Many Poor Souls in Water Would Have Been Rescued Had Enemy Not Interfered

Major Lyon, in Telling of Sinking of Hospital Ship, Says Germans Prevented Rescue Work, Intending to Leave No Trace of the Llandoverly Castle.

LONDON, July 2.—Major T. Lyon, of the Canadian Medical Corps, who suffered such severe treatment when he was taken from the captain's boat and dragged aboard the German submarine, has been brought to a hospital in London.

"The Germans," he said, "seemed obsessed with the idea that American aviators were aboard, and it took us some time to convince them otherwise. Almost the first words they used when approaching our lifeboat were: 'Where is the flying officer?'"

"This was when the German commander ordered us to come alongside quickly, and we explained that the slight delay in the darkness was due to an endeavor to rescue a man in the water. Then it was that the German commander threatened us, again asking: 'Where are those Americans?' and then shot over our heads with his revolver, and made more threats.

"Captain Sylvester (master of the hospital ship) went aboard the submarine first, remaining perhaps five or ten minutes. Then they came after me. The second officer of the submarine grabbed me by the hand, and I was jerked aboard, a bone in my foot being broken.

"I ascertained afterwards that the Germans had questioned Sylvester as to whether a wireless message had been despatched, asking for assistance, and about American flying officers. I was taken to the conning tower and kept standing about three minutes, while I was interrogated by the German commander regarding my being a medical officer. I saw eight or ten men while aboard. All of them spoke English. Finally they sent me back to the life-boat, my story having tallied with Sylvester's.

"This seemed to surprise the Germans, as they pretended to be sure that aviators were aboard. I have my doubts about this being genuine, my idea being that the Germans simply used this as a pretext for the torpedoing of the Llandoverly Castle."

Major Lyon was propped up in bed. He related how the Germans pursued the master the lifeboat put away from the submarine, and called for the ship's second officer, who was taken to the conning tower and questioned at length regarding the explosion as the vessel sank. The Germans apparently had beforehand information, as the commander of the submarine, says Major Lyon, had asked about eight flying officers. Eight medical officers had intended to make the trip, but one did not sail at the last minute because of illness.

Finally the second officer returned to the lifeboat and the submarine began running down the wreckage and floating object.

"The submarine," continued Major Lyon, "a little later made for us, missing our stern by two feet. I believe the Germans tried to ram us, but why they did not shell us or run us down we could not understand. After our experience we all agreed that their first intentions were to sink without trace, but why they spared us is inexplicable, unless it was because most of the survivors in our boat are men of the sea, and they tell me there is a sort of freemasonry among them.

ten or twelve shots, one over our head. I shall never forget the cries of the helpless men in the water. Blasting to the wreckage that night. While the sea was roiling, it was not really rough, and I believe that if the Germans had not delayed us we would have been able to assist quite a number.

"I was in the smoking room when we were torpedoed. I first went to the staterooms of several nurses, but all were empty. I saw one nurse ascending the companionway, but never got another glance of the woman, although one survivor said that he saw a boat with 12 of them capsized.

"Despite the darkness there was no panic and no cries for Blow Missed Quebec. "The blow missed Quebec and struck Protestant divinity students. I don't wonder that the Orange members resent that, and the apparent indignation of the Orange members is stupid of them to raise such a Catholic cry about it.

On Wednesday, June 26th, a very pretty and happy event took place at the home of Dr. W. S. and Mrs. MacTavish, when their eldest daughter, Jean Irene, was married to Mr. Carl Adams McCoy, son of Mrs. John A. McCoy of Madoc, at eleven o'clock.

Thoughts by the Way
RURAL LIFE
Written for The Ontario by "Wayfarer."

The unseasonably cold weather prevailing throughout the month of June, has affected natural growth materially, and in consequence, farmers are predicting not only a short hay crop but a short crop of straw in ordinary grains.

In the homes, too, the call has been felt especially by the aged and sick, one lady declaring that their fire had been kept burning every day this summer, at the same time wondering if so much fuel were to be used for the summer, what amount would be sufficient for the coming winter.

But weather conditions here compare favorably with those in the western provinces. In a recent letter from one of the following account is given of the weather and rain in that district. On June 10th it was very hot, but you can hardly realize what a Chinook wind is.

But this locality is spared any such devastation and with summer in sight the outlook is more promising. We have had again rain in the west and their fragrance fills the air. We trust in this year of the world's greatest need, that Nature will send the sunshine and rain so necessary for a bountiful harvest.

The little red school house was the scene of patriotic endeavor, on Saturday last, when the teachers and pupils, conducted the general registration. The teachers, considering it a work to win the war, spent the long hours of Saturday without remuneration, a certain young pedagogue remarking that it was only fourteen hours. A farmer hearing this, remarked that his son on overseas service frequently served eighteen hours a day.

Speaking of sacrifice, one recalls an amusing incident of a farmer's wife who recently related her experience in attempting to save six dollars to purchase a new hat. She said she had returned home one day so often that it would do no longer. Having a few dollars she went to a board, where a new flower-decked bonnet waited before her mental vision.

One day last week it was our exciting experience to witness the awesome spectacle of our next-door neighbor's house wrapped in flames. Old homesteads in the country, become, to the life-time residents, so much a part of rural life, that when one sees such a house, for years the residence of the family and the place to which many wanderers look back upon as "home", wrapped in flames and being consumed by the devouring element, the thought arises, how weak is our grasp on these things, and how transitory are earth's fondest treasures.

By what we have mentioned of good and gain. By the vanquished hills which we hourly meet. By the quietude and the passion slain.

WARKWORTH
Mr. W. J. Brown has his sawmill doing business again in Warkworth. Mr. Gerow, of Castleton, has been spending the past week with his niece, Mrs. B. F. Kellogg.
Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McDonald moved to their new home in Campbellford last week.
Born in Percy, on Wednesday, June 19, to Mr. and Mrs. F. Bowen, a son.
Local farmers state that the hay crop bids fair to be a good quality but will be only moderately heavy owing to lack of rain, and cold weather that has retarded growth.
Mr. I. B. Rouse, optometrist and manufacturing optician, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Rouse, are visiting the home of their daughter, Mrs. MacIntyre, at the manse.
The Ontario Government expects that by the first of July machines will be at work preparing peat for commercial purposes. If the machines prove satisfactory production of a more elaborate scale will be left for private corporations.
Mrs. Hoffman received official word on Monday that her brother who was a cadet with the Royal Air Force at Camp Mohawk, had been killed in an accident. The flying corps seems to take a heavy toll of young men in training as well as in action.

Mr. C. R. Baker, who went overseas with the 139th Battalion, and was reported missing more than a year ago, is now presumed to have died. It is hoped that the late news of this village who are missing are still alive and that they may be able to return home after the conclusion of this terrible struggle.
Malloy died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Huycke, near Hastings, on Thursday, June 20. The remains passed through Warkworth on Saturday to Garton cemetery for interment. Mrs. Malloy was a daughter of the late L. Berry, of Oak Heights, and was a resident of this village for many years.
The construction gang of the Percy Municipal Telephone system will soon be completing their labors. The few remaining telephones in the area served by the system will consult their own interests as well as that of the system by signing up, if they desire a service, before July 6th, as the construction gang will be dispersed and tools disposed of after that date.
Mr. Chas. Macklin, of the Macklin neighborhood, Haldimand, died suddenly while sitting in his chair talking to a neighbor on Sunday morning.

Journalism at Demorestville
SEVENTEEN YEARS AGO, VILLAGE CRITICISER, OF WHICH MRS. MUNROE STILL HAS A COPY
We are indebted to Dr. Sprague, and through him to Mrs. Munroe, of Crofton, for a glimpse at an exceedingly old, and therefore curious, document and publication.
The "Journal" is little written after this date, being published by Mr. Richard Vanhaan, Spillaburg, by Royal Munroe. As manager he writes to enclose tickets for a ball to be given on New Year's night, requesting his presence and that he get certain others to accompany him. "I am in such a hurry I cannot think of all, but ask such as you think proper to come, and I will be glad to see you." As the names mentioned were: Lester's boys, John Lewis Snider, Chas. Jones, John Howell, J. Gibson, James Gutter, Polly Croft, and Mary Ann Jones. He regrets that they were disappointed in getting the tickets printed but he has written some and asks Mr. Vanhaan to write the others himself. No envelope was forthcoming in those days so the epistle was folded and sealed with wax.

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him, and he is added to that great army of Canadians who glory in telling their neighbors that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure remedy for all kidney ills.

Sandwiches at Midday are Not Permitted
PICKNICS COME UNDER TERMS CLAUSE OF THE FOOD REGULATIONS
Citizens intending to take part in picnics and who have had some difficulty in interpreting the food regulations, should bear in mind that sandwiches are not permitted at any midday meal.
If the picnic is on Friday, no meat of any kind may be used.
If the picnic is on a Tuesday or Thursday, the only meat permissible is pork, and it must be served only at the morning meal, so that for dinner and supper meat is prohibited.
If the picnic is on a Monday or a Saturday, pork may be served at the midday meal.
Beef may be served only at the evening meal on Sunday, Monday, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.
The food regulations do not prohibit the use of eggs, sausages, liver, onions and fish, so that it may be safely assumed that picnics may take their fill of these.
Those in charge of an excursion or an outing are not required to cook out a luncheon, but may use cream, candies and fruit.

Address and Presentation
The Altruists Class of Foxboro, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nell Davis to present their eldest daughter, Miss Helen Davis, who was married to Mr. Wilmot Rose, who still resides at the manse. The evening was spent in music and singing after the address was read, then lunch was served.
Dear Stella,
It is hardly necessary to remind you how deeply and sincerely I regret that you have been removed from our midst by the solemn words which you have so lately taken. Words are a poor medium with which to express our sense of loss at your removal from us, or to express our appreciation of the place you have held among us all your life. Your deep interest in the lessons and in all the activities of the class has been helpful to us all. As secretary of the Altruists, you discharged the duties of that office in such an efficient manner that you could give accurate statements of your accounts and when you became our honored president, you proved yourself capable of filling that important and arduous office tactfully. We wish to express our deepest appreciation of your valuable services given in your cheerful and in-

Suddenly Died In His Chair
FARMER NEAR COBOURG WAS CHATting WITH A FRIEND
Cobourg, June 28.—Mr. Chas. R. Macklin, a prominent farmer residing near Fenella, in the north part of Haldimand Township, died very suddenly while sitting in his chair at his home talking with a friend, Mr. Sol Leach. Suddenly he leaned forward in his chair; Mr. Leach sprang to catch him but he died almost immediately. A few days before he brought his son into town to report for military duty at Kingston, and had been about as usual. He is survived by his wife, Eliza, daughter of the late Andrew Row, of Haldimand; two sons, William and Andrew; and one daughter, Miss Jessie. He was fifty-seven years of age.

SPOILS SYSTEM DIES HARD
(Toronto Globe)

"The Globe and its various echoes should come down out of the clouds and cast aside theory for facts. Government appointments are still being made upon the recommendation of the representative of the Government, the members of Parliament for the constituency, notwithstanding any fine-spun theory to the contrary, and as yet no better system has been devised of making Government appointments."

This remarkable and definite declaration by an influential Conservative contemporary calls for a clear and unequivocal statement from the Government in view of the Premier's public pledges and of the legislation placed upon the statutes, the last session of Parliament. Not only does the Intelligence make the announcement that "Government appointments are still made upon the recommendation of the representative of the Government, the member of Parliament for the constituency," but it specifically asserts that in its own riding, of West Hastings, the local member still exercises patronage in Government appointments, that the men he recommends are appointed, and that "his recommendations will no doubt be as favorably received by the Department now as they have always been in the past." The Intelligence serves notice that "any general attempt to enforce any such scheme of making appointments over the heads of the sitting members would result in a Parliamentary revolution which would shake even the highly virtuous dome of the Globe office."
If The Belleville Intelligence, which is presumably in the confidence of the member for the West Hastings riding, speaks by the book concerning the exercise of patronage in filling positions in the public service in that constituency, then an explanation must be forthcoming from the Government. The provisions of the outside Civil Service reform measure adopted by Parliament are either being enforced or they are not. If they are not, the public is entitled to the reason. Under the new act the "representative of the Government" who is charged with the duty of recommending appointment is not the local member, who has nothing to do with the matter, but the responsible Deputy Minister or head of the Department whose sole and proper concern is the fitness of the appointee and the efficiency of the service. Returned soldiers first in the sound principle unanimously approved by Parliament, and is the only condition governing these responsible officers in making their recommendations.
This was the policy in relation to all appointments adopted by the Administration in pursuance of its pledges and given effect in the legislation of Parliament. This is the law of the land. It is stated that this law is being evaded or broken in West Hastings. What have the members of the Government to say regarding this remarkable allegation?

The Pan-American Army
(Written for The Daily Ontario by Chas. M. Rice, Denver.)

There is now before the American Congress, a proposal to provide for the incorporation into a great continental army of all the republics of Central and South America that have declared war against Germany. This proposal is meeting with general favor, and no doubt will be adopted at once and with whole-hearted enthusiasm. The American people have the vision to realize what this means today, and what it will signify for the future.
If it is carried out, in war, it will not end with the war. As a binding force it will be more effective than the Monroe Doctrine, which as we know, jars upon the sensitive nerves of some of the republics as a piece of self constituted "paternalism" too patronizing and over-assertive.
First of all the moral effect upon the rest of the world will be far-reaching and immediate. It will strike home with telling effect upon Germany. A Pan-American army on the Western front without striking a blow would be equal to a great victory against the enemy. Germany has counted upon this hemisphere as an outlet for its trade after peace comes, knowing only too well that the nations which have been battling the treacherous, poison-gas-using, body-killing Hun will have nothing to do with him commercially, or socially until at least a new generation has arisen.
Long before the present war Germany had systematically undertaken a colonization scheme for Brazil and Argentina and other states, which it was confidently believed when the day came, would make German people still believe that the Latin republics are in opposition to the U.S., and would welcome a German victory. They are kept in ignorance of the steps taken by these republics to put down a world menace. Brazil, and five other republics are at war with Germany, though they have so far taken no decisive steps toward putting armies in the field. Bolivia and Peru and five others have severed diplomatic relations with the common enemy of mankind, and there is good ground for expectation at Washington that patient, long suffering Argentina is ready to come out in the open with her sister republics.
A declaration of war is one thing, and the appearance of an armed force on the battle front is another and more effective method of making known a nation's sentiment. The presence of the armies of seven or more nations under their respective flags would be known year soon to the German people and German finances and her industries would take lead. It would be notice to the heads of the great steamship lines of pre-war days, to the exporters and others that the American republics were united with the rest of the civilized world against a common foe and that henceforth German trade and emigration would be dealt with more closely than ever before.
The resources of the U.S. would be turned over to the lesser republics that might not be in a position to equip and transport to Europe a considerable army. Allied ships would be at their service, and wherever possible they would remain distinct units under their own command. These contingents would find over there an army from the Portuguese republic, fighting side-by-side with her centuries-old ally, England. Probably half or more of these armies from Latin continent would be sent to the Italian front to fight with their Latin relatives.
The commanding thing in this splendidly conceived plan is to show the world that the cherished tradition of a Pan-America is come to pass, that the jealousy of the greater republic has vanished, and that the American people are united with the rest of the world in a common purpose. This union of republics must have a determining influence upon Mexico at a period, too, when her present head is in need of a reminder as to where his duty lies.

Prices Were High at Today's Market
At today's market prices for most products ruled high. There were large offerings of strawberries and seasonal vegetables. In other lines the attendance was limited. Butter still maintains a high level. The last vendors were uniformly asking 43 cents a pound for the golden product. The dealers quote 40c to 50c, according to quality.
Eggs are on the up-grade, 45c a dozen was asked. The dealers are paying 38 cents.
Strawberries in large quantities were in evidence both on the inside and the outside market. The majority were asking 25 cents a box, regardless of the size of the berries, though some were offering to sell as low as 25 cents. By the crate 250 was asked. The berries were mostly nice and firm but they were not so large in size as those offered a week ago.

SAILING VESSEL SUNK BY GERMAN SUBMARINE

Madrid, June 26.—The captain of the Spanish sailing vessel Joaquima has arrived here. He reports that the Joaquima, which sailed from Cuba, was held up by a submarine which declined to examine the ship's papers and forced the crew to disembark into the boats.

A despatch from Paris, May 22, said that the Joaquima had been found abandoned and adrift in the North African coast by a fishing vessel. The hull had been pierced by numerous shell holes.

The Waste in Training Camps

Ever since the shortage of ocean tonnage became apparent and European countries came to rely more and more upon the productive agencies of Canada and the United States, it has been the aim of the Canadian federal and provincial authorities to urge upon the absolute conservation of foodstuffs.

In view of the efforts being put forth to place before the people the crying need for economy in foodstuffs, it is somewhat surprising to hear of instances of wasteful methods in military training camps.

If the waste in this one unit even approximated the quantity estimated the combined waste in all the Canadian training camps would reach an alarming figure and its conservation would materially assist in relieving the situation so far as some bacon producers are concerned.

Iceless Refrigerator and Fireless Cooker

Introduced by Mrs. H. S. Strathy, and under the auspices of the Toronto division of the conservation publicity department of the Canada Food Board, Miss Elizabeth Ward, of Montreal, gave a demonstration on the home-made fireless cooker and iceless refrigerator at the W.C. T.U. hall, McGill street, yesterday afternoon.

The material used by the demonstrator was of a very home-like character, consisting of a wooden box—something of the size of a soap box—a close-fitting lid, a piece of oil cloth, and an aluminium pot with closely-fitting lid, and packing.

The fireless refrigerator was represented as a very simple affair, consisting of a wooden framework with a top and a shelf in the middle. A shallow pan is to be placed under the frame, and a basin or deeper pan on top.

Unsinkable Lady Lives in Cleveland

A German submarine would have no terrors for Mrs. Theresa Vetter of Cleveland, unless the water was very cold.

Mrs. Vetter who is known in Cleveland as "The Human Cork" can float easily on the water for hours at a time. Even more remarkable is her inability to remain under the water.

Not until two years ago did Mrs. Vetter learn of her abnormal buoyancy in water. It was then she learned to swim. Since then she has devoted a great deal of her time to "water balancing."

The buoyancy of her body has kept Mrs. Vetter out of the life-saving service. The government regulations require, among other qualifications, that a candidate for the service must remain under nine feet of water for 50 seconds.

Time after time she has tried to pass this test. She has taken the examination of the American Red Cross Lifesaving Society, the Royal Lifesaving Society and the Women's Lifesaving League of America.

Victory Over U-Boats

If the statement of the French Naval Department regarding the destruction of submarines is true—and it is officially given to the Chamber of Deputies—it more than makes up for previous reticence on the part of the Allied Governments about anti-submarine effort.

The French statement presents the situation as so much better than anyone could have believed it to be that one is tempted to think the French authorities must be mistaken if it was understood, of course, that the Allies had been so successful in their fight against the submarines as to make it impossible for Germany to realize her purpose through them.

The clothes were sent to be dry cleaned and all fell apart, so we had to buy a new outfit in Norway.
