PROGRESS OF THE WAR
[June 1 to June 7.]

In the week under review the great war entered the eleventh month of its course. Not only has no diminution been manifested in the fierceness of the conflict, but on the contrary, the struggle seems to be animated with renewed vigor on all sides; but the issues are more apparent than in August last when hostilities began. The past week resulted in no material gains to the Allies (by which, of course, we mean Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy, Belgium, Serbia and Montenegro); but their "Tentative" forces have made very considerable gains in Galicia. The honors of the week are, therefore, with the Teutons. And more than ever has been manifested during the week, the terrible military organization which the Teutons are fighting for its suppression have to overcome.

In the western theatre of the war some minor engagements have been reported in the Vosges and in Le Pretre Forest near the Moselle; but north of Arras and thence along the whole line of battle to the sea, fierce fighting has been continuous, the attacks and counter attacks resulting in no ground gained for the Allies, but with enormous losses in men on both sides.

In the eastern field, in Galicia, the fall of Przemyel to the Teutons has to be recorded, and the Russians were being driven back on Lemberg, which may again fall to the Austrians, from whom it was taken early in the campaign. Little definite news has been given concerning activities in Poland, but it is certain that the Russians have made no gain. In the Baltic Provinces of Russia the Germans have resumed the offensive with great vigor; and there has been a naval engagement in Gulf of Riga between a German and a Russian fleet, in which both sides sustained loss, but nothing of a decisive nature resulted.

On the Gallipoli Peninsula severe trench fighting took place between the Anglo-French Allies and the Turks, in which the Allies took some ground, and inflicted great losses on the enemy. Reports have come to hand of successes of the British Indian forces, on the river Euphrates in Mesopotamia, in an encounter with a large body of Turkish troops who suffered heavy losses in killed, wounded, and prisoners taken.

Italy has resumed her advance on Austrian territory, but no important action has been fought. The Italian fleet, aided by air craft, made another attack on Pola and inflicted some damage on that naval base. The Serbian army resumed activities, and was marching southwards into Macedonia, and was not far from Scutari, which is its objective.

No news of any kind has been made public concerning the operations in South West Africa, and none may be expected to be given out for some time. The destruction by the British of a German gunboat on Lake Nyasa was reported. The German submarines "blockade" of British ports was particularly active during the week, not only in the North Sea, but on the south coast of Ireland as well. A number of merchantmen and fishing craft were sunk, and nearly a score of lives lost. Zeppelin raids on England were a conspicuous feature of the week, east coast towns, and London itself, having been visited by the dreaded air craft. For reasons which the authorities consider sufficient, the results of these raids, even their exact locality, have not been made public. Lives have been lost and considerable property damaged. As an offset to these raids it is to be recorded that a British aeroplane, operated by a young Canadian sub-lieutenant of the Royal Navy, R. W. Warneford, assisted by a French aeroplane, destroyed a Zeppelin, which exploded and fell on an orphanage near Ghent. The crew of the Zeppelin were killed; but it is to be noted that some of the inmates of the orphanage, children and the Sisters in charge, also lost their lives in the fire that resulted from the burning Zeppelin falling on the building. "This is one of the saddest incidents of the war; that the orphanage was not the object of the attack. The complete and widely ramified system of espionage organized by the Germans is gradually being revealed; but it will be a long time before it can be destroyed or successfully counteracted.

no safe predictions can be made as to what action certain neutral powers may take. Whatever comes to pass, one thing seems certain, namely, that another winter campaign is in sight and the war will be long-drawn-out. The call for more recruits in Great Britain continues to meet with the desired response; and so it does in Canada. But in Canada the recruiting officers seem to be a little too careless in their methods, and have enlisted a number of undesirables who have promptly deserted. But there are many "good men and true" who have answered their country's call to arms, and many more will follow their example. The real seriousness of the war is being brought home to us all.

AFTER CLEAN-UP DAY, WHAT?
In many cities and towns of Canada, the annual clean-up day has been observed. Refuse and litter have been removed. Lards have been lifted up and made presentable. This result has been secured through the active agitation of public bodies and private individuals interested in the sanitary and clean-city movement. But why should this laudable effort be restricted to annual clean-up days? In Canada, owing to the covering mantle of snow which hinders the complete removal of garbage and other refuse, there is some slight excuse for the untidy conditions found in the spring. As this refuse is not removed during at least eight months of the year, there is no reason why, after the spring clean-up, the improved conditions should not be continued.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S STAND
The N. Y. Paper Trade Journal, referring to recent New Brunswick legislation, says:
We will not say that the regulation providing that no timber be cut below a certain size is not a wise and necessary measure. There has been altogether too much profligacy in the cutting of the forests, as Americans have found to their cost; and conservation has become a watchword on both sides of the line. But a country can suffer just as readily from a boarding of its resources as it can by a wasteful policy. It was a time when capitalists were seeking investments in Canadian properties for the purpose of paper manufacture, as they were doing when Ontario and Quebec first began to impose export restrictions on wood; it would be possible to understand the present attitude of the New Brunswick government. But when there is no prospect for additional mill construction in the Dominion except at some remote and indefinite period, and when it has been found that the prohibition of pulp wood shipments to this side has not been productive of a single paper mill within the province, is it not poor business policy to withhold the raw material when it might be sold to advantage and profit?

WHITE HEAD, C. M.

The people were all much pleased to see him again in the pulpit, and hear his voice once more. Capt. Boardman Cheney has arrived from Nova Scotia with a load of lumber for parties on Grand Manan. Capt. Delbert Gupill has arrived with his vessel from St. John, with a general cargo. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Russell are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russell, at Cheney's Island. Fish of all kinds continue scarce around White Head, and especially the fishermen complain of a scarcity of lobsters.

Wake Up!

New Brunswick!

This World War Demands the Supreme Effort of a United Empire

Shall Our Province Fall Behind?

It should not be supposed that contributions of a couple of thousand men, a few odd dollars, some barrels of potatoes and boxes of socks constitute our rightful sacrifice. So far not more than a handful of people in all this country have any actual realization of what the war means. These few have given their husbands or their sons to the cause of Empire. The remainder have done nothing in comparison with their abilities and their opportunities.

Our national life, our peace, our prosperity and our happiness are so dependent upon the well-being of the British Empire that only by playing our part in that Empire can we maintain our fortunate position.

Up to the present ninety-nine per cent. of us do not realize what sacrifice means, nor what is being endured by those nearer to the firing line than we are. We must give, not only of our material wealth, but of our blood, and not niggardly, but with a generous hand.

None of us wish to part with our husbands or children, but it is better that they should serve the Empire and save our homes than that our enemies should triumph and all that we hold dear be taken from us.

"For Romans in Rome's quarrel Spared neither land nor gold, Nor son nor wife, nor limb nor life, In the brave days of old."

The 55th Regiment still requires five hundred men from New Brunswick. These men must be furnished at once, and must be recruited from New Brunswick homes. We cannot ask strangers to take our places. The duty before us is clear, however hard the part may seem. Some will lose their lives; others will be maimed; many will return.

MEN OF NEW BRUNSWICK—Once upon a time there was a man who said that he would rather be a live coward than a dead hero.

LIFE IN A MORAVIAN VILLAGE

UNLIKE an English village, a Moravian village is an autonomous whole. It has its own Mayor and Council, and its inhabitants form, as regards their occupation, a self-supporting system.
