PROGRESS OF THE WAR

[December 21 to December 27]

TO summarize the progress of the war during the week under review is not a difficult task, as the daily reports have been so full of interest and so full of hope for the future.

In the Western campaign no big events were undertaken during the week. The infantry activities being limited to local trench raids and counter raids.

In the Eastern campaign the only important progress reported was that of the Teutons in Rumania proper and in the Egyptian campaign the Teutons were reported to have been driven before superior forces.

Further satisfactory news was received of the progress of the British troops in the Mesopotamian campaign, the announcement being made that the Turkish forces of Kut-el-Amara were being driven from the south as well as from the east.

The week was without news of the campaign in East Africa.
No important changes were effected in the Balkan campaign, though some activity was reported. As to Greece, little news was transmitted during the week.

The Allies' blockade of Greece ports continued in force, but it was reported that the demobilization of the Greek army had begun. There would thus seem to be a reasonable prospect of the pro-German King and his misguided supporters being made to interfere with the military plans and operations of the Entente Allies.

Some activity on the whole front was reported concerning the Austro-Italian campaign, and the advantage would appear to have been with the Italians, who were said to have straightened their line on the Carra.

A minor naval encounter between patrol boats of the Allies and small vessels of the Austrian navy in the Straits of Oranto is referred to in "News of the Week" where will also be found a list of all the naval and mercantile marine disasters reported during the week, whether through submarine activity, stress of weather, or other causes.

President Wilson's latest issues of proposals for a peace conference absorbed much attention throughout the week, but its reception must have been somewhat different from that anticipated by the benevolent and peace-promoting people of the world. The German peace proposals seem to have found nothing to commend them, but strong indications for their total rejection by the Entente Allies. Peace, very by all honorable means; but not the kind known as "made in Germany," even though Woodrow Wilson is sponsor for it.
The Allies know what they are fighting for and will continue the struggle till they attain the end they have in view.

WATERWORKS

We presume the next regular monthly meeting of the Town Council will be held on Tuesday evening, January 2, and that a draft of the proposed Bill to authorize the Town to issue bonds for waterworks, to be presented to the Legislative Assembly at its next session, will be considered. This Bill must be general in its terms, permitting the Town Council to contract for the installation and supply of the waterworks under such terms and conditions as are approved of by the ratepayers. The Town Council is not authorized to conclude a contract with any one person or firm, and the members of the Council (with the exception of Alderman Goodwill Douglas) who spoke on the subject at the public meeting the other week were taken promised to consider the matter further and let the ratepayers know exactly what arrangement was to be made before the Town was definitely committed. It was only because of the assurance on the part of the councillors that the ratepayers voted in favor of the installation of waterworks.
The offer of the C. P. R., as originally made, is not acceptable to the ratepayers of St. Andrews, as it is altogether too favorable to the Company in the matter of cost, and does not safeguard adequately the interests of the Town.

ODE

WE are the music-makers,
And we are the dreamers of dreams, Wandering by lone sea-breakers, And sitting by desolate streams;

World-loosers and world-forsakers, On whom the pale moon gleams:
Yet we are the movers and shakers Of the world for ever, it seems.

With wonderful deaths dainties We bane up the world's great cities, And out of a fabulous story We fashion an emblem's glory:

One man with a dream, at pleasure, Shall go forth and conquer a crown;
And three with a new song's measure Can trample an empire down.

THE ROMANCE OF NICKEL

Nickel is popularly held in small estimation; its very name being derived from a German word implying worthlessness. Yet its history is full of romantic interest, and its applications are of immense practical utility.

From the time the old German miner first discovered locally produced nickel in the South Sea, it is carried round the world before being smelted in Lanarkshire, or Westphalia; while the resulting metal enters into the composition of many of our most important manufactures.

The nickel mine in the Cape York territory, the largest known source, contains 8 per cent of it. Otherwise, it is found chiefly in conjunction with other minerals; being, in fact, frequently mixed up with half a dozen of them.

From this the bulk of the nickel produced in the world is obtained. The metal is obtained, and is a similar formation to the nickeliferous ore in the Dominion.

The remains were brought here on Wednesday, accompanied by the Messrs. Egan and Mr. Brennan, and the late Henry O'Neill, and leaves for home in the afternoon.

The funeral was held on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and was largely attended. As the funeral services were held in St. Andrew's Catholic church on Thursday morning.

THE JESUITS

THE Jesuits, or Society of Jesus, for which the letters S. J. are commonly used as an abbreviation, are a religious order founded by Ignatius Loyola in 1534.

The popular conceptions of a code of secret instructions (Mystic Secrets), or of an inner circle of the initiated, like the highest grades of the masonic lodges, or again of an elaborate system of lay spies and secret emissaries, are fictions.

The development of the society was rapid. At the death of its founder in 1556 it numbered rather more than 1,000 members, divided into twelve provinces.

In their more controversial labours the Jesuits have generally appeared as the champions of papal authority in the form which would now be described as ultramontanist.

THE BARONETAGE OF GREAT BRITAIN

It appears that the members of the baronetage of Great Britain are indebted to the late Mr. John Murray and to the late Sir Albert Woods, for many years Garter King at Arms, for their escape from a most melancholy exposure of the many baronets who share their dignity.

THE CULTIVATION OF HEMP IN ONTARIO

During the past two seasons attempts were made at the Central Experimental Farm to grow hemp-fibre suitable for purposes of manufacture.

In addition to the above, a small plot was sown with seed obtained from the crop grown here in 1915. About July 15, 1916, the plot was sown as late as the 5th of July, and was cut on the 28th of October.

NATIONAL SERVICE WEEK

Every man in Canada will have a card to fill out soon. National Service Week is drawing near and the fact that the first week of the New Year bears that title is something in which everyone in Canada has an interest.

To write in the answers and return the card promptly is a good New Year's resolution for every man throughout the Dominion and it has the advantage of being easy of fulfilment.

NATIONAL RESOURCES SURVEY

The first step in any plan for the broad development of the National Resources of the Dominion necessarily involves the collection of definite and accurate information regarding the resources themselves and the systematic classification of this information in such form that it shall be readily available to those who may be expected to utilize it to advantage.

It is the initial object of the Survey to recast into quickly available form the immense mass of valuable information regarding Canadian resources now stagnant in Government publications, scientific and technical journals, corporation records and the special reports of individuals.

ant facts regarding agriculture, mines, minerals, waterpowers, forests, fisheries, and such other natural resources capable of classification and so to control and key the information that related groups of facts may be promptly furnished as required.

This plan, so comprehensive in scope and involving such widespread benefits to the Dominion, was originated by Lord S. Agnew. Its development was in May, 1915, entrusted by His Lordship to Arthur D. Little, Limited, a Canadian Corporation operating under a Dominion charter, and including in its organization chemists and engineers of many years experience in the industrial applications of scientific and technical knowledge.

Obviously a work of this magnitude cannot attain its full measure of usefulness without the cordial support and concurrent effort of all the agencies, organizations and individuals having an interest in the land in the Dominion.

The plan of the Survey further provides for the procurement of industrial research on lines selected for their promise of yielding results of broad general benefit to the Dominion as a whole.

AFAR IN THE DESERT I love to ride, With the silent Bush-Boy alone by my side; When the sorrows of life the soul o'ercast, And, sick of the Present, I cling to the Past; And the eye is sufficed with regretful tears, From the fond recollections of former years; And shadows of things that have long since fled Flit over the brain, like the ghosts of the dead; Bright visions of glory—that vanish too soon; Day-dreams—that departed ere manhood's noon; Attachments—by fate or by falsehood reft; Companions of early days—lost or left; And my Native Land—whose magical name Thrills to the heart like electric flame; The home of my childhood; the haunts of my prime; All the passions and scenes of that rapturous time; When the feelings were young and the world was new, Like the fresh bowers of Eden unfolded to view; All—now forsaken—forgot—foregone! All—a lone exile remembered of none— My high aims abandoned—my good acts undone,— Awful all that is under the sun,— With that sadness of heart that no stranger may scan, I fly to the desert air from man!

AFAR IN THE DESERT I love to ride, With the silent Bush-Boy alone by my side; Away—away with the swellings of men, By the wild deer's haunts, by the buffalo's glen; By the valley's remote waters the oribi plays, Where the gnu, the gazelle, and the hart-veest graze, And the kudu and eland unharmed recline, By the skirts of grey forests o'ershadowed with wild-vine; Where the elephant browses at peace in his wood, And the mighty rhinoceros walls as it will In the fen where the wild-ass is drinking his fill.

AFAR IN THE DESERT I love to ride, With the silent Bush-Boy alone by my side; O'er the brown Karoo, where the bleating cry Of the springbok's fawn sounds plaintively; And the umorus quagga's shrill whistling neigh Is heard by the southerly twilight grey; Where the Zebra waltzes to music of his mane, And the mighty rindoceros walls as it will In the fen where the wild-ass is drinking his fill.

AFAR IN THE DESERT I love to ride, With the silent Bush-Boy alone by my side; Where the White Man's foot hath never passed, And the quivered Coranna or Bechuana Hath rarely crossed his noisome clan; A region in emptiness, howling and bare; Which man hath abandoned from famine and fear; With the twilight bat from the yawning stone; Where grass, nor herb, nor shrub take root, Save poisonous thorns that pierce the foot; And the bitter-melon, for food and drink, Is the pilgrim's fare by the salt lake's brink; A region of drought, where no river glides, Nor rippling brook with osier sides; Where sedge pool, nor bubbling fountain, Nor tree, nor cloud, nor misty mountain, Appears, to refresh the aching eye; But the barren earth and the burning sky, And the blank horizon, round and round, Spread—void of living sight or sound.

AFAR IN THE DESERT I love to ride, With the silent Bush-Boy alone by my side; O'er the brown Karoo, where the bleating cry Of the springbok's fawn sounds plaintively; And the umorus quagga's shrill whistling neigh Is heard by the southerly twilight grey; Where the Zebra waltzes to music of his mane, And the mighty rindoceros walls as it will In the fen where the wild-ass is drinking his fill.
