and on going upstairs to investigate was attacked by a burglar. A battle followed and the burglar tried hard to escape while Mrs. Marshall telephoned for the police. From upstairs they struggled downstairs and thence to the cellar where the intruder armed himself with a coal shovel. In getting out of the cellar Marshall held on to him for a time and delayed his progress sufficiently to enable a citizen to effect his capture. He was taken to the police station and had a trial by the magistrate, and was sent up for trial to a higher court. He proved to be Michael Steeves, and is supposed to have had a hand in the many burglaries that have taken place since December 1919.

BOYS' CONFERENCE.

The first session of the Boys' Work Conference was held in Owen Sound on April 1st, 1921, in Knox Presbyterian church, when about six hundred boys and their leaders and pastors gathered together in the large Sunday School of the Knox church. The Conference opened in the devotional exercises and was led by Rev. S. M. Elliot of North Owen Sound Union Church, which was a great inspiration to all present.

The Conference Hymn was then sung. It was "Just as I am Thine Own to be", and made a great impression on the boys. After the devotional exercises, Mr. W. R. Cook took the platform, after which four boys were chosen as directors of the Conference.

First William Garhutt of Owen Sound, Grandpre; second Arthur McPherson of Orangeville as Deputy preter; third, Charles Krug of Chesley as Grand Srepter; fourth, Clifford Bunt of Owen Sound as Grand Comptor.

The boys were then divided into tuxis squares, 18 squares in all, and about 25 in each square. Every Square was named such as "Never Tints, Falcons, Tigers and so on, space does not allow me to mention them all. Each square elected its preator, Deputy Preator, Sreptor, Comptor. This classed the business part of the program.

Dr. Robertson, D. D., General Secretary of the Board of Sunday School and Young People's Alliance, spoke very fluently on the four fold life in the home. The first part of his address dwelt mostly on the intellectual side of life. This was followed by physical life, then the religious and social life. Dr. Robertson certainly gave us a splendid address. The session then closed with prayer and the boys retired to their different homes, which we dare say were homes never to be forgotten by the visitors of the Conference.

Saturday morning, April 2. This session opened at 9 a. m. Charles Krug, Grand Sreptor of Chesley called the roll of the different squares, all responding. This was followed by the devotional exercises, led by the Rev. Burgess of Walkerton, who gave a brief address on the piece of worship in the boys' life.

Mr. W. Cook then spoke on the subject of Charting the boys. Dr. Robertson and the Rev. Manson Doyle gave brief addresses on tuxis squares.

This session was then divided into different groups representing their denominations.

Methodist 211
Presbyterian 192
Anglican 49
Union Church North O. S. 41
Evangelicals 36
Baptist 30
Disciples 8
Unknown 1

The service was then closed and the boys all lined up in front of Knox Church in fours and marched down Main street and across two blocks, then up to the Y. M. C. A., thence over to Knox Church.

Here they tried to burst the camera twice, but somehow failed. The photo is certainly a good one. We then adjourned to satisfy our hungry hodies. At 2 p. m. the boys assembled together in the Sunday School room for orders. After a short service we went to the Y. M. C. A. grounds for the athletic program. Spending over two-hours in races and stunts and so on. After the sports closed the boys were treated with a big banquet in Knox Church basement, which will never be forgotten, especially the kindness of the Owen Sound ladies. They certainly deserve credit for the splendid way they prepared the feast for the boys. After the banquet, Rev. Manson Doyle and Dr. Robertson gave splendid addresses on Life's Work. The services then closed.

Sunday morning, April 2. The Boys went to different churches.

Then at 4.15 Sunday afternoon they gathered together in the large auditorium of Knox Church. Here Mr. Cook gave a splendid address on Life's Service. The boys then were requested, with heads bowed, as to what their determination for the future was. Many formed good resolutions. This solemn service was then closed. Dr. Robertson pronounced the benediction. The last and farewell service began at 8.15 in the Knox Church, while the Choir was singing "Onward Christian Soldiers".

The pastors and leaders marched over from the Sunday School rooms to the main auditorium, the boys then following one by one until there were five hundred boys that marched thru. This service began with the Grand Preator giving a splendid address and the Grand Sreptor read the minutes which were adopted unanimously. The Comptor then gave us a few words on Tuxis Organization. Our Deputy Preator then read the resolutions, thanking the speakers and the ladies for their kindness at the banquet and in their homes. This gathering then closed by the boys joining hands two deep around the main auditorium. The Hymn, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" was then sung, after which Dr. Fraser pronounced the benediction.

The boys are looking forward to the future when they again have the opportunity of attending another Boys' Conference.

WALKERTON.

Messrs. Bob Rowland and John Erdman are arranging to build a dancing pavilion at the Fair Grounds 40 x 60 ft., and have engaged Rayner's orchestra of Southampton to furnish music two nights each week for the entire summer and have also secured their services for the Old Home Week in July.

A storey and a half frame house north east of the G.T.R. station, belonging to Mrs. T. E. Attwood, was badly gutted by fire at the noon hour last Wednesday. Mr. Jos. Kunneman, a tenant who had just moved in a day or so previously, was burning up some old grass when the blaze caught the dry frame structure. Mr. Kunneman, who is a brother of Mrs. Ignatz Sehefter has just moved here from Michigan and was negotiating to buy the place.

Mrs. Albert McNab of Chepstow was the victim of a serious accident on Monday of last week. She had driven her young son to Business College at Hanover and had got nearly home again when her horse became frightened by an auto near Mr. Jos. Spitzig's gate. The animal ran away throwing her out of the rig. In falling one of the bones of her neck was broken. Her condition was deemed so serious by the doctors that she was taken to Guelph Hospital on Thursday for an operation. She is now reported to be doing nicely.

The local Soldiers' Memorial Committee awarded the contract on Friday for a monument to the McIntosh Granite Co. of Toronto at $4,000. The monument which is to be placed at the north-east corner of the Armoury grounds will consist of a base of all gray granite surmounted by the figure of a Canadian soldier standing at ease with rifle. It will be seventeen feet high over all with three step bases and the contract price includes the cost of the concrete underbase, the erection of the monument and everything.

If the cattle embargo in Britain is nullified, Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture in the Drury Government, will be entitled to some measure of credit in assisting Lord Beaverbrook in his efforts to have this uncalled-for reproach on Canadian herds removed. If the removal is effected it will come as a welcome relief to live stock breeders of this country at a period when they are threatened with severe injury by being shut out of the United States market. It would also keep our trade with the Old Land and enable us to buy more there and leave us less dependent on our neighbors to the south.

WHY SOME TOWNS ARE DEAD.

The town that never has anything to do in a public way is on the road to the cemetery, says an exchange. The citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig the grave. The man that curses the town furnishes the coffin. The man who says he has no time from his business to give to municipal matters is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the hearse. The man who is pulling back from any public enterprise throws bouquets on the grave. The man who is so stingy as to be forever howling hard times preaches the funeral services, sings the doxology, and thus the town lies buried from all sorrow and care, and the mayor should never leave town without a crepe band on his hat.—Forest Free Press.

RESCUES COMPANION FROM DEATH.

By the collapse of a bridge over the Sydenham River, only a few feet above Inglis Falls, a high, rugged waterfall about two and a half miles south of Owen Sound, shortly after noon on Monday last, a team of horses with a wagon loaded with flour, on which were Frank Morris and Elgin Follis, were thrown into the rushing waters. Morris, stunned by the fall, was only saved from a horrible death on the rugged rocks by the heroism and quick action of his companion, who, at great risk, rushed to his assistance and literally pulled him back from the brink.

The water was swirling through a narrow channel, at a very high speed and the footing was of the most insecure nature, the rocks being worn smooth. The two were finally assisted to the shore with the aid of ropes and were little the worse for their experience. The horses and wagon were saved with difficulty, but the wagon box containing 3,100 pounds of flour went over the falls and was a total loss.

DID SHE GET THE PAPER?

One day last week Mrs. Warren went over to her neighbor Mrs. Smith to borrow her newspaper. She found nobody home except Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Smith's mother, an old lady, very deaf. She said: "I came over to borrow your newspaper, if you have it read."

"Who is dead?" inquired the old lady Mrs. Warren raised her voice, "Have you read your newspaper?"

"Land sakes! Reggie Baker, when did he die?"

Mrs. Warren spoke louder, "He is not dead."

"Shot dead! Mercy sakes! Who shot him?"

Mrs. Warren spoke louder yet.

LIGHTNING'S PECULIAR ANTICS.

During the thunderstorm on Tuesday evening of last week the chimney on Jos. Blakely's residence in town was struck by lightning. The fluid did not do much damage but its antics were peculiar. Three stovepipe lengths were split open and coal oil lamps downstairs and upstairs were extinguished. Downstairs the bolt ripped up some linoleum under the stove, went through the floor and through a joist like bullet holes, one evidently entering the ground thru the foundation and the other breaking its way through the wall of the house near the foundation. There were five occupants in the house, all sitting near where the current passed but only two of them were in any way stunned, and that only for a short time. Mr. Blakely was away from home at the time.—Flesherton Advance.

BELL PHONE GRANTED TEMPORARY INCREASES.

The Board of Railway Commissioners has issued judgement which grants, as a temporary relief, permission to charge 10 per cent more than its present rates to telephone users, and to put into effect the scale of long-distance and service connection charges asked for.

The long distance charges are divided into four different kinds: First, messages from one station to another; second, person to person calls; third, appointment calls; fourth, messenger calls.

For station to station calls, the new tolls run from 12 cents for calls within a radius of 12 miles to 40 cents for calls in 48 to 56 miles and 50 cents more for every additional 10 miles of distance.

It is expected that the increase will take effect from the 1st of April.

WHEN NOAH WON OUT.

You remember Noah had to work a long time on that ark. It was uphill business, too, at best, building a boat away out on dry land, while the local anvil-and-hammer club sat around spitting tobacco juice upon his lumber, whittling up his pine boards with their jack knives, and telling him what a fool he was for expecting a big rain in a country that was too dry to grow alfalfa. Finally the flood came and every mother's son of the croakers was drowned. This is the only instance we know, in either sacred or profane history, where a bunch of knockers got exactly what was coming to them.

NIGHTS AT HOME.

I always spend my nights at home, remote from strife and care; a pillow supports my dome, my feet rest on a chair; and so I read some gripping poem or volume ripe and rare. My aunts and grandmas play some tunes, or blithely sew or knit, while merry children full of prunes, throw many a gladstone fit, till lullabys, their mother croons—and so the calm hours flit. And when morning comes I read how men who roamed the right fell victims to the auto's speed were shot up in a fight or touched for all their chicken feed by some unholy wight, I read of kidnapped maidens fair and parents in distress, of youths who lose in White Way glare, thenumber of their mess, or misdeeds in the gambler's lair, and crimes no man dare guess. I say, if those who galivant would spend their nights at home, with grandma, niece and maiden aunts, and read some helpful tome, the crime of which the peelers rent, would disappear like foam. I'd rather be with bards than sing, than with the men who prance to places where the glasses clink, and there are games of chance; a book is better than a drink, or than a tango dance. And when at dawn I leave my bed I caper and I sing, no hold-up with a bar of lead, has spoiled my laboured wing, I do not have to stitch my head or wear it in a sling.—Walt Mason.

PAT SCORES AGAIN.

British papers are fond of printing jokes in which representatives of all the divisions of the United Kingdom—and sometimes a man from Wales—bear a part. Needless to say, the Irishman rarely comes off second best whenever quickness of wit is required.

Pat was serving in the army, and his two companions happened to be an Englishman and a Scotchman. These two gave their Irish friend a lively time with their jokes and teasing.

One day Pat was called away and left his coat hanging on a nail. The Englishman and the Scotchman seeing some white paint near, seized the opportunity of painting a donkey's head on the back of Pat's coat.

The Irishman soon returned, and looking first at his coat and fixing his eye on his friends said slowly, "Begorra, and which one of you two has been wiping your face on my coat?"

BASEBALL.

The "Batz" Baseball Team.

A Cleveland paper says: "They do some things right in Canada. There is a baseball nine at Moltke which is very successful against its neighbors. On this team, there are six brothers. They play three outfield positions, can pitch hay, cut timber, are good milkers, and if the worst comes to that will go behind the bat or even pitch a game. The statistics of the league do not say whether there are three or four brothers growing up.

GODERICH CHARGED UP.

The local light and water commission at its regular meeting last week was confronted by a bill of $3,180.09 from the Provincial Hydro Commission representing the difference between the actual cost of power delivered during the year ending October 31st, 1920, and the amounts received according to monthly bills rendered. There was also a bill of $289.69 for interest to October 31 last on arrears. The commission passed the latter account, and laid over the larger one pending an explanation from the Hydro district engineer. The additional charge will run Goderich's power cost to over $50 per horse-power. The contract price was $37; later the charge was increased to $43, and with the additional charge the price goes up to over $50 per h. p.—Goderich Signal.

Tom Green, who owned a donkey and cart, fell into a drunken sleep by the wayside and someone stole the donkey. When he awoke he rubbed his eyes and looked at the name on the cart. "If my name's Tom Green he said, 'I've lost a donkey, if it isn't I've found a fine car'."

ENDED IN FIGHT.

A dance held in the old hotel at Dunkeld on Wednesday evening of last week, is stated to have ended in something akin to a free-for-all fight. A Paisleyite, who claims to have been badly beaten up by one of the dancers, phoned Chief Ferguson about 5.30 Thursday morning and urged the officer to come out and make an arrest. The cop, on the contrary, suggested that the victim come in and lay an information. Becoming curious, the Chief enquired as to what brand they had been drinking, and was shell-shocked to learn that hard cider had been circulating, and was probably responsible for the battering up the Paisleyite got. As the police didn't get out and the pomelled one hasn't come in, it looks as if an armistice had been concluded and the proposed police court battle is off.—Herald and Times.

A SHREWD FARMER'S PLAN.

Many years ago, a well-to-do farmer told us he made it a rule to sow each year the kind of produce that that brought a low price the year before. When barley was cheap he sowed barley, and the same with other cereals; while grain at a high price, he sowed sparingly. He said the tendency of farmers was to sow high priced seed and overstock the market when the prices would come down. Think about it, and see if something doesn't come to your mind to justify the conduct of the successful old farmer of years ago. Potatoes are cheap this year, and in consequence the acreage will likely be reduced and there may be a shortage, with fair or high prices. Those who sowed seed clover at twenty-five dollars a bushel last year are having experience. If they sow it now there may be a fortune in it when the crop is ready for the market.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters.

Vivian Renton and Eddie Haverton, modern soldiers of fortune, have been gambling with Hubert Baxenter, a prosperous attorney, in his London apartments. After their departure late at night Renton returns to the house, murders Baxenter and hides the body on the roof. While waiting for night to come again in order to make his escape, he finds in a desk a curious old yellowed document telling of a mysterious chest left in the care of one of Baxenter's ancestors by a French nobleman, the Marquis de Dartigny, of the Chateau Chauville. The chest has been handed down from one generation of Baxenters to another and carefully guarded in the hope that some day its rightful owner will be found. Renton decides to pose as the missing heir and claim the chest. He goes to France to make some feudal inquiries about the Dartigny family.

CHAPTER IV. Writing the Will.

It will be necessary to relieve for a few moments some of the exciting events that happened at the time of the Revolution, those strangely troubled days when the fair land of France was so deeply soaked with the blood of its own patriotic "citizens." In this way the most important details of the oddly mysterious bequest entrusted to Adam Baxenter by the white-haired old aristocrat, Marquis de Dartigny, can be more fully understood.

So while Vivian is leaning back on the cushions of his carriage wondering who is to be the next to enter into the possession of the murdered man's Regent Park house and the offices in the Strand, let us listen to the song of a tuneless and wine-laden voice, which sounded raucously from behind the red-curtained bay window of the "Star of Navarre," in the city of Blois. Floating out into the still courtyard, it polluted the calm of the Spring evening and caused a traveller who had but that moment climbed, stiff-legged down from the saddle, to bite his under lip in irritation and to lead his mount into the shadow of a farm wagon which stood by the gateway leading to the stables.

There was no hostler at hand to attend to the animal; but Remy Perancourt had ridden far and the horse needed no restraining hand on his bridle, but stood there with steaming neck outstretched to nibble at a few poor ears of corn which showed at the tail-board of the cart.

Remy advanced cautiously to the vine-framed window. The song had now ceased and had given place to a catch-interrupted laughter. The man in the courtyard, his body well screened against any sudden surprise from the room he was watching, availed himself of a small aperture in the blind—for it was the Spring of 1793, a time when man looked with suspicion on man, and when it were well to move warily and act with an infinite caution.

It was but a small portion of the apartment of the "Star of Navarre" that was visible, but it showed enough for Remy to draw back with a muttered curse. Seated at the head of the black oak table was a man, bearded and very dirty. On the board before him, papers and documents were mixed with the remains of a meal and with empty wine flasks.

More noteworthy still was the curious assortment of weapons spread over the person of the sinister-looking individual himself. From the pocket of the great coat which was hung over the back of his chair a small blunderbuss showed its stock; in a belt at his waist two other firearms were ready to hand, whilst a poinard and a stiletto, in their nakedness, kept the other weapons company.

Remy did not need to raise his eyes from this arsenal to the evil face to know that he was looking at the infamous Herat, the devilish factotum of the Committee of General Safety, the friend and confidant of Robespierre, the wretch to whom nothing was sacred and who spared neither friends nor family so that his fatal lists be filled and Madame Guillotine be not kept waiting.

Often had he seen the armored figure of the "ferry of the Marais quarter" and he knew well the man's cowardice, how in addition to his

"The Marquis de Dartigny—is he at the chateau?"

"He was yesterday. You are going there, citizen?—you have news of the son? He was one of those who defended the Tuileries, was he not? Then, as Remy nodded over his glass, "News takes long to reach here. What think you they will do with the queen, with Citoyenne Capet?"

For answer Remy took up a knife from the table, and poised it horizontally, let it fall edgewise on the board. He rose with a little laugh.

"As for the young seigneur, as one of the officers of the Petit Peres he is 'suspect.' It does not do for any of the defenders of the Tuileries to show face in Paris. You and I, landlord—we who are such staunch supporters of the Revolution—have nothing to fear." Remy solemnly winked at Jacques as he spoke and finished his wine. "I can leave my horse here, I suppose—I will likely sleep at the chateau."

Remy Perancourt stepped out along the uneven road, turning off into a narrower track, which, threading a little wood, led to the bridge which spanned the moat of the Chateau de Chauville, the conical roofs of whose towers he had seen above a clump of poplars from the door of the inn. The mansion stood mysterious in the pale light of the newly-risen moon, its white towers, ivy covered and discolored with age, showing faithfully in the placid depths of the moat, where hilly leaves made green patches on the surface and two swans seemed to hang motionless upon the water.

The man crossed the bridge and locked in at the little lodge flanked with its towers, tiny counterparts of those of the building itself. A sleepy servant took his message and a few moments later Remy was ushered into the great dining hall of the castle.

Dinner was over, but wine and a dish of fruit still remained upon the polished oak of the long table. A small fire had been lighted on the massive hearth and shone upon the features of an elderly man who rose from an armchair as his visitor entered.

"Ah! Remy, I am glad to see you; but Gaspard's letter said to-morrow—I am afraid you will not find us ready." He smiled a little as he spoke. "You see, in these times we do not entertain much."

He turned and pulled a silken bell-rope, and to the servant who answered his summons, made arrangements for the guest-chamber to be prepared and for a meal to be served at once. He motioned Remy into a chair facing him.

"Yes, Remy, I'm glad to see you—glad, and perhaps a little frightened. One never knows what to expect in these days. You have left Gaspard well?"

"Quite, Monsieur le Marquis—and safe. Oh! he is a man to be proud of, he—and the work he is doing back there in Paris. He is in the thick of the fight, running with the hares and with the hounds, and ever helping the hares. Many a condemned prisoner has found himself at liberty through Gaspard's good offices, and Sanson has been cheated of many heads. He fights the tribunal with his own weapons, and some of its most influential members have gone to the guillotine on evidence gleaned or manufactured by Citizen Gabriel, as your son calls himself when with the 'hounds.' Then he is a friend of Couthon and visits Bezon, who engraves the forged passports. You can understand, sir, how it is impossible for him to come to you. Luckily his name was published among those officers of the Petit Peres who fell on the 10th of August—in that lies his safety—so far as it is believed."

The entrance of the servant prevented further speech, and even when the meal was cleared away, the old man sat silent. Whilst his visitor had been eating the nobleman had taken from his pocket the letter he had received from his son the day before. He had read it through, and now he sat, the paper hanging limply from his fingers, gazing into the flames.

Woman's Interests

Artistic Dyeing.

Unbleached muslin has been used for many attractive articles for the household, for aprons, and for children's dresses. Probably one of the most effective means of decorating is by using dyes. The articles may or may not be made up before dyeing. In case a border is desired around the bottom of the garment, such as a kimono, child's dress, or tea jacket, it can be so dyed. An attractive color is chosen for the garment and a border of diamonds, circles or squares left the original color of the unbleached material.

This result is accomplished by first making a row of diamonds, then using a strong thread, place a running stitch around the marked line of each figure and gather it up tightly. The portion of material which is gathered up and which is to form the design is then wound very tightly, with grocery twine, beginning where the gathering thread holds it tightly, and winding nearly to the end. The cord should be wound very closely together to completely cover the material. A very small portion is left at the end, making a spot of the dyed color in the centre. The material is then dyed, and if the winding of the cord has been done carefully, when the article is dry, and cord and drawing-thread is removed, the marked sections will be of the original color, forming a pattern on the garment as marked.

Many interesting designs may be worked out. The use of circles, diamonds and squares are most successful. This may be used for curtains, children's dresses, with pieces of unbleached muslin used for trimming. The design is improved if the figures are outlined in black. When only a few are put on the garment, as on the front of an apron or the centre of a porch pillow, they are especially pretty if an applied design is used in the centre of the figure.

Luncheon sets are made by using only one figure in the corner, in which there is placed an applique or embroidered design. The edges are sometimes blanket-stitched, cross-stitched or bound with plain material, and a running stitch put around the edge. Very pretty tea jackets are made of three yards of material cut perfectly plain with a band for the sleeves put on Japanese style. The neck and front are left unfinished until after the dyeing. A border of diamonds is marked around the bottom and after dyeing, these are blanket stitched at the edge. The sleeve bands are sometimes put on after the dyeing.

Two Egg Dishes.

Swiss Eggs—Use a pan to fit the size of the family. For each four eggs use one-half cup cream, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons grated cheese, salt, pepper. Melt the butter in the pan, being careful it does not brown. Add the cream. Heat all thoroughly. Slip the eggs in one at a time. Season to taste. Cook very gently so as not to break the form of the eggs. When the white is nearly firm, sprinkle the cheese over. Cook till done, "spoon" the eggs carefully onto slices of hot buttered toast and soften each slice with a portion of the hot cream.

Eggs baked in potato—If the men folk need a hearty meal, serve these eggs with sliced bacon or thin slices of fried ham or dried beef frizzled in butter. Bake the potatoes carefully, choosing them of uniform size and smoothness. Scoop out the inside of each baked potato into a hot dish. Mash and season with cream, salt and pepper. Refill the shell, not quite full. Put a bit of butter in the little nest you have left and drop into it a whole raw egg. Return to oven until the egg is cooked.

When Hens Strike.

"What's the reason hens lay nearly every day when eggs are thirty cents a dozen and refuse to do their duty when the price goes up to sixty cents?"

I asked this question of a successful poultryman.

"Because they go on strike," he answered, without smiling. "It's the truth," he continued, noting my look of incredulity. "They strike the same as we humans do, but not for more wages, of course. They strike for better food. Hens must have green food to make good layers."

"When I first entered the poultry business I noticed this same thing, and I often wondered at it. After experimenting a while, I learned the cause. It was the lack of green food that kept them from laying well in winter, so I have overcome this by having greens always at hand for feeding."

"Cabbage and beets are the best, but a variety is sometimes necessary. I have also found green-cured alfalfa or clover hay to be excellent, after it has been boiled. Sprouted oats make another good food. For the sake of variety, I often feed pumpkins to my hens. This makes them produce. Beets and cabbage must be picked before they become dry, and stored in a good cellar or buried in the ground."

I have had no trouble in getting oats to sprout, as I have a good warm cellar. I soak the oats over night in water, then I spread them on the floor of the cellar about an inch deep. They do not take long to sprout in this way, and in a short time I can begin feeding them. To get the best results with green-cured alfalfa or clover, I chop it up fine and boil it. Before feeding, I make sure that it is not moldy. Now is the time to arrange for a good supply of green food for your hens next winter."

Little Idle Ground There.

Nearly 90 per cent. of the soil in Bedfordshire, England, is under cultivation.

The actual British Army which reached France in August, 1914, comprised four infantry divisions and one cavalry division, a total combatant strength of about 60,000 men.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Distemper

Halifax and Quebec are the only two Canadian cities that have citadels. They once were important defences, but are now rendered obsolete by modern gunnery.

Oil on the Sea.

Platice, which affords so important a fishery in the North Sea, was remarkably scarce in the years 1916, 1917 and 1918—so much so, indeed, that the scarcity of the species was believed to be due to some cause detrimental to fish life.

It is suggested that the cause in question may have been oil from sunken ships, which, if present in considerable quantities, would be very destructive to young "fry" swimming in schools at the surface.

Whatever may have been the fact in the case, it is certain that oil only one ten-millionth of an inch thick will form a continuous film on the surface of water. Thus, as it is reckoned, all the oceans of the world might be covered with such a film by 500,000 tons of petroleum, which a fair-sized fleet of large ships could carry.

BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SPRING

The Spring is a time of anxiety to mothers who have little ones in the home. Conditions make it necessary to keep the baby indoors. He is often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catches colds which rack his whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will prevent colds, constipation or colic and keep baby well. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Protecting the Homestead From High Winds.

In every locality there is generally some one direction, or perhaps two directions, from which the severest storms approach. It is on these sides of the buildings that the shelter-belts should be established first.

On the prairies the most protection is needed from the north and west, as the prevailing winds come chiefly from these directions. The principal belt, then, should be on these exposed sides, four or five rows on the east, and south will be found quite sufficient. Many tree-planters in the West endeavor to plant their trees so that they will serve as a wind-break and at the same time provide shade for the buildings. It should be remembered that to afford shelter of a wind-break is to afford shelter for the buildings and stock, and therefore it should be established on the sides which are subjected to the prevailing winds. Later, a few standard trees, such as the ash, elm, and maple, may be planted individually near the buildings to provide shade.—Norman M. Ross, Dominion Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head.

Surnames and Their Origin

ROSE

Racial Origin—English.
Source—A flower or color.

The family name of Rose, simple as it seems, is one that is full of complexities. While there is one source from which it appears reasonably certain that a very large proportion of the families which bear it can trace it, there are many other possibilities presented upon which little light can be thrown. In the case where the word is combined with another in the formation of a family name the tracing of the source is simple, though the trail leads in an opposite direction so often as to make it doubtful how often the name of Rose itself is really related to these compounds.

The one certain source of the name lies in the custom of tradesmen of the middle ages, erecting signs in front of their places of business, bearing pictures rather than words, since the bulk of the population could not read. The rose was in quite common use for this purpose, and, in the natural course of events, such tradesmen as used it often adopted Rose as a surname, or had it thrust upon them in the speech of their neighbors and customers.

In some instances, no doubt (but how often is a question of speculation) the name is a changed spelling of the old word for "red," which has given us such names as Russell, Roussel and Ross, and the word russet, or a change spelling of the name Ross—which, in its turn, however, is not always certainly derived from this source.

Rose is the name of an ancient but small clan in Scotland, yet the name does not appear to be of Gaelic origin. Indeed, authorities differ as to the origin of the clan itself, the ancient home of which was in Nairnshire, some accounts declaring that the name was originally "de Roos," and that the clan was of Norman-French origin. Others declare it to be of Norwegian origin, and claim that it first used the name of Geddes. The clan first appears in history the time of King Alexander III, the last Celtic monarch of Scotland, toward the close of the thirteenth century.

When is the Sun Set?

Strange as it may seem, this is a point which has taken some settling.

Was the actual setting when the sun's lower edge or upper edge touched the horizon?

Experience has shown how necessary it was to have the point determined beyond question.

That celebrated meteorologist, Ralph Abercromby, for example, once saw the sun's crimson ball about one-third below the horizon, and it took no less than half an hour in all for it to sink its own breadth, whereas on the equator he had seen it sink the same distance in a couple of minutes.

Instances such as these have been taken into full consideration, and, fortunately, a clear understanding has now been arrived at among scientists on this important matter.

Sunset, they have decided, is the moment when the upper edge of the sun reaches the horizon.

At the same time, due account has to be taken of the state of the atmosphere, the height above sea-level from which the setting sun is observed, and the nature of the horizon, whether it is bounded by hills or other lofty obstructions.

A Little Wisdom.

Early rising requires early rest.

It is not every couple that is a pair. The worst habit is the habit of habits.

Be wise and inquire; "they say" is a liar.

"One of these days" is none of these days.

Talking comes by Nature; silence by wisdom.

He who makes a jest must be able to take one.

EXTREME MISERY DAY AND NIGHT

Follows a Breakdown of the Nervous System.

Misery day and night is the lot of hosts of men and women who are today the victims of weak nerves. Thin, pale, drawn faces and dejected attitude tell a sad tale, for nervous weakness means being tortured by morbid thoughts and unaccountable fits of depression. These sufferers are painfully sensitive and easily agitated by some chance remark. Sleeplessness robs them of energy and strength; their eyes are sunken and their limbs tremble; appetite is poor and memory often fails. This nervous exhaustion is one of the most serious evils affecting men and women of today.

The only way to bring back sound, vigorous health is to feed the starved nerves, which are clamoring for better blood. This new blood can be had through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which have a direct action on the blood, and through the blood on the nervous system. That a fair use of this medicine will bring satisfactory results is shown by the experience of Mrs. Marsh, Bass River, N.S., who says: "Following a run down condition, I became practically a nervous wreck. The doctor who was called in said the trouble was inflammation of the nerves: It grew so bad that practically I had no control of my lower limbs, and had to go about with crutches. Quite aside from my suffering I had a small family and a baby in arms to care for and I became much discouraged, as I did not appear to be growing better. One evening my husband met an aged doctor on the street and told him of my condition. He asked my husband who was attending me, and when told said: "I don't want to interfere, but why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." My husband got me a supply of these pills and after taking a few boxes I was able to go about with the use of one crutch. Continuing the use of the pills I was able to discard the other crutch as well, and was as active as ever I had been. There are many in this neighborhood who know what my condition was when I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and who know what this medicine did for me, and I hope my experience may help some other sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Song of the Springtime.

I come, I come to valleys bare
And plant my early blossoms there.
I come on breezes warm and free
And bring the happy birds with me
To sing for you at early dawn
In orchard bare, on leafless lawn;
To build their nests beside your door
And rear their young as oft before.

I come, I come with azure skies,
And rainbows to delight your eyes,
That you may soon forget the snows
And all the Winter's nameless woes,
With grasses green and blooms of gold
I carpet now the barren world.
A hundred longed-for joys I bring
To comfort you who love the spring.

NURSES

The Toronto Hospital for Incurables, in affiliation with Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, New York City, offers a three years' Course of Training to young women, having the required education, and desirous of becoming nurses. This Hospital has adopted the eight-hour system. The pupils receive uniforms of the School, a monthly allowance and travelling expenses to and from New York. For further information apply to the Superintendent.

Not as Bad as Reported.

The principal transmits to us the original copy of this excuse for absence, brought by a pupil:

"Miss G.—James did not have any doctor he only had measles in 2 days he was alright he made a mistake and said he had a doctor. Mrs. H— "yours forever"

The Precendent.

A very cultured and accomplished clergyman in the South was once in the company of an illiterate person who professed to despise education and who remarked:

"I am thankful that the Lord has opened my mouth to preach without learning."

"A similar event occurred in Balaam's time," was the retort.

And Very Nice, Too!

A lady who had been giving a party old her maid to put away all the refreshments that were left on the table before retiring to bed.

The next day, on looking, the lady could not find the dainties, and called to her maid:

"Jane, what did you do with those things that I told you to put away last night?"

"Sure, mum, and yez told me to put 'em away, and I did, mum, and enjoyed 'em!"

A Nut for the Monkey.

An Italian was amongst a party of men working on a road, when a smartly-dressed young fellow in a motor-car went by slowly.

He had a young lady with him, and to show off—he yelled out to the Italian:

"Hey, Macaroni, where your monkey?"

Quick as a flash the brawny Genoise yelled back:

"I give him a day off, mister, and I think he's taken his best girl out joy-riding in a second-hand car!"

The Immortal William.

At a dinner in England the principal guest was Kaiser Wilhelm II. According to the late Lionel Brough, some one remarked, in the course of the conversation, "As the immortal William said, 'There is a tide in the affairs of men,' et cetera."

The Kaiser turned to the speaker and asked, "Did I say that? I don't remember."

When the story was repeated at tea one evening, amid the general laughter one lady said with a pitying smile; "Of course it was his grandfather they meant."

April Voices.

Now you may hear frail voices in the air.

Making melodious answer each to each.

As sibilys did of old in sylvan speech;

They are from April's children fresh and fair.

"I have just awakened," said the maid in hair,

Replying to the whisper of the beech;

"And I," the enameone murmured, "do beseech

Where the bee is, if he has left his lair?"

"I," the stream tinkled, "must away to be Part of the restless and awaiting sea";

"I," the bird carolled, as it preened its breast,

Intent upon some fond approaching call,

"Look for my mate; it is Love's time to nest!"

And April smiled to hear and see them all.

The Trench of Bayonets.

The bayonets still protrude through the sod under which the soldiers stand buried. That is the striking thing about perhaps the most remarkable memorial of the war—a trench on the French front between Thiaumont and Donauquem that was occupied by the third company of the 137th Regiment. According to one story, a shell exploded on the parapet and buried the men alive as they stood. According to another story, the Germans took the trench, crumbled and shattered by shell fire, after all its defenders were either wounded or killed, and then hurriedly filled it in, and to mark the spot left the guns of the dead soldiers upright beside them.

Whichever story is true, the bayonet trench dramatically shows how heroic was the defence of Verdun. An American, Mr. George F. Rand, was so much moved at the sight that he built over the trench a monument to perpetuate the memory of the brave poilus buried below. That monument was dedicated last December with appropriate ceremonies.

North America has a population of 100,000,000.

My Robin.

You may have your skylark
Give me my robin;
Not soaring high in the sky—
On his nest trilling, nearby;
On his perch
By the porch,
Red-coated neighbor, sweet-throated warbler.

He has a plaintive note, far-away,
Of perfect melody,
And he sings to my heart all day!

He purloins threads
For a nest for his eggs;
He rears his family
By the door in the apple tree.
In the orchard his lute,
Trills constant tribute,
Near the window he sings,
To my workroom he brings—
Melodious things!

First in spring
To pipe his praise hymn;
Home-keeper of the summer;
In the fall
Cheery call
Last of all!

You may have your skylark;
Give me my robin,
Not soaring far in the sky—
On his nest singing, nearby.

A Sightless Florist.

Nothing seems to come amiss, in the shape of employment, to our blinded men, says a London despatch. In poultry-farming, massage, embroidery, mat and basket-making, they have few rivals.

Perhaps the biggest triumph of this kind had been made by an Guards officer, who lost his sight during the war. He owns a thriving floral business in the West End, which he personally superintends. A keen gardener before the war, he knows almost every flower that blows, and weaves really unique and beautiful color schemes into his decorations. He says he is able to "visualize" very clearly how his flowers appear to those possessing sight.

Much of this talented artist's work appears at church weddings, etc., and since he was once interested in architecture, and more especially in London buildings, there is scarcely a well-known meeting place where he cannot build up his flower schemes entirely unaided.

Many picturesque Society weddings have been made more beautiful by the aid of his skillful fingers.

The first visit to Canada of a member of the Royal House of Guelph was in 1787, when the Duke of Clarence came. The Duke of Kent (Queen Victoria's father) stayed in Canada three years, 1791-94, and again in 1799, as commander-in-chief at Halifax. King Edward, as Prince of Wales, visited Canada in 1860; Prince Alfred in 1861 and 1878; Prince Leopold in 1890; the Duke of York (King George V.) in 1901; and the Prince of Wales in 1919.

"Before the Swallow Dares"

The daffodils bring in the spring;
Let winter frown at will,
Here is her sign—
(It shall be mine)
A yellow daffodil.

The town was bitter with the cold;
The pane was dim with frost;
Oh, blithe and bold!
Oh, bravely gold!
The valiant color crossed.

The hurrying folk scarce stooped to heed
The year's triumphant hour,
But goldenly
It flashed on me—
All April in a flower.

Meaning of Sun Spots.

Sun spots are now thought to be a sign of the commencing debility of the dwarfed and shrunken star which we call the sun. If this idea be correct they will become more frequent and larger as ages pass, until at length our much-admired orb of day is darkened and ceases to be a worthwhile source of heat.

Astronomers and meteorologists are much interested in sun spots, and keep a constant watch on them. During the last few months they have been remarkably few and small.

It seems to have been proved that spotted areas of the sun have a lower temperature than the bright spots of the photosphere. Hence it is inferred that quite possibly the recent relative absence of sun spots may be accountable for the remarkably warm winter we have been enjoying.

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

Face Was Badly Disfigured.
Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

"Small red pimples and black-heads began on my face and my face was badly disfigured. Some of the pimples festered while others scalded over and there were places where the pimples were in blotches. They used to itch and burn terribly. I saw an advertisement for Cuticura and I tried them. They stopped the itching and burning and I used four cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment which healed me." (Signed) Miss V. A. Hayne, Stormont, N. S., Dec. 26, '18.

Though the dear old Grand Trunk has not been able to meet its payments we hope it does not stop running. The three arbitrators on the price to be paid by the Government have not finished their work but the crisis in the railway's financial condition will very likely hasten action. When the G.T.R. is taken over as a Government road it will mean a still greater deficit for the Canadian people to meet. The deficit for the Intercolonial and Canadian Northern for the fiscal year was $70,000,000 as the G.T.R. should easily be as good a loser as the other two, it will mean over $100,000,000 for the 9 million people in Canada to meet to pay the deficit this year. Govt. ownership of railways has been a big losing game in this country for all the people excepting McKenzie and Mann the C. N. R. exploiters.

MOLTKE.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS TORONTO

With about 2,300 cattle on sale yesterday trade was quiet, and heavy steers and heifers, which made up a good share of the offering were easier by about 50c per cwt, though there was a fair demand for best stuff for export. Representatives of each of the big packing firms bought pretty heavily of butcher cattle at steady prices, but the smaller firms did not operate so strongly as during the last week. Poorer grades sold generally steady with last week's close, but moved slowly. So far, the strike at the packing houses has not had any effect on cattle prices, but as might be expected, the demand is easier, and the shipments from the country are being kept light.

Lambs were slow and a shade easier in price, the best of them bringing 13½ cents, with average choice ranging from 12 to 13¼ cents.

Choice sheep sold at from 9 to 9½ cents. Included in the sheep receipts were four decks of choice fat sheep from the United States, which sold at the top price here, and there were six decks of the same kind on thru billing to Great Britain.

Hogs sold at from $13.75 to $14.00 per cwt, fed and watered, almost entirely to outside buyers, and the packers' offer for to-morrow's loading was $12.25 per cwt, f. o. b.

Receipts to-day were 2,894 cattle, 684 calves, 994 hogs and 1026 sheep and lambs.

BANDITS KILL MELBORNE MAN

At noon Monday four armed unmasked bandits shot and killed Russell Campbell, 25, citizen of Melbourne 22 miles from London, when he attempted to prevent them from robbing a branch of the Home Bank in that place. Manager McCalmes and two women clerks were in the bank at that time. The bandits drove up in a large touring car and in real western fashion swept into the bank with guns ready for action. They ordered the manager to open the safe which had been closed by one of the girl clerks when she saw the approach of the bandits, but the manager refused to obey their request. In the meantime several villagers, including Campbell entered and as Campbell grappled with one of the bandits he was shot in the abdomen, dying shortly afterwards. Other villagers held two of the robbers until assistance arrived and the captured men were brought to London. The other two escaped, one being caught later in a barn near the bank, the other one was chased to a swamp several miles away and was captured later the next day. They secured nothing, although several thousand dollars were in the vault.

CARLSRUHE.

As this is a new undertaking, we trust that each commissioner will do their part in getting the biggest value for the money that will be spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schneider of Mildmay spent Sunday with relatives here.

Mrs. John A. Hundt spent the past week in Waterloo and Kitchener.

Mr. and Mrs. Windom Glebe of Neustadt spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Zettler.

Misses Tena and Rita Wandt left for Waterloo last week.

Mr. Lorenze Shelhas, who spent the past four weeks in Kitchener, returned to his home here on Saturday.

During the warm spell of the past the farmers here did considerable work on the land, but on Sunday morning the weather took a great change it being 20 above zero.

Mr. John Wandt is busy pulling down his house and will rebuild a new one this summer.

We all make mistakes, but thank goodness the other fellow's look worse to us than our own.

John May of Orangeville, who held up the Queen's hotel at Brampton a few weeks ago and pulled a gun on the proprietor, Dick Robson, was up again Tuesday morning on a charge of robbery and evading arrest. He elected to be tried by a jury and will come up for trial at the fall assizes on the charge of attempted murder, on which he was committed a week ago. His counsel will put in a plea of insanity. In the meantime May will be examined by the doctors.—Orangeville Sun.
