Fowl Supper. The ladies of the Mildmay United Church purpose holding a fowl supper in the town hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 15th, and those who know their reputation for providing good things for the table will certainly make it a point to be present. Following the supper there will be a fine musical and literary program. Watch for further announcements.

Rally Day Services. On Sunday morning at the United Church, the service took the form of a Sunday School Rally, the children taking part and furnishing the greater part of the program. In the evening the service was taken by the Young People's League, papers being given by Messrs. H. Ballagh, H. Sovereign and Miss Laugretta Hamel. Splendid music was furnished at both services by the Young People's choir.

McIntosh Fowl Supper. McIntosh church was crowded to capacity on Tuesday evening, when the ladies of the congregation gave a fowl supper, followed by a fine program. Supper was served in the basement of the church, and three rows of tables were abundantly laden with all the good things that culinary skill could devise. The program which followed was excellent. Interesting and very entertaining addresses were delivered by Revs. Armstrong of Wroxeter, MacGowan of Mildmay and Laing of Fordwich. The church choir provided a number of fine anthems and quartettes, and Miss Winlow of Clifford gave two very amusing readings. Mrs. A. MacGowan of Mildmay rendered a fine solo with instrumental very acceptably with others assisted very acceptably. Rev. C. W. MacKenzie performed the duties of chairman in his own inimitable manner. The proceeds amounted to $115.00.

Nolan—Zimmer. A quite but pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Mary's R. C. Church, Kitchener, on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, when Miss Caroline Zimmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Zimmer of Mildmay, became the bride of Mr. James Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nolan of Woodstock. Rev. A. L. Zinger, C. R., officiated. The bride was dressed in a handsome gown of beaded blue Georgette, with a black picture hat to match, carrying a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Miss Betty Nolan, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, wearing a green crepe dress with hat to match. Mr. David Zimmer, brother of the bride, supported the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a sable stole, to the bridesmaid a bar pin and to the best man a cigarette case. The happy young couple left for a short honeymoon, and on their return they will reside at 38 Grove St., Kitchener. The bride's travelling suit was a blue tailored suit, with a picture hat. Heartiest Congratulations.

They motored from Southern California into Mexico and from Mexico north along the Pacific coast to Seattle, Washington, and thence East via the Yellowstone, Highway through the Northern States. They spent three months touring, visiting the National Parks and other places of interest, and arrived here last Saturday, having completed a five thousand mile trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop purpose going to Chicago shortly to take up residence.

Registrars Shall Correct Lists. The registrars appointed to compile the voter's lists in the different subdivisions for use in the coming federal elections, will have their work completed by the end of next week, after which copies of the list will be posted up in a convenient place in the subdivision, and the electors will be asked to examine the same, and if any errors or omissions are perceived therein, the matter may be taken up with the local registrar, who will be at his office or residence between 2 and 6 o'clock on the afternoons of October 16, 17, 19 and 20. Such representations may be made either orally or in writing by any credible person, not necessarily the voter concerned, and the Registrar may put the applicant on oath if he deems this course necessary.

Gets Two Years for Auto Theft. Clarence Erb, of Tavistock, was sentenced to not less than one year in the Ontario Reformatory and not more than two years by Magistrate Weir of Kitchener in police court on Monday morning on two charges, one of entering a garage at Baden and the other of theft of an automobile at Mildmay. The youth, who is only twenty years of age, has a police record. On May 8, 1922, he was sentenced from three to twelve months in the Ontario Reformatory for theft in Port Colborne. August 16, 1923, he was found guilty of shop breaking and theft at Woodstock and sentenced to two years in the Kingston penitentiary. July 28, this year, a Stratford magistrate found him guilty of theft and sentenced him to two months. Erb is still wanted in Goderich on several charges. Erb was arrested in July after he had entered a Baden garage and stole an automobile. Provincial Constable Faulkner pursued him for twelve miles near Stratford in his motor car and only after forcing the accused to the ditch was he able to effect an arrest.

Auto Battered Horse. On Tuesday evening of last week a motorist going north on the 15th sideroad collided with a three year old colt owned by Mrs. Philip Greas of the 14th concession. The animal raced across the road, directly in front of the car, and in the collision between the two rivals, the colt had its hind leg fractured in two places. The vet., who was called, ordered the animal to be killed to put it out of misery.

'Twas a Good Show

The Mildmay Fall Show, held on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week was one of the best all round exhibitions ever held here. The weather was fair but quite cool, and the attendance was fully up to the average. Secretary P. D. Liesemer informs us that there were nearly two thousand exhibits in the hall alone, and this constitutes a record for this fair. Every available inch of space in the rink building was utilized, and the quality of all these exhibits was exceptionally good. The fruit exhibits were surprisingly numerous and of choice quality, while the root section, where a shortage was feared, was filled to overflowing with splendid exhibits. The advantages of the two day show were very noticeable, and the judges were able to proceed without undue hurry, and give every entry proper consideration.

Out in the park the splendid exhibit of horses kept the crowd interesting during the whole afternoon. There was a tremendous exhibit of horses, and the quality of the equines was the best seen here in years. The Wilkinson exhibit, which carried off the honors in the heavier classes, were beautiful animals, and completely won the admiration of the spectators. In the roadster and carriage classes, competition was also very keen, and the classes were nearly all filled.

The showing of cattle this year was fully up to standard, and the judges were delighted with the quality of the animals shown. There was also a good display of hogs and sheep, and perhaps a slight falling off in poultry exhibits.

Clown Carr, whose funny antics on the platform, were rather amusing to the crowd, was not the sensation he promised he would be, and it is not likely that he will be asked to return next year.

The Walkerton Band furnished an abundance of excellent music, and their services were thoroughly appreciated.

All the booths report a good afternoon's business.

A grand dance in the town hall on the evening was well attended. Chesley Orchestra furnished excellent music for the occasion.

The prize list will be found on another page of this issue.

Half Holiday Over. The weekly half holiday which local business men have been enjoying during the summer, came to an end last Thursday. The summer has been all too short and those who knocked off for the half day each week cannot be blamed for doing so.

Take Notice! That owing to the fact that there is a large crop of apples all over Ontario this season, I am compelled to take in most of my apples in trade. Soft and small apples will not be taken in. Further notice will be given if there is any change. Watch the paper every week. Wm. V. Schaus, Neustadt, Phone 24.

MOTORISTS WARNED OF MONOXIDE PERIL.

Now that the summer season is drawing to a close, with the nippy days of fall at the threshold, thousands of motorists will pause in their junketings to give the car a thorough overhauling. This, in itself, is a prudent procedure, but during the time spent in the garage it is well to keep in mind that there is an ever-lurking peril in carbon monoxide, which escapes so stealthily from the motor exhaust.

Experts have devoted much time and study to the dangers attendant to these fumes and have warned the public a number of times of the disastrous results which may occur unless due care is exercised. Do not work under a machine with the motor running, even though it is in the open air, they say. Guard against running an automobile engine in a poorly ventilated or closed garage. Sitting in a closed car with the engine running is dangerous; always have the windows open.

Persons wishing to avoid this dangerous gas must see to it that their garages are well ventilated. They should avoid exposure to carbon monoxide and, where it is necessary to come into contact with it, protective equipment should be provided.

Carbon monoxide is doubly dangerous, the experts declare, because it is hard to detect in the air. It has no odor and is tasteless. Symptoms are readily found, however. A slight case finds the victim suffering from headache. As the percentage of carbon monoxide in the blood increases the headache becomes more severe. The victim's legs weaken and respiration increases. Then comes a collapse, followed by unconsciousness and finally death.

Peat As An Aid in Solving Fuel Problem.

In 1918 the Dominion and Ontario Governments jointly appointed a committee to investigate whether or not peat fuel could be produced commercially. This committee existed for five years, by which time the investigations had been carried far enough to point the way to capitalists and industrialists for the successful manufacture of a domestic and industrial fuel from Canada's peat resources.

That the work of the committee is being brought to a fruition commensurate with the $350,000 governmental expenditure appears to be evident from the present operations of a company formed with private capital to develop the peat bogs at Alfred, Ontario, about forty miles east of Ottawa.

On 15th July a visit was paid to Alfred by officials attached to the Dominion Fuel Board and in their opinion the progress attained by the company, considering the delay in commencing this summer's operations, far exceeded expectations. The machines, all electrically driven, were running smoothly. In the process in use an excavator cuts the peat and scoops it up into a series of moving buckets which upturn into a trough that runs the watery mass to a small mill; there, it is macerated by a number of rapidly moving, small hammers. From the macerator the peat pulp emerges on a belt conveyor, 850 feet long, which feeds it to a spreader. This latter machine moves slowly, parallel to the continuously moving belt, cutting the peat into briquets and laying them on the ground to be air-dried. From the excavation to the spreading one, uninterrupted, machine operation.

Notwithstanding that it requires at least forty days for the briquets to dry there were two to three thousand tons of peat ready for harvesting and shipment to Montreal, Ottawa, and other centres within economic haulage of Alfred. The company anticipates the retailing of peat at prices that will result in a saving of at least $6 in fuel costs to each householder who uses peat in place of imported anthracite during the stages of the winter season when the severity of the cold is less marked.

The development of the Dominion's resources for the purpose of replacing imports is a matter that directly or indirectly benefits every Canadian. Therefore the extraction of peat from the bog at Alfred is a step in the right direction, regardless of the fact that the company's output can contribute in only a minor way to the solution of Canada's fuel problem this year. Should the venture prove financially successful the way will be paved for the commercial development of numbers of bogs elsewhere in Canada, particularly in the acute fuel zone, and the resulting greatly increased output of peat will render Canada less dependent on imported fuels, which at present constitute the largest item on the wrong side of the Dominion's international trade account.

Tough Chicken.

The minister had come to dinner, which necessitated the killing of a hen on short notice. After dinner, while sitting on the lawn, a brood of chicks kept coming up, cheeping plaintively, and time and again the small boy from the family drove them away. Finally, exasperated, he gave them a big "shoo," and added: "You needn't come around me cheeping. There sets the man that set yer maw!"

The Right Idea.

The little girl was taught to close her evening prayer during the temporary absence of her father with: "And please watch over my Daddy." It sounded very sweet, but the mother's amazement may be imagined when the child added: "And you'd better keep an eye on Mummy, too."

WILL GUIDE DESTINIES OF HYDRO

Charles Alexander Magrath, who has been appointed chairman of the Ontario Hydro-electric commission in succession to the late Sir Adam Beck. Mr. Magrath is chairman of the Deep Waterways Commission and was former Dominion fuel controller. He is an engineer by training and drafted the first Ontario good roads report for Sir James Whitney. The Premier says the appointment is decidedly non-political.

Caring for the Farm Tools.

The crop of 1925 will soon be secure against weather conditions. Grains and root crops, hay and ensilage will be ready to turn into money either by means of feeding to live stock or direct sale. The farmer can then commence to ease off slightly. There is one thing, however, that should be given attention. Have the plow, the hayrake, the mower, or the many other farm implements been put away where they will be protected against the rains and snows between now and next spring, when they will be required again? The other day in a short trip made by a member of the staff of the Department of the Interior, it hurt to see how many implements that had cost the farmer good money were left in the corners of the fields where they had been last used. Much of the farmers' hard work was represented in the value of the implements, and it did seem a pity to see so much human energy wasted. Next spring, when actively again reigns in the development of Canada's greatest natural resource—the land—someone may have to go without what he would like to buy because the money is needed to replace a neglected plow or some other implement. It would be much more satisfactory to have the present plow in good condition and save regrets.

It is regrettable the waste that is taking place in valuable farm implements, and it is suggested that each and every farmer give this matter attention, and pass the word along to "save the farm implements."

John's Taxi Bill.

A Chinese taxi driver, says a newspaper, rendered the following bill to a customer:

"Bill for taxi ride—

At $0.50 a went, $5.00"

Accompanied by a suite of more than twenty people and two hundred trunks, the Maharajah of Patina arrived recently in London, where a whole wing of a famous hotel had been reserved for him.

Banknotes recently circulated in the "Republic" by the Riffs were printed in three languages. First came, in English, "State Bank of the Riffs"; then an Arabic inscription, followed by a statement of the note's value in both English and French.

New Road Map of New Brunswick.

"I was most delighted with the condition of the roads down in New Brunswick." This was the way an enthusiastic Ontario motorist expressed his appreciation of the touring conditions in the province by the sea. New Brunswick has good roads—they are the result of long-time construction and of efficient up-keep. They are practically all hard gravel roads, of which material New Brunswick has an ample supply; the result is that even after a wet period, the drainage provided soon dries up the surface.

The fact that these good motor roads are available is very materially increased their use. Touring parties from other portions of Canada and the neighboring states are visiting the province in increasing numbers, to the benefit of both residents and visitors.

The Natural Resources Intelligence Service, recognizing this intensity of motoring in the province, has just issued a most useful map, known as the "New Brunswick Motor Roads and Recreational Map." The map shows at a glance the motor roads of the province, segregating in colors the trunk roads, secondary roads and other roads. Tourist camp sites are marked, as are also towns with hotel accommodation. An interesting feature of the map is the indication of the accessible points to hunting and fishing resorts, while the areas where game and fish are to be found are shown in color. The map is on an easy scale and will fill a pressing need among those residents in the province and others, who have in mind a visit thereto. Copies of the map may be obtained from the Director, Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Dept. of the Interior at Ottawa.

Difference in Brains.

The brain of mammals is composed of five parts: the medulla oblongata, the cerebellum, the cerebrum visible from above, and the midbrain and interbrain lying beneath the cerebrum. The intelligence of an animal seems to depend largely on the size and structure of the cerebrum.

In the lower mammals the surface is quite smooth, while in the rabbit and cat it is somewhat convoluted, and in ape and man the convolutions become very numerous.

The average weight of the male human brain is about three pounds; of a female about two and two-thirds pounds.

The human brain is one forty-fourth the weight of the body; the ape's one twenty-ninth; the rat's one eighty-second; the sheep's one three hundred and fifty-first, and the elephant's one five-hundredth.

The brain of man is larger than that of any other animal except the whale and elephant.

The brain of a large whale weighs over four pounds, while that of a large elephant will weigh about ten pounds.

Mangrove Forests.

Many valuable products come from the mangrove forests of Siam, which cover an estimated area of 320,000 acres.

"There is no standard pronunciation of English because the language is constantly changing," said an expert recently.

Treasure in a Turban.

One of the oddest episodes in the history of the Koh-i-noor diamond is the manner in which Nadir Shah, the Persian conqueror, obtained it from Mahammed Shah, the last representative of the Mogal line.

The Persian, having sought in vain for the stone among the plunder of the Mogal Court, learnt at last, from a woman of Mohammed Shah's harem, that the Emperor wore it concealed in his turban, which he never, night or day, removed from his head.

Nadir Shah, determined on its possession, devised a plan for securing it which is not without a tinge of humor. Seated in ceremonious Durbar with his host and prisoner, he suggested the not unusual courtesy of exchanging turbans as a sign of friendship, and before the subjugated Emperor had had time to protest or think of a way out of the difficulty, his own simple muslin turban was on the head of his adversary, who had presented him in exchange with his national headdress, ornamented with jewels.

Mohammed Shah, it is said, preserved such a cool demeanor over the affair that the conqueror became filled with anxiety lest after all he had not succeeded in possessing himself of the stone. Dismissing the Durbar as soon as he could, he retired in haste to his own apartments and tore the turban from his head. In the process of unfolding it a little package fell out! "Koh-i-noor! A mountain of light," exclaimed Nadir, and the name has clung to the diamond ever since.

A GRATEFUL LETTER

From a Lady Made Well by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I wish from my heart I could persuade every person who is run down in health to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial." Thus writes Mrs. Louise Mitchell, Oak Point, Man., who further says:—"About a year ago I was a weak woman, suffering from a run down system and impoverished blood. Any little exertion would cause my legs to tremble and my heart to throb violently. I could not sweep a room or walk fifty feet without being exhausted. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking only six boxes I am as well and strong as ever. I can walk and run without stopping every few seconds gasping for breath as previously. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be my stand-by in the future if ever my blood needs building up again, and I shall always find pleasure in recommending them to anyone needing a tonic.

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood which can easily be overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The sole mission of this medicine is to enrich and purify the blood and when that is done all the varied symptoms of anaemia disappear, and good health returns. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Family of Z's.

Some persons have a queer, not to say a perverse, humor in names, and when they happen to be parents they often inflict on their offspring names that are a lifelong embarrassment. A writer in the Boston Herald recalls the case of a man named Zuriel Cook, who, having been cursed with an outlandish name, determined that all his children should suffer with him.

Zuriel Cook married Polly Lombard at Henderson, New York, early in the nineteenth century. His large family of children were named as follows: Zuriel, Zeressa, Zeremo, Zelinus, Zephronia, Zerodia, Zedina, Zegotus, Zelora, Zethaniel, Zeruth, Zelobus, Zedelia and last of all James.

It is fair to presume that James was a posthumous child. If Mr. Cook had lived the boy would probably have been named Zephaniah or Zerubbabel.

Regarded as the largest of its kind in the world, an oak-tree was recently blown down in California. It is believed to be from 700 to 1,000 years old.

A Poem You Should Know.

"Sigh No More, Ladies."
Many gam-like songs are found in Shakespeare's plays. The following is Balthasar's song in "Much Ado About Nothing":—

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more;
Men were deceivers ever;
One foot in sea, and one on shore;
To one thing constant never;
Then sigh not so, but let them go,
And be you blithe and bonny;
Converting all your sounds of woe
Into, Hey nonny, nonny.

Sing no more ditties, sing no more
Of dumps so full and heavy;
Of frauds of men was ever so,
Since summer first was leavy.
Then sigh not so, but let them go,
And be you blithe and bonny;
Converting all your sounds of woe
Into, Hey nonny, nonny.

Steering in Their Sleep.

It was recently stated that a motorist had been fatally injured in a road accident caused by dozing while he was driving.

A number of motoring experts seem to incline to the view that many drivers have dozed at the driving wheel at one time or other during their career. But they add that usually in such cases the man who dozes is still perfectly capable of driving his car without danger to himself or other passengers.

One case which occurred during the War seems to suggest that, in such circumstances, some special instinct keeps the sleeper right. An Engineer who was driving for the General Staff was ordered out with a big car after a heavy day. He found it difficult to keep awake, and finally succumbed to sleep. He was unconscious for about ten minutes, when he suddenly awoke to find that he had brought his car correctly to a standstill in front of a closed level crossing.

Sentence Sermons.

A Good Loser—Always has more friends than a poor winner.

—Finds it easy to accept defeat by remembering that to-morrow means a new chance.

—Is one who keeps his self-respect even though he loses the game.

—Has never lost until he loses his head.

—Is always the first to get a new opportunity.

—Is one who put principles above profits.

—Saves the time that poor losers spend framing up alibis.

There are crises in every man's life. One of the most fateful is when the harber gets to your Adam's apple just when you've got to swallow.

Ditto is the English form of the Italian word detto. In the original it means "as aforesaid."

Mother-in-Law's Mistakes.

The mother-in-law of a young wife is undoubtedly in a difficult position. She has brought up her son, often at very great sacrifice. When he comes to her with the news that he has decided to get married she is full of mixed feelings.

Every mother is terrified that her son will not be good enough for her boy. She looks at her with critical eyes, and later on, after the wedding, cannot resist pointing out the young wife's mistakes to her, and pointing them out also to her husband.

The young wife won't understand her mother-in-law's feelings until she is a mother-in-law herself.

Most of the interferences of relatives is meant kindly, although it is done so clumsily that it fails absolutely in its object.

The little blunders of early married life never do much harm, certainly not so much harm as the quarrels that ensue when relatives interfere.

The greatest mistake young married people can make is to live with the parents of either, after marriage.

The first year of marriage is a year of adjustments. Young people, during an engagement, see each other at their best. After marriage they find out all sorts of little things about each other, things that disappoint, until tenderness and tolerance help them to bear them.

If they are alone these differences soon fade. When relations are there the temptation to confide is too great to resist, and once a third person is dragged in, all the privacy that is so important a part of married life, vanishes.

Young people should start nest-building alone, even if they can get only one room. And relations will, if they are wise, stand aloof until the period of adjustment is past.

Color Six Centuries Old.
Beige, the fashionable color of the day, was popular six centuries and more ago. Monks who illuminated old manuscripts used this color for garbing their saints and angels.

How Plants Travel.

People would be surprised if told that the dandelion growing on their back lawn had its origin in Africa. Yet this might easily be so, for seeds do travel in the most remarkable way.

How, then, do they do it? One way is by air. Those that travel in this manner have a kind of wing or parachute attached to their seed, by means of which they can be carried by the wind for miles before they finally come to earth and grow.

Others travel the aid of a light float take a sea voyage and travel with the current of the water for great distances. But by far the most interesting way of all is the seed that travels with animals and birds. This is done with the help of a hooked attachment which clings to the animal's fur.

Charles Darwin once took from the foot of a wandering bird a small fragment of hardened earth; this he moistened and warmed, and waited with curiosity to see whether or not anything would grow from it. To his surprise no fewer than eighty plants sprang from this small portion of soil.

MANY MOTHERS RECOMMEND THEM

Baby's Own Tablets Are Fine for Nervous, Sleepless Children.

From Canada the fame of Baby's Own Tablets is spreading over the world. Mothers recommend them to other mothers and wherever they are tried nothing but words of praise are heard for these pleasant tasting little tablets that promptly relieve the minor ailments of young children.

"Baby's Own Tablets are one of the best remedies for children's ailments I have ever used," says Mrs. Arthur T. Allen, of Auburn, Me. "My little girl was nervous and could not sleep. I tried the tablets and she was relieved at once. She was also troubled with constipation and nothing seemed to help her. I had used the tablets but a short time before her bowels were regular. All mothers should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house for they are a valuable remedy."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little booklet, "Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness," will be sent free to any mother on request.

Britain Leads in Wireless Progress.

The new wireless station which the British Government expects to open next year at Rugby will make it possible for Great Britain to talk to the entire world without the aid of intermediaries. Trials start in November, with twelve "Eiffel Towers," as the giant masts, which rise 300 feet in the air, are called. Never before has the Eiffel Tower in Paris been approached so nearly in height within the British Empire, although the famous tower in Paris is 90 feet high. The masts are among the tallest in the world, and are twice the height of St. Paul's dome. Five other stations are being built simultaneously with Rugby—at Bodmin, Bridgewater, Skegness, Grimsby and Doncaster. Britain confidently hopes to lead the world in wireless development, and link up with the Mother Country not only the far-flung Dominions and colonies, but every other part of the world.

Had Acquired the Taste.
Missionary (much encouraged)—
"So you like religion very much?"
Cannibal—"Yes, we acquired a taste for it from the last two missionaries we had."

Sheep on Manitoulin Island.

Sheep raising has, for many years, been an important branch of farming on Manitoulin Island, Ontario. Besides the good outlet for lambs to tourist camps during the summer months, large numbers of lambs have been marketed in the fall in Toronto and other centres. Owing to a dry season a few years ago, the sheep population of the island fell away to some extent, but it is steadily building up and with better stock than was previously raised.

Last Liar Has Best Chance.

"When I was in India," said the club bore, "I saw a tiger come down to the water where some women were washing clothes. It was a very fierce tiger, but one woman with great presence of mind, splashed com water in its face—and it slunk away."
"Gentlemen," said a man in an arm chair, "I can vouch for the truth of this story. Some minutes after the incident occurred, I was coming down to the water. I met this tiger, and as is my habit, stroked his whiskers. Gentlemen, those whiskers were wet."

Willy's Proxy.

"Willy, won't you have some more ice cream?"
"No, ma'am. Mother says I don't want any more."

Perhaps you are using good tea. We think "Red Rose" extra good. Won't you try it?

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

The same good tea for 30 years.

THE MERCHANTS' CORNER

Planning Your Advertising.

The oftener your advertising appears, the quicker it builds up a following and the more productive it becomes. The thing to do then is to make sure your advertising appears in the most of those possibilities every day. You must never let the public forget you. You must never give even your established trade a chance to forget you. You must exert every effort to bring in more frequently the occasional customer, and to get an ever increasing number of brand new customers. The spending of your advertising appropriation must be spread through the entire year. The newspaper holding marked advantages obtainable in no other way, should have the bulk of the advertising. Seventy-five per cent. of the appropriation to be used in the newspapers is a conservative allotment.

A Grim Jest!

When the Titanic disaster horrified the civilized world, one of the tales of miraculous escape concerned Oscar Palmquist, of Bridgeport, Conn. When the Titanic smashed into the ice-cold midnight waters of the Atlantic, he swam for hours, hopeless of saving his life, but dauntlessly refusing to let himself give up. The icy waters chilled him to the bone. He was bruised and battered by floating debris. Again and again the waves broke over his head, or eddies sucked him under.

But he swam on! kept afloat by his indomitable will-power and by his strength and prowess as a swimmer. At last after many hours, a rescue ship picked him up, more dead than alive. He recovered quickly from his hideous experience none the worse for it. A few months ago the newspapers recorded Palmquist's death. He was drowned in a pool barely six feet deep.

The Price Cutter.

Tell me not in smiling numbers,
Selling costs are what they seem,
And the man who cuts for orders
Gets the lion's share of cream.
If you strive to build a business,
Do not be a human sieve—
Letting leak your needed profit,
Trusting luck will let you live.
Lives of dead ones all remind us
What it means to sell on guess;
Their departure makes us keener
To sell right and not sell less.
For no trade can long be loyal
To a man who's all regrets—
Can't deliver—whose just living
On the interest of his debts.

Scenery Under the Sea.

The reported discovery of a plateau only 150ft. beneath the surface of the Atlantic serves to remind us how little we know of the portion of the earth's surface—nearly three-fourths of the whole—that is covered by the sea.

It was only in 1901 that the stupendous Britannia submarine mountain range was discovered by the cable ship Britannia in the South Pacific. The Edward VII. range, too, in the North Atlantic, was unknown to oceanographers until comparatively lately, although some peaks rise to within 100 fathoms of the surface. Near by is Mount Laura Ethel, its summit only thirty-six fathoms below.

PAINS IN LEFT SIDE AND BACK

Other Troubles Women Often Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back, and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Montreal Standard' and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. ROSE, 590 Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Quebec.

Doctor Said an Operation

Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I felt much better and now have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chore. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. ADAMS, Box 64, Provost, Alberta. O.

 The only honorable and honest way to stop a newspaper is to step into the office and pay up all arrears, get a receipt and have your name on the list. To fire your paper back at the publisher marked "refused" when you owe four or five years and never go near the office is not only irreputable but superlatively dishonest as well.

Answer THE WIN $1000
 The Mail and Empire's "T-Word" Picture Puzzle Game

How Many Objects Beginning With the Letter "T" Can You Find in This Picture?
 Here's a Picture Puzzle which contains a number of objects beginning with the letter "T". Just take a good look at the picture—there are all sorts of things that begin with the letter "T"—like traps, traps, turtles, etc., and all the other objects are equally clear. See how many you can find. This is not a trick puzzle; nothing is hidden and you don't have to turn the picture up-side-down or sideways.
 Fifty cash prizes will be given for the 50 best lists of words submitted in answer to this Puzzle. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of visible objects shown in the picture that start with the letter "T" will be awarded first prize; second best, second prize; etc.

Try This Fun Game---Win $1,000

You can't help enjoying this new Picture Puzzle. Let's all join in and have a jolly good time. No matter what your age is, or how old you are, try your hand at this one. It is different to any you have tried before. It is really not a puzzle at all, for all the objects have been made perfectly plain, with no attempt to disguise or hide them: now are so small but the poorest eyesight can see them. Get a pencil and paper and see how many "T-words" you can find.
 These "T" words are: Traps, traps, turtles, etc., and all the other objects are equally clear. See how many you can find. This is not a trick puzzle; nothing is hidden and you don't have to turn the picture up-side-down or sideways.
 Fifty cash prizes will be given for the 50 best lists of words submitted in answer to this Puzzle. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of visible objects shown in the picture that start with the letter "T" will be awarded first prize; second best, second prize; etc.

MISS ANGUS CAMPBELL WON $1,000
 We have already paid thousands of dollars in prizes. In recent Puzzle Games, Miss Angus Campbell, Forest, Ont., won $1,000; Miss Lucy Wrenshaw, Call, Ont., won $1,000; Mrs. J. J. Williams, Williamsburg, Ont., won $1,000; Mrs. Thomas Patterson, Athens, Ont., won $1,000; and Mrs. J. J. Marmora, Ont., also won $1,000.
 Mr. G. M. Carmichael, Welland, Ont., won $200, and Mrs. Emma Moore, Call, Ont., won $200.
 Mrs. R. S. Morphy, Walkerville, Ont., won $100, and Mrs. L. Stewart, Alliston, Ont., won $100, while Mrs. V. C. Sharpe, Glen Allen, Ont., won $100, and Mrs. F. MacMillan, Ottawa, Ont., and Mrs. George MacIntosh, Monksland, Ont., each won $50.
 And, now, let's see your opportunity.

OBSERVE THESE EASY RULES

1. Any man, woman or child who lives in Canada and is not a resident of Toronto, and who is not in the employ of The Mail and Empire, may participate in the game.
2. Entries must be submitted in former Puzzle Games conducted by The Mail and Empire winning $200.00 or more are not eligible to participate in this Puzzle.
3. All answers must be mailed by October 15th, 1925, and addressed to C. A. Montgomery, Puzzle Manager, Mail and Empire.
4. All lists of names should be written on one side of the paper, and numbered consecutively 1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address in the upper right hand corner. If you desire to write anything else use a separate sheet.
5. Only such words as appear in Webster's Dictionary will be counted. Do not use hyphenated, compound or obsolete words. When the plural is used the singular cannot be counted, and vice versa.
6. Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate different objects or articles. An object or article can be named only once.
7. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of names of visible objects in the picture that begin with the letter "T" will be awarded First Prize, etc. Neatness, style or handwriting have no bearing upon deciding the winners.
8. Any number of people may co-operate in answering the Puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household; but prizes will be awarded to more than one of any group where two of more, begin working together.
9. In the event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be awarded to each tied participant.
10. Subscriptions (both new and renewal) payable in advance of $5.00 per year by mail or $3.00 per year delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton, will be accepted.
11. All answers will receive the same consideration regardless of whether or not a subscription to The Mail and Empire is sent in.
12. Three prominent Toronto citizens having no connection with The Mail and Empire will be selected as judges to decide the winners, and participants, by sending in their answers, agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.
13. The judges will meet on October 17th, and announcement of the Prize Winners and correct list of words will be published in The Mail and Empire as quickly thereafter as it is possible, at any rate not later than three weeks.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES— PAYABLE IN ADVANCE
 The Mail and Empire anywhere in Canada by mail $5.00 per year. Delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton, $3.00 per year.

You Can Win $1,000

The "T" Word Picture Puzzle Game is a campaign to increase the popularity of The Mail and Empire. It costs nothing to take part and you do not have to spend a single subscription to win a prize. If your list of "T" Words is awarded First Prize by the judges you will win $100; but if you would like to get more than $20, we are making the following special offer whereby you can win bigger cash prizes by sending ONE or TWO yearly subscriptions to The Mail and Empire.

HERE'S HOW: If your answer to the "T" Word Picture Puzzle with First Prize and you have sent in ONE yearly subscription to The Mail and Empire at $5.00 by mail or $3.00 delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton, you will receive $500.00, instead of $50, second prize $250.00; third prize $250.00, and so forth. (See second column of figures in prize list.)

Or, if your answer wins First Prize and you have sent in TWO yearly subscriptions to The Mail and Empire, you will receive $1,000 in place of $500, second prize $500, third prize $250, and so forth. (See third column of figures in prize list.)

Isn't that a liberal offer! But look! We will give extra amounts on all prizes in the same manner. If your answer is qualified by TWO yearly subscriptions and you win fourth prize, you will receive $100, and so on down the prize list.

Your own subscription will count, or subscriptions to start at some future date. Just write on the order when you want the paper started, and it will start immediately on that date.

This offer applies to RURAL ROUTE patrons as well as subscribers living in cities and towns. If you are already receiving The Mail and Empire, your subscription will be extended from its present expiration.

A World-wide System Of Financial Service

By telephone you can talk with your neighbour or with an individual thousands of miles away. By telegraph you can span the continent; by cable your message can girdle the earth.

In like manner you can use the service of the Bank of Montreal in little or large measure as the occasion demands.

You can transact business of a purely local nature or enter into financial dealings with people in any part of the world.

Like the telephone, telegraph or cable, our system of financial service is as extensive as are the needs of our customers.

SCHOOL DRILL

GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE

The three Hepworth youths, Clarence Playfair, Charles Scarrow and Mace Ferguson, who were arrested by Chief of Police McClevis some time ago and charged with burglarizing the barber shop at Hepworth on the night of August 23rd, who subsequently pleaded guilty to offence, and were remanded for sentence, came before Magistrate Macartney in the police court on Tuesday. The boys were very penitent and expressed sorrow at what they had done and promised to be good in the future. They were then given a sound lecture by the Magistrate and allowed to go on suspended sentence for a year, giving a bond for their good behavior. James Cochran, charged with having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling, was convicted and fined $100 and costs, or two months in jail. James did not have the cash.—Times.

The bald and bobbed may be interested in the report that wigs made of chicken feathers are the latest dome decorations in Paris. Something to cackle about.

A barn owned by Mrs. William A. Pelton, near Listowel, was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire about 1.30 Friday morning during one of the worst thunderstorms seen in the locality. The barn was situated in a field some distance from Mrs. Pelton's house, and was filled with hay owned by Jack Wright. Both barn and contents were completely destroyed in short time. Both were insured. There was no live stock in the barn, but two cows owned by Mr. Hollinger were pastured in the field, and that morning their charred remains were discovered at the corner of the barn.

CASE ENLARGED

Last Friday afternoon Magistrate Macartney presided at Court at Kincardine when Samuel Hodgins, Con. S. Bruce, appeared on the charge of the attempted murder of Latchford Thacker of Kinloss Township. O. E. Klein of Walkerton is for the defence and Mr. Freeborn, County Crown Attorney, is prosecuting. The latter stated that as Thacker is confined to bed as a result of his injuries, he must ask for a remand and wished a long one. The case was adjourned until Friday, October 30th, at 2.30 p.m. Hodgins' bail at $6,000 was renewed.

The fact that the defendant is allowed out on bail probably points to the fact that the court does not hold to the seriousness of the charge that it implies, and it is possible that it will be reduced before court proceedings are completed.

Thacker has also entered a civil action through his lawyer, R. J. Stewart, of Kincardine, for $5,000 damages for injuries received.

LAW SUIT OVER CAR HITTING A COW

(From The Durham Review)

Before Police Magistrate Laidlaw in the Hall here last Saturday night Mr. William Morrison of the Garra Road, north of Mount Forest, was the plaintiff in an action for damages against Clifford Whiteford, son of Mr. Jno. Whiteford, of Hampden. Mr. Whiteford in passing Morrison's cows on the highway there a week previous had hit one at end of bumper, breaking its hind leg. This cow had suddenly turned and was walking angleways across the road, and he claimed if he had swerved his car to avoid it altogether, he would have struck other cows. Morrison's two little sons were driving them to pasture, but the lads were so far behind, that the Magistrate deemed them to be at large on the highway.

When the accident occurred, no other car or person was in sight, and Whiteford and his companions might have disappeared. Instead he sought the owner, which he found to be Mr. Morrison, and without acknowledging responsibility, offered him $15 on his loss, as the animal had to be killed and was later sold to a butcher for $12. This, Morrison did not accept, but afterwards called at the Whiteford home to make a settlement but Whiteford then declined. Accordingly Morrison entered action and had Barrister Klein of Walkerton, as prosecuting attorney, while Barrister Middlebro defended Whiteford. In evidence, Whiteford admitted his brakes were not in good order, and was travelling about 20 miles per hour just before using his brakes, to pass the cow. On this account the magistrate imposed a minimum fine of $10 and costs upon Whiteford for reckless driving, but would impose no penalty for the accident to the animal. Whiteford is an experienced driver, and had his car been in good order, might have escaped any penalty, and possibly the accident as well.

A REAL HOME

A lady received the following reply from a neighbor in answer to the question why she allowed her children and husband to litter up every room in the house, and the sentiment will find lodgment in the heart of every home-loving person in the land. "The mark of the little muddy feet upon the floor can be easier removed than the stain when those little feet go down into the highways of evil. The prints of the little fingers on the window panes cannot shut out the sunshine half so much as the shadow that darkens the mother's heart over the one who is but a name through the coming years. And if my John finds his home a refuge from care and trouble, and his greatest happiness within its four walls, he can put his boots in the rocking chair and hang his coat up on the floor every day in the week. And if I can stand it and he enjoys it, I cannot see that it is anybody else's business."

A lone male timber wolf which has been terrorizing the Port Talbot and Fingal district for over a month, was killed on the towline between Dunwich and Southwold Tuesday last by a posse of 150 hunters, under the leadership of Sheriff Harding. The wolf measured six feet long with a massive head and characteristic wolf fangs. He weighed over 200 pounds, was black in color, with an undercoat of gray. The animal was finally cornered on a bit of slushing on the William House farm, one and a half miles east of Port Talbot. The lone marauder had pillaged many of the stock farms on the Scotch and Lake roads, taking a toll of at least 20 suckling pigs, 12 sheep, several calves, a number of geese, besides injuring much large stock, such as cows and steers while in pasture.

REGULATION REGARDING VOTERS' REGISTRATION

Various amendments made during the revision of the Canadian Election Act will be effective in the coming contest. The voting lists are to be prepared somewhat differently this time. For groups of urban polling divisions the returning officer appoints registrars. At offices in the city, voters must appear either in person, or in case of illness or necessary absence by a relative or employer, and establish their qualifications as voters.

At the conclusion of their sittings for registration which continue for 6 days, urban registrars post three copies of the lists of voters they have made up, one copy being posted in the city or town hall and the other two in the polling division to which the list relates. With each copy is posted notice of the sittings for the revision of the lists. These sittings are held by the county or district judge, or by someone appointed by him, on the six week days intervening between the twenty-first and fifteenth days before polling day, both inclusive. Any qualified voter, whose name has not been included in the registrar's list may appear before the revising officer and apply to have his name added.

Objections to the inclusion of names in the lists may be made in either of two ways: If the objection is made on oath before the registrar the person against whose qualification the objection is directed must appear before the revising officer and give satisfactory evidence that he is duly qualified; objection may, however, also be made by registered letter addressed to the person concerned, but on an objection made this way the onus is upon the objector. After the conclusion of the sittings the revising officer closes the lists and has them printed for distribution. No one whose name does not appear upon the list for an urban polling division can vote.

"JUMPING JACK" IN TWO BAD ACCIDENTS

One Driver Has Ribs Broken, Occupant Suffers Broken Leg, and Other Driver Also Hurt

Two bad spills brought grief to the "Jumping Jack" which was one of the featured attractions of the Hanover Fair.

J. H. Swayne of Toronto was under contract to jump off an elevated platform, 16 ft. long and 4 ft. high at the end, both afternoon and evening of Fair days, with a car. The previous Wednesday evening he was out for a spin, accompanied by Roy Hillgartner of town, and when coming towards town at the outskirts of Chesley, the car somersaulted at a corner. Swayne had several ribs broken, and Hillgartner suffered a broken leg. They were brought to the Hanover hospital, where they are still confined. The car was repaired, and Swayne had F. Saralli come here to do the jumping act on Thursday afternoon, and he made the attempt. However, he was unsuccessful in an attempt to accomplish the feat. Apparently could not get up enough speed and when his car reached the end of the platform, which was placed on the home stretch of the race track, the front wheels went straight down off the end, and the car somersaulted twice. Saralli was under the car, and badly dazed. The car, however, did not land on but turned over ahead, thus avoiding almost certain death. He was taken to the hospital, but was out again in a day or two, still suffering with a sore shoulder, on which he alighted. The car was a new Chevrolet chassis, secured through the Hanover Iron Works, and was badly smashed in the accident. The performance was therefore not staged on Friday.—Hanover Post.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN HUEHN

The death occurred in Neustadt last Friday of Mr. John Huehn, aged 74 years, 1 month and 6 days. Deceased had been ailing since last February with Bright's disease. The late Mr. Huehn was born in Essen, Germany, and came to this country with his parents when ten years of age. At the age of 22 years, he married Christina Weigel, and they took up residence on Lot 11, Con. 16, Neustadt, which was their home up to 18 years ago, when they moved to Neustadt. This union was blessed with six children, as follows: Albert who died in his twelfth year, of Normandy, Charles of Neustadt, Albert on the homestead, Rev. Jacob of Random Lake, Wis., and Frieda (Mrs. Wm. Allenson) of Carrick. There are also 22 grandchildren. The late Mr. Huehn enjoyed very good health throughout life, was of a quiet disposition, and a good laborer. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon to St. Peter's German cemetery, Neustadt, followed by a memorial service in the church. The pastor, Rev. G. H. Riemer, conducted the obsequies.—Hanover Post.

Garden Geography.

A garden, delightful as it is in actual fact, is full of suggestion of all sorts of interesting things beyond its material boundaries. There are the associations of flowers and gardens with literature, and in a lesser but fascinating degree with history; and there is one gardener at least, mistress of only a little garden, from which she is rarely able to travel far, whose flowers—and some of them those accounted the most common and domesticated—continually invite her to picture in her mind the far and foreign lands, the towering mountains, the spacious plains, the tangled forests, the chill glacial valleys, the hot and steaming marshes from which they originally came.

"Here's a handful of nasturtiums," she will say. "Good to look at, good to smell, good for prostatic pickles. Their ancestors came from Chile. Sort of neighbors, maybe, to this marvel of Peru; the name tells where that came from. Iceland poppies, too, and African marigolds, and China asters, and damask roses—that's Damascus, of course,—and Persian lilacs; and as for Japan, there are all sorts of things, Japanese barberry, Japanese snowball, Japanese dwarf maple, Japanese plum, Japanese cherry, Japanese iris.

"Iris, now; there's nothing lovelier or more interesting. It's a flower of history and romance—the fleur-de-lis of ancient royal France, the lily of Florence, the flower-de-luce of Shakespeare and the English poets, and one of the flowers honored by Japan, in company with the cherry blossom and the chrysanthemum. And think, too, of all the places where it grows that have sent us the many beautiful kinds we can have, even in a little garden like mine. There's German iris, and English iris, and Spanish iris, and Japanese iris, and Siberian iris—I've those right here.

"We used to think of Siberia, when I was a little girl, as a land of exiles and wolves and snowdrifts; but you'll find 'Siberia' tucked on to a fine lot of names in the catalogues.

"Iceland poppies and Siberian iris! Suppose it isn't really cold there when they're in bloom, but I'm going to give you a few; it sounds so cool and comforting on a hot day to have things from Siberia and Iceland!

"Make a look around your garden when you go home and study its general geography a bit, my dear. I promise you'll find it worth while."

Where Weddings Are Rare.

A wedding in St. Paul's Cathedral is an extremely rare event, but there is still living at least one member of the House of Lords who must be keenly interested in the condition and preservation of Wren's beautiful church, because he was married beneath the dome.

This is Earl Fitzwilliam, whose marriage took place in the cathedral in 1896, some years before he succeeded to the title.

Nearly half a century ago a lady mayores, acting for a bachelor Chief Magistrate, was married at St. Paul's, the first wedding for over 100 years—and a few years later the daughter of a dean of St. Paul's was led to the altar there.

Terence tried to conserve his ammunition. But he was forced to fire by the bandits who kept stealing up to the entrance, feigning an attempt to rush in.

Then came a desperate moment when Terence looked grimly at Mary, and whispered tensely: "I've got just one cartridge left." As she looked at him, grasping the significance of his words, both their eyes filling with love at this moment of their extreme peril together, a new horror suddenly transfixed her. From above them had dropped the noose of a lariat, encircling Terence, and quickly drawn back so that it caught him under the armpits. Struggling to free himself, he was lifted from his feet and slowly drawn up the mountainside.

While the others had been drawing Terence's gun-fire, the fourth bandit, under Buck's instructions, had made a detour around the side of the gully, and climbed up to a ledge overlooking the spot where Terence and Mary had barricaded themselves. He was a huge, strapping, muscular fellow, this bandit, and once he had caught Terence in his lariat, had no difficulty in hauling him up.

"Watched over," he was being dragged up, caused Terence to drop his gun. It fell at Mary's feet. Staring at it wild-eyed, she suddenly recovered her presence of mind—snatched it, and taking careful aim, fired upward. The bullet struck the rope, cut into it, the strands parted, and Terence dropped back on the ground beside Mary. Mary knelt beside him and raised him up in her arms. He came out of his daze and staggered up dizzily.

"The battle was on almost before they knew it. The three bandits charged the entrance, and the fourth slid down from his ledge above upon Terence. Terence caught him with the butt of his revolver and laid him out," he said grimly.

CHAPTER X.

BURNING LIPS. "I'm needing a new foreman at the ranch, O'Rourke. Will you help us out?"

Terence looked at Mary. The smile on her lips seemed to say, "Please say yes." He turned back to her father, and answered: "I'll be glad to, sir."

And so it was arranged that Terence should accompany Mary to Latigo to bank the money for the purchase of the 2,000 feeders needed on the ranch, and then go with her to the ranch with the balance of the money to pay off the men.

Mary kissed her father good-bye affectionately, and Terence and she again shook hands. Then the lovers started off on their errand, Marshall having given up his horse to his daughter, mounted double with Mique, and Bud following, started back toward Paradise Canyon. Komi vanished into his hills.

The phone in the Pico-Bar rang. Topaz Taggart and Doc Willets were still sitting at their table awaiting the outcome of their scheme.

"Mr. Taggart," the bartender called. Taggart grabbed the receiver with excitement. A fierce scowl crossed his face as he heard Buck McLeod's voice reporting: "A bird named O'Rourke mixed in and spoiled the play. He and the girl are heading for Latigo to bank the coin. Then they're going to the ranch."

Taggart roared an oath. Then after a moment's thought he commanded into the telephone: "Well, get your boys together, Buck, and come up to the ranch—secretly. I'll have more work for you to do."

Taggart returned to his table. "Marshall's girl got through," he snarled. "She's banking the money in Latigo, and then coming up to the ranch. Some bird named O'Rourke is with her."

Doc Willets whistled meditatively. "Now this Marshall girl mustn't get wise that we framed to have her lose the money," Taggart went on. "I don't want Marshall to know I'm trouble-crossing him until it's too late."

Willets nodded, then asked, with a leer: "Look here, Topaz, what're you so anxious to get hold of Marshall's hand for? You ain't no real dyed-in-the-wool cattlemán."

Taggart, nervously fingering his topaz watch charm, scowled suspiciously at the other man, studying his face, trying to read what was behind the question. Finally he forced a grin, and with assumed good-nature, replied: "Ain't telling you all my secrets, Doc. But you help me get that Marshall ranch and maybe I'll wise you up to a little deal 'I'm aint' to put through with that fool Injun, Komi."

Willets' eyes glanced furtively to the topaz charm and he smiled queerly to himself. Taggart rose. "Well, I better run up to the ranch and prepare for my visitors," he said. Both men grinned.

"I want you to come along with me, Doc," Taggart added, "but not to act on the reception committee. You'll just keep yourself out of the way with the boys, and be ready to help when you're called."

The two men then left the bar, mounted their horses, and galloped off.

"And this is poor Daddy's ranch," Mary's voice trembled with sad emotion. "Think, Terence—fifteen years since I was last here—and then, of course, I was only a little bit of a girl, and I can't remember a thing double it now. Except it all seems vaguely familiar and homelike—as though I belonged here."

They had pulled up their horses in front of the entrance, and were gazing at the corrals, the ranch buildings, and the cowboys trotting hither and thither.

Mary had been impatient to complete her mission. So after arriving in Latigo she and Terence had remained only long enough to deposit $45,000 in the bank, and then had set out at once for the Bar M Ranch. Mary's expression was melancholy as she sat in her saddle, thinking now of the tragic night her father had fled with her in his arms from the very ranch house she was now gazing at, the place that had been his home—and crossed the Mexican border, never to return. Terence reached for her hand, pressed it, they looked into each other's eyes earnestly, and Mary's smile returned.

The door of the ranch house opened and a man came out and strode down the path to meet them. As he reached the gate where they were waiting he raised his hat formally. Mary greeted the man shyly, saying: "I'm Mary Marshall—aren't you Mr. Taggart, my father's friend?"

dion and real delight as he took in the fullness of her beauty. Not in many years had anyone cast such a spell over him. In spite of his hard heart, and the bitter cynicism with which his crafty, evil, villainous life had filled him, there still remained in him something which responded to the delicate, irresistible blue of Mary's eyes, and the wisps of gold which stole prettily from beneath her hat.

"Father sent me with the money for the bills, taxes, marketing of the yearlings, and payrolls," said Mary. "We've made a deposit in the bank at Latigo, and brought up enough with us to pay off the men."

"Oh, yes. The business can wait a little while," replied Taggart, continuing to eye Mary with unconcealed admiration while Terence stood un-suspectably by. "I haven't yet begun to get over the delightful surprise of seeing you. Do come in, Miss Marshall and make yourself comfortable."

"Mr. Taggart, meet my friend, Terence O'Rourke," said Mary, bringing Terence forward to introduce him. If it hadn't been for his help the money would never have reached you."

She beamed dazingly upon Terence, who felt a moment of awkward embarrassment as he grasped Taggart's hand.

Taggart stiffened perceptibly as he greeted O'Rourke. His "glad to meet you" was cold and formal. Some-where back in his head the name O'Rourke beat a familiar sound—his thoughts rolled back the years, and he was suddenly seized by fear—panic showed even in his face for a moment, but he quickly bit it down. Terence's eyes caught a trace of this fleeting emotion of Taggart's, and was puzzled over it.

"Father has appointed Mr. O'Rourke to become the new foreman under me here," Mary announced. "Ah, so—fine—fine," said Taggart. "But do come in now and rest yourselves."

He led the way to the ranch house. As they stepped on the porch Mary paused a moment with her emotions then quickly stepped across the threshold through the door their host was holding open, into the parlor. Terence and Taggart followed, and all three seated themselves.

Mary quickly brought the conversation back to the business at hand, and Taggart, now anxious to get his plans under way, eagerly came back to it. "Well, I'll tell you what, Miss Marshall," he said. "You have brought this money just in the nick of time. We owe for 250 head of cattle already on the ranch, and the cowboys are refusing to work until they get their pay."

Mary handed him the bag containing the remainder of the money. "There's $5,000 in there to take care of the payroll and current bills," she said. "The other things can be taken care of through the bank. I deposited $45,000 there to-day."

"Ah, good enough," said Taggart, taking the bag. "Well, you folks make yourselves at home, and I'll go right out and fix up the boys' back pay, and tell 'em it's round-up day to-morrow."

He smiled jovially at Mary as he passed out the door. Now that they were alone, Terence came over and sat beside Mary on the sofa.

"I can't say that I altogether like this Taggart fellow," he said. "He doesn't look quite—straight, to me. I can't help being suspicious of him."

"Oh, but he's been Daddy's friend for years and years," Mary protested. "Well, I can't help thinking there's something wrong, Mary." He smiled tenderly at her, and added: "Maybe it's simply that I'm jealous because he likes you." His hand sought hers, and their thoughts shifted to sweeter things. Terence's other arm stole around her shoulder and drew her closer to him. "I'd love to have a home like this—with you dearest," he said dreamily.

She replied only with a pressure on his hand, but that spoke volumes. She was dreaming, too. "My lips are still burning from last night," Terence murmured into her ear. "I'm going to kiss you again."

She did not demur. (To be continued.)

SMP Saves $24 A Year Cooking experts figure that the SMP Enameled Ware Roaster will save the average Canadian family fully $24.00 a year in meat bills. The secret is, it roasts the meat with very little shrinkage. Also, it makes cheap cuts taste like the best ones.

You place the roast in the roaster, put on the cover; the roaster does the rest. No basting required. Every roast is perfectly cooked.

The cover fits close, so that cooking odors cannot escape. Grease can't spatter out, which means a sweet clean oven. Prices range from $5c. to $15.00 each, depending on size and finish—and don't forget the saving of $24.00 yearly.

THE PLAITED FROCK FOR GIRLS.

Although simple in line, frocks for the miss from four to twelve years boast plaits and hang straight from the shoulders. The plaits, as arranged in the frocks pictured here, form a narrow panel in the front and back of the dress. Small buttons are used effectively to trim the front in View A, and the high neck is fitted with a round collar. The sleeves are long and gathered into a narrow band. In View B, the low neck and centre-front opening are finished with a binding. The short sleeves have a little cuff, and a narrow belt is set under the edge of the plaits at the sides. The diagram shows the simple design of pattern No. 1158, which is in sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 years requires 2 3/4 yards of 36-inch, or 2 1/2 yards of 40-inch material. Price 20c.

The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are advance styles for the home dressmaker, and the woman or girl who desires to wear garments dependable for taste, simplicity and economy will find her tastes fulfilled in our patterns. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS. Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. An Early Sportsman. Lord Howard De Walden treasures a game licence granted by Henry VIII, on May 31st, 1541, to an earlier Countess of Oxford.

This empowered her to invite her friends to kill game with crossbows or hand guns in any part of the realm, provided these shooting-parties took place only when the Countess herself was present.

The privilege—at first granted orally—was resented by other landowners, who threatened to prosecute the Countess for poaching. Whereupon she induced the King to give her formal permission in writing and to confirm the document by letters patent under the Great Seal.

STRETCH THE MANURE PILE

Some Hints on How This May be Done on the Average Farm.

BY O. B. PRICE.

While manure is not a balanced plant food, it can be made so by the addition of some of the essential elements. Enough manure should be used to meet the needs of the farm. Wherever it is used it is better to use a small amount over a large area than a large amount over a small area. There is no advantage to this, but it does increase the labor cost.

The value of manure can be greatly increased by the addition of some reinforcing material. Gypsum or phosphate are commonly used. Acid phosphate is the best to use. Besides taking up much of the ammonia, which would be lost through fermentation and leaching, it adds an available form of phosphoric acid to the manure. This is important, for manure is low in phosphoric acid. When acid phosphate is used at the rate of forty to fifty pounds per ton of manure it supplies plenty of available phosphoric acid for the average crops. Limestone may be used with manure but it will not have the same effect on the ammonia that acid phosphate does. Hydrated lime should never be used in direct contact with an application of manure, for it has a tendency to liberate additional ammonia. It is much better to apply any kind of lime separately.

It makes little difference if the manure is plowed under or used as a top-dressing. This will depend upon where it is to be used. When used for corn it is best to plow it under, when used for wheat it is generally put on as a top-dressing. A light dressing of manure on the soil for clovers and alfalfa seedings is a great aid in establishing a good stand. There is danger, however, of introducing noxious weeds when this is done. Well-rotted manure is best for top-dressing for it contains fewer weed seeds.

Use the manure on the lighter and less productive spots on the farm. Much of the nitrogen and organic matter can be supplied in this way. It should be kept in mind, however, that additional phosphoric acid is needed to make a balanced plant food.

The Storage of Apples.

It is a rare thing to find an apple grower who is equipped with a really satisfactory and adequate storage plant. Sometimes it is impossible for a grower to have such a plant, because he cannot afford it; but most of us, if we really put our minds to it, might very decidedly improve on what we have. And if we cannot do it now, then we ought at least to have the matter very definitely in mind and be planning for such a storage when the time comes.

A really good storage which will keep our apples in perfect condition right through the season would revolutionize the apple business. It would put our product in the consumers' hands in better condition, thereby encouraging consumption; it would extend the period over which we would have apples for sale, which would also increase consumption; it would make us measurably independent of buyers and market conditions by enabling us to hold our crops when prices were not satisfactory.

Last April the writer had the pleasure of eating a McIntosh apple in absolutely perfect condition, though the normal season for that variety is October and November. It had been kept in a farm storage, but a good one. What would not such a storage on every apple farm do for the apple industry? Now, we cannot all have such storages, but we can make a start.

What are the essentials of such a storage? What shall we aim at?

Perhaps the two most important points to consider, so far as causing the apples to keep well, are temperature and moisture. It has been shown that a temperature of about 35 degrees, which is as low as we can usually expect to get an unrefrigerated storage, will be quite satisfactory, and we ought to aim to secure this temperature in our storage room just as early in the autumn as possible. By keeping the cellar open and well ventilated on cold nights and closing it in the morning it is possible in many orchard sections to force the temperature down to a surprisingly low point in a relatively short time.

As to moisture, apples will usually keep best in a fairly moist atmosphere, 80 per cent. humidity being perhaps the best for most varieties and conditions. This means that we should avoid a concrete floor unless we have special means to keep the air moist.

A third point of decided importance in a storage room is ventilation, since stagnant air is not conducive to the best keeping of fruit.

Other points to be kept in mind in this storage of ours are adequate protection against extreme cold, if one is in a section where this is likely to occur—to be secured most easily by dead air spaces; protection against changes in temperature, which are always objectionable; and guarding against any type of heating.

The above is only suggestive. Storage is one of our vital problems and we shall solve it most quickly if a lot of us get to work on the solution.

Improvement in Canadian Bacon.

Canada normally produces more pork than she consumes. Great Britain provides the only market for our surplus, and the future of our pork industry depends, therefore, on our ability to produce a commodity that the British market will buy. The best seller of all pork products on that market is the good quality bacon, side, generally known as "Wiltshire." Sensing the need for improvement in our export bacon, about three years ago the Dominion Dept. of Agriculture launched a bacon hog campaign which includes the grading of live hogs at packing houses and stock yards, demonstrations in hog grading at country shipping points, demonstration short courses at country points and at packing houses, the organization of boys' and girls' wine clubs and of bacon hog fairs, and assistance in the filing of orders for pure bred boars and sow stock of bacon type.

The success of this campaign has been striking. In 1924 there were 89,000 more hogs marketed which graded select bacon than in 1923, and there has been a remarkable improvement in the quality of hogs in the second or "thick smooth" grade. Canada's commercial position overseas has also greatly improved in the consistent narrowing in the price between top Danish and top Canadian bacon. A Canadian packing house entered Wiltshire sides at the London Dairy Show last autumn and the premier honors each year. In 1924 the marketing of hogs was the heaviest in the history of this country yet the price levels for the concluding weeks were the highest of the year, this being due to our ability to export our surplus to advantage and to increased domestic consumption, the direct result of improvement in quality.

It seems to me that farmers who do not work with their agricultural representative and use the free correspondence courses of their agricultural colleges are missing a lot of profitable information that may be had for the asking.—Olivier Summers.

NEW CANADIAN PRIMA DONNA

This is Miss Loretta McEwen, soprano, chosen out of a hundred Canadian competitors, as possessing the greatest possibilities for an operatic career. With her is Captain Clews, of the Canadian Pacific liner Melita. Miss McEwen is on her way to Paris to study her art, under Madame Pauline Donalda, world-famed songstress.

The competition in which Miss McEwen was successful was held recently in Montreal. Voices from all over the Dominion were heard by Madame Donalda, who adjudicated.

Miss McEwen possesses a soprano voice of great range and power, is a good actress, well educated, speaks French and English fluently and is conversant with Italian and Spanish. Madame Donalda has expressed the opinion that there is a great career before the singer just brought into the limelight. Miss McEwen is the daughter of Mr. William McEwen, of Outremont, Montreal. On her father's side she descends to Scotch and on her mother's it is French. "I hope I shall bring credit to Canada," were her farewell words to friends seeing her off on the Melita, which sailed from Montreal.

Sweet Clover Cultivation.

In his pamphlet "Sweet Clover," Mr. Derick of the Brandon, Man., Dominion Experimental Farm throws out some suggestions deserving consideration not only in his own province, but generally elsewhere. After alluding to the fact that the value of sweet clover as a soil builder has been definitely proved, Mr. Derick says: Sweet clover can be depended upon for good yields of hay under almost any conditions of soil and climate; as a pasture it has a carrying capacity unequalled by most crops; it is an abundant seed producer; it can be made into silage, but to prevent sickness requires further maturity or to be mixed with some dry roughage; early seeding is recommended; when a nurse crop is used 10 or 15 pounds of clover seed per acre is a satisfactory rate of seeding; shallow seeding is preferable, provided the seedbed is mellow and firm; seeding with a nurse crop at slightly less than the normal rate is economical; cutting the crop in the early bud stage, leaving a four or five-inch stubble will make the most palatable hay and allow for a second growth; harvesting with the binder and curing in the sheaf will preserve the maximum amount of leaves and reduce the cost of handling the crop; brome grass has advantages over other grasses as a mixture with sweet clover; growing sweet clover in intertilled rows for seed production is recommended; inoculation of the seed is inexpensive and is advisable on the newer fields.

Control of the Bark Beetle.

Writing of the bark beetle and its control in Eastern Canada, Dr. J. M. Swaine, Associate Dominion Entomologist, advises that during the latter part of the summer and in autumn before it is safe to burn, the infested bark can be removed quickly with a narrow spade, such as those used in fire-fighting. But, Dr. Swaine adds, it has proved cheaper and more effective to saw up the tree and burn it whenever the fire hazard permits. Burning also destroys the secondary beetles that undoubtedly play an important part in the outbreak. If the trunk is peeled it may be salvaged for pulp several years after it becomes infested and for lumber if wood-boring beetles have not already entered it.

The treatise on the destructive bark beetle makes a pamphlet of thirty

CAMPING WITH THE FARM WAGON

BY HIRAM H. SHEPARD.

All of us have a little of the Indian, the primitive savage, in us yet. And it is a good thing for our bodies and for our minds that we still possess some of the same nature. It keeps us closer to the ground, closer to Mother Nature, where we are healthier, stronger and happier.

We older and younger boys like to get away from the hard grind and stiff mechanics of the farm. We like to go camping as many times of the year as we can. One of the very best ways is to go in the farm wagon.

The best camping place, of course, is along some good-sized creek, lake or river in the thickest woods you can find. With a team and wagon you can go anywhere.

Two boys, even four, can sleep like tops in the wagon box on a bed of hay or straw. With a high-wheel farm wagon, a dandy cot for two can be slung underneath from the wagon axles. Sleeping on the ground is all right in dry, warm weather, but not for damp ground and cool nights. It is always well, no matter how pages with seven plates and can be had free on application to the Publications Branch, Ottawa. Outbreaks of the beetle have been reported in the Gaspé Peninsula, Que., the Algoma district in Ontario, in northern Manitoba, northern Saskatchewan, northern Alberta, and in some parts of British Columbia.

Flowers in Winter.

Boys, and especially girls, you should have a vase of flowers or leaves on the centre-table all the year round. It brightens the room and makes it look more homelike. In September and October there are many twigs and branches with fall-leaves that look beautiful. For November use chrysanthemums or branches of beautiful leaves. Learn to make your arrangements artistic. Massing the flowers often spoils the effect. Let the stem and the beautiful foliage show. In Japan they teach the children in the schools how to arrange flowers, and this is called "Bun chi jin"—meaning God, universe and man. There is a deep and wonderful significance in this. Flowers surely make one feel as though he were closer to God. And besides, a girl who likes to make bouquets or raise flowers shows inherent refinement. A boy who likes plants, be they big pines on the mountains or pansies in mother's garden, has the makings of a gentleman.—C. P. S.

Lost $1,600,000.

By the farmers of Ontario, through sowing seed wheat infested with the spores of Loose Smut and Stinking Smut.

This loss is preventable.

Treatment for Stinking Smut of Wheat—Remove all smut balls by the use of a good and properly adjusted fanning mill, or by placing the seed grain, a bushel at a time, in a tub of water and stirring. The smut balls being light will rise to the surface and can be skimmed off. When the smut balls are removed treat the seed with formalin as follows: Place the wheat to be treated in a pile on the barn floor and shovel it over into another pile, and as the shoveling is going on spray with a solution consisting of one part formalin and 40 parts water. Use this solution at the rate of one pint to twenty-five bushels of seed. A small quart sprayer is the best for this use. Cover the treated grain with sacks for 4 or 5 hours and then sow. Sacks and drill should also be treated.

LET'S BRING LAST YEAR'S CLOTHES UP TO DATE

BY EDITH M. BURTIS.

How to convert last year's clothes into this year's modes is not the riddle that on first thought it may seem to be, and I am hopeful that the following suggestions will serve to inspire ways and means for your remodeling problems.

True, the straight-line silhouette has had to take second place in favor of the flared silhouette. But since there are several variations of the flare and many of these are easily attained, the change in line need cause no anxiety to the woman who must utilize every garment as long as there is a possible chance of remodeling it. In fact, the flare offers excellent remodeling suggestions.

Take for example the conversion of a straight-line slip-on-over-the-head dress into a jumper frock to be worn over shirt blouses or guimpes.

It is an easy matter to cut out the front and the underarms by putting the dress to be thus remodeled on a dress form or on some person of similar size and shape, and with a tape measure and pins, marking the exact depth and shaping that will convert the old frock into a jumper. Next mark these lines with chalk or with a basting thread and then cut away the material to effect the shaping desired, leaving, however, a seam allowance of one-quarter or three-eighths of an inch.

Finish the edges with a narrow bias facing, preferably of silk. If a cord is inserted in the bias facing it will prevent the armhole and neckline from stretching or tearing.

The pockets may be procured from the piece cut out of the front of the dress.

To get the skirt flare may not seem so simple a procedure, though it really is an easily done bit of work.

Open the side seams of the dress to the height desired, which may need to be governed to some extent by the material available, but in any case be content, since flares of all descriptions are fashionable and you can make no mistake.

However, it is more than likely that these plait sections must, of necessity be of a different material, so, as a concrete example, let us assume that the plait flare will start at the hips.

Cut these insert sections the length desired, including a hem allowance in width to match the hem of the dress and about eight and three-quarters inches wide, which width will allow for two plaits each two inches wide and for an adequate seam allowance on each edge of three-eighths of an inch.

The next step in the remodeling process is to join the plait insert section to each edge of the skirt opening, then meet these edges at the centre of the insert and carefully and neatly press the plaits thus formed into position, fastening the insert section at the top by stitching or felling neatly to the dress.

GEORGETTE FOR DRESS-UP FROCKS.

Or if the straight dress to be remodeled is of a character suitable to use as a dress-up frock, as for instance one of the printed silks that have been so fashionable the past summer, it is pleasing to know that it can be transformed into a modish flared frock by the aid of shirred inserts of georgette and without an undue expenditure of time and effort.

Four inserts are a sufficient number to give an entirely new line and an up-to-date appearance to an old frock, provided each shirred section is not less than half a yard wide.

The height of these sections should be determined by the figure requirements of the wearer, though the high inserts are safer for all types of figure. Make these sections and arrange them before cutting away the material of the frock underneath, since this is an easier method than the plan of first cutting the dress, which would probably be the method to come first to mind.

A scarf of the georgette fastened under the collar and looped at the back will add to the dressiness of the frock, or, if preferred, this scarf may be adjusted so that it will tie at the front.

Two strips of georgette about nine inches wide, each strip one yard in length, are required, and machine picot-edge finish is preferable to a rolled hem, though the latter finish may be used if it is not possible to have picoting done.

Best Bulbs for Fall Planting.

Flowers are, no doubt, enjoyed more in the spring than at any other period of the growing season. After a long winter the first flowers are eagerly sought for and if bulbs have been planted in the autumn one has long to wait for flowers for Snowdrops bloom as soon as the snow has gone. Then come in rapid succession, and some at the same time, the Scillas or Squills, Glory of the Snow or Chionodoxa, Crocus, Grape Hyacinth, Dutch Hyacinth, Narcissus in great variety, and early, cottage and Darwin Tulips. These give a succession of bloom from early in April, or earlier if the frost is out of the ground, until well on in June.

While the bulbs are growing in Holland, the flowers for next year are being formed in the bulb. Later, the bulbs are dug, cured and shipped to Canada. Knowing that the flowers are already formed in the bulbs before planting, he who proposes either to grow them in the garden or pot them for the house will readily understand that large, well-developed bulbs are likely to give better flowers than small ones. In ordering this should be remembered. No amount of care can add more blooms to a hyacinth spike than were formed when the bulb was growing in Holland.

Unless the bulbs are well rooted in the soil outside or in the pots in the house, the results will not be satisfactory, hence the desirability of obtaining them as soon as they are offered for sale in the stores, which will be during the month of September. Tulips, narcissus and hyacinths should be planted from four to six inches deep to the bottom of the bulb, and about the same distance apart, while the smaller bulbs, such as snowdrops, crocuses, and squills, may be planted about two inches apart and from two to three inches deep.

Some of the most satisfactory varieties of the more important bulbs for the garden are:

- Narcissus—Emperor, Sir Watkin, Madame de Graaff, Madame Plomp, Poeticus.
- Hyacinth—La Grandesse, Grand Lias, King of the Blues, Gigantea, Roise de Belges.
- Early Single Tulips—Duchess de Parma, Gold Finch, Keizerskroon, Lady Boreel, Maes, Cottage Maid, Sir Thos. Lipton, Prosperine, Golden Queen.
- Early Double Tulips—Couronne d'Or, Imperator Rubrorum, Murillo.
- Cottage Tulips—Macrospica, Golden Crown, Picotee, and many others.
- Darwin Tulips—Bartigon, Clara Butt, Farncombe Sanders, Isis, Edmee, Frans Hals, Millet, Wm. Pitt, Gretchen.

To make mashed potatoes light and creamy, beat them well with a fork, adding a little hot milk.

Barking dogs which become a nuisance can now be "cured" by having their barks removed, as a result of experiments carried out by the American Veterinary Medical Association.

THE NEW MODE HAIR

Straight lines combined with side flare assume a charming effect in this coat-dress of becoming design. The deep rever in jabot effect crosses the front in a diagonal line and terminates in a graceful cascade at the left hip. A vestee is set under the V neck, and the long tailored sleeves are button-trimmed. The diagram pictures the simplicity of this frock which the home sewer will delight to make. No. 1190 is in sizes 36, 38, 40 and 44 inches bust. Size 36 requires 44 yards of 36-inch, or 5 yards of 54-inch material without figure or nap. For dress without drapery 3/4 yard less material is required. Price 20 cents.

Many styles of smart apparel may be found in our Fashion Book. Our designers originate their patterns in the heart of the style centres, and their creations are those of test popularity, brought within the reach of the average woman. Price of book 10 cents the copy.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

CAR STOLEN,

STORES BURGLARIZED

Mr. Stanley Ribey of the 12th of Bruce had his Ford touring car stolen from in front of the Evangelical Church on Sunday night last by some nifty gents who jumped into a car and drove off in a northerly direction. Mr. Ribey and Harris Turner traced the car to the north end of Paisley and from there it was traced to Paisley. The car was abandoned on the north end of North street, and a coat belonging to Mr. Ribey which had been left in the car was missing. We have since learned Dave McGregor's grocery store and Charlesworth hardware store at Paisley were broken into shortly after midnight Sunday. In the grocery an attempt was made to open the safe, but failing in the thief or thieves stole some bottles of beer. In the hardware store an attempt was made to rattle the cash register but in this the thieves were also foiled. Knives and a number of other articles, however, were taken from the show. It is conjectured that there is some connection between the theft of the car here and the ransacking of the stores in Paisley. —Elgin Times.

RECKLESS AUTO DRIVER

On Friday evening a reckless auto driver ran into Mr. Cecil Norman, 5th of Kincaid, at Russell & Marcus' corner, piling the buggy up on the street at the Hunter theatre building. The occupants of the buggy were thrown out but fortunately no one was badly hurt. The axle of the buggy was sprung and the dash broken. The autoist backed away from the overturned rig and put the gas to his car and beat it without attempting to find out if anyone had been injured or any damage done. The number of the car is 87-054. Accidents are liable to occur but the autoist who does not wait to find out what has happened is one of the irresponsible kind that should not be allowed to drive a car. The department has been written for the name of the driver.—Kincaid Review.

HOW SOME BOYS ARE SPOILED

Judge Fleming of the Kansas City court, in sentencing a nineteen-year-old boy for reckless night driving, gave him the alternative of going to jail and working out a two-hundred dollar fine, or abiding by these rules: Must give up driving his father's car. Must be in bed every night at ten o'clock. Must go to work. The boy agreed to abide by the rules, and was released on parole. When asked by the judge for his side of the story, he said: "I have been spoiled and pampered by my father and now he wants me sent to jail." The local city paper in commenting on the case, says: "America needs to get back to the simple life. Extravagance, luxury, too much money, too much leisure are working havoc, not only with morals and religion but with production as well. The same is just as true in Canada. Idleness and self-indulgence will spoil the best boy that ever was born. All play and no work makes Jack a worthless boy, if not a scamp and criminal. The discipline of work is one of the largest factors in the development of character. The boy who has nothing to do, but put in his time, is almost sure to become a nuisance and menace.

Miss Georgina Witter is visiting relatives in St. Catharines.

Just now, ragweed and golden rod are having their fling at sensitive noses, with the result that many hay fever victims are flying to Northern resorts as havens of refuge. It is interesting to note that the clinic for hay fever and asthma is now the largest at the New York Hospital and keeps four doctors and half a dozen nurses busy two afternoons a week. Last year more than 1,500 patients applied for treatment.

Canada is now said to be the richest country in the world per capita. The average wealth is over $1200 per family. Canada exports one-quarter as much as the United States does, although the population of Canada is twelve times that of the United States. In exports Canada is now the fourth country, although it has only nine million population. Canada's income last year was $307,500,000 more than before the war.

These are facts every Canadian should know, for they demonstrate conclusively that, despite pessimism reigning in some quarters, Canada is now leading the world along the pathway to prosperity, and, and we should be duly thankful for the comparative plenty which we as a people enjoy.

former business block stood, and which it will be remembered was totally destroyed by fire on May 4th. Immediately following the fire, steps were taken to clear up the debris, and while the necessary arrangements preliminary to rebuilding were being made the hardware business of W. G. Liesemer was temporarily located in a building a short distance south of his former business stand, whilst J. V. Berscht conducted his in the Leuzler Block. This arrangement has existed up and until this week when Mr. Liesemer moves into his new store. Mr. Berscht's premises, however, will yet require a short time for completion.

The new block is a two-storey solid brick building, the portion occupied by Mr. Liesemer being thirty-two feet in width with a length of store space of eighty feet. There is also an addition at the rear measuring 20x47 ft.

The main building, of course, will accommodate the stock of hardware and other goods, and will include offices for W. G. Liesemer and his brother George. The large floor space will provide ample room for display, whilst the height of the ceiling allows for plenty of shelf room and for drawers and cabinets to be arranged systematically and in accordance with the most approved business principles.

The oil-house back of the store will be one of the best equipped along the line, this having a battery of nine self-measuring pumps. Here Mr. Liesemer has sought and obtained expert advice with a view to possible against fire, and with this in mind has established a method of ventilation which it is believed will successfully overcome, or at least reduce to a minimum, the danger of combustion by taking care of any seepage from the pumps and carrying off any vapor that may escape. Adjoining the oil house is the tin shop, which has been brought up to date and equipped with the necessary machinery and tools to cope with any work entrusted to it.

Running up the centre is a narrow gauge track connecting with the elevator to facilitate the handling of goods.

The store to be occupied by Mr. Berscht is also a very commodious one. Well lighted with large plate glass windows, and with a front store space of 35x45 feet, ample space is provided for display, and when occupied will, one would imagine, present a fine appearance.

The rear portion of the store will measure 20x35. Mr. Berscht expects to occupy it within the next two or three weeks, and meanwhile is engaged in personally supervising and inspecting goods which when they arrive will make a very pleasing display.—Didsbury, (Alta.) Pioneer.

UNION STOCK MARKETS TORONTO

Cattle receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were only moderately heavy, but were a few hundred head above those on the same day a week ago. Billed through shipments in addition totalled 850 head. Trading was fairly active, and prices generally showed little change from last week. About 2000 head were weighed up at 2 o'clock, and there were quite a few unsold when the market closed. The export trade was none too active, as buyers are getting a lot of cattle from the country. There was a better movement of store cattle, and a fair trade in the butcher classes.

The quality of the cattle offered for sale yesterday showed little change from last week. There were not many heavy steers in the offering. Common cattle were not wanted, and the holdover was made up of the poorest offerings. About 20 loads of store cattle were purchased during the morning.

The top price for heavy cattle was $8.75 a hundred, but this was only paid for one steer. A couple of loads brought $8.20 and $8.35, and the rest of the heavies sold from $7.25 to $8.25. Exporters took quite a few choice heavyweight steers weighing from 1050 to 1150 pounds at $7.50 to $8. In the 700 to 1000 lb. class one load brought $7, and the balance moved from $5.50 to $6.75. Heifers sold from $5.75 to $7.

The price paid for cows appeared to be a little easier, most of the good killers selling from $4.25 to $4.75. An odd sale was made up to $5.25, and fair quality cows sold from $3.25 to $4. There were quite a few canners from $2.25 to $2.50. Good heavy bulls were taken for export from $5 to $5.50, and there were a lot of bolognas at $3.50. A couple of dozen baby heaves sold from $3 to $11.50. Some stockers brought from $4.75 to $5, and feeders sold from $4.75 to $6.

There was a further advance in hog prices, sales generally being made at $12.25 f.o.b., and $13.25 off cars. This is an advance of 25c a hundred. There was no change in calf prices, the best offerings bringing $13 a hundred. The bulk of the veal calves sold from $9 to $12. There were a lot of grassers on the market yesterday, and these sold from $4.75 to $5.50, with the bulk around $5.

Salesmen tried to secure higher prices for lambs at the start of the market, and trading consequently was sticky for a time. Once buying started, however, most of the sales were steady, with last week's close at $12.50 $13. The bulk change hands at $12.75, and heavies brought from $10.50 to $12. Sales of culls were made around $10 a hundred. Good light sheep sold steady from $7 to $8, and culls and heavies brought from $3 to $6.
