GERMAN GENERAL ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Announcement is made that significant papers were found in the possession of the German General Friez, who was made a prisoner and brought to Paris on September 14. One was a letter it is stated, inflicting punishment for not responding immediately to the mobilization order and was dated July 10.

Another paper was a despatch addressed to General Von Kluck during the retreat advising him that General Friez's troops had no more ammunition and that if he did not receive some at once he would be lost.

The report insists that General Friez attempted to commit suicide before he was made a prisoner.

THE HAND OF NEMESIS.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 16.—The Bourse Gazette, says—"In this conflict of nations is plainly seen the hand of an historical Nemesis. That awful hand has not yet accomplished the work begun not by us but by the blinded ambitions of the Hohenzollerns. Until this work has been done the restoration of peace is impossible."

AUSTRIANS LOSE HEAVILY IN EFFECTING JUNCTURE.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—A despatch to the Express from Rome states that the whole Austrian armies commanded by Generals Dankl and Auffenberg have joined forces at Rzesok, thirteen miles northeast of Jaroslau and thirty-two miles due north of Pryzmysl. In the course of this operation the despatch says, they lost forty per cent. of their numbers.

GERMAN LOSSES IN AUSTRALASIA.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—A Times despatch from Sydney, says, Rear Admiral Sir George Patten, Commander of the Australian fleet reports that the German losses at Herberthohe in the Bismarck archipelago were 20 to 30 German officers and non-commissioned officers made prisoners.

"Considering the dense bush, the trenches and the marked ranges," Sir Charles says "our casualties were slight."

The Australian fleet left Sydney immediately following the outbreak of the war according to the despatch and cooperated with the China squadron.

It searched for the enemy's cruisers, put the enemy's wireless station in the Pacific out of action, covered the New Zealand expeditionary force to Samoa and the Australian expedition to Herberthohe and patrolled the trade route.

SITUATION IN FRANCE UNCHANGED.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—It was stated at the war office that the general situation in France is unchanged. The German columns are wading through deep mud in their flight before the Allies, but their rear guard is now making a determined stand. The French are bringing up reinforcements at every point apparently in the expectation that the battle is to be renewed along the new lines now held by the Germans.

The centre of interest in the western seat of the war has shifted from the right wing of the German army under General Kluck to the left wing where the relief of Troyon by the French is regarded in London as leaving the army of the German under the Crown Prince Frederick William in what would appear to be a dangerous situation.

RUSSIANS WIN GREATEST SUCCESS EVER RECORDED.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 16.—In an official statement issued today the war office says, "The forces of General Dankl have been entirely cut off from the Austrian centre and will be unable to reach Przemysl which is now completely invested by the Russians. The army of Dankl is now cut off in the bogs into which they had tried to entice the Russians. The fragmentary details as yet available show that our forces have already achieved the greatest success ever recorded in warfare. Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, heir-presumptive to the Austrian throne is reported to be with the routed Austrian forces and his capture is looked for."

WAR INFORMATION WITHHELD IN BERLIN.

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—The public has been showing signs of impatience because of the absence of news from the front and this has led headquarters to depart from its practice and issue reassuring statements in general terms. The German general staff announces that the situation on the west front is still "favorable."

It declares that the French and English have at no place on the whole battle front won a victory, and that the Germans can look with confidence to the outcome. Other than this, no news is obtainable recording the progress of the operations.

HIGH GERMAN NAVAL OFFICERS LOST.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—A Berlin despatch says that among those lost in the naval battle near Heligoland were, Admiral Maas, commanding the second scouting division and Baron Von Maltzohn, navigation officer of the cruiser Bremen, while she was on the Atlantic station.

18 FAMILIES RECEIVE HELP

60c a Day After Careful Investigation of Needs.

There are eighteen families on the list now of those dependent on volunteers at Valcartier camp and in consequence needing aid from the Belleville Patriotic Fund. These are given $3.00 per week, each family or 60c per day.

This list has been carefully prepared by the investigating committee and conditions have been inspected by a committee of members of the association and the services of two ladies who have had experience in their work, have been employed so that the fund need not be unworthily used up.

Some of the names may be removed from the list when the government pay arrives.

Winter conditions will soon be at hand and money will be needed for coal and clothing, so that the fund will require replenishing continually to prevent it being entirely expended.

The members of the committee are devoting a great deal of attention to the work.

The cases on the list are worthy and there is no case of distress known as a result of the departure of the troops from Belleville, which has not received attention.

The happy couple left on the noon train for Toronto, the bride's traveling suit being of navy blue serge with hat to match among the presents were, a handsome set of dishes from her brother, Mr. C. A. Gardner, and a gold watch the gift of the groom.

HOW A CANADIAN VIEWS WARLIKE OLD LONDON

Interesting Letter Received by Mr. Arthur Jones, of Molson's Bank.

From His Brother of the London (Eng.) Branch of the Dominion Bank.

The following letter to Mr. Arthur Jones, manager of the Belleville branch of the Molson's bank from his brother of the London (Eng.) branch of the Dominion bank will be read with special interest at the present time. Mr. Jones is a shrewd observer of events and his comments give us a clear insight into things not mentioned in the despatches.

London, Eng., Sept. 3, 1914.
Dear Brother,—

By the time you get this the Germans will probably be in front of Paris. At present their right wing is only 40 miles away and advancing. Their army, as a fighting machine, is probably the best organized, best officered and best equipped force ever placed in any field, and other things being equal, is unbeatable. It is the general opinion that the Austrians are nearly all in now and it remains for the allies to wear the Germans down. They can do it for Germany is carrying her peak-load and Great Britain and Russia have not yet begun. Besides the German commerce has been swept off the seas and we have taken so far 226 of their ships while they have only taken about 12 of ours. They have also lost 12 out of their navy while we have only lost one. Any prizes that their four or five cruisers yet take have to be sunk for they can't use the cargoes, having nowhere to take them. Their industries are paralyzed and they have no sympathizers in the world, except perhaps Turkey. In the face of all this they cannot win in a prolonged war and Great Britain is out to do some probing. I was in Berlin from the 1st to the 15th of July and I was also in the Rhine region for a week in the spring, and believe me, I respect the Germans for their patience, industry and brains which the military despots of France takes every advantage of. I was told by an ex-officer while in Berlin that they had to fight someone in order to raise the

BODIES RECOVERED.

The bodies of Clair Jenkins, James White and Fred C. Gorow, who were drowned in the Bay of Quinte on Sunday, were recovered (Wednesday) afternoon.

WEDDING BELLS

DUNNING-SCHOFIELD.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Moose-Jaw, Sask., on Saturday, Sept. 5th, when Hazel Mac Schofield, eldest daughter of the late J. Schofield and Mrs. J. Schofield of Toronto was united in marriage to Sherman M. Dunning, manager of the Bellamy Furniture Co. Ltd., Moose Jaw, formerly of Belleville, Ontario. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dunning are favorably known in Moose Jaw and their popularity is attested by the many valuable gifts received.

CABEY-WAY.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Way, Thurston, was the scene on Sept. 9th of a quiet wedding when their daughter Annie was united in marriage to Mr. Clinton Cabey by Rev. G. John of Bayville. The bride beautifully attired in a dress of white silk veil, entered the room upon the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Gardner of Foxboro. After the ceremony the guests were conducted to the dining-room, where a sumptuous repast was enjoyed by all.

The happy couple left on the noon train for Toronto, the bride's traveling suit being of navy blue serge with hat to match among the presents were, a handsome set of dishes from her brother, Mr. C. A. Gardner, and a gold watch the gift of the groom.

HARVEY-LUCK.

John William Harvey of this city and Miss Beatrice Luck also of the city were quietly married today in the Parish Hall of Christ Church by Rev. R. C. Bisgrave. They will take up their residence in the city.

SURFACE WORK AT THE DOCK HAS BEGUN

Men Started on Concrete Construction This Morning—Wood From Old Piers.

This morning the concrete work for the work on the new government dock began. A start has been made next the approach from the city. Gravel has been brought across from the other side of the harbor near the bay bridge by scows and is lifted from the scows by a derrick handling large scoops each with a capacity of one cubic yard of material. The mixer can handle one yard of gravel and it is stationed on the dock.

The work is done in sections of 40 feet long by 30 feet wide. The concrete is reinforced by heavy wire mesh and the railway track leading to the end of the dock is being masoned in with concrete. Each section contains eighty yards of gravel.

Mr. Stone, managing supervisor of construction, is in charge of the work. Mr. Phillips is the government engineer.

Mr. Fred Aroitt began this morning the work on the concrete. The concrete is about 200 feet long. The intention is to extend this 200 feet more to the east, but this extension will not be undertaken this year.

TIMBER FROM OLD PIERS

Along the bay shore south of the marsh and the city garbage dumping ground, are dozens of piles of wood and timber which has been cut up into cordwood size. There are scores of cords at the water's edge and the place at a distance resembles a woodyard. It is reported that this is material from the old Grand Junction pier, which was pulled out and taken down by the Randolph Macdonald Company in preparation for the piers of the new dock. The timber was then taken out by the residents of the neighborhood, who were desirous of firewood.

HUNTINGDON PATRIOTIC ASSOCIATION RALLY

The large Methodist church at Ivanhoe was filled to overflowing with an enthusiastic audience last night called to organize the Township of Huntingdon for the purpose of helping the war funds and gathering for defence.

Stirring addresses were delivered by L. E. Allen, John Elliott, W. C. McKel, K. C. and Col. W. N. Ponton, K. C. of Belleville and the Rev. Mr. Beck of Ivanhoe. Mr. A. M. Chapman of Belleville sang a number of patriotic songs and the Matinee orchestra rendered instrumental selections. Mr. W. E. Tummson, Reeve, occupied the chair and the audience was most earnest and responsive. Committees were appointed to make a canvass of the whole township for funds. Every contribution will be "combined" on Monday and Tuesday next and the contribution to the Duke of Connaught's Canadian Fund and the Red Cross are expected to run into the thousands from this prosperous and generous township. After the meeting the Women's Institute served refreshments which were much appreciated by the audience and the silver collection yielded a considerable sum of money which will be expended in materials for the British soldiers who from Canada and the whole Empire are and will be fighting our battles through the long and desperate campaign. The various churches will take up the appeal on Sunday and the school teachers and school officials are all appointed on the executive. Even the boys and girls are working at handkerchiefs, bandages and First Aid. Over 200 vehicles were gathered near the church from all parts, many driving ten miles to hear the Belleville corps of speakers to whom a hearty note of thanks was extended to by the loyal people of Huntingdon. It was a night long to be remembered and the results will surprise the cities and towns. The various municipalities are leading in this grand Imperial service, in the great Canadian Fund, representing a nation within a nation, will abundantly testify.

PATRIOTIC SERVICES ON CANNIFTON CIRCUIT

At a special meeting of the Quarterly Official Board of the Methodist Church, Cannifton Circuit, it was resolved to hold patriotic services in all churches on the circuit on Sunday, October 4th, when subscriptions on behalf of the patriotic fund will be taken. It is confidently expected that the loyal people of Cannifton circuit will respond in their usual generous manner.

SERBIANS HAVE OCCUPIED VISHEGRAD.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—A despatch from Nish, Serbia, confirms the reports that the Serbians have occupied Vishegrad in Bosnia 40 miles southeast of Sarajevo.

GERMAN PEOPLE STUPIFIED BY REVERSES.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—A Bordeaux despatch to the Central News says, "According to Berlin telegrams the newspapers there testify to the stupefaction of the German people on learning of the retreat of the armies, which were believed to be under the walls of Paris. The papers endeavor to explain the retreat as strategic adding that the final result must be awaited.

The German public are also said to be impressed by the news of the disasters which have overtaken the Austrians in Galicia.

INDIAN TROOPS IN FRANCE.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The allied lines in France have been reinforced by the arrival of the first detachment of the Indian troops who made the trip by way of the Suez canal and were rushed to the front from the south of France by rail. These troops it is understood are cavalry and it is believed here they will be sent to reinforce Sir John French who is reported as initiating an enveloping movement having for its object the cutting off of the main right wing of the German army.

PREPARING FOR GENERAL ENGAGEMENT.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The following official communication was made public here to-day:

During the days of the 14th, and the 15th, of September, the rear guards of the enemy with which our pursuing forces were in contact were reinforced from the main body of the German army.

The enemy is engaging in a defensive battle along their entire front on which certain of their positions show strong organization. This is bounded by the region of Noyon the plains to the north of Ville-Sur-Aisne and Soissons, Laon, the heights to the north and to the west of Rheims and a line which runs thence to the north of Ville-Sur-Tourbe, to the west of the Argonne region and which is continued beyond the Argonne by another line which passes north of Yvernes, that was evacuated by the enemy and reaches the river Meuse in the neighborhood of the forest of Forges which is north of Verdun.

GERMANS ABANDON SOISSONS.

SOISSONS, France, Sept. 16.—By way of Paris, The German right wing in its retreat abandoned Soissons yesterday (Monday) at the same time leaving the southern bank of the river Aisne. The German retirement northward continued during Monday night. The French in their pursuit crossed the river. The French army is to-day heavily in action on the south bank of the Aisne. The only interruption of the almost Sabbath-like stillness of Soissons to-day is the rush of French artillery concealed at a point scarcely 300 yards from Soissons mingled with the lessened roar of other guns further distant.

IN SPITE OF THE MAMMOTH WAR, HUMANITY IS STILL ADVANCING.

"Measuring the progress of mankind through 100,000 years by this war," a humanitarian writes, "it appears that human character has not advanced an inch."

Don't you believe it?"

A hundred thousand years are a long way further back than our records go; but even a hundred years ago human character was in many ways worse than it is to-day.

Men were then brutally thrust into the foulest of jails for debt; and, if they couldn't pay, were left to rot.

The sale of men, women and children in slavery was common 100 years ago, and the cancellation of relatively only a few was revolted by it.

The treatment of prisoners of war was then quite heartless, unless they chanced to be prisoners with a pull. There will be no war prison in Europe during the current unpleasantness which will be as cruel in its neglect of simple mercies as were some of the soldiers' detention camps even as late as our own Civil War.

It is significant that the makers of the present war are ashamed of it and are trying anxiously to dodge the blame which they know in their hearts will be branded upon them by the writers of its history. There was little of such sensitiveness a thousand or even a hundred years ago. Never did Napoleon or the great Frederick go into battle apologizing.

The respect shown for the persons and property of neutrals and for the sick and wounded will far exceed that of any prior war; because, even though individuals here and there may now and then revert to savagery under the demoralizing influence of blood lust, there will, in restraint upon them, be a higher average of moral standards than the world has heretofore known.

Throughout the world intelligence is higher than ever before and humanity is warmer in its sympathies. I doubt this would be to ignore a million evidences before every eye.

Of course, the best of wars at best is still awful; and this world-wide struggle, so sudden, so huge, to the mass of folks so unexpected, seems at close range peculiarly wanton.

But easily to be seen in it is a swift focusing of the world-old conflict between opposing schools of philosophy—those on the one side who believe in the imposed rule of a superior few; and, on the other, those who believe that the earth and its benefits are for all of earth's children.

It will be worth to the long future a great many present sacrifices to have this conflict determined definitely.

BERLIN'S MEANS OF DEFENCE.

Unlike Paris, Berlin in no sense of the word is a fortified city, yet it is well protected. In times of peace, the Kaiser maintains about 23,000 troops in and about Berlin, but troops do not constitute fortification, even though they go a long way toward helping in the defence.

On the outskirts of the city are numerous green covered breastworks that probably shield guns for Berlin's defence, but they are not to be compared with the great chain of detached fortresses that bar the way to Paris.

In place of formidable forts, the Germans at all times have counted on a mobile defence in the form of concentrations of troops at strategic points. The purpose of these army corps is not so much to insure victory as it is to cost the enemy dearly in killed and wounded for every mile of his advance.

With this work done, it has always been the plan for the troops to fall back on the fortified cities of Koenigsburg and Allenstein, hold them as long as possible and surrender there only after the enemy has suffered terrible losses and then continue the gradual retreat.

Next in line comes the main defence of Berlin, the fortified cities of Danzig, Virchau, Marienwerder Graudenz and Thorn. Here it is that the Germans must put up their stiffest fight, for falling in this the next strategic position permanently fortified is Posen.

After Posen on the Warthe river comes Berlin's second line of permanent defences on the Oder, beginning at Custrin and including Glogau and Breslau, and possibly Neisse and Glatz, although the latter is really on the Austrian frontier.

MAKING A MATINEE STAR OUT OF A MAN "WANTED" FOR MURDER.

The surrender of Dr. Robinson upon the City Hall steps was a piece of stage-play that cannot increase public respect for the conduct of the provincial police. The taking in custody of the man wanted in the Tamworth case was attended by a cheap theatricalism which might prudently have been shunned by a body which certainly has no reason for showing off. It is hard indeed to fathom the state of mind of Joseph E. Rogers, superintendent of the provincial police, who apparently thinks that the humiliation of the department under his charge is a fit subject for a moving-picture performance. The record of the Tamworth case is a serious blot upon the chronicles of the provincial police. If that department is not to become a laughing-stock, Chief Rogers and some of his subordinates should at once be called to an accounting. If they can explain their eccentricities in the matter, let an impatient public have the facts. The Attorney-General should make it clear to Mr. Rogers that the conduct of the whole case does not reflect credit upon the provincial police, nor does the cheap stage-play upon the City Hall steps enhance a damaged reputation.

An emissary from headquarters searched the residence of Dr. Robinson, whose disappearance from Tamworth aroused suspicion that he might be connected with the disappearance of Miss Blanche Yorke. The sleuth found nothing. Some days later a bailiff entered the physician's house and found in the cellar the dismembered body of the dead girl. No explanation has been attempted of this almost incredible slackness of the provincial detective. Possibly Mr. Rogers thinks that no explanation is necessary. The public thinks otherwise.

And the public desire for an explanation of the conduct of the Tamworth case is accentuated by the proceedings which culminated in Dr. Robinson's surrender on the City Hall steps. Apparently the detectives were in direct communication with the much-wanted doctor for days. They could consult him, but they could not catch him. It was left to the doctor to dictate when he would give himself up. When he telephoned that he was good and ready, Inspector Greer was detailed to act as a sort of hall porter, to extend him a welcome on behalf of Mr. Roger's baffled department. Dr. Robinson chose Labor Day morning as the time and the City Hall steps as the scene for the semi-final act of the Tamworth case.

This was the pretty spectacle which was staged on Monday. There were sufficient newspaper men on hand to see that the great triumph of Mr. Rogers and his band of sleuths did not go unheralded. It might have been thought that the detectives had performed some brainy exploit which would put Sherlock Holmes to the blush. Instead, the surrender of a man who had evaded the police for weeks and communicated with them for days was the culmination of a display of ineptitude which put a smirch upon the annals of Mr. Roger's department that can only be wiped away by a very full, very prompt, and very convincing explanation. It is the duty of the Attorney-General to see that such an explanation is made.

The belief is growing that considerable shaking-up is needed in the Department of Provincial Police. The Tamworth incident is not the first example of a deplorable fall-down on the part of that department; it is, however, the first time that its chief executive has deemed the humiliation of the mea under his regime as the sort of material to make a Labor Day matinee out of, upon the steps of the City Hall.

WAR.

The red glare of savagery has flashed over the world and millions of humans are plunged into misery through the act of one or two of those who rule by "divine right." Homes are broken, towns and cities are devastated, fields that are intended for husbandry are turned into rivers and lakes of human blood and the hand of man is turned against his fellows, to satisfy the "outraged" dignity of "houses" which have no human right to be. The conflagration which is consuming Europe and which bids fair to envelop the entire world was not commenced through the desire of any nation to serve humanity in a large way, it was not started as a means of righting a great wrong done or to be done to an offending people, it was not begun as an act of retribution on a country whose people had committed an overt act, but it was brought about through the insane desire of a power-crazed monarch to show to the world the dangers to be encountered by those who came within too close range of the "Mailed Fist." Sorrow and Penury are following in the wake of the marching hordes and where Agriculture smiled and Industry thrived, Want, Desolation and Disease will hold high carnival for many years after the plodding feet of the conscripted thousands have ceased to mark time to the rolling drums. War, even when waged in a righteous cause, is an appalling thing. This war requires the coining of a new word or a series of words to express the feelings of those, who stand by and look on as the gruesome spectacle unfolds itself. When the greed of the sullen God of War shall have been satisfied and the exacting of his human toll shall have been paid, let us hope that History will imprint on her page the true reason and the correct names of those whose diseased minds have caused the pall of death to be spread over a serene and happy world.

Trenton has raised over $1,000 already for the patriotic fund. Belleville has contributed $1,200 to the fund, and this will be greatly augmented as the days go by. Patriotic citizens of Rawdon township collected $320 in a single evening at Harold. And so the movement goes on and spreads all over the county and district. When it comes to a demonstration of loyalty by the concrete evidence of action, this old, reliable Bay of Quinte district is never found lagging in the rear.

War has its compensations for some concerns, but these are greatly outnumbered by those that are adversely affected. A canvass of considerably over one hundred companies, made by the Montreal Journal of Commerce shows that 80 were confronted with a loss of revenue so soon as hostilities had commenced. The balance were either in a position to make money notwithstanding the dislocation in trade, or were immune from the influence of warlike pursuits. The latter however, are few indeed, and of these only three were Canadian companies.

In its issue of August 18th, the London Times printed the following interesting extract from its issue of one hundred years ago:

DUTCH MAIL.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 8.

Some battalions of English Guards are expected here from England, and it is understood that they will disembark at Ostend. These fine troops, it appears, are destined to form the garrison of Brussels, in conjunction with the corps at present here.

This is not an exact description of what is taking place in 1914, but it is sufficiently near to be decidedly remarkable.

BURIAL OF SIR JOHN MOORE.

The supreme test of the strategic ability of a commander and of the morale of troops is the conduct of the retreat. Sir John French's conduct of the retreat from Mons will surely go down in history as one of the greatest and most glorious achievements in the military history of the world.

It has been well compared to the retreat of the British before and after the battle of Corna. The latter was one of the series of battles between the British and French in the Peninsular war and took place January 16, 1809. During the battle, Sir John Moore was killed by a cannon ball which carried away his left shoulder. The British won a splendid victory over a superior force and the following day completed their retirement to the coast whence they embarked for England.

Charles Wolfe's immortal poem commemorating "the burial of Sir John Moore" is given below.

This famous ode is here printed exactly as it stands in "Wolfe's Remains," where it is copied from the original manuscript. The Rev. Samuel O'Sullivan, writing under date of April 22, 1841, says: I think it was about the summer of 1814 or 1815 (I cannot say which), I was sitting in my college rooms (in Dublin), and reading in the Edinburgh Annual Register, in which a very beautiful and striking account is given of the burial of Sir John Moore. Wolfe came in, and I made him listen to me while I read the passage, which he heard with deep and sensible emotion. We were both loud and ardent in our commendation of it; and after some little time I proposed to my friend to take a walk into the country. He consented, and we went our way to Simson's nursery, about half way between Dublin and the Rock. During our stroll Wolfe was unusually meditative and silent and I remember having been provoked a little by meeting with no response or sympathy to my frequent bursts of admiration about the country and the scenery, in which, on other occasions, he used so cordially to join. But he atoned for his apparent dullness and insensibility upon his return, when he repeated for me the first and last verses of his beautiful ode, in the composition of which he had been absorbed during our perambulation. These were the only verses which our dear friend at first contemplated; but moved, as he said, by my approbation, his mind worked upon the subject after he left me and in the morning he came over to me with the other verses by which it was completed." Wolfe (b. in Dublin, Dec. 14, 1791; d. Feb. 21, 1823), neither published this poem nor took pains to claim it. Manuscript copies were taken down from recitation, and it was finally printed, with the initials "C. W." in the Newry, Ireland, Telegraph, from which it was speedily copied far and wide.

Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note,
As his corpse to the rampart we hurried;
Not a soldier discharged his farewell shot
O'er the grave where our hero was buried.
We buried him darkly at dead of night,
The sods with our bayonets turning;
By the struggling moonbeams misty light,
And the lantern dimly burning.
No useless coffin enclosed his breast,
Not in sheet nor in shroud we wound him;
But he lay like a warrior taking his rest,
With his martial cloak around him.

Few and short were the prayers we said,
And we spoke not a word of sorrow;
But we steadfastly gazed on the face that was dead,
And we bitterly thought of the morrow.
We thought as we hollowed his narrow bed,
And smoothed down his lonely pillow,
That the foe and the stranger would tread o'er
his head,
And we far away on the billow!
Lightly they'll talk of the spirit that's gone,
And o'er his cold ashes upraid him—
But little he'll reck, if they let him sleep on
In the grave where a Briton has laid him.
But half our heavy task was done,
When the clock struck the hour for retiring
And we heard the distant and random gun
That the foe was sullenly firing.
Slowly and sadly we laid him down,
From the field of his fame fresh and gory;
We carved not a line, and we raised not a stone,
But we left him alone with his glory.

No, the report that the Kaiser has changed the name of Paris to Wilhelmsburg, is not correct.

Impossible as it is to estimate from the official reports of "killed, wounded and missing" the true extent of each nation's casualties, it seems undoubted that the Germans have lost most heavily. Germany has lost four generals by death on the battlefield, the Russian and French troops one general each, and the English none. No report of the Austrian casualties is available. The generals lost so far by Germany are Gen. von Buelow, Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, Prince Friedrich of Sach-Meiningen, Prince Wilhelm of Lippe. The Russian general killed was Samsonoff; the French, Plessier.

THE MAN WHO KEEPS HIS HEAD

Harold Begbie, in the London Chronicle, eloquently sings of the duty of the stay-at-home Britons, in a poem entitled "The Man Who Keeps His Head." It is as follows:

There's a man who fights for England, and he'll keep her still atop,
He will guard her from dishonor in the market and the shop,
He will save her homes from terror on the fields of Daily Bread,
He's the man who sticks to business; he's the man who keeps his head.

Let the foe who strikes at England hear her wheels of commerce turn,
Let the ships that war with England see her factory furnace burn;
For the foe most fears the cannon, and his heart most quails with dread,
When behind the man in khaki is the man who keeps his head,
Brand him traitor and assassin who with miser's coward mood
Has his gold locked up in secret and his larders stored with food
Who has cast adrift his workers, who lies sweating in his bed,
And who snarls to hear the laughter of the man who keeps his head.

Let the poor man teach the rich man, for the poor man's constant strife
Is from day to day to seek work, day by day to war with life,
And the poor man's home hangs ever by a frail and brittle thread,
And the poor man's often hungry, but the poor man keeps his head.

When the ships come home from slaughter, and the troops march home from war;
When the havoc strewn behind us threatens the road that lies before,
Every hero shall be welcomed, every orphan shall be fed,
By the man who stuck to business by the man who kept his head.

Begbie tells the situation to a nicety. The greatest service the men who do not go to the front can render the Empire is to keep the wheels of business going, thus preventing paralysis of trade with its inevitable accompaniments of unemployment and suffering.

Mr. Magee inspected his apartment. The windows were all of the low French variety and opened out upon a broad view covered by many sails in reality the roof of the first floor veranda.
On this balcony Magee stood a moment, watching the trees on the wind and the lights of Upper Assuwa Falls wink knowingly up at him. Then he came inside, and his investigations brought him presently to the tub in the bathroom.

WANTS THE PUBLICATION OF THE ASSESSMENT ROLL

Alderman Smith Gave Notice of Motion to That Effect Last Evening—Minor Matters Before City Council.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)
 "Are you in favor of publishing the assessment roll?" is the question which Ald. Smith would like to see voted on at the municipal elections in January. Last evening at the city council meeting he gave notice of a motion to the effect that the question be voted on.

The reports of the various committees were adopted.

The matter of the repair of North Front street from the Filzow bridge to College street was referred to the committee.

Petitions for walks were referred for examination and report.

The sum of $90 was ordered to be paid Mr. S. Masson, city solicitor, on account.

The matter of the inspection of the annual payment by a committee was brought up.

The roadways were to be flushed and it was decided to begin the inspection at 7 o'clock (Tuesday) morning.

Dr. Dolan and Dr. Boyce appeared at the bar of the council and addressed the members on the adverse situation on Victoria avenue. Water is apparently seeping through from the stone covered drain into the basements. In both basements the water comes in.

Dr. Boyce stated that recently following the rains the water had risen to 18 inches in his cellar, being up to the fire box and making approach to the furnace impossible.

The applicants asked for relief from this condition. The menace is serious.

Ald. Platt corroborated the statements.

The question was referred to the committee and the engineer for inspection.

Mr. Thos. Marsall filed a petition for a sidewalk on Emily street. During the past week there were ten planks broken, he said. Repairs are out of the question. The sidewalk is used day and night by the public and he feared an accident.

The matter was referred.

The third reading of the Electric Light Bylaw was given.

Ald. O'Flynn was granted three months' leave of absence dating from September 14th, 1914.

Ald. Wallbridge—What about the cannon on the park in the event of a German invasion?

Ald. Smith made a reply about a submarine.

Ald. Smith—Was ordered the tile for the streets laid?

Ald. Platt thought the city engineer had made the purchase for the city.

Mayor Wills thought the matter had been spoken of in the committee rooms.

Ald. Duckworth asked if the traffic bylaw was to be enforced.

Ald. Panter said the police were endeavoring to carry out the traffic laws.

Mayor Wills spoke on the regulation of street traffic. He hoped to have shortly a copy of the traffic bylaw of Toronto.

The public will be safe if horns of automobiles are sounded at each corner and drivers keep to the right.

Ald. St. Charles quoted an instance where a police officer and three city men, driving an auto, were driving on Front street at a fast rate and the three commented on it. The officer asked them what speed the car was making. They could not say. He said he could "pull" the driver and have two or three witnesses. They declared they could not state whether the auto was speeding and urged that the man be warned. The policeman said it was then the officer's word against the citizen's.

Mayor Wills said the court will deal firmly with auto offenders.

Those present were Mayor Wills, Aldermen Platt, Smith, Panter, Woodley, Duckworth, Wallbridge, McFee, and St. Charles.

GERMANY MUST CRUSH FRANCE AND DESTROY BRITISH EMPIRE

What Bernhardi, a German Officer, Advocated in His Book—What He Foresaw and How He Proposed to Provide Against the British Menace.

Two or three years ago a distinguished Prussian officer, General Von Bernhardi, published a book entitled "Germany and the next war" which people are turning with interest now that "the next war" has come. General von Bernhardi's book is an argument that Germany must crush France and destroy the British Empire, and many of his observations are astonishingly cynical. For instance, he lays down the principle that Italy must not be allowed to entertain friendly feelings for France, and that it is Germany's business to stir up ill-feeling between two great Latin countries. In the course of his book he discusses the features of such a war as the present Germany fighting Russia, France and Great Britain. His remarks on the naval strategy of the war are illuminating at the present time, when the German fleet is lying ensconced in harbor and the British fleet is challenging it to come out.

WHAT BERNHARDI FORSAW

In his analysis General von Bernhardi had assumed a state of affairs in which the surprise attack upon English harbors had failed, the German fleet had retreated under the guns of the coast fortifications, and German overseas commerce had been paralyzed by the British fleet. As these things have actually occurred, just as the General said they would occur, it is worth while to note that in these circumstances he proposed should be done next. For the chances are that whatever it is, the Germans, having learned the Bernhardi doctrines by heart, are doing it.

As seaborne supplies are cut off from Germany the General von Bernhardi proposes that they should be imported through neutral harbors and neutral territory.

"Let us assume," he proceeds, "that France and Russia seal our land frontiers, then the only trade route left open to us is through Switzerland and Austria—a condition of affairs which would aggravate difficulties at home and should stimulate us to carry on the war with increased vigor." The stimulus has now been applied; it remains to be seen what will be the reaction to it.

THE BLOCKADE OF THE NORTH SEA

Such being the condition of affairs, General von Bernhardi goes on to consider the blockade which he thinks the English would certainly apply. There are two kinds of blockade: the close blockade and the distant blockade. The close blockade would be exercised upon the German north sea littoral and the Danish straits; the distant blockade would extend across "the open sea between the north of Scotland and Norway" and across the mouth of the channel.

With regard to the close blockade, the English, if they planned such a blockade would doubtless count on acquiring bases on our own coast, perhaps also on the Dutch coast.

Our task, therefore, is to prevent such attempts by every means. This task can only be fulfilled by the fleet in day time by submarines; by night torpedo boats may co-operate, and unexpected attacks, especially by night, with submarines and torpedo-boats, partly with battleships, to give the blockading fleet no breathing time, and to cause it as much loss as possible. These tactics are of course, purely defensive, and defensive tactics never yet won a campaign.

THE USE OF FORTS

But continuous the tactics, in a significant passage, "we must not engage in a battle with superior hostile forces, for it is hardly possible at sea to discontinue a fight, because there is no place whither the loser can withdraw from the effect of the enemy's guns." The General has discovered a great truth, which in the British fleet, is expressed in the classic formula, "There is no back door in the Navy." The lack of that emergency exit troubles General von Bernhardi. Apparently his theory is that the weaker fleet ought invariably to fight under the guns of a fort or not fight at all. His whole conception of naval warfare is colored by the pathetic conviction that land fortifications are an essential part of sea warfare. The defending fleet, he affirms ought "to be in safe anchorage, waiting until a squadron of the attacking fleet was isolated, when the defending fleet would 'sally out and fight.'" The General considers that the success of these tactics would be such that the English would not attempt the close blockade, but would apply the distant blockade.

In the case of the distant blockade, von Bernhardi can see no hope of a successful attack by the German fleet, except by operating with the main fleet through the Skager Rak, because—noteable reason—the way of retreat would then be open behind the fleet. "This accords once more the supreme importance to us of keeping open, at all costs, the passage through the Sound and the Great Belt." But the General is not hopeful of the success of these tactics either. He observes that although the attacking party would be weakened and wearied, so would the defending party.

THE LANDING OF TROOPS

He next considers what would happen if the English attempted to land troops. "They could not obtain a decisive result unless they attempted to capture our naval bases—Willems haven, Heligoland, the mouth of the Elbe, and Kiel—and to annihilate our fleet in his attempt to protect these places. Here the General has been proved mistaken. It did not occur to him that a containing force could enable troops to be safely transported across the sea as happened when the British army was transported to France without the German navy being able to cause a single casualty.

To obtain information of the position of the attacking force, von Bernhardi relies upon the air fleet, which would also attack the English fleet. "The most reckless audacity must go hand in hand with the employment of every means which mechanical skill and the science of naval construction and fortifi-

THE DUM-DUM BULLET.

This Merciless Projectile Has Not Been Used by the British Forces as the Germans Claim.

With reference to the unverified story from Berlin that on the seventh or eighth day of September Emperor William forwarded a communication to the President of the United States stating that the British army on the continent was using Dum-Dum or explosive bullets, and protesting thereat as a violation of the Hague Conventions, it is interesting to find in despatches from Paris to the English papers on August 23rd, the following—

"A further note has been sent to the Hague by the French Government protesting against the use of dum-dum bullets by the Germans. The text of the note is as follows—

"The government of the French Republic has the honor of informing the powers signing the Hague Conventions of the following facts, constituting on the part of the German military authorities a violation of the convention signed by the German Government on September 18th, 1907—

"On August 10, 1914, after an engagement between French and German regiments, a major in the medical service sent to the general commanding the infantry brigade a collection of cartridges found on the Munster road near the German outposts which contained five cartridges loaded with eldorado bullets cut at the point, the nickel covering of which was incomplete and left exposed the fore end of the leaden core. Other similar bullets have been found in the bodies of the French dead and have been sent to the war office. The declaration of the Hague dated July 29th, 1864, and signed by Germany, condemns the use of such bullets in the following terms—'The contracting powers forbid the use of bullets which expand or flatten easily in the human body, such as bullets with a hard envelope which does not completely cover the core or has an incision in it.' The Government of the Republic protests against such proceedings."

The British Government has emphatically denied that explosive bullets have been used in the British Army during the present war; but so far as is known, the German authorities have not denied the circumstantial charges made by the French Government.

It might be explained that Dum Dum is the arsenal in India where the ammunition for the Indian army is made and that no explosive bullets have been used in the rifle cartridges manufactured there for many years. The name of Dum Dum became identified with explosive bullet on account of an issue of cartridges with bullets of that description turned out at the Indian arsenal for use in one of the many border wars, the object being to increase the stopping power of the small calibre cartridge when used against hordes of human beings. This was a violent protest aroused against the use of this ammunition in England, and none of it has been issued or made since at Dum Dum.

TAMWORTH DR.'S DEFENCE

Counsel Claims He Didn't Cut Up Body and Knew Nothing of It Being in His House.

That Dr. C. K. Robinson had nothing to do with the cutting up of Blanche York's body in Tamworth and that he knew nothing about the woman's body being in his house will likely be the line of defence of his counsel when the case comes up in the assizes.

What the defence claims is this, that when Inspector John Miller searched the house he was shown everything and his evidence will be used to prove that there was no sign of any boxes in the cellar or body being hidden there.

Not only that but the defence claims that the way in which the legs were cut off shows that a doctor didn't do it. They were cut off below the knees where the work was much more difficult than if they had been disjointed at the knee, the way any surgeon would have done it.

"There is a lot of mystery in this case," declared C. Robinson, counsel for Dr. Robinson.

As for the blood-stained sheets the defence is understood, admits that the doctor sent them to the laundry but the defence will prove all this but the statement of the late Inspector as to the condition of the premises will be highly important.

The application for bail will likely take place this week before a High Court judge. The evidence taken at the trial at Napanee is to be on hand and the application will have to wait till then.

DECEASE OF A VALUED TEACHER

Miss Ida M. Thompson, fourth daughter of the late Hercules Thompson, entered into rest on Monday, Sept. 14th, at 3 a.m.

The deceased was born in Belleville and was educated in the public and high schools of this city and afterwards graduated from the School of Pedagogy in Hamilton. Possessed of a remarkably clear intellect and indomitable perseverance, she was a brilliant pupil and her health permitted. After graduating she taught as a supply teacher in Toronto for about six months, then went to Stratheona, Alta., where she taught very successfully for about three years. Her health having given out she came home and those who saw her then thought the end was near. All that loving care could do was done and about two years and a half she was again able to resume the work she loved so well.

As a highly valued and successful teacher in Queen Victoria and Cecilia Street School, two years and a half were passed, when the brave spirit again succumbed to the frail body and she was again laid aside. She had the faculty of winning the love and respect of her pupils and was never happier than when their beaming countenances responded to her gentle and wise teaching. She was a true educator, and, both in Stratheona and Belleville, was said to be one of the best teachers they ever had.

Always bright and cheerful and seeing the best side of everybody and everything, to pass an hour with her was a benediction. Possessed of a cultured mind and wonderful memory, she was the gems of the best authors, one always left her with loftier ideals and deeper sympathy for others.

A loving mother, six sisters, namely Mrs. Ellnor, of Toronto; Mrs. R. H. Ketcheson of this city; Mrs. Black Curlette of Calgary; Mrs. Reid, of Stratheona, Alta.; Miss Berina of Calgary and Miss Doll at home and two brothers, namely, Hercules Atkin of Stratheona, Alta. and George of Victoria, B.C., mourn the loss and to them our deepest sympathy is extended.

"Oh for the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still!"

Service will be held at the home, 31 Everett St. at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. at 3.30 p.m.

SEARCHING FOR VICTIMS' BODIES

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

The search for the bodies of Clair Jenkins, Fred Gerow and James White, the unfortunate victims of the triple drowning accident, has been kept up in the hope of recovery, but up to this morning, no trace of them had been found. Yesterday a sweater coat said to have been worn by James White was found near the scene of the accident.

THE DUM-DUM BULLET.

This Merciless Projectile Has Not Been Used by the British Forces as the Germans Claim.

With reference to the unverified story from Berlin that on the seventh or eighth day of September Emperor William forwarded a communication to the President of the United States stating that the British army on the continent was using Dum-Dum or explosive bullets, and protesting thereat as a violation of the Hague Conventions, it is interesting to find in despatches from Paris to the English papers on August 23rd, the following—

"A further note has been sent to the Hague by the French Government protesting against the use of dum-dum bullets by the Germans. The text of the note is as follows—

"The government of the French Republic has the honor of informing the powers signing the Hague Conventions of the following facts, constituting on the part of the German military authorities a violation of the convention signed by the German Government on September 18th, 1907—

"On August 10, 1914, after an engagement between French and German regiments, a major in the medical service sent to the general commanding the infantry brigade a collection of cartridges found on the Munster road near the German outposts which contained five cartridges loaded with eldorado bullets cut at the point, the nickel covering of which was incomplete and left exposed the fore end of the leaden core. Other similar bullets have been found in the bodies of the French dead and have been sent to the war office. The declaration of the Hague dated July 29th, 1864, and signed by Germany, condemns the use of such bullets in the following terms—'The contracting powers forbid the use of bullets which expand or flatten easily in the human body, such as bullets with a hard envelope which does not completely cover the core or has an incision in it.' The Government of the Republic protests against such proceedings."

The British Government has emphatically denied that explosive bullets have been used in the British Army during the present war; but so far as is known, the German authorities have not denied the circumstantial charges made by the French Government.

It might be explained that Dum Dum is the arsenal in India where the ammunition for the Indian army is made and that no explosive bullets have been used in the rifle cartridges manufactured there for many years. The name of Dum Dum became identified with explosive bullet on account of an issue of cartridges with bullets of that description turned out at the Indian arsenal for use in one of the many border wars, the object being to increase the stopping power of the small calibre cartridge when used against hordes of human beings. This was a violent protest aroused against the use of this ammunition in England, and none of it has been issued or made since at Dum Dum.

No Increase
Ketchen
& Earle's
Prices

During times of war m a n y unscrupulous persons stoop and take advantage of the general buying public by advancing the prices of necessities, thinking
they are quite justified in so doing. This does not affect the rich in
any noticeable manner,
but has a very sad effect on the poor. If prices are to be raised,
why not raise luxuries instead? Surely the rich should be made
pay, but no—9 cases
out of 10 the luxuries
are reduced in price
and the necessities are increased.

We were fortunate in the receiving of our goods, everything being in the country when war was declared, consequently no war risks and in flated charges and our prices remain unchanged.

There is a Bounteous Array of Pretty

INSPECTION OF PAVEMENTS

Mayor, Aldermen and Others Went Over New Roadways Today.
(From Tuesday's Daily.)
Mayor Wills and other members of the city council in company with City Engineer J. W. Evans, street
Foreman Henderson and Mr. Davis, representing Messrs. Foley & Gleason, who put down the asphalt pavements on Front and Bridge streets, made an inspection of the new roadways. The streets were finished early this morning and the Mayor and Aldermen were able to go over the roads without interruption. General satisfaction was expressed with the new roads, a few places only needing attention.
Some people have been anxiously looking at the holes caused by the calking of horse shoes. No sign need be felt for those as this condition is a sign of elastic property possessed by the road and without this the pavement would not have durability.
New methods are being applied in the finishing of the street. Today the early morning flush was more than sufficient to remove the dust and dirt.
During the day the roadway is dry.

BISHOP'S COUSIN
KILLED IN ACTION

London Times Despatch Conveys Sad News to Dr. Bidwell.
Colin Knox Anderson, whose mother is a cousin of Bishop, Bidwell, of Kingston, has given his life for his country. News to this effect reached the Bishop this morning through the columns of the London, England
"Times."
The young soldier was a lieutenant in the Royal West Kent Regiment, was 26 years of age, and the youngest son of G. E. Anderson, Esq., of L.
Bridge Hill, near Canterbury, England.
Bishop Bidwell spent some time at their home on his visit to England last summer. Lieut. Anderson was killed in action while serving with the British expeditionary force in France.
Another son, Lieut. D. K. Anderson, of the Royal East Kent Regiment, is also in the front. He is a brother of the young lieutenant who was killed.

REMAINS WILL BE BROUGHT HERE

The remains of the late Prof. J. M.
Denmark, who died at Elmwood Sanitarium on Thursday last, Sept. 10th, will be brought to Belleville for interment. He had been in poor health for one year. In May last, he was taken with dropsy and in June was removed to the sanitarium where he was treated with mineral baths and electrical agents, but nothing could give him relief.
Deceased was born in Fulton, New York state, fifty-one years ago, the second son of John and Amelia Denmark. His parents died in his infancy, his father losing his life in the American Civil War and his mother dying shortly after. He had always followed the medical profession, having begun as a boy of ten years and studying in Docter Conservatory. He was however mostly a self-educated musician. He was leader of Prescott band, the Putnam Military Band and came to Decorate in 1891 to take charge of the band in that town.
Twelve years ago he came to Belleville and became leader of the I.O.O.F. band. For many years he served in that capacity and then was west on account of throat trouble. For a year or two he felt greatly benefited. Then dropsy set in with fatal results.
He was married in 1891 to Miss
M. Walker, Decorate. Those remaining to mourn his loss are his widow and two sons, John and Max and one brother of Flint, Michigan.
The body will be brought here and buried on Thursday in Belleville cemetery.

Warts will render the prettiest hands unsightly. Clear the excres-cences away by using Holloway's Corn Cure, which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

THANKSGIVING DAY OCT. 12.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 10.—Thanksgiving Day will not be celebrated on Thursday Oct. 8, as officially announced yesterday, but on the following Monday, October 12. A new Order-in-Council has been passed fixing the date for the festival. The change was made when the attention of the Government was called to the fact that in order to accord to suit the views of the majority of the people Thanksgiving Day has for several years past been fixed on a Monday. This gives a long weekend and allows many people, more particularly commercial travellers, to spend the holiday at home. Owing to the pressure of business this practice was overlooked by the Government in fixing the date for October 8, but the mistake has been rectified.

Difficulties of Newspapers in Getting the War News

Why It is Necessary to Keep Information Secret Otherwise We Would be Giving the Enemy Great Assistance by Disclosing Plans.

Perhaps one of the most striking things about the war so far has been the veil of secrecy thrown over the operations of the campaign, the co-operation of the press in no country has the silence been more significant or more useful than in Great Britain.

The supreme usefulness of this national silence was so apparent in connection with the dispatch of the Expeditionary Force to France that the recent efforts in some quarters to secure a relaxation of the regulations respecting the publication of war news would cause surprise and even irritation were all the circumstances of the case not taken into consideration.

The British public is more than most communities in the world, jealous of the least infringement upon the liberties of the press and has grown up to rely entirely upon the press for its daily news. At such a time of stress and excitement as that now existing this reliance and the danger for news is intensified many fold. The fact must be borne in mind that the British Empire has not been engaged in a great European war for such a great number of years that the public is unaccustomed to restrictions on the news supplied to it by the press. And the public has been accustomed to the idea that the press is to be trusted to report the news in a fair and impartial manner.

It has to be remembered that the facilities in the way of communication which under normal conditions serve the press so well are open to the enemy when they wish to communicate with their superiors, and consequently the precautions to be taken to prevent news of advantage to the enemy reaching him will have to be much greater and more careful and more rapid in their effects.

Undoubtedly the numerous small wars in which Great Britain has been engaged since the Crimean campaign are in some respect responsible for the impatience manifested in certain quarters for the strict censorship now being enforced in the matter of news. While Great Britain was engaged in campaigns in Persia, Abyssinia, Africa, Burma, Assam, Mauritius or South Africa there was no object in closely censoring news, even that transmitted from the front by newspaper correspondents. The enemy was not likely to get any useful information which might have been published back from the points of publication in time to be of use, and if they did obtain it, its value from military point of view could have been more or less limited.

The situation in the present war is very different from that which existed during any one of the small wars of the past century. The enemy is one especially alive to the value of military intelligence, one that has reaped inestimable benefits from its possession in the past campaigns; and lastly, the present war is a war of attrition, and the careful maintenance, regardless of expense, of elaborate intelligence and spy systems in every corner of the world, has equipped itself to promptly gather in every scrap of news calculated to be of direct military value.

It is a well-known and universally admitted military axiom that the success of a nation which appeals to arms depends to a great extent upon the concentration of its plans and their operations. On the other, ample and accurate information about the enemy is the best guarantee for success and an absolute essential to victory. Napoleon said that a general who was ignorant of the enemy's doings and intentions was ignorant of his profession.

Information is essential to the success of both strategy and tactics. The acquisition of accurate information is one of the most difficult tasks of the headquarters staff as well as of the commander in the field. The mood and bearing of the troops, the position and accumulation of arms and supplies, as well as the numbers, the dispositions and the movements of the enemy are veiled in an obscurity which has been aptly named "the fog of war" an obscurity which the opposing headquarters staff and generals endeavor by every artifice to deepen.

Newspapers are among the sources of information most carefully watched by the military intelligence authorities, the German cavalry, for instance being specially instructed that spies, patrols and outposts are to keep their eyes open for copies or fragments of any newspaper found anywhere and forward them at once to the nearest intelligence officer.

There are many instances of news which have been published in newspapers having led to disaster in the field. Sir Henry Hozier in "Lloyd's" General report mentioned a case in point. He wrote: "In the war of 1866 (Germany versus Austria) I was with Prince Frederick Charles of Russia who had to advance on Vienna, and his great duty was to hold the Austrian Army on the Bistritz, in order to allow the development of the attack of the Crown Prince on its flank and rear. It was of the utmost importance to Prince Frederick to know what Austrian force was in front of him, since unless the whole force was there, it would be imprudent to safety in the same way as other interests of individuals have. The objection has been made that the suppression of unauthorized war news would have the effect of destroying for the time being newspaper enterprise and reducing our journals to a dead level of dull official information; but the great English papers now being received in Canada absolutely disprove this prediction. As to the value of the co-operation of the press in the war it is impossible to form an estimate for it is simply incalculable.

LOYAL SHANNONVILLE RESPONDS.

Splendid Results of Patriotic Concert Wednesday Night.

Last night the large hall at Shannonville was well filled by an interested and earnest audience of men and women from Shannonville and the neighboring parts of Tyndinaga listening to patriotic songs and speeches and organizing for work for the Red Cross and local roads. $125.00 was collected without any difficulty and much more will be obtained by the Committees of workers who now have the matter in hand. Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Marks, Mrs. Tice, Mrs. P. P., who made a splendid appeal to the deeper feelings of the audience and who read a wonderfully prophetic speech that he had uttered six years ago, regarding conditions as they now exist; by Colonel W. M. Denton, who took up the patriotic view of the men on service fighting our battles and the regiments often neglected in times of peace; "But its thin red lines of heroes when the drum begins to roll," "Pro- ductive human life has now its greatest value. Speeches by Reeve MacLaren, by Mr. Marks and by the Minister in charge at Shannonville were well received, and the campaign, launched last night, bids fair to rival many successful centres of energy which these meetings and this corps of speakers (with others) have called into existence during the past few weeks.

Young Men Who Are Out of Employment.

Major H. J. Dawson, officer commanding the 14th Regiment, when addressing the men of that corps on parade on Tuesday evening at the armories, stated that young men of the city who are out of work and persist in hanging around the streets of Kingston should blush with shame. The commanding officer believes that this is a time when every young man in Kingston who is out of work should come forward and get the most military training as no person knows when the Canadian regiments might be called out as a body to defend the shores of Canada. Major Dawson urged every officer, non-commissioned officer and man to urge their friends to join the ranks of the regiment.

To Get Out of Town

Ed. Wall a young man who a little over three weeks ago lost his arm by falling under a freight car near Colborne and whose arm was amputated in Belleville hospital, has been around town since leaving the hospital. The police last evening after previous warnings brought him in on a charge of vagrancy. This morning Magistrate Mason offered him an opportunity to get out of town.

HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN AT "RED CROSS" PERFORMANCE

Sensational Race Between Pacer and Running Horse—Wild West Performance

(From Friday's Daily.)

Nearly one thousand school children and a few adults attended the performance at the Belleville Fair Grounds on Tuesday afternoon in aid of the Red Cross League work of Belleville. A half holiday had been declared for the schools as the management of the Agricultural Association having Wilson's Wild West show engaged for the week decided to do something for the charitable and hospital work and allowed a performance to be put on with the understanding that the Red Cross League was to receive all the proceeds. The children were admitted for five cents each and $515.00 was realized. The money as taken in at the ticket office was a medley. There were a few bills from adults, a few quarters scores of five-cent pieces, and dozens of coppers from the kiddies.

Did they enjoy the program? The merry shouts and laughter which predominated over every other sound on the grounds made proof of this. The boys and girls were given the use of the bleachers and stand so that there might be no necessity of their being in place of danger on the track.

The cadet band of St. Michael's Academy was present and furnished bugle music. Mayor Wills, surrounded by members of the teaching profession, directed the events of the afternoon. Wilson's show provided great amusement for the boys and girls. Steer spinning, wild steer riding, rope spinning by Mr. McCoy, bulldogging of cattle, calf roping and hog-tying, were the interesting features of their performance.

Nothing at Belleville Fair remembered in any way one of the turf events yesterday afternoon where there was a race between a pacer horse and a running horse. Mr. W. Parks, who has been here with the Dominion Construction Company for several years, superintending the C.L.O. & W. Railway construction, and who has been a strong supporter of the Agricultural Society and the Driving Association, offered to allow his famous pacer, Dayspring, to race against any running horse of the Wilson I.O.U. Wild West Show. The terms were one half mile, two heats. Mr. George Powell, the veteran horseman sat on the seat behind Dayspring and a member of the Wilson Company mounted the fastest of their steeds. It was so different from the usual contest on the track that great interest was aroused. Both horses got off to a good start. Dayspring having the pull. The pacer set up a terrific gait, the action of its limbs being perfect, while the running horse was galloping at his highest speed. The first heat was remarkably close, Dayspring and the Wilson Company keeping nearly neck and neck, but Dayspring had an ever advantage. There was in the fraction of a second. The finish was wonderfully close. The horses came down the stretch in the tight race of the season, only loose in the judge's stand and grandstand could tell which came in first under the wire. Dayspring won by about three inches. The time was 1:02 1/2 for the half mile. This is very fast for the track. The second heat was even more quickly run. Dayspring out the time down to one minute and two seconds and had a fair lead on the pacer. The contest was as close as in the first. It is mainly due to the good horsemanship of Mr. Powell and the staying power of Dayspring that the finish was perhaps unequalled in the history of the Belleville track in point of speed.

HOW GERMANY HAS BEEN PREPARING FOR WAR

Public Opinion in Germany Demanded the Extinction of France.

Now that the war has come, British students of German newspapers and politics are recalling many signs which presaged Germany's assault upon the peace of the world. For months and indeed years past a section of the German press, backed by men eminent in the political and intellectual world, have been preaching a policy of violence. One of the most popular of German historians, whose works for years have moulded the thought of German students is Treitschke; a well known utterance of his, may be condensed thus: "We have settled accounts with Denmark, we have settled accounts with France; we have now to settle accounts with England. That will be the longest and most difficult task of all." General Von Bernhardi in his book "Germany and the Next War" advocated an unprovoked attack upon France, for the purpose of rendering her harmless for the future. "When we go to war with the French," he said in effect, "it must be a war to the knife. We must not merely crush her we must stamp her into dust, never again to raise as a Great Power."

With writers of this sort to back them, numerous newspapers in Germany long have been advocating violent policies. In England the general tendency has been to regard such writers as irresponsible firebrands, by no means representative of the views of responsible public men, or of the mass of the German people. It now appears that these advocates of war really represented official opinion.

Bearing this in mind, it is interesting to observe, that as long as February 24th last, a Berlin newspaper "Die Post," the organ of the Pan German party, and as it now is proved of the government as well, published a long article entitled: "Austria and the Triple Alliance Policy." The object of this article was to show that the moment had come for Germany to plunge Europe into war. The author pointed out that the internal situation in Austria was such as to justify the direct apprehension for the future military strength of the Dual Monarchy. As an ally, that power was now at its pinnacle of value, but every year would bring a diminution of Germanic influence, and an increase of slave influence in Austria-Hungary. Meanwhile he said, Russia, France and England were improving their military position by leaps and bounds, and would soon be immeasurably superior in war resources to every kind of the Triple Alliance. A few passages from this article may be quoted in full:

"From year to year the situation is growing worse for us; every year it becomes more dangerous, and the inevitable war more difficult. For a moment, however, things are in our favor. France is not yet ready for battle, Russia dreads war because she fears domestic revolution. England is hampered by colonial and domestic difficulties. Shall we, then, wait until our enemies are ready, or shall we make use of the propitious moment to go on a decision? This is the question now to be decided. We do not believe that a quarrel must be picked, but should a conflict of interests arise we must not give way, but rather let it come to war, and start that war with a resolute offensive. The present is a minor interlude in war resources. What the apparent cause may be, the real state of issue will be our whole future. I can only sum up by declaring that the task of German policy is not to maintain peace but to prepare for the inevitable war with care and energy and then wage it under the best possible conditions.

In connection with the publication of articles of this sort overt acts have taken their significance. Certain German merchant ships at the outbreak of war were in South American ports. A German vessel met them carrying guns and ammunition for them to mount and store. That ship was despatched from Germany days before the Austrian ultimatum was addressed to Serbia.

It is perfectly clear that the present struggle was deliberately planned and provoked by Germany.

WAR COURAGE.

Many a man in Canada, willing to go a-warring across the seas, is unwilling to fight at home—against the shadowy foes of bad times or of business depression.

This is a time in Canada when Canadian business men should fight—fight to capture new trade and to hold old trade. To stop one's advertising is to withdraw a powerful offensive and defensive force, and to expose one's business without a guard.

If the courage of manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers—the generals and captains of trade and industry—fails, the courage of the nation will ebb.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered miserably for years until I began taking your medicine. I also recommend it for nervousness and indigestion."

Chesterville, Ont.—"I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble. My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated."

"I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial."

On Friday evening Mr. Geo. Pringle, of Flinton, from whom the animal was stolen, drove to Tweed accompanied by Mr. Plue, and had a warrant issued for the arrest of the thief. Chief Molyneux in whose hands the warrant was placed learned that Gonyou was registered at the Queens hotel and had retired for the night.

COULDN'T WAKE THEM UP.

German Soldiers Had Been on the Go for Three Days.

Paris, Sept. 12.—During the third day's fighting in the battle on the Marne a detachment of the French, which had chased the enemy out of a village, was halted by an old woman, who led them to a barn where there were thirty Germans, telling them to make no noise as they were asleep.

A man crept noiselessly into the barn and found the Germans sleeping so soundly that it took him an hour and tremendous shaking to wake them. One explained that he had not slept for three days. They had been harassed by the French and English, and the evening before they had entered the barn, where all fell asleep from sheer exhaustion.

Good Times Ahead

THE sudden breaking out of war caused many to "run to cover." Like the chicken on whom the rose leaf fell, some of us become a prey to fear and were ready to declare "the sky is falling."

Now our vision is clearing, our alarm has fled, we have recovered our poise and our courage. We are seeing, also, our opportunity. Swiftly and almost overwhelmingly has come to us the perception of the fact that the competition of Continental Europe has been taken away. We are faced with a condition and an opportunity both tending to our advantage as a country of industry, agriculture and trade. Good times are ahead, if Canada and Canadians see and seize the present opportunity for enlarging their industries and trading.
